Ellis Given 6 Months For Assault

Charge Is Reduced To Common Assault By The Trial Jury

On a reduced charge of common assault of which he was found guilty in the June sessions of the county court last night, Joseph Ellis was sentenced by Judge Smoke to six months in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph beginning June 1.

Ellis was accused of having robbed Maurice McCarthy in Louis street May 14, and on having used violence in his attack on the former employee of the Canadian Nepheline Company who declared that he had been "rolled" for $52 while in an intoxicated condition.

V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney, informed His Honour that Ellis had a police record extending back to 1933 and including a term in the Michigan State prison for larceny from the person in 1936, and sentence to a year in Burwash in March 1937 for getting money under false pretences.

Pleads For Clemency

In behalf of the prisoner, J. Arthur Fair, his counsel, said that the lesser charge of common assault was not a serious offence, and pleaded for clemency, pointing out that Ellis has already spent twenty-five days in jail without bail. He said that if the charge at the outset had been common assault instead of robbery with violence, he would have accepted summary trial in the lower court.

Mr. Fair congratulated Judge Smoke on his "very fair" address to the jury, asserted that there must be some good in Ellis, now twenty-six years old, said he looked like a decent fellow who had probably been drifting around "in these times of trouble trying to get some place to settle down and make a living," and suggested that advice from His Honour would probably have as good effect as a term of imprisonment. The maximum penalty for the crime as found by the jury is one year. Mr. Fair also referred to Ellis' record, remarking the man with that brand on his was virtually an outcast from society, and in a trial "had to take it."

"If anything happens the finger is put on him as no doubt it was in this case, and the reason I did not put him on his own defense was because I did not want to open up any question of his past record,'" Mr. Fair stated.

Conduct Not Good

Judge Smoke told Ellis his conduct during the last few years had not been what was expected of a law-abiding citizen. "You have been guilty of theft from the person previous to this occasion, and in my opinion there was evidence in this

Britain To Buy 400 Planes From States

LONDON, June 9.—(CP-Havas).—The Air Ministry announced tonight the government had decided to buy 400 planes from the United States.

The decision followed the recent return of an air mission sent to the United States and Canada to explore the possibilities of obtaining help for British air re-armament in those countries.

Many British sources have from time to time attacked the government for considering the United States as a potential source of war planes.

The Air Ministry announcement said the purchases would be made from two American firms.

It was noted in this connection that when the air mission returned here last week, it was accompanied by J. H. Kindelberger, president of North American Aviation, Inc., and Carl Squier, vice-president of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Both have been in conference with Air Ministry officials.

Jarrett Gets Divorce

All the talk of a romance between Eleanor and Billy Rose, theatrical producer, caused Jarrett "great mental anguish and embarrassment," he testified in so many words at the hearing.

Jimmie Cash Found Murdered

All $10,000 Ransom Recovered, Note Writer Held

MIAMI, Fla., June 9.—(AP). — Federal Bureau of Investigation men led personally by J. Edgar Hoover, found the body of James Bailey Cash, Jr., early today.

With the tragic discovery they announced the detention of Franklin Pierce McCall, 21 year old truck driver, as an alleged participant in the kidnapping 12 days ago.

They also disclosed the entire $10,000 ransom that Cash, senior, paid had been recovered.

It was McCall who "found" the last of three ransom notes delivered to the father and called Cash's attention to it. Sheriff D. C. Coleman said he arrested the man one week ago when he became suspicious of his story.

Meanwhile McCall had participated with 2,000 volunteers in a search of the very area around Princeton south of here, where the body and the ransom money were found.

Hoover, who announced the "breaking" of the case after two sleepless nights, said McCall had confessed that he wrote the three ransom demands and collected the money but made no admission as to any further part in the crime.

Cash, a moderately well-to-do merchant and filling station operator, and his wife were advised immediately of the deevlopments. Sheriff Coleman, who took them the word, said Cash received it "very hard." He did not see the mother.

Body Few Miles From Home.

The body and the ransom were found within a few miles of the Cash home at Princeton. The shoebox in which the 1,500 bills of small denomination were delivered also was found—the kidnapper had torn it to pieces and hidden it beneath a stone in a palmetto clump.

The body of little "Skeegie," who would have been six ylears old in August, was in a bad state of decomposition.

State Attorney George A. Worley took charge of the inquest. Hoover indicated no federal law apparently had been violated and that McCall and any others who may be prosecuted would be tried in the state courts. Whether they are charged with murder or kidnapping for ransom they will face a penalty of electrocution if convicted.

One Slip In Story.

The third ransom note by which McCall was trapped was delivered late at night on the Monday following the kidnapping. With crowds milling about the Cash home, Sheriff Coleman said McCal. brought the note to the father with the tale that he had picked it up from the floor where it apparently had been thrust beneath the door. The note was crumpled into a ball, the sheriff added, and it was this circumstance that first caused him to doubt McCall's story.

The gist of the note was that too many persons had been in the vicinity when Cash made a solitary drive over a route mapped in an earlier message to deliver the ransom and that the kidnapper wanted him to go out again with the money. On this trip Cash received a signal of blinking headlights and dropped the shoebox full of small bills in the highway.

L.C. Board Branded Mercenary In Policy

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 9—(CP)—Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec today passed a resolution declaring the Ontario Liquor Control Board is "anti-social and mercenary in its policy of sales promotion, as evidenced in government reports, and for its surrender to political patronage and the lure of financial profit regardless of moral, social and financial losses." There was one dissenter to the resolution.

Other resolutions urged strict preservation of the Lord's Day Observance, opposed sweepstakes and gambling, deplored the Quebec padlock law and other "menaces to freedom." The convention regretted growth of sectarianism and provincialism which it saw as a menace to Canadian unity, and proclaimed that the Baptist churches would, in the event of another war, neither bless nor give support to it as organizations.

Lindberghs Move

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh have left Long Barn, in Kent, their English home for 2½ years. Friends said presumably they had gone to lonely Illiec Island, off the coast of Brittany, which the flier leased last April.

London, June 9—(CP Cable). THOUSANDS, including Canadians, today swarmed the sun-lit mall to cheer the King as he rode with the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent to take the salute at the historic ceremony of the trooping of the color on his "official" birthday.

His Majesty, mounted on a chestnut charger and wearing the scarlet and gold uniform of colonel-in-chief of the scots guards, with the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter across his tunic, led the glittering cavalcade from Buckingham Palace to the Horse Guards Parade.

Queen Mary and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret drove to the parade with a Queen's escort of life guards. As they drove from the Palace foreign military attaches and members of the council saluted and the crowd burst into cheers as the carriage rounded the Victoria Memorial.

Ottawa Aims Low-Cost Home For Every Canadian

Dunning Introduces 3-Way Measure With Idea To Ease Taxation

OTTAWA, June 9 (CP).—Canadians have before them today a government plan to carry the benefits of low-cost housing loans to every family in the Dominion, from the large cities to the cross-road hamlets and fishing villages.

In the House of Commons yesterday finance minister Dunning introduced a three-way measure designed to assist financing low salaried owner-builders and municipal low-rental housing projects and to lift the early burden of municipal taxation from the low cost owner-builders. About $55,000,000 is to be the federal treasury's obligation under the scheme.

Mr. Dunning said the government hoped to provide better housing conditions, stimulate employment, revive business prosperity, and remove from the minds of the small-salaried man his fear of shouldering the responsibility involved in attaining the life-long ambition of owning his own home.

His housing legislation is "a challenge to the building industry of this country—and is so intended." Mr. Dunning declared. One way to kill it would be for those in the industry to attempt, because of it, to raise prices of commodities or labor.

The housing bill, which was given first reading after a brief debate on the preliminary resolution, is divided into three parts.

Old Effects Eliminated.

The first provides for repeal of the Dominion Housing Act of 1935 and substitution of a similar system eliminating defects which prevented its wider acceptance in rural districts and among low-salaried groups. For this purpose $20,000,000 is provided, less the $5,500,000 already committed under the old act. The interest rate to borrowers remains at a maximum of five per cent.

The second part enables the government to loan up to $30,000,000 to assist in the construction of low-rental housing projects either by municipal bodies or limited dividend housing corporations.

Interest and amortization costs would be 3¾ per cent. a year.

The third part, Mr. Dunning said, was designed to strike a direct blow at what he believed to be the greatest deterrent to building operations—municipal taxation.

On owner-built houses of $2,500 to $4,000 cost the government will pay the municipal taxation the first year, 50 per cent. the second year and 25 per cent. the third year. This was estimated to cost the Treasury a maximum of $5,000,000 in three years. The provision does not include local improvement taxes.

Opposition Leader Bennett, Denton Massey (Con., Toronto-Greenwood) and O. B. Elliott (S.C., Kingdersley) endorsed the principle of the bill.

3 Years For Theft

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 9 (C. P.). — George Bailey was sentenced to three years and six months in Portsmouth Penitentiary after being convicted of four charges of breaking, entering, and theft. During his trial on one charge he changed his plea of "not guilty" to that of "guilty," and also pleaded guilty to the other charges laid. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan reduced the number of indictments after accused had taken the above action.

Over 30 Million Refugees Wander China

SHANGHAI, June 9.—(AP).—War's fury today was causing a mass migration from three great cities, adding innumerable thousands to an estimated 30,000,000 refugees already homeless as a result of Japan's sweep across China.

Bombings since May 28 at Canton have caused an estimated 500,000 to flee. Thousands more are fleeing south and west from Chengchow, junction point of the East-West Lunghai and North-South Peiping-Hankow railways, which is under the immediate shadow of Japan's advancing army.

Still other thousands, chiefly women and children, are walking, riding and taking to boats from Hankow, provisional capital of General Chiang Kai-Shek's Central Chinese Government, in the wake of the announced decision to move many government offices and convert China's inland metropolis into a military camp.

Army In 6 Spearheads

The Japanese army in six spearheads is arrayed in step-ladder formation on a sweeping 350-mile front, thrusting at Chengchow and Hankow, and the Peiping-Hankow railway that runs between.

The major force is within 10 miles of Chengchow on the east. Five other columns, stretching in a southeasterly direction across Honan and Anhwei provinces, are thrusting deep toward the interior of China.

Faced with these six threats, the Chinese government has ordered evacuation of its most important offices. Most of the government personnel is going temporarily to Chungking, Szechwan province, in far southwestern China, with the probability the next capital will be established still farther south in Yunnan province.

On the Chengcow front, Japanese estimated 75,000 Chinese troops are taking positions for a defence of that junction city. The major part of the forces, however, are withdrawn to the southwest to take up positions in the mountains.

City Bombing Necessary In Rome View

Rebels Hit 3rd Ship In Day's Raids Killing 12 Aboard

ROME, June 9 (AP). — Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, declared today that Spanish insurgent bombings of "so-called open cities" were "a necessity."

The recent raids on Barcelona, wrote Gayda in his newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, destroyed important government aerial reinforcements. He went on:

"New proof is offered the civilized world of the necessity of Spanish Nationalist (Insurgent) bombardments aimed at destroying the wings of war assembled by the Reds (Spanish Government) with foreign aid in so-called open cities."

His plea in favor of General Franco's bombers was taken in informed quarters as the Italian answer to British and French efforts to halt air bombings of civilians. These efforts previously had been received coolly by the Italian press.

Gayda, whose writings frequently reflect views of the Fascist regime, gave a long list of what he said was recent French and Russian assistance to the Spanish "Reds."

12 Killed On 3rd Ship.

MADRID, June 9 (AP).—Spanish insurgent air raiders today bombed a third merchant ship, off Benicasim, near Castellon de la Plana, killing 12 persons and wounding 19.

The ship was not immediately identified. The attack was the most serious of three such bombardments early today.

A night raider appeared at Denia and bombed the French freighter Brisbane, causing seven deaths, while the British freighter Isadora was disabled at Castellon de la Plana, but without casualties.

Presbyterians Shun Social Service Work

TORONTO, June 9.(—(CP)— The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada rejected today the recommendation of the Evangelism and Church Life Committee that the church participate in the work of the Social Service council of Canada.

Dr. S. Banks Nelson, Hamilton, after a heated debate, moved that other churches in the council be notified "the Presbyterian Church declines to take part in social service work."

"Out of order," Dr. Hugh Munroe, New Glasgow, former moderator, interjected.

"It is not out of order," replied Dr. Nelson, "What's more I'll vote for a register of all those who voted against the recommendation. Now you can get your names pilloried for your children's shame."

Young Liberal Wins Seat At Only 26

REGINA, June 9 —(CP)— The spectacular Frank Krenn of Bruno, Sask., today became the youngest member-elect of the Saskatchewan legislature. He is 26 years old and a Liberal.

Last April Krenn, born in the Bruno district where he now lives, resigned his job at the Weyburn Mental Hospital to bid for the Liberal nomination in Weyburn constituency. He stole the show with a lively speech but Dr. G. L. Crane won the nomination and the election yesterday.

Ten days after the Weyburn nominating convention Krenn was invited to place his name before the Watrous nominating convention. He did and won.

Then he went ahead to win the election yesterday, gaining a plurality of 1,522 in a four-cornered fight.

5 Toronto R.C.A. Men Called On "Carpet"

TORONTO, June 9.—(CP).—Five non-commisioned officers and men of the 7th Toronto Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, were paraded at regimental headquarters last night; it was learned to-day, in connection with investigation of the men's presence at a Fascist meeting last Monday night.

Col. O. S. Hollinrake, officer commanding, declined to comment upon the inquiry, expected to constitute a thorough investigation of conditions in the regiment. It was understood no disciplinary action yet has been taken.

The men, in uniform, attended a meeting at which Adrien Arcand, of Montreal, leader of the Fascist party in Canada, spoke. The soldiers tendered Arcand a Fascist salute.

English Kidnap Plot Bared In Court

OXFORD, England, June 9 (AP)—Testimony that a would-be kidnapper intended to extort huge sums from Viscount Nuffield, millionaire automobile manufacturer, by threatening him with an "operation without an anaesthetic" was introduced today as the hearing of John Bruce Thornton.

Thornton, 50, is charged with inciting Major Arthur G. F. Ramsden to help him abduct Lord Nuffield.

Major Ramsden, testifying against Thornton, said the latter told him he would "make a display of surgical tools" before the millionaire after the kidnapping had been carried out, and thus induce him to write a letter arranging for a letter of credit for £100,000 (about $500,000).

If Lord Nuffield "did not play the game," Major Ramsden said, Thornton wanted to take the peer out to sea on a yacht and "dump him."

The plot collapsed, the prosecutor said, because Major Ramsden told the police. Thornton was arrested May 24 when he drove up to Lord Nuffield's Cowley plant in an automobile. He was accused of carrying two pistols.

The prosecutor, H. J. Parham, said the plan was to kidnap Lord Nuffield at pistol point, take him to the yacht Pierrette at anchor at a barren point on the east coast and hold him until Thornton negotiated letters of credit he was going to force the captive to write.

Thornton, the prosecutor asserted, told Major Ramsden he had bought a disguise in Australia — a red toupee with peroxide hair in back, a false moustache and eyebrows, gold caps for his teeth and some corsets to "make me a spot slimmer."

Deal From Continent.

The idea, Mr. Parham charged, was for Major Ramsden to keep Lord Nuffield in chains aboard the yacht until Thornton negotiated the letters of credit on the continent and then turn the prisoner loose in

Social Credit Wins But 2 Seats

Patterson With 36 Has 22 Edge, C.C.F. Carry 9

REGINA, June 9.—(CP).—Complete returns and concessions today gave the Liberal Government of Premier W. J. Patterson a majority of 22 in the ninth Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan with voting still to take place in two northern ridings on July 28.

The final standings in the Saskatchewan general election on the basis of complete returns and concessions at 11.50 a.m., M.S.T. today were:

Liberals	36
C.C.F.	10
Social Credit	2
Union Progressive	1
Independent	1

Total—52.

All Tories Defeated.

As returns from ridings in all parts of the province were tabulated, the rout of the Social Crediters became more evident.

One Social Credit candidate, Fred Herman in Melville, won by four votes over Hon. C. M. Dunn, minister of highways. Another, William Roseland, was declared winner in Cutknife by 43 votes over a Liberal and a C.C.F. candidate.

The remaining two seats returned independent candidates. In Yorkton, A. C. Stewart, a Union-Progressive, defeated V. R. Smith, the sitting Liberal. In Bengough, H. K. Waren, Independent, won from J. B. Smith, Liberal, who sat in the last House. Both were straight fights.

There is a possibility of recounts in both seats won by Social Crediters, particularly in Melville.

Patterson Goes Back.

Premier Patterson had a majority of almost 1,000 in Cannington, where he was opposed by Mrs. Gladys Strum, C.C.F.

SPRINGER, N. M., June 9—(CP)—Grasshoppers by the billion were on the march in the deep southwest and rocky mountain region of the United States today, threatening farmer and stockman with ruin.

Pitted against a fantastic insect menace to millions of acres of farm and grazing lands were hundreds of men and machines, waging desperate war against seemingly relentless 'hopper hordes.

National guard detachments moved into infested areas in northeastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle today, while Colorado, Oklahoma, Montana and Wyoming farmers and government agencies mobilized their resources against the pest.

Also in Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Idaho, the grasshopper threat was overshadowed by the mormon cricket, destructive and equally voracious cousin of the 'hopper.

In New Mexico, where scores of poison mixing plants have been working day and night for two weeks, the dreaded migratory movement of the 'hoppers was under way.

"If we can't lick them this week, they'll lick us," declared governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico, appealing for $100,000 Federal aid.

Unwanted Baboon Facing Life On Atlantic

New York, June 9 (AP).

A YOUNG "baboon without a country" started his third voyage across the Atlantic aboard the R. M. S. Queen Mary today. Two weeks ago an unknown joker sent the baboon to a passenger as the ship was ready to sail from New York. The passenger refused the bon voyage gift, and British port officials would not permit, the ape to be put ashore in Southampton. When the Queen Mary arrived Monday, American officials also barred the baboon. They said the animal had no papers to show his origin and no health certificate.

Warden Holds Criminality Overlapped By Insanity

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9 (A.P.). — James A. Johnston, Warden of Alcatraz, the Federal Island Penitentiary here which houses Al Capone, Machine Gun Kelly, and other desperate men, to-day pictured criminality as it looks to him and said it is "overlapped by insanity."

The warden, who seldom talks, presented a 6,000-word paper to the American Psychiatric Association. He gave 10 case histories of prisoners, but no names. The 10 appeared not to be among the Alcatraz notorious band.

He drew a word picture of what the warden loks at as he sits waiting for a criminal who has cracked to enter his office for medical examination.

"As hospital attendants or guards bring the patient to the door," he said, "sometimes it makes a rather pathetic procession.

"Some are quite and clean, others are untidy, unclean, and violent. Some of them cut capers and if it happens to provoke a laugh, they laugh at themselves as if they were happy in their tragic foolishness. These with delusions of persecution are often difficult to handle."

Dregs of Society.

The prison gets the drainings of society. These men, Warden Johnston said, include "latent, unrecognized insane, borderline cases and numerous variants, deviates, defectives, abnormals, subnormals, neurotics, epileptics, and psychopaths."

"Then, to," he went on, "there are special types who germinate and flourish in cells and prison surroundings. In this class are some lifers and long-terms, who crack from doing time. Circumscribed existence may cause them to stagnate, or develop and deepen an ingrowing attitude from constant feeding on repetitious happenings of their small, narrow world."

The warden said a percentage of the defective delinquents owe their mental troubles to syphilis.

"Another group that prison managers have to deal with," he said, "and watch out for, are foxy fellows who feign insanity in the hope of being transferred to a hospital from which they easily escape."

Expect Ocean Service On Air Route Ready September 1

Washington, June 9, (AP).

J. MONROE Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, predicted today that transatlantic airplane service would begin about Sept. 1. He based the forecast on the progress of tests at Seattle of the new Atlantic Clipper built at the Boeing factory for Pan-American Airways.

"I think Pan-American will be ready to start at least mail service and possibly passenger service about Sept. 1," Johnson said.

Whether Imperial Airways, the British line which will cooperate with Pan-American, will be ready to start the same time, Johnson said he did not know.

Air Raiders Get 2 More Ships, British, French

DENIA, Spain, June 9 (AP)—The British freighter Isadora and the French freighter Brisbane were bombed today in separate insurgent air raids in government-held Mediterranean seaports.

Five persons were killed, including an observer for the non-intervention committee, in the raid on the Brisbane by a lone bomber outside this harbor. Ten others were injured, four gravely.

Denia is 20 miles south of Gandia, the British-owned port which was bombed yesterday.

The Isadora was struck in her engine-room about midnight in the harbor of Castellon de la Plana and was believed to have been put out of commission. There were no casualties, however, aboard the Isadora.

The Brisbane was set afire about the same time and still was burning at 11.30 a.m. today. It was feared she would sink.

The French ship, of 4,004 tons and loaded with fertilizer, was at anchor in Denia harbor when the air raider struck.

The plane dumped four bombs on the ship and then sprayed her decks with machine-gun fire.

All the seamen killed were French. Some of the victims were hit by machine-gun bullets. One of the most dangerously injured was the Brisbane's master, Captain R. Guynol.

The non-intervention agent was said to have been a Briton named Jones.

Woman Manager's Yells Save Cash For Bank

St. Thecle, Que., June 9 (CP).

A WOMAN bank manager defying a gunpoint demand for all the money on the premises, frightened a robber today into abandoning an attempt to hold up the little branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale here.

Looking down the muzzle of the bandit's gun, Mrs. Esdras screamed for help instead of pushing over the money. The robber fled out of the bank and into the woods around this village, fifty miles east of Quebec City.

Posses of villagers immediately began a search through the thickly wooded region along the St. Lawrence River shore. Up to tonight they had found no trace of the armed fugitive.

Small Boy Suffers Fracture Of Leg

The little fellow was playing in a laneway back of the old Trinity Church parsonage on Reid street when a truck driven by John A. Post, 123 Crescent street passed over some loose planks in the road and one of the boards tilted up and struck young Nesbitt.

He was taken to the Standard Medical and Surgical Clinic close by and his injuries attended. The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Archie Menzies.

Liberal Victory Triumph For Gardiner

OTTAWA, June 9.—(CP).—From a Federal Liberal standpoint, the Patterson government's victory in the Saskatchewan election generally was viewed here as a personal triumph for Agricultural Minister Gardiner, who stumped the province for the Administration, and a restoration of "confidence in representative institutions."

Cabinet members and private members indicated they were delighted with the Liberal win and applauded the efforts of Mr. Gardiner, former premier of Saskatchewan.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King followed the election results closely throughout the evening and sent a telegram of congratulation to Premier W. J. Patterson.

Some observers guess that the government may go to the country then on a program of national unity, which has been emphasized by cabinet members in recent speeches.

However, others believe there is little possibility of a fall election. They emphasize that the government has only recently introduced major legislation, such as the housing and municipal loan bills, and they believed this part of government policy will be given an opportunity to demonstrate its worth.

Social Credit members said they believed the lack of organization in Saskatchewan contributed largely to their party's poor showing. They pointed out the election had been called earlier than was first anticipated, and that the Social Credit campaign had been handicapped by this time element.

Conservatives on Parliament Hill accepted the verdict of the electorate without comment.

He said Thornton had written to Lord Nuffield as an "American journalist" on the pretense he wanted to interview him. Mr. Parham produced a letter which, he said, Thornton intended to hand the manufacturer when he met him by appointment May 24 at the Cowley works.

"I am packing two automatic pistols of large calibre," the prosecutor read, "and will immediately shoot you if you attempt to raise alarm or suspicion.

"Smile, chat, be cheery even if it hurts. Jump to it. I'm in a hurry."

The prosecutor declared the heavy-set Thornton was wearing his entire disguise — except the wig — when he drove into the police trap at the automobile plant.

Newsreel Movies Made of Bridge

G. H. Valequette Canadian cameman for Universal Newsreel service was in the Peterborough district on Wednesday. Mr. Valiquette was sent here to take moving pictures of the Chemong bridge and he reported getting what he believed to be a first class news film of the longest floating bridge in North America.

He was greatly impressed with the tourist possibilities of the floating bridge and believed that the newsreel would mean much to this district. "I do not think you people are aware of the possibilities that this bridge means to you in bringing tourists here. Why if they had that bridge in the United States or in other section of Canada there would be great large signs just outside your city telling about the bridge and also up at Bridgenorth there would be other large illuminated signs pointing to the bridge," he declared.

In taking a movie of the bridge Mr. Valiquette set a camera up on the hood of a car and then followed a car across the bridge. There was quite a wind blowing and he hoped to get some real wave action. They also met several cars and trucks and he included these in his reel. Several shots of the bridge from the Bridgenorth hill were also taken.

Cabbage Harvest

ESSEX, Ont., June 9 (C.P.). — Early harvest was in full swing throughout southern portions of Essex County to-day and growers are shipping cabbages in carload lots this week. The harvest promises a rich yield with cabbages selling at $1.50 a case and cauliflower at $1.25. Harvesting the cabbage and cauliflower crops entails cutting the heads from about 1,280,000 cabbage plants and 469,000 cauliflower plants. Frost damage and reduced acreage have diminished the county's strawberry output by at least one-third of last year's crop.

HOW YOU CAN Attract MEN

OF course, you have no men friends if you've let yourself become dull, cross, and nervous. Men like lively, peppy girls—girls with plenty of energy to go places and enjoy life.

Don't let love and romance pass you by. Help build up your pep and you, too, should have gay friends.

Here's good advice: Start taking time-proven, reliable Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and note the difference. This famous Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots, helps Nature tone up your system and thus soothes jumpy nerves and gives you more pep to really enjoy life.

Tear out this notice NOW as a reminder to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound TO-DAY without fail.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" distress from female functional disorders with Pinkham's Compound. Let it help YOU.

London To View Canadian Art

LONDON, June 9 (CP) — An exhibition entitled "A Century of Canadian Art," representing Canada's achievements in painting and sculpture during the past 100 years, will be held at the Tate Gallery here this fall, it was announced today by Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner.

The exhibits are to be selected in Canada and will be shown at the gallery for two months from October 14, after which they will probably be taken to some of the larger provincial art galleries in Great Britain.

Arrangements for the exhibition have been made in close co-operation with the National Gallery at Ottawa, and the High Commissioner's Office here. The Duke of Kent has accepted an invitation to open the exhibition.

An advisory committee composed of the presidents of the Canadian Artists' Societies has been collaborating with the National Gallery in selecting the works to be shown.

About 200 pictures and sculptures will be included and the committee has endeavored to select work by those artists who have made a definite and important contribution to the development of Canadian art, the announcement continued.

Volcano's Fireworks Scare Man To Death

MANILA, June 9—AP)—Smoke and flames shot from Mayon volcano with greater violence today, terrorizing the populace of Albay province and causing the death of one man through fright.

The six-day eruption of the 7,900-foot peak mounted in intensity this morning, causing fear that the climax of the volcano's activity was yet to come.

Reports from the village of Pawa said one man there died of fright while the sight of the flaming volcano, which had been quiet for 10 years, had driven another man insane.

After a night of close-up observation, Rev. Miguel Selga, director of the Manila Weather Bureau, expressed apprehension that the activity of the crater might be graver than at first was indicated. Light earthquakes accompanied the rumblings from the crater.

More than 16,000 villagers of the area 200 miles southeast of Manila have vacated their homes and sought safety from the lava flow from the volcano which caused the death of 1,200 people in an eruption in 1814.

Bobola Canonized

ROME, June 9 (AP).—The body of St. Andrea Bobola, who was canonized by Pope Pius Easter Sunday and designated as Protector of Poland, was placed aboard a funeral train yesterday to be returned to his native Poland. The body, which had rested in the Church of Jesus for several years, was carried through the streets in a solemn procession accompanied by chanting priests and students. He left his native land in 1630 to preach the Gospel in Russia and soon afterward was put to death by Cossacks.

London Discusses Flags

The city of London, Ont., plans to have an old boys' reunion. There was a gathering in Peterborough some weeks ago to bring together people who had formerly lived in London, and similar meetings have been held in many other centres.

There was a general meeting in London itself the other night and it ended in a rumpus. There had been plans for an international day, and some of the printing which had been secured to advertise the event contained the swastika emblem of Germany, and right then the fat was in the fire. The debate was bitter and in the end the recommendation of the executive committee was that "the association display to every advantage the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes as being symbolic of the theme of the homecoming of the London old boys."

One Jewish resident in London objected to the swastika of Germany because it had meant persecution for people of his race. His contention was correct enough, but leaves unanswered the claim that if the German people desired to display any national emblem on an international day they would have no choice but to use the swastika as it is the accredited flag and emblem of Germany today.

It is not to be wondered at that the meeting in London turned out to be stormy because people can be touched into hot words on short notice when the discussion of flags is broached. The feeling is more acute today than previously and London will be fortunate if it has heard the last of this matter.

The Effect of Fear

Dr. Theodore P. Wolfe of New York city told a gathering of the American Psychiatric Association that a person's imagination could create pain. That is, real pain. As an illustration he gave the case history of a girl who had undergone an operation for appendicitis, but it was found the appendix was perfectly normal. An examination disclosed that she had been suffering from several fears—fear of being alone, fear of walking in the dark, and fear of riding on a subway car. The abdominal pain was ascribed to these various forms of fear.

Dr. Wofe was certain medical treatment would not be effective in such cases, and in his experience he had encountered a number of them. We have heard other doctors admit that what a person feared most was at times the very thing which would happen. A simple illustration was in the drinking of tea or coffee before retiring at night. The doctor put it this way: "If a person drinks tea or coffee shortly before retiring and then thinks 'Now I should not have done that because it will keep me awake' it is very likely that person will remain awake for some time before going to sleep. That is, the individual goes to bed expecting to lie awake and does so."

The Hard Row of China

For a long time China has had a hard time. Almost a full hundred years ago that country lost its right to regulate its state of trade with the outside world, and China lost the right to state or make her own tariff according to the Treaty of Nanking in the year 1842 following a war with the British.

The Emperor Ch'ien Lung of that day did not want anything to do with the traders from the outside world who desired to sell their goods in China; he was confident that his own beloved China had everything within her own boundaries which any person would ever need. So the western world, or rather the western traders fought their way into business in China, but when they secured the right to trade they could not allow the Emperor Ch'ien Lung to state the terms or conditions. That gentleman would have at once raised a tariff as great as the Chinese wall. Accordingly the tariffs—not named by the Chinese—were all written into that Treaty of Nanking.

Britain has always had to bear the brunt of the accusation of extending trade in China by that method, but the truth is that the other nations were quick to go in and take advantage of the Treaty of Nanking. United States got in on it as soon as possible and has never had to share any of the odium for having forced the issue in the first place. China found it difficult enough to develop any of her natural resources; found it hard to start manufacturing in order to sell to the outside world. The outside world preferred to keep China as a customer rather than encourage her to be a competing manufacturer. It was not until 1928 that a new treaty provided something better for China in the way of regulating her own tariff.

And that freedom is again being taken away from her by Japan. The regulating of tariff duties on goods imported into China is made to cover large areas which Japan has not yet touched by conquest, and it actually means that the only people who will receive favorable treatment in great sections of China are the manufacturers in Japan. China is back again in a worse position than she was before 1842.

May Take a Year

Federal Court in New York has made the charge that the Aluminum Company of America is a monopoly, and as a result there is going to be a court case because the United States government charges there has been violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The claim is the Aluminum company has control of basic raw materials and so is in control of the entire situation, making it difficult or impossible for other companies to compete.

In order to go thoroughly into such a case it is necessary to provide documents and records as evidence, and these are now on the way to New York. The first shipment to be forwarded by the company weighed 2,650 pounds and there is another on the way. So the weight of evidence for the defence will be at least two tons, and the documents are supposed to show everything which has taken place in the last fifty years.

Government officials said it would probably take a full year to complete the case and there will be a fairly substantial group of men engaged on each side. What's more they will be well paid for their services. Finding out whether a monopoly is actually just that may be interesting and informative. But it is expensive and the people have to pay.

Learning From a Circus

The circus has been in Peterborough and it has departed. Good circus too and as usual there were plenty of folk to see it coming in and going away. The day after it was in Peterborough the circus would be all set up and ready for business in Owen Sound, and that is a fair enough distance from here.

We do not wonder that people like to go and see a circus unload, put up its big tent and the lesser ones, arrange seats and ticket offices and animals and do it in such a short time. One of the officials was explaining that running a circus is about the most highly organized business in existence because it has to keep on the move. For that reason every person employed by the circus has some particular thing to do. When the big tent is going up every man is at a certain place and he knows what he has to do. While the show is going on it is just the same; nothing is left to chance. When the circus arrives in the next place it is known in advance that all the supplies or the 900 people will be on hand and so will the feed stuff for the animals. And when the performance is over and everything has to come down it has to be so packed that it can readily be located the next day and put into use in the shortest time possible.

Probably a good many of us in our day's work could get along a good deal better and with less commotion if we had learned something of circus methods. Now and then we spend quite a time wondering what we did with this or where we put that.

What goes on behind the scenes in a circus is almost as interesting as that which people see out in the three rings. A clown may toss off a dozen coats and vests during one short act, and he must know where they are when he does the same thing tomorrow. The average man now and then looks for a time to see where he left his hat. If the circus people could run a sort of training school for folk in general on how to put things away so they can find them at once we might get along a good deal easier and better.

Poor Clothing Is Blamed

It was reported at the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada that there had been a dropping off of 4,500 in Sunday school attendance. Another report indicated there had been a decrease of 1,279 teachers in the schools in the past year.

The presentation of that report plainly disturbed those who heard it, and in more recent days leaders of other denominations have been talking about the same thing. There has been an effort to offer explanation on these lines:

There are fewer children being born.

Too many parents are in the beverage rooms on Saturday night and that does not put them in a frame of mind to see to it that their children attend Sunday school the following day.

If more people had jobs they could dress their children better and they would attend school.

The same tendency is noticed in United States and England as well as in Canada.

The serious part of the situation is that church membership is built mainly from the membership of the Sunday schools; that is where the real work of church building is being done.

In looking over the list of reasons for the decline given above we believe the hardest things said is that "children without good clothes or collection don't want to go to Sunday school." One can pass by all the other reasons but it is not possible to leave that one alone. What's more we believe there is a degree of truth in it because we have heard the point raised before by conscientious people who had encountered it in their own experience.

Also it is a fact that a child is generally sensitive. If the child is not able to put in some collection when the others in the class are doing so then that child feels its position; there is a line drawn there which is hard to rub out. Unfortunately there is truth in the contention about clothes. There are thousands of conscientious Sunday school teachers in the country who would be glad to have children under their care regardless of the kind of clothing they wore, but it is extremely difficult to transfer that feeling to the children or to their parents.

This paper wishes sincerely that it could offer the cure for this situation, but we admit candidly we do not know just how it can be worked out. If the elimination of the collection in Sunday school would cause more children to attend then we would say to do away with the offering in classes where such a move might be beneficial. The matter of clothing is difficult. It is easy as can be to understand the feeling of the poorly dressed child mixing with those who are well clothed. If they were all poorly dressed there would not be that distinction, but here again one encounters the stubborn fact that they will not all be poorly dressed. If there is a solution this paper would gladly give space to publish it. Getting back to first principles salvation was offered without money and without price, but today we are making the discovery that we have made our religion so respectable that our method seems to be keeping away some of the little folk and older ones whom it should be reaching.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We feel much better since we read the statement of R. J. Deachman, M.P., that all progress depends upon laziness.

Strange, but every time there is a good bargain going a person is apt to find the family purse empty.

Now that Britain has recognized Italy's conquest of Ethiopia it looks as though Britain would have the privilege of extending a loan to the conquerors.

We hasten to call Ross Dobbin's attention to the fact that the New York zoo has just obtained a giant baby panda on bargain terms.

Harry Oakes, Canadian mining man, is considered a sure winner in the election for the Nassau House of Assembly, despite the fact he is not carrying the colors of Premier Hepburn.

An inquiry into the subject of whether men like women to color their fingernails has developed very little beyond the fact that many women will continue to tint their nails anyway.

Four drunken drivers have been sentenced to jail here in four days. If that sort of thing keeps up the authorities will have to try these cases as indictable offences instead of on summary conviction.

Although they are building airliners much bigger and better than before the St. Thomas Times-Journal is certain the people who run them are just as adept at finding places to lose them as when they were made much smaller.

Government buildings erected in Ottawa in future will contain provision for the parking of employees' automobiles. Very good, but is it not just about the same as building a garage for a few people with money which all the people contribute?

One of the best election stories from Saskatchewan told of a group of jobless men from Alberta walking in on an Aberhart meeting at Estavan, Sask., which would be a distance of about 470 miles. And then there would be the return trip to undertake. Over 900 miles just to interrupt Mr. Aberhart! We are moved to entertain great doubts.

THAWED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben looked so pained, he took ten minutes and explained, why he was feeling grim; a distant niece was getting wed, and she had straightway gone ahead, and sent a card to him.

¶ And Eben worked himself up wild, he really didn't know the child, the notice was a threat; he was quite sure she sent it out, was likely flinging them about, to see what she could get.

¶ She'd get the cheapest thing he knew, the gift would teach a lesson too, she'd get no monied wares; he'd teach her something she should know, so in the future she would go, and mind her own affairs.

¶ The bride-to-be he met today, she had the choicest things to say, she is a dainty maid; she said that Eben looked so fine, she'd gladly greet him any time, so stately and so staid.

¶ She said how she would point at him, and proudly say he was her kin, he was so widely known; when she was wed she'd take delight, in having Eben come some night, and eat within their home.

¶ My Uncle Eben melted then, he smiled and bowed with gracious men, he then went out and bought; just what he picked I have not heard, he's never mentioned yet a word—perhaps a house and lot.

Much History In Quebec City

(By L. P. K.)

AT THE TIME the Quebec Act was passed, in all the thirteen colonies the Roman Catholics were denied the Franchise and only in Maryland and Pennsylvania were they, by law, allowed freedom of worship. Members of the Royal American Regiment, which had been recruited from the thirteen colonies, and mostly from the Protestant German and Swiss settlers, had fought the French in Canada and they were bitter opponents of the act. U. S. Congress condemned the Act as subversive of American rights "For establishing the Roman Catholic religion in the Province of Quebec and abolishing the equitable system of English law, and enabling a tyranny there, to the great danger from so total a dissimilarity of Religion, Law and Government of the neighboring British Colonies by the assistance of whose blood and treasure, the said country was conquered from France." Also they assailed the Act for "extending the Province of Quebec so as to border on the Western Frontiers of the colonies, and establishing an arbitrary government therein, and discouraging the settlement of British subjects in that wide extended Country; thus by the influence of civil principles, and ancient prejudices, to dipose the inhabitants to act with hostility against the free Protestant Colonies whenever a wicked Ministry chooses so to do." Congress authorised an address to "The People of Great Britain," couched in the most intolerent language, complaining of the Act—the objections being based on religious grounds. On the same day the address to the People of Great Britain was adopted, Congress appointed a committee to draft an address to the People of Canada. In the light of the other address, it is the most extraordinary document. It begins by complimenting the Canadians who "after a gallant and glorious resistance had been incorporated with the body of English subjects . . . a truly valuable addition, both on our own and your account, expecting as courage and generosity are naturally united, our brave enemies would become our hearty friends, and that the Divine Being would bless you — by securing to you and your latest posterity the inestimable advantage of a free English constitution of Government — These hopes were confirmed by the King's Proclamation in the year 1763 plighting public faith for your full enjoyment of those advantages." "As you, educated under another form of Government, have artfully been kept from discovering the unspeakable worth of that form you are now undoubtedly entitled to, we esteem it our duty — to explain to you some of its most important branches."

Then follows a long discussion of the beauties of representative government, of trial by jury, holding lands by the tenure of easy rents, freedom of the press — there was just one paper in the Province, the Quebec Gazette, first issued, June 21st, 1764 and which could not have lived without Government patronage. The address continues, "We are too well acquainted with the liberality of sentiment distinguishing your nation to imagine that difference of religion will prejudice you against a hearty amity with us."

The Swiss Cantons were brought in as proof of the foregoing, and the whole ends by inviting Quebec to send delegates to the "Continental Congress of Philidelphia on the 10th. of May 1775." John Dickinson a Philidelphia lawyer is credited with the authorship of the address.

The Act was also the cause of some discontent to certain Canadians, almost all of whom were English-speaking and in Montreal, who carried on an active correspondence with a few of the leaders in Congress, with the result that an exaggerated account of the actually existing discontent in Canada was circulated throughout the thirteen colonies.

Congress believing that many Canadians would, if given an opportunity, join with them, and fearing the possibilities of having at their, so to speak, back-door a hostile people, decided to send to Canada two armies. One under Montgomery by way of Montreal, which fell into his hands and the other, commanded by Benedict Arnold, undertook, and made on foot, that heroic heart-breaking march from Cambridge, Massachusetts to Levis. They started in the middle of September and arrived at Levis early in November "their lean forms clad in torn disheveled clothing, and haggard faces, unshod for many weeks, many bare footed, they made a sorry spectacle."

BOTH ARMIES that under Arnold and that under Montgomery met outside Quebec and that old City again withstood a selge. In a biting wind, driving snow and bitter cold; plunging through the deep drifts, on December 31st, the Americans attempted to capture the City. Montgomery fell in the first assault, at the barrier at the western end of the lower town beneath Cape Diamond. Arnold's column was to have taken the barricades in the Sault-au-Matelot by surprise, but they were discovered, Arnold fell, wounded, and it was Morgan who led the brave Virginians up the Sault-au-Matelot, fierce fighting took place in that old street and much confusion was caused by some of the American soldiers wearing British uniforms that had been commandeered at Montreal. Finally a British detachment coming in behind the Americans, the Americans their hands and feet frozen, their flint-locks useless from frost, were overpowered.

Congress disappointed by the failure of the army to take Quebec sent to Canada a Commission, headed by Benjamine Franklin, to inquire into the state of the Army, and to persuade the Canadians to join their forces. A printer was sent to Montreal to issue bilingual propaganda papers. The Roman Catholics were promised "The free and undisturbed exercise of their religion." And the priests "The full perfect and peaceable possession and enjoyment of all their estates. This Volteface on the part of Congress towards the Roman Catho-

OPERATING A BRIDGE

Maintenance and operation of roads and bridges—Burlington channel bridge, $16,000.

Mr. MacNICHOL: Why are six additional bridge men necessary?

Mr. CARDIN: I am informed that the staff has not been increased, but that some temporary employees have been made permanent.

Mr. MacNICHOL: The list on page 185 of the estimates shows six more men for 1938-39 than for 1937-38.

Mr. CARDIN: As temporary employees their names do not appear in the estimates.

Mr. MacNICHOL: Surely it does not take eleven men to operate the Burlington bridge.

Mr. STEWART: I notice that last year the temporary assistance was $4,320, and this year it is $500. Is the explanation that those temporary assistants have been appointed permanently?

Mr. CARDIN: These employees were paid as temporary, and now they are being made permanent. The number of men is the same; there has been no increase.

Mr. STEWART: Are they appointed by the civil service commission?

Mr. CARDIN: Yes.

Mr. MacNICHOL: Does that mean that eleven men are employed to operate the Burlington bridge?

Mr. CARDIN: Yes.

Item agreed to.

HIS FIRST SPEECH

The CHAIRMAN: I do not wish to interrupt the hon. member, but his remarks all have reference to buildings in the city of Ottawa. We have passed that item and are now discussing buildings in Manitoba.

Mr. COCHRANE: This is the first time I have spoken in the House of Commons although I have been here three sessions. I do not appreciate being ruled out of order. I am talking about dominion public buildings, no matter in what province they are situated. The particular buildings to which I am now referring are in the city of Ottawa. I do not appreciate the fact that I am called out of order—

Mr. STEWART: Mr. Chairman, is this hon. member to defy the authority of the chair?

The CHAIRMAN: I did not call the hon. member out of order; I pointed out to him—will he please resume his seat?

Mr. COCHRANE: I was born in the country, Mr. Chairman—

The CHAIRMAN: Will the hon. member please resume his seat?

Mr. COCHRANE:—so you will have to pardon me.

The CHAIRMAN: I am trying to be fair to the hon. member, but he has been talking about certain stone used in certain federal buildings in the city of Ottawa. I pointed out to him that those items had passed, and that the committee were now considering buildings in the province of Manitoba.

• A Farmer Looks Over His Acres

(By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

AFTER A WEEK or more of rainy weather, the farmer is once more back on the land. Corn, potatoes and roots must be put in, and there is little assurance that the prevailing fine weather is going to last. Those rains were welcome. They may have lasted a trifle long and the frosts and cold weather were most unwelcome. The damage done by these last frosts was probably very slight, though we cannot tell what effect the frost may have had on fruit bloom then out. Earlier May frosts certainly did some damage to some of the grass. In fact, the pasture and hay crops are some of the puzzles of the season.

Just today we walked over an old meadow that had a nice stand of alfalfa on it last year. Today the alfalfa is very scarce. How is it that the wheat wintered so well while the alfalfa was winter killed? That is one question. Here is another: As a rule the newly seeded clover kills most easily. Yet this year there are many excellent fields of first-year clover. The grass on the old meadows is not making too rapid growth, while these new fields are most promising.

Another of the puzzles in the 1938 hay crops is the fact that on some fields of new seeding there are spots where the grass is completely winter-killed, then a rod or two further on an exceptionally heavy stand is gone. Usually winter killing is caused by the action of the frost heaving the plants right out of the ground. In 1938 there was practically no heaving. Just what caused the alfalfa to die in those old meadows?

A bumper hay crop is generally predicted. Personally we look for a rather uneven hay crop. Hay of excellent quality and abundant quantity; while the crop on other fields is apt to be rather mediocre in quality and quantity. Of course, we cannot be sure. Weather during the remaining portion of the growing season and weather during the actual period of haying will have much to do with the size of and quality of the hay crop.

Right now the country needs warmth. The soil is in wonderful condition and the moisture abundant. Sunshiny warm days— what they would not do to the growing crops!

Is there an abundance of Ontario what of the 1937 crop or is the market for our soft Fall wheat no longer existent? While farmers are paying the baker nine cents for a loaf of bread, they sell their wheat for less than seventy-five cents per bushel, and when they go to the feed store they are asked to pay more for a pound of the by-products of wheat than they receive for a pound of wheat. Not only that, but mills are not even anxious to buy our wheat.

The question then arises is it profitable to grow wheat? Wheat requires good soil, practically summer fallow, and fertilizer, and even then there is some danger of losses in winter killing. On the other hand a thirty bushel per acre crop of wheat is about as easy to grow as a fifty bushel crop of oats, and that gives wheat an advantage of 100 lbs. grain worth more per pound than oats for at least hog feeding. So that, even from a feed standpoint, wheat is about as profitable as most any other grain. Just the same, we would like to know why wheat is not in greater demand, and why the products of wheat are not reduced in price?

• The Electric Fence Is Coming

(From the Lindsay Post)

PROGRESS IN THE rural areas has kept pace with progress in the largest cities, despite the fact that it is attended with much less ballyhoo and blowing of trumpets by the promoters of each new time-saving device and improvement. One has but to look about and many of the major changes are quite obvious. Broad highways have replaced the horse and buggy trails of a few years ago, tractors cultivate many fields where once old dobbin held full sway, more attention is given to farm buildings with the coming of hydro and the many modern conveniences it brings the farmer. The appearance of the country side has undergone a major transformation in the last 20 years.

Another recent innovation that promises to change still further the physical appearance of the rural areas is electric fencing.

Back in the days when the land was being cleared, stumps pulled or blasted out bodily were used to provide barricades and keep farm stock in bounds. Later came the rail fences, only to be replaced in large measure in more recent years by wire fences. Now comes the electric fence that is destined not only to make the countryside more beautiful by virtue of the fact that a single strand mounted on light steel posts planted 50 feet apart, but also will do the job of the more cumbersome and expensive farm fence.

With the new electric fence, farm animals, from the pig that always has insisted on rooting underneath to earn for himself and his race an unenviable reputation as a poor respecter of fences, to old dobbin who occasionally fancies a jump over the top rail, will quickly acquire a healthy respect for this new gadget.

Charged with electricity of low voltage supplied by a battery, the fence gives off shocks that are not serious enough to cause injury, but which, it is claimed, mystify the animals and cause them to remain at a safe distance from the fence after one or two encounters.

If this type of fence becomes popular, the countryside will take on another major change in appearance as this new one-strand fence becomes general in use.

UNCLE SAM, BANKER.

(Baltimore Sun)

UNDER THE crop-control law the AAA must lend the wheat farmer at least 60 cents a bushel on his crop. It may lend up to 86 cents, but 60 is the minimum.

Yesterday the world price of wheat, which has been going downhill ever since it appeared that the crop here would be an unusually big one, hit a level which is equivalent to about 65 cents on the farm. Another big drop and the AAA would be in the position of lending the American farmer more on his wheat than he could get in the market.

If a banker were to lend a borrower 110 on a security quoted in the market at 100 his stockholders would be justified in calling for a commission to inquire into his sanity. But under the crop-control law Unele Sam may have to do just that.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND JOSHUA gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they presented themselves before God.

And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they served other gods.

And I took your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and gave him Isaac. . . .

And I brought your fathers out of Egypt; and ye came unto the sea; and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red sea. And when they cried unto the Lord he put darkness between you and the Egyptions, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt; and ye dwelt in the wilderness a long season. . . .

Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the Lord. . . .

And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the Lord, to serve other Gods; for the Lord our God, he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed.—Josh. xxiv, 1-3, 6, 7, 14, 16, 17.

SPOILED THE DAY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I noticed how downhearted the Cubs were, on such an occasion as a visit from the Governor-General. An enquiry I was told that the flag was taken away from them when they were marching. Now the flag was presented to the cubs and a great fuss made of the giver. I thought once you gave a thing that was the end of it. I think the man was very wrong to do a thing like that. Surely if he has a grievance he could have waited till after. He will lose a lot by his action. He spoiled the whole thing for the boys.

Loaded School Bus Has Close Call

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, June 9.—A bus load of school children narrowly escaped injury when the transport bus in which they were riding nearly turned over on Highway No. 37, on Tuesday afternoon. The bus, filled with school children, was returning to Corbyville, when a tire truck driven by Ray Post, backed from a gangeway into the bus, causing considerable damage to the truck.

Children's cries were heard as the two vehicles came together, but their fears were soon dispelled, when Roy Topping expertly drove the bus to safety without injury to his passengers. Both vehicles were badly damaged during the impact, however.

With four thousand yards of "filler" failing to check a gradual sinking of two hundred feet of the Faulkner Highway north of the village of Millbridge, construction company officials are considering further measures to halt a condition that is proving a menace to traffic.

Water-filled swamps on each side of the highway at this point are responsible for the falling away of the roadbed. This part of the highway has been closed to traffic, pending further operations.

Residents of the Township of Thurlow are cutting hay this year earlier than in the memory of many older residents. This week fine crops of sweet clover are being harvested in sections of the Township. It is expected that alfalfa will be ready for cutting next week.

TANNERS SECURE LEAD POSITION IN HASTINGS BALL LEAGUE

Outlaws Fall To Last Place In 14-11 Loss

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 9. — The Tanners took sole possession of first place in the Hastings Softball League when they defeated the Outlaws 14 to 11 in an 8-innings game last night. The loss also shoved Outlaws into last place.

McCoy, for the Tanners, got by till the third, allowing three hits, striking out none, and passing two. Hahn relieved him and held the Outlaws to 8 hits. He struck out four and walked three.

Thompson with two singles and a double in four times up led the Tanners at bat, while Phillips led the Outlaws with three singles and a triple in five times up. Ibey's fielding on third for the Tanners was a standout of the game.

Roseneath Wins Second Straight

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, June 9.—Playing with Grafton Wednesday afternoon, Roseneath on the home diamond won the second successive game of the season. The score was 3-2. The game was very good, considering the wet grounds. Bigwin had to be relieved in the 6th inning owing to a sore arm, and G. Dunnet, the old standby, was put on the mound, and held Grafton until the end. There were several good plays by both teams, mixed with a few costly errors. J. Loukes won the game with a two-base hit in the last of the 6th inning while pinch-hitting for Tucker. McMahon for Grafton had 7 strikeouts, while the home team's pitchers issued 8 strikeouts.

The teams:

Grafton: Beatty, 3b; Brown, 2b; Reymes, cf; Cochrane, c; Immel, lf; Lawless, 1b; Phillips, rf; Turpin, ss; McMahon, p.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

JUST AS WE were finished yawning and getting settled down to some labor this a.m., a gee dashed in to the office. We said: "Hey, what'sa idea of wearing that red necktie in here . . . you'll wake somebody up!" On account of a crimson cravat that time of day doesn't look decent, or sound so either. He snorts: "It ain't a red tie, this is my tongue." And sure enough, even as he spoke, the "tie" disappeared and a breathless gent asked us why this here now Red (Killer) Garner, who has a return rassle bout here with Bert Crothall of Toronto on Monday eve, doesn't turn pro. "He is better than any pro matman I have seen in years and I have seen most of them." We broke down and admitted he was some shucks at yanking cash customers to their feet with his ferocious antics, but says we: "Nowadays, the amachoors make almost as much as the pros and get a better name out of it."

* * * * * * *

AND IT IS A FACT. These grapplers may not step up to the front office and demand their per cent, but they get it somehow or other. . You don't thin kfor a minute, now do you, that these guys half kill each other in a wild exhibition of the modern mat sport for the fun of it? But they put on a dandy show and what do we care if they get a few shekels for it.There will be two rasslin' bouts in this next Riverview A. C. Card in Peter's borough, and five boxing bouts. We much prefer the mitt game but some would sooner watch the rasslers. But there is plenty of entertainment for both here on Monday.

* * * * * * *

WELL, WE GOT RID of the gent with the overlapping tongue and had just begun peacefully to hum that ditty about liking bananas because they have no bones when another man appears. He wanted to inform us that the O. L. A. senior "B" schedule opens tomorrow eve here when Brampton plays the local lacrossers. We said we knew it. "But do ya know," queries this lad, who is connected with the Pete's gutted-stick squad, "that Brampton have reinforced themselves to the point of an armored knight with armored underwear . . . they'll really be tough this time!" Well we've our doubts if lacrossers in armored underwear can make much speed, regardless of how they stand the bumps in this rugged game, so we offered to bet anything from a deuce to a fin on the Petes. But no, he wouldn't bet against the locals. We think Frank Randle's gang will win but they'll have a real scrap first.

THREE CHURCH Softball League games were played last night with All Saints double losers. Their seniors lost to Knox, 19-5, at King Edward school, while Mark St. Juveniles were downing All Saints by a 28-10 count at the Oval. St. John's aBntams pulled out a close 17-16 win over St. James up at Central. Tonight, Murray St. Seniors play Mark St. at the Oval , the Buzzers and All Saints supplying the umps; while Knox Bantams and George St. clash at Central. Tonight's juvenile joust has been postponed, owing to the P. C. I. cadets picnic. It'll be run off Friday at King Edward school, George St. meeting St. James. Second junior final betwixt St. John's and All Saints is Friday e'en at Central.

A COMPLAINT arrives from a softball official regarding the state of grounds at King Edward school and park. Says there is room for four or five diamonds on these grounds but there is only one decent layout, and that's at the knowledge factory. Seems there is heavy hay to be harvested down thataway where other playing fields might be mapped out. And the good diamond at the park was ploughed up two years ago and is still that way. And there is need for more playing fields in that district, often being two Church Loop games listed as well as Southend Loop practises, shop games and whatnot. Of course, we have not heard of any players offering to cut this hay.

COMES A NOTE telling us that the summer season is here and one of the leading summer sports and recreation is paddling. The Peterborough Canoe Club will start operation shortly on Little Lake and new members will be welcome. Old and new members are requested to get in touch with Wardie Wright, phone 689W, or Bill Taylor, 109, right away. Training will be held nightly and Sundays on Loch Little . . . as we kilties call it. For the uninitiated, balancing a canoe on wavy waters is like walking a tight rope, but this is the home of canoes and dozens of folk enjoy the healthy outdoor summer pastime around this district.

IN LAST NIGHT'S Tely, the rotund columnist, Bunny Morgansen, writes: "Peterborough is the coming sports centre in Eastern Ontario. Already they have entered a senior football team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. With a strong intermediate lacrosse club on hand this season, it can be said that Peterborough will be given every consideration as a senior entry in the O. L. A. setup for next season." Thanks too much, Bunny, but you under-rate us on two counts. This is already the sports centre of Eastern Ontario, and our 1938 lacrossers are in senior "B" company now. And don't forget our good hockey and ball teams, if ya please.

THIS ITEM from Oshawa sounds sensible to us: "Western Ontario ball clubs, or the scribes in those centres, are expressing wonder as to what the O. B. A. will say about Kingston and Peterborough importing U.S. ball players and playing them without O. B. A. sanction. Early this spring, the Central Ontario clubs asked for co-operation to form inter-group schedules but the O. B. A. told the C. O. B. L. circuit that they would have to manage as best they could with three teams. Well, that's just what the boys are doing and it looks like a very interesting season with plenty of high-class baseball. And since the governing body has dropped the word 'amateur' from its official name, well maybe the offenses aren't so great after all." He expects the Petes to be tough in Oshawa this Saturday, with Murphy and Calladine back, and Lefty McNally added to the pitching staff.

PICKING 'em off the grapevine: No ball game in Kingston yestiddy; it'll be run in at a later date . . . And no Junior Lakeshore Ball Loop fixture here this Sat'day, as there is a C. G. E. field day at Riverside . . . Young Petes play in Bowmanville on June 18th and here June 22nd . . . . Bob Bell, lanky righthand heaver which Napanee imported from Winnipeg, is just another run-of-the-mine chucker . . . Westclox men softballers won in Omemee last p.m., whilst Motorists defeated Hawks here 7 to 3 . . . We'll have daylight saving this weekend and times of games next week should be made known . . . . Smith fanned 21 in seven innings last eve for Greyhounds as they took a Junior City Baseball League decision from St. Peter's . . . Lindsay Post writer says the Scugog gals are equal to Westclox in everything but fielding . . . Hope the local lacrossers don't draw too many penalties tomorrow eve in their game with Brampton; you can't win in the penalty cage . . . Next section of the men's City Loop softball schedule hasn't been drawn up yet . . . . Petes should leave early Sat'day as Oshawa is on daylight saving time . . . T. F.: That's right, it was Charlie Carson and Lou Brooks who revived the O.R.F.U. game in Central Ontario . . . . Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Entries from clubs as far west as Toronto and Hastings on the east, with Cobourg, Oshawa, Port Hope and Port Perry thrown in for good measure, together with the local entries, made up a perfect draw of 48 points in the first open doubles of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club on Wednesday afternoon. His Worship Mayor Hamilton welcomed the visitors and the rules governing play were read by J. D. Fitzpatrick.

The committee, who were ably assisted by the veteran, H. Foote, and who had charge of the tournament, were: J. D. Fitzpatrick (chairman), H. Freeman, K. Sloane, E. Sackville, T. McArthur, E. Wall and G. Gimblett.

Some of the scores handed in were as big as the "Welcome" sign that hung in front of the verandah—others were as low to read as Mitch Hepburn's car markers.

Our local club had about as many entries as did the Social Credit Party in Saskatchewan—and did about as well.

You must give our boys credit—they certainly played the "Santa Claus" act as far as keeping the prizes were concerned.

E. Sackville made quite a hit with his "Thank you" and the megaphone. And did he get quite a kick out of announcing the election returns from the West—you would think he belonged to a certain party.

So close were the games that only four points separated the first four winners.

Bowling commenced about two o'clock, and continued right up until midnight—and the first open tournament of 1938 passed into history.

Oshawa—W. Brownlee and B. Ward —3 wins, plus 50—3-piece tea set.

Cobourg—J. Watson and C. Keith—3 wins, plus 47—Brush and comb sets.

Brampton Coming For Lacrosse Tilt

Brampton plays the Petes here to-morrow (Friday) night in the George Street Arena in an O.L.A. Senior B lacrosse fixture. It will be the locals' first scheduled game in Peterborough this year, though they have played and won three exhibition tilts at the local stadium this spring. Last Tuesday night in Toronto, the Randle-coached crew opened their 1938 schedule with a 14-5 victory over Woodbridge in the latter place, and they hope to make it two straight on Friday against the Bramptonites. Another big crowd of followers of the gutted-stick sport is expected to witness this contest.

With the chips down and the boys playing for keeps, plenty of smart, rugged lacrosse may be expected from now on. The Petes are powerful this year, and will win a lot of games, but they are in a much stronger group than last season. While the local lineup has not been definitely announced, most of the regulars of last year, plus Worthy and Westonfelt, will be on deck. Such classy players as Red Creighton, Chute, King, Jerry Creighton, Dundas, Dallin, Magee, Crowe, Emmett Creighton, etc. Brampton has bolstered lately and expect to field a strong team for this game, and it promises to be a lively, close and interesting struggle all the way.

First Tournament Committee

The first open doubles of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling club was held on Wednesday afternoon and got off to a successful start under the capable direction of the committee shown above. Front row, left to right, E. L. Sackville, T. McArthur, G. Gimblett. Back row, left to right, J. D. Fitzpatrick, chairman, H. Freeman, K. Sloan, president, E. Wall. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Former Manager of Late John L. Dies At the Ripe Age of 86

NEW YORK, June 9 (CP).—Arthur (Art) T. Lumley is dead, and today those who would hear his tales of the rip-roaring doings of John L. Sullivan must get them from some other source than the old man who managed the one and only John L. back in the days when fisticuffing meant bare knuckles.

Lumley died in hospital here last night of ailments incident to age. He was 86. At one time he was editor of the Police Gazette. At another time he worked on the New York Herald, and later drew cartoons for the New York Telegram. But nearly always he specialized in sports.

In 1888 he founded his own paper, the New York Illustrated News, patterned after the Police Gazette, but it's popularity never reached that of its rival and in 1898 it ceased publication.

Along with his editorial duties, Lumley found time to manage leading prize-fighters of his day, and from 1888 to 1891 he piloted John L., or rather, as Lumley used to tell it, "John L. managed me as he did all his managers." Lumley took Sullivan to Richbourg, Miss., in 1889 to beat Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds in the last bareknuckle championship fight.

Managed The Greats.

Other fighters handled by Arthur T. included Jack McAuliffe, Jack (the Nonpareil) Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons. But to Lumley, John L. was "the greatest of them all before he got hog-fat."

He had a fund of stories about Sullivan and his favorite was how the famous fighter was 20 minutes late for an audience with the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII.

Sullivan finally arrived, breathless. He brushed a protesting lord aside and insisted on taking the late Arthur Brisbane, then London correspondent of the Sun, in with him and capped it all by clapping the Prince on the back and exclaiming: "You're a hell of a good fellow, Prince."

SOCCER PRACTICE

C.C.F. soccer players will practice tonight at 6.30 o'clock in King Edward Park, and a full turnout is requested.

Knox Seniors Win From All Saints

Knox Seniors defeated All Saints 19-5 last night at King Edward, being ahead of their keen rivals all the way. They had smart hurling from Alex. Wedlock and hit the apple hard throughout. McKinley led the attack with five hits, one a homer. Gatfield and Copping also hit well. McDonald got a home run. King was the only All Saints' player to do much at bat, while G. Seabroke made some nifty catches for the losers. The teams:

Just An Owl

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 9. — Two young ladies sleeping on a verandah here were roused by a call early in the morning. They heard another call, and a rustle in the shrubbery around the verandah. KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., June 9 (C.P.). — Chief Constable William Shane has a solution at last for the parking problem. "The only way to solve this traffic problem," Shane commented, "is to make collapsible cars so they could fold up like accordians or baby carriages and be stood up against the wall."

Hastings Girls Drop 1st Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 9. — Hastings girls dropped their first game this season when they were defeated at Warkworth by the Warkworth girls 13 to 9. A 7 run rally by Warkworth in the fourth left the decision beyond doubt.

Greyhounds Secure 12-11 Ball Win

Greyhounds nosed out a 12-11 Junior City Baseball League nod last night at the Exhibition Grounds over St. Peter's. It was a fair fixture, with the winners having an edge on hitting and both sides kicking in with some costly miscues in the field. Smith and Curtin opposed each other on the slabs, the former allowing seven hits as he fanned 21 in the seven-inning game, and the latter giving up 13 bingles while striking out 11. There were few walks. The teams:

DOUBLE VICTORY AT CHICAGO STRENGTHENS GIANTS' LEAD

Sammy Snead Is Favorite U.S. Amateur

DENVER, June 9.—(AP)—Over picturesque Cherry Hills, the mile-high course where accuracy is the double watchword, outstanding shotmakers sharpened their weapons today for the first round of the 72-hole United States Open golf championship.

As the field of great and near-great teed off in what shaped up as the most unpredictable title chase since Bobby Jones retired in 1930, the role of favorite was filled by Sammy Snead, long hitting West Virginian.

Defending champion Ralph Guldahl was second choice. In practice sessions the husky former St. Louis automobile salesman, who set a United States open record of 281 last year, explored the rough frequently.

Snead's pre-tournament workouts, too, were not overly impressive although his three-under par 68 was the best round of the trials. A few days later he soared to a 78.

Substantial backing also was found for such seasoned campaigners as Henry Picard, Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, Dick Metz, Harry Cooper, Canadian Open champion, Vic Ghezzi, Bobby Cruickshank, Jimmy Thompson, Byron Nelson and Tony Manero, title winner in 1936.

The field will be trimmed to the low 60 scores and ties after 36 holes. Single rounds were scheduled today and Friday.

King Carl Hubbell and Ott Work Together To Hand Chicago Twin Setbacks

Yanks Find Going Tough In A. L., Lose To Chisox

NEW YORK, June 9.—Somewhere in that Valhalla reserved for baseball's departed great, the old man looked down today and had a hearty chuckle over the doings of New York Giants in general and King Carl Hubbell and Master Melvin Ott in particular.

He's been gone six years now, but he found things just about the same. McGraw's boys are there when the chips are down.

The old man, of course, was John McGraw. There was only one. And McGraw's boys, naturally, are Master Melvin and King Carl. They were hand-picked by the old man, and learned their A-B-C's from him.

McGraw, you know, used to run the Giants, before terrible Bill Terry's regime. Now Bill has done a swell job, but in his six years in the driver's seat, the two men he's relied on most and who have let him down least are McGraw's boys—the two he inherited when the old man turned over the reins back in 1932.

It was that way again yesterday. The Giants were riding a losing run, with everything going wrong. They had dropped six out of seven on their western swing, came to Chicago for their series with the Cubs, and lost the first clash there Tuesday, sinking 1½ games out of the league lead.

Strengthens Lead.

So it was up to McGraw's boys yesterday—and the result was a double-header victory for Terry's Terriers, which boosted them right back to the top.

In the opener, Master Melvin exploded his 12th homer of the season in the 10th inning to break up the game for a 4-2 Giant win. King Carl went out in the nightcap and took care of the rest of the job. Only five Cubs passed second base, and six fanned as he posted his seventh win of the year by a 4-1 margin.

This left the Giants in first place by half a game, with everything riding on today's series finale.

Find Going Tough.

Meantime, Colonel Jake Ruppert's Yankees are finding it anything but a coffee klatch in the American League wars. They were rudely clubbed around in both ends of a doubleheader by Jimmy Dykes' limping Chicago White Sox yesterday, and dropped into a tie for second place. Gerry Walker's homer in the ninth and single in the 13th gave the Sox the opener, 11-10, and Bill Dietrich's pitching through the first seven frames was enough for a 10-6 Chicago victory in the nightcap.

This double defeat gave Boston Red Sox a chance to pull up to a second place tie, and they made the most of it. Jimmy Foxx whacked a pair of homers and drove in four runs as the Sox knocked off Cleveland Indians, 7-6. Bob Feller lasted less than seven innings.

Brooklyn Dodgers continued their amazing western invasion with a 7-6 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. The equally unpredictable St. Louis Browns made it two straight over Washington by an 11-5 margin.

Bob Klinger's six-hitter gave the Pirates a 4-1 win over Boston Bees. Tommy Bridges turned in a five-hitter to pitch the Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the Athletics. Cincinnati Reds romped off with a 7-5 win over the Phillies in a night encounter.

Motorists Win Over Hawks 7-3

In an exhibition men's softball game last night at the Bowl, Motorists of the City League triumphed over Hawks of the South-end Circuit, 7 to 3. It was a good game, with nice pitching and fair fielding. Naish started for Shorty Barrett's gang, holding the Hawks to two hits and no walks as he fanned one in the 5 frames he toiled. Strickland relieved him in good style, giving but three hits and three walks the rest of the route as he struck out five. McGregor pitched for Hawks, allowing seven safe blows and three walks while fanning six.

Taylor conked out two doubles for Motorists as P. Calladine got a double and a single, with Weir clouting a triple and Crowe a two-bagger. For Hawks, Jay collected a double and single, and Pryde poled out a two-baser. The fielding of P. Calladine, Crowe, Pryde and Busby Brown, lf; Howard, 3b; Cooney, cf; play, McDougall to L. Calladine to Hallihan, was a feature on the defensive side of the struggle. The teams:

Bisons Stampede To Defeat Bears For Twin Victory

NEW YORK, June 9.—Just when everyone was about convinced that there was an aura of invincibility about the Newark Bears, Buffalo Bisons came along and proceeded to demonstrate that the champions can be taken and that the International League pennant race is far from settled.

The Bears were riding high in first place with 11 straight victories to their credit yesterday until the Herd stampeded. The Bisons beat Newark 19-5 and 4-1, and moved within five games of the league-leaders.

Buffalo walloped three Newark pitchers for 21 hits, including four doubles, one triple, and three homers, in capturing the opener, and belted out 11 safeties in the nightcap to win easily behind the three-hit pitching of Fabe Kowalik.

Toronto Maple Leafs were presented with their third and fourth consecutive defeats, 5-2 and 4-1, by Jersey City Giants. Glen Gabler and Tommy Baker each pitched five-hit ball in stopping the Leafs.

Central Loses To King Edward

King Edward defeated Central Juniors, 22 to 20, yesterday in an exciting Public School Softball League fixture, gaining their winning margin in the sixth inning on their own grounds. Central got a run in the seventh, but could not tie it up. It was a wide-open but close contest, with each squad having a nine-run splurge in one heat. The fielding was fair, but hard hitting and indifferent pitching accounted for the big count. Only in the winners' fourth half did either team get blanked in one inning. The teams:

King Edward	196	042 x—22

Umpire—F. H. Dearborn.

St. James Lose To St. John's

St. John's Bantams of the Church Softball League took their second win last night with a 17-16 nod over St. James, it being the latter's third straight reverse. case to convict you of robbery with violence. However, you are still a young man, and you have a chance to mend your ways. After as fair a trial as you could expect to get anywhere the jury found you guilty of common assault. No doubt the injuries that were suffered were superficial, but taking all things into consideration I think there is nothing better I can do than sentence you to six months in the Ontario Reformatory, the term to date from June 1. I do this in the hope that you will see the error of your ways, and that you will decide to turn over a new leaf on your release. There are ways of getting along without committing crimes. In fact crime never pays, and that is the best advice I can give you."

Harold Cassan was foreman of the trial jury. In receiving the verdict, Judge Smoke said there was some room for doubt on the question of robbery with violence, "and I am not quarreling with your decision. The evidence did indicate there was something more than common assault. However, I hope you are satisfied in your own conscience that there was reasonable doubt entitling you to make the finding you have made. You have had an opportunity of participating in the administration of justice in this county, and I extend to you my wish that your attendance here has been of some benefit to yourself as it has been to your country, and if you are ever called upon again for this duty that you will respond as readily as you have done this week."

Afternoon Evidence

Fred Griffin testified Wednesday afternoon that when he was leaving his house on Louis street that Saturday night he noticed two men fighting.

"I started to walk across the road. McCarthy got knocked down by Joe Ellis. I asked what he was trying to do. Ellis started walking down the street. McCarthy called out, "He robbed me" and chased after Ellis. When they got in front of Miller's taxi office Ellis turned on McCarthy and began pounding him on the face. I went down the street and asked what was wrong. McCarthy said Ellis had robbed him of his watch and $10. Ellis came back. I told him McCarthy accused him of robbery, and I asked him if that was right. Ellis said it was not, so I suggested that we call the police and settle the matter there and then. Both said that would be all right and I went in to telephone. When I came out again McCarthy was still there but Ellis was gone."

Police Sergeant Wm. Wigg told of the search and arrest of Ellis at a house on the north side of Brock street, west of Rubidge street.

Twice the police squad tried to get into the house, but the door was not unlocked until Sunday about 8 a.m. In his pocket was $5.40 and in a coat pocket Sergt. Wigg found a stove lifter.

Other witnesses were Ernest Ferguson, driver of Lansfield's truck, and Police Constables Clark and Puffer.

Mr. Fair moved for dismissal of the case on the ground that there was no evidence of a robbery having taken place, the essential phase of the charge. Judge Smoke dissented and Mr. Fair said he would not call any witnesses for the defense.

Juror Ends In Jail

LONDON, Ont., June 9—(CP).—Austin E. Stiltz, 61, of R.R. 2 Ilderton came to London to sit in judgment as a juror on prisoners being tried at the Middlesex session of the peace. But today Stiltz found himself on the wrong end of the law.

When the jurors reported at the courthouse for duty before Judge Wearing, Stiltz was missing. He was in the cells at the London police station accused of being in charge of a car while intoxicated.

Much History

lics was not trusted. Besides French Canada was enjoying all, and more than Congress offered, and the address to "The People of Great Britain" was not unknown in Canada. The Roman Catholic clergy, led by the able, energetic Bishop Briand, were firm in their allegiance to the British Crown, and Carleton the then Governor of Quebec and Britain found them a tower of strength. For the most part the laity followed the clergy.

In the early morning of May the 6th, Quebec was roused by the cry "A sail!" "A sail!" Soldiers and citizens crowded the ramparts. The ship was the British frigate "surprise." It was followed by the "Isis" and a warsloop. The brought word that a fleet was on its way to Canada. Carleton, impatient did not stay for further assistance, but gave the order to "fall in," with himself at the head French and British militia, troops, marines and sailors marched out on the plains to raise the siege. General Thomas was not prepared for the attack, his army broke and fled, leaving guns, munitions, and other supplies strewn about.

AS A RESULT of the American Revolution the population of Canada was greatly increased by the steady stream of United Empire Loyalists, and the numbers of people who followed along for other than patriotic motives. All had to be looked after. Many difficulties arose out of the situation. In time questions of laws and religion loomed large. The Constitutional Act 1791 divided, what was then called the Province of Quebec, into two Provinces—Upper and Lower Canada. Quebec City became the capital of Lower Canada—Quebec City was born a capital. Each Canada had its own Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly.

The Union Act 1841 re-united the Provinces under one parliament. Twenty-six years later the British North American Act gave back to each province its own parliament while uniting them in one general parliament, in, broadly speaking, those matters which affect all provinces. Through all changes, modifications and extensions that have affected the Constitution of Canada, the terms offered to French Canada at the Capitulation 1760 have held good through all the years to the present day 1938.

Much surprise has sometimes been expressed by visitors to Quebec, by strangers within the Empire, that in Quebec, a Province in a British Dominion, that on all road signs the directions in French precede those in English, that almost all shop window signs are in French only, and that many governmental officials speak but one language—the French. Perhaps in the freedom that has been accorded the French within this British Dominion one may find one of the secrets of Britians greatness. Did not Kipling call Britain "Mother of the free"?

France Invaded

France has protested a bombing raid of nine Spanish airplanes on French soil acros sthe Pyrenees frontier. Map shows scene of bombing. One blast destroyed electric power lines from the power plant at Orlu, less than three miles southeast of Ax-les-Thermes, and another exploded near the track of the main trans-Pyreness railroad from Toulouse to Barcelona. Premier Edouard Daladier ordered French airplanes to pursue and force down any airplanes that threatened French territory.

Liberal Rout

defeating Dr. D. C. McCallum, Liberal, by 1,662 votes, and H. W. Arnold, Social Credit, by 4,336. The latter will lose his deposit of $100.

The Leader of the Conservatives, J. G. Diefenbaker, was defeated in Arm River, losing to the sitting Liberal member, G. H. Danielson, by 168. Diefenbaker succeeded Dr. J. T. M. Anderson as Conservative Leader in October, 1936, but has never held a seat in the House.

Dr. Anderson, Premier from 1929 until the Liberals won in 1934, went down to defeat in Saskatoon.

At least one member of the Patterson Government was defeated, Hon. C. M. Dunn losing in Melville, and there was a possibility of Mr. Kerr losing in Turtleford. The other six were elected. Speaker J. M. Parker lost his first election since 1917 when he was defeated in Touchwood by Tom Johnston, C.C.F.

Hot Social Credit Drive.

The feature of the election campaign was the intensive drive by the Social Credit Party to capture Saskatchewan. They had 39 candidates. Premier William Aberhart, most of his Cabinet ,and many of his followers, left Alberta to campaign here. They drew thousands of Saskatchewan voters to their meetings, Mr. Aberhart addressing 5,000 in the town of Melville on the eve of polling.

But the ballots told another story. Evidently Saskatchewan people were prepared to listen to Social Credit monetary theories, but not vote for them.

The campaign of the Social Crediters featured debt reduction legislation, the Alberta production tax and monetary reform in general. They made no appeal on the basis of monthly dividends, such as the $25 that featured the 1936 Alberta election.

The Social Credit movement became a potent political force in 1935 when the party captured 56 out of 63 Alberta seats and formed the first Social Credit Government in the world.

In 1936 five Social Creditors were elected to the Manitoba Legislature, but in 1937 the party suffered a rout in British Columbia.

The Saskatchewan election was the first, since Alberta, in which the Social Credit forces were led by Premier Aberhart. He appealed to Saskatchewan to stand shoulder to shoulder with Alberta in a concerted fight against "the money power" and "financial tyranny."

Contrast Records.

On the other hand, the Liberals, under Premier Patterson, stressed business-like administration in their appeal to the electors. They pointed to their record in office and contrasted it with the Aberhart administration's record in Alberta. Particularly, they sought support of all persons opposed to Social Credit in an effort not to split it among different parties and groups.

The C.C.F. with 31 in the field appealed particularly on an anti-government policy, claiming general maladministration and excessive patronage. They made no particular emphasis of socialization of industry.

Labor candidates of various sorts ran in Regina and Saskatoon but they were never in the race.

Only two women ran in the election and both were defeated, Mrs. Strum by Premier Patterson and Mrs. Gertrude Telfort, also a C.C.F., by Hon. R. J. M. Parker, Minister of Municipal Affairs, in Pelly.

The trend was noticeable from the earliest returns. In riding after riding, Liberals jumped into an early lead and stayed in front. In most rural ridings—the C.C.F. ran no candidates in Regina, Moose Jaw, and Saskaton—the fight was between the Liberal and C.C.F., with Social Crediters and Conservatives trailing.

Cities Go Liberal.

The three cities electing two members each returned a solid block of six Liberals.

Liberals have administered public affairs in Saskatchewan since 1934 when they captured 50 seats to five for the Farmer-Labor Party, since reorganized into the C.C.F. The redistribution this year reduced House membership from 55 to 52, due largely to a transfer of population to the north from the drought areas in the south.

Two far-northern ridings, Cumberland and Athabaska, vote on July 28, with nominations on June 30.

Ottawa Aims

Dominion Housing Act of 1935, Mr. Dunning said, had been the difficulty of those in small communities inducing lending institutions to deal with their applications because of the administration costs involved and the risk.

Greater Assistance.

It had also been difficult for those in low income groups to finance building. Now it was proposed to give greater assistance to the low income groups and bonus the lending institutions to offset extra charges in handling accounts distant from the lending offices.

The old act, which financed $17,000,000 worth of loans up to the end of May last, provided the builder put up 20 per cent., the lending institution 60 per cent., and the Dominion 20 per cent.

Now it would be provided that loans might be made up to 90 per cent. of the lending value of the property on the lowest cost homes and that the government would share with the lending institution, in varying degree, the risk of loss on the venture, in certain areas.

To induce lenders to assist prospective home owners in small and isolated localities, the government proposes to guarantee lending institutions on owner-built homes costing up to $4,000 against a maximum of 20 per cent. of possible loss on the total amount of an 80 per cent. loan and up to 25 per cent. on a 90 per cent. loan.

Areas in which this would be effective would be designated by the Minister, and the guarantees would be on a graduated scale down from the maximums mentioned, depending upon the security and re-sale value of property in those areas, and the percentage of the value on which the loan is based.

Part one of the bill providing the government loan $15,500,000 should make possible aggregate loans up to $60,000,000, the Minister said.

Under part two the government would be empowered to lend up to $30,000,000 to "local housing authorities" to help in financing low rental residential premises.

Liquidation in 35 Years.

The proposal would envision housing projects that would liquidate themselves in about 35 years.

"Local housing authorities" were defined by the Minister as either private limited dividend housing corporations with capital sufficient to provide 20 per cent. of the cost of the project, or municipally-created bodies which would be required to put up 10 per cent. of the cost of the project.

Private housing corporations would be limited in the dividends they could pay to a maximum of five per cent. The government would provide 80 per cent. of the money for the private corporation and 90 per cent. for the municipal board or commission.

Limited dividend corporations would be required to pay, semi-annually, ⅞ of one per cent. interest and one per cent. amortization. Municipal bodies would pay one per cent, interest and one per cent. amortization, semi-annually.

If the local housing authority is a municipal body the province would be required to guarantee repayment of the loan. If a limited dividend corporation no such guarantee will be required.

Mr. Dunning suggested the municipalities could get going more quickly on projects by interesting private citizens to set up limited dividend corporations than if forced to wait for changes in the municipal law to permit them to proceed under their own administration.

The Family Housing Unit.

No family housing unit will be leased to a family whose income is equal to more than five times the economic rental of the unit. Economic rental is defined as a return of 9½ per cent. on the cost.

Annual rental to be charged a family of low income is not to exceed 20 per cent. of the total income. Provision also would be made that funds might be set up voluntarily in a municipality to further reduce the rent in needy cases.

The loans would be allocated according to the population and would not exceed in any municipality that proportion of $30,000,000 the population of the municipality bears to the total urban population of Canada.

Limited dividend corporations operating under the act will be required to give the municipality an option to take over the project at the amount of capital invested in it by the corporation.

One hundred members of the Toronto branch of the Purchasing Agents Association, together with a number from Hamilton, were guests of Peterborough members and local manufacturers on Wednesday. Plans for the afternoon called for tours of inspection of Western Clock Co. and the Canadian General Electric. The visitors expressed themselves as delighted with the arrangements made for and for the manner in which the tours were conducted.

Governor-General Is Given Song

Morris Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Black of Peterborough, who has a flair for musical composition and has turned out a number of songs, sent a copy of one of them entitled "Spring-time" to Lord Tweedsmuir during the visit of the Governor-General to Peterborough last week, and has received the following letter from Lord Tweedsmuir's secretary.

"The Governor General has asked me to thank you most warmly for so kindly sending him your song "Spring-time". His Excellency congratulates you on your skill in composition and is deeply touched by your kindly thought in dedicating your work to him.

He will keep your song as a pleasant souvenir of his visit to Peterborough".

Complete Loan On New House Is Hard To Get

"Peterborough can't obtain the full benefit of the Dominion government's assisted housing plan until the soundness of this city has been 'sold' to the London Life Insurance Company," Fred J. Overend stated to the Examiner today, "and that is something the city council should consider, even to the extent of sending a deputation to London to interview the executive of that company.

The designated loaning companies seem to have divided the province between them as a matter of convenience, and Peterborough appears to have been assigned to the London Life. From the experience of certain citizens planning to build houses it is generally felt that the lending company objects to making the full extent of the loans authorized by the government's scheme. If a man intends to build a $4,000 house and goes to the company for the 80 per cent. loan authorized by the government, he finds that he can get about 70 per cent. or $2,800, and he has to make up the other 10 per cent. himself. He has already arranged for the remaining 20 per cent., and building operations are being held up in this city by that deficiency of 10 per cent.

As I see it, the London Life does not appreciate the sound financial condition of this city. They have more faith in the communities they know, cities in their own district such as London and Kitchener. Peterborough is beyond their area, and the human element in these transactions is lacking so far as this city is concerned. I am confident many houses would be built here, and hundreds of men employed if the government's loan plan could be put into effect as it is written. I know cases of men of assured income and credit who could not get the full amount they required from the lending company, and I believe that was lacking the personal touch. If we had a lending company here in Peterborough or Lindsay they would know the character of the applicants for loans, their credit and so on, the industrial background, and we would activity instead of the obstacles that are holding up the building industry in all its branches here.

If the council would send some of its members to London and present our case to the insurance company's officers I think we would get results that we have so far not realized from the government's building program."

OBITUARY

SISTER M. CHRISTINA.

The death of Sister M. Christina occurred at the House of Providence here on Monday.

Formerly Sister was Miss Mary Daly, daughter of the late Thomas Daly and Margaret McRae of Brechin, Ontario. Thirty-four years ago she entered the community of St. Joseph at Peterborough, and after final profession devoted the early years of her religious life to the teaching of music at Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and Peterborough. Possessed of a bright, happy disposition, she endeared herself to her companions and to all with whom she came in contact.

For the past number of years, ill-health obliged her to remain inactive, and during the last few months her condition becoming gradually worse, she realized the end was approaching, and calmly resigned herself to the holy will of God, awaiting the termination of her earthly sufferings.

Her funeral took place from the chapel at Mount St. Joseph on Wednesday morning. Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Very Reverend F. J. O'Sullivan, V.F., assisted by Reverend E. Welsh, Deacon, and Reverend J. Walsh, Subdeacon. His Excellency Most Reverend Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., was in the sanctuary. Present also were Rev. J. J. O'Brien, P.P., Sacred Heart Church; Rev. C. Cantillon, Toronto; Rev. P. J. Kelly, LL.D., rector St. Peter's Cathedral; Rev. V. G. McFadden, P.P., Downeyville; Rev. J. J. Garvey, P.P., Lakefield; Rev. C. Carroll, P.P., Norwood; Rev. V. Corkery, Rev. V. J. Masterson, D.D., master of ceremonies, and Rev. G. Kay, Bracebridge.

Besides her sister and her niece, in attendance at her funeral were her brother-in-law, E. Greenwood, Beaverton; her cousins, Miss Josie McRae, Miss Jennie McRae, Toronto; Miss Nellie McRae, Beaverton, and numerous relatives and friends from Lindsay and Beaverton.

Interment took place in St. Peter's Cemetery. Officiating at the graveside were Rev. C. Cantillon, assisted by Rev. V. G. McFadden and Rev. G. Kay.

Langley, K.C. to be allowed to change his plea of guilty to stealing two sets of boxing gloves from the Riverview Athletic Club to "not guilty" was brought back before the magistrate at an afternoon session of the court when it was found that the Crown did not want to consent to the change. Roy's original plea of guilty stood and Magistrate Langley allowed him to go on suspended sentence on condition that he restore the gloves to the Athletic Club or pay them $20 and that he keep away from L. M. Corbett who was charged with him in the theft and who is to appear before the magistrate Friday on that and two other charges.

Electors Resented Meddling Of Premier Aberhart

The Aberhart government of Alberta has been given a sharp lesson in repudiation by the people of Saskatchewan in their return of a Liberal government at the polls Wednesday, Alex .L. Elliott, M.P.P., commented to The Examiner today, and by their decision they have done a great deal to sustain the confidence of the Canadian people in the essential soundness of political opinion in the west, in spite of the difficulties through which they have come in recent years.

"Saskatchewan has rejected Mr. Aberhart's intrusion into the affairs of a neighboring province, and in that respect alone they have upheld the traditional policy in interprovincial relations. If a Quebec government were to interfere in Ontario elections, or if Ontario went down to Quebec and tried to tell their people what to do in their own elections we can understand how that meddling would be resented. There may have been some strong temptation to the people of Saskatchewan to climb aboard the Aberhart bandwagon of so-called social credit, repudiation of debts and so on, but on the whole they have decisively turned their backs on that easy way out of their difficulties. Naturally there is a feeling of satisfaction that the Liberal government has been sustained, but the results were more a victory for common sense and sound Canadianism. Saskatchewan has probably reflected to Mr. Aberhart the disillusion that must be felt in his own province with the failure of his $25 a month handout, and the whole fanciful scheme called social credit. If Saskatchewan were convinced it was a success or held anything of practical advantage for them they would have accepted it. The Aberhart government was looking forward to an invasion of Ontario with their ideas in the attitude that they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. Saskatchewan electors have extinguished any hope the Aberhart following may have entertained of spreading throughout Canada their gospel of repudiating debts."

Blasts C.I.O.

Addressing the opening of the convention of the Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Operators Union at Cleveland, William Green, president of the A.F. of L., ABOVE, charged that the C.I.O. had introduced Communists into the ranks of workers in Akron, Detroit, Flint and other great steel centres. Governor Martin Davey of Ohio, also spoke at the convention and blasted John L. Lewis as "one who wants to be the undisputed dictator of the United States."

Girl, 13 Suffers Badly Cut Hip

Georgina Stevens, 13, daughter of Fred Stevens, Douro township, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from a badly cup hip, a cut on the head, bruises and shock, as the result of falling from the running board of an automobile near her home on the River Road Wednesday afternoon.

The girl, with her younger brother, was on her way home from school when Lorne Creeper of Bowmanville came along in a motor car and offered the children a ride. The boy got into the car with the driver but Georgina preferred to stand on the running board. Near the Stevens home, Creeper said his attention was distracted momentarily by something the girl shouted and the car swerved enough to brush against a pole at the side of the road and jolt her off.

Rotary Carnival Set For Tonight

Tonight is the night.

The Rotary Carnival of 1938, with 15 games and booths and three rides is all set at Riverside Park to go over the top this evening with a full cargo of fun and entertainment in aid of Peterborough's crippled children.

The new setting of the big annual event has been an animated scene today as several score willing workers hustled to put the finishing touches on the booths and get everything in readiness for the opening tonight.

The booths are located on the terrace just east of the roadway while west of the road and at the edge of the tourist camp the Queen City Amusement Company has erected its giant wheel, big merry-go-round and the Kiddies' Auto Speedway. A new attraction this year and one that promises to be decidedly popular with young carnival patrons. The electric organ of the merry-go-round was being tested out this morning and added a circus tone to the activities of the workers as the carnival was being shaped for its introduction to the public tonight.

Tonight's program will start out at 6.15 o'clock with a snappy softball game at the Bowl between the Westclox girls and the Lindsay lassies and by the time this interesting battle is over the carnival proper will be operating at full swing.

At 11 o'clock will come the draw by Mayor Hamilton for the seven prizes offered in connection with the first night of the carnival. They include the choice of a boy's, girl's or adult's bicycle, a radio, a movie camera, a percolator set, a Mix-Master, a table lamp and an electric razor.

Remember the event—the Rotary Carnival of 1938; the place—Riverside Park; the cause — Peterborough's crippled children. A big night's fun in behalf of a most worthy object—providing handicapped youngsters with a new start in life.

Urge Little Surgery On Gastric Ulcers

HAMILTON, June 9 (C.P.). — Hesitancy in the use of surgery in treatment of gastric ulcers was emphasized before a large gathering of Ontario physicians and surgeons here last night by Dr. W. E. Gallie, Professor of Surgery at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Gallie addressed a dinner meeting in connection with the two-day program of clinics and demonstrations which opened yesterday at Hamilton General Hospital.

Medical treatment was favored by the surgeon as advisable in most gastric cases in view ofrecent observations for case histories, which, he said, had revealed disappointing surgical results.

Discussing changes in surgical methods of treating gastric ulcers, Dr. Gallie told the gathering that "the gastro-interostomy was a curiosity to-day," where a few years ago thousands of these operations had been performed.

In more recent years gastrectomy had been the accepted operation and was believed to have met with "brilliant success" in countless cases.

Latest observations had revealed, however, a disappointing number of duodenal ulcer developments within two or three years of the original operation, he said.

Medical methods were urged particularly by Dr. Gallie in the duodenal treatment, and he advised surgery only when serious complications were involved.

Find Direct Electric Current In Brain

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—(AP) New light on the numan bram, in the form of long, low-volage waves of direct electric current flowing from gray matter was discussed by the American Psychiatric Association here today.

This direct current is positive during consciousness, negative in unconsciousness and apparently the forerunner of death when it lasts too long.

Its discovery amazed the brain specialists for two reasons. The brain gives off the direct current simultaneously with alternating current. One wave of the direct current lasts 10 to 30 minutes while the "A.C." pulsates at an average of 10 a second.

The dynamos in the brain appear to be the individual cells of gray matter. Accrding to the discussion here, these brain dynamos are capable of linking up like the stations of a super-power system. They combine into networks which change their size and their voltage in tune with the physical changes in gray matter during health and disease.

Discovered Accidentially

The direct current was discovered by Dr. Robert Cohn and Dr. Carl Langenstrass, of St. Elizabeth hospital, Wash. It was detected while giving the new insulin shock treatment to patients suffering from schizophrenia.

Under insulin shock, a patient usually becomes unconscious. While the St. Elizabeth patients were conscious, the long waves of direct current were positive electricity. When they became unconscious the electric current was negative.

Experiments on cats with insulin shock were tried. Waking the animals up after they became unconscious usually caused the current to swing back to positive until the animals closed their eyes again. To avoid death it was necessary to prevent the current from running negative too long.

Civil Marriages Quebec Solution

MONTREAL, June 9. —(CP).—Civil marriages might remedy the mixed marriage problem in Quebec, Chief Justice R, A. E. Greenshields suggested in a judgment handed down in Superior Court to-day.

"If the officers of the law chosen to celebrate marriages were selected from a responsible and respectable class to the exclusion of the parson and the priest it might one and for all settle the question of marriage in his province," said the white-haired Dean of Superior Court Justices.

Specifically in the case on which judgment was rendered, the chief justice took sharp issue with Mr. Justice Alfred Forest for his views on validity of marriages between Roman Catholics and Protestants, that reversed a judgment of his junior.

The judgment today upset a marriage annulment granted James O'Kane by Mr. Justice Forest. A Roman Catholic, O'Kane obtained from Mr. Justice forest an annulment of his marriage to Peggy on groundsthey were of different Palmer, a protestant, on grounds they were of different faiths and the marriage ceremony had been performed by Rev. W. Stevenson Major of St. George's Anglican Church in Montreal.

Subsequently Mrs. O'Kane reopened the case before the Chief Justice, claiming she had been absent in Scotland when her husband had obtained his annulment and that she had known nothing of the proceedings.

O'Kane failed to appear to defend the second hearing and judgment went against him by default. Under civil law of this province declared the Chief Justice today, a marriage ceremony performed by a protestant minister between members of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Churches is valid and binding.

70 Missionaries Hold Out In Kaifeng

By Jacques Marcuse
(Copyright, 1938, by Havas News Agency.)

HANKOW, China, June 9 (CP-Havas).—Kaifeng, newly-occupied by the Japanese, is being administered by a group of Canadian, British, American, Australian and Italian missionaries working together in a united committee.

This correspondent visited the various foreign groups in Kaifeng only a few days before the Japanese took possession of the city and found them all, 70 strong, calmly remaining at their posts and doing their utmost to cope with the problems of health and refugees created by war-time conditions.

Miss May Watts of St. Catharines, Ont., and Josephine Ward of the Canadian Mission entertained the Havas correspondent at tea entirely unconcerned by the sound of firing that could be clearly heard from putside the city.

Their compound, topped by a great Union Jack on the principal roof, was hit by several bombs May 31.

"We never thought of evacuating," they said. "It would be a cowardly thing to do to the unfortunates who are counting on our help."

Care For 30,000.

Twelve camps housing 30,000 women and children and aged were set up in the various mission compounds. The missionaries constructed rude barracks and pooled all their resources in food supplies and medicine to take care of the refugees.

(Last week the Church of England mission staff at Kaifeng was stated in Toronto to have five Canadian members—Miss Watts, Mrs. F. M. Simmons, widow of Canon Simmons of Stirling, Ont.; Grace Gibbard, London; Miss M. Searle and Miss L. M. Racey, Winnipeg).

(In addition, reports from Hankow last week said R. H. H. Gilbert had gone to Kaifeng from Kweiteh).

Had Indigestion Gas and Pains In Stomach and Bowels

The process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach, and when it is unable to do its work properly there will be a rising and souring of food, a gnawing and burning sensation in the stomach, belching and pressure of gas, flatulency, etc.

Miss M. C. Weiss, Mapova, Alta., writes:—"For a long time I was troubled with indigestion. My stomach would not digest my food, and I would have gas pressure and sour stuff coming up in my mouth.

I used Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking one bottle I felt a change for the better, so I decided to keep on, and after the third bottle I could eat anything and not be bothered with the rising and souring of my food."

Nanny Drinks Gas Sniffs Match Then Blows Up

Carlinville, Ill., June 9 (AP)

NANNY drank a pan of gasoline —and then exploded. That's the story of Arnold Garlo and Melvin Miller, tenant farmers, as they explained the fate of their pet nanny goat.

Garlo and Miller were cleaning some farm implements today with gasoline. The goat got nosey and drank the contents of a dishpan. Presently one of the men lighted his pipe and tossed the match to the ground. Nanny sniffed. Her whiskers ignited. Blooie. Nanny doesn't live there anymore.

Presbyterians Favor "Interneship"

TORONTO, June 9 (C.P.). — A system of "interneship" for graduates of Theological Colleges, as one commissioner called it, was approved by Commissioners of the Presbyterian Assembly in Canada in General Assembly here today. It is designed especially to help rural districts in Western Canada.

Assembly recommended that in future graduate students spend a year in the field under appointment of the Board of Missions, receiving a certificate before they accept a call. They are to be paid under the terms of an ordained missionary.

Offered as an alternative to the suggested plan for summer sessions in theology, the interneship plan received wide support as a means of providing winter supply.

Rev. S. M. Kerr, Lancaster, Ont., urged the internes be sent out on the terms of ordained missionaries. Too many students to-day are forced into debt to finish their course as it is, he said.

Commissioners hoped to end deliberations to-day.

Fascism Spreading Baptists Told

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 9. — (CP).— Delegates to the Ontario and Quebec Baptists convention resumed discussions to-day with a charge by Rev. R. J. Quiggin before them that "influential men" in some Baptist churches were endeavoring to curtail freedom of ministers in their work.

Sympathizers of the totalitarian states, the Owen Sound minister charged before the convention last night, were to be found 'among the deacons and on the boards of management in our very own churches." Fascism, he said, was not confined to Europe or Quebec province.

Critical of the low salaries paid ministers, he termed their pay "stenographers' stipends." Previously the home mission board had presented new minimum salary standards of $1,000 and parsonage for regular urban home mission fields; $1200 and parsonage for urban fields and Northern Ontario fields. No definite standard, but a minimum of $800 and parsonage, was recommended for irregular fields.

Nude Vag Knows One Word "Yeah"

MONTREAL, June 9 (C.P.). — Nude but not bothered much about it, Zacharie David sat in court yesterday and listlessly answered questions with one word—"Yeah"—as they gave him a hearing on a vagrancy charge.

The courtroom was Zacharie's cell at Provincial Police Headquarters. All the might of the law couldn't persuade Zacharie to put his clothes on to-day to go to court, so the court obliged by going to Zacharie.

The examination was as follows:

Q.—Zach, they say you were a vagrant?

A.—Yeah?

Q.—We will come back June 16 for a trial.

A.—Yeah?

Q.—And a mental examination, meanwhile.

FIESTA

by OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Barons plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, set out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after a long ride, Bill and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, they soon are subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 9

When Ellen Dale saw Felix and the three Indian trailers leave the Montoya home to look for tracks of the missing Bill and Panola, she was more fearful than ever.

It was real, very real.

These three Indians, she learned, were not Yaquis like those held captive in the Montoya storehouse. These trailers were peaceful Papagos, from a tribe of agriculturalists who lived for the most part on a reservation to the northward, in Arizona. Sometimes they left the reservation to the northward, in Arizona. Sometimes they left the reservation to work as cow hands. They could ride well. They had fine endurance. They came in handy, too, in such emergencies as this. And they hate the Yaquis no less than the Mexicans did.

"Why are Mexicans enemies of the Yaquis, Don Julio?" Ellen asked her host. "Why do they fight each other?"

He could not tell her, could not make it clear that the two races were traditional enemies. Northern Sonora had been settled slowly. The Yaquis had undoubtedly been mistreated many times, and political promises had not been kept. All that remained was to fight back, to steal and kill when they had to, or when they wanted to for revenge. The Yaquis would have been more peaceful, but unscrupulous local officers had too often victimized them, in spite of the genuine attempts at friendship by the Mexican central government. The Yaquis had retreated to the fastnesses of their hills, where no army could rout them out without unreasonable expense.

Ellen could understand only a part of Don Julio's labored explanation, but it was enough to increase her apprehension for Bill and Panola. She realized that their danger was at least potentially great.

"I could show Felix where they disappeared," she suddenly told Don Julio. "I mean, where they were last seen. I—I watched them from the dining room window."

That was some help. It at least enable the Indian trailers to pick up the horses' tracks without delay. Ellen was glad to be of that much help anyway.

She came back to the ranchhouse and, for want of something better to do, wandered to the storehouse wheer the Yaqui prisoners were still behind bars.

They came to the window at once. She was startled to hear them gesticulate and moan.

The white girl drew back involuntarily, but she watched them, studying their strange actions and noises.

"Can you speak no English?" she addressed them. "English?"

There was no spoke answer, yet it was obvious that the two men were pleading for something. Their eyes held it; she watched, fascinated. Then all at once the solution struck her.

"It is food they want!" she half whispered, alarmed. 'Or water! I'll bet it is water!"

She went quickly to the main house and returned with a cup of water. When she held it to the bars one man grasped it frantically and drank. She brought more then, ignoring the Mexican women who stared at her curiously. She watched the prisoners, heard their labored breathing, their peculiar sobbing, gutteral noises as of animals.

The thing appalled her. She who had once known poverty in the American sense, nevertheless had never actually gone hungry, much less suffered the keener, quicker pangs of thirst. An infinite pity for these men surged within her; and an anger at the Mexicans who imprisoned them.

And yet she realized that the absence of Panola had disrupted the Montoyas' routine too. Don Julio and Felix must simply have forgotten such things as prisoners. But in this arid southwest thirst can become an acute suffering in relatively few hours.

Ellen brought more water to the men, followed it with food. When they had been filled, they stared at her like worshipful dogs, she thought. It was hard to realize that that such uncouth creatures were men, and yet she could tell they were normally strong of body, would look no worse than any other savages if they could but be cleaned.

"It is all right," she said to them gently, hoping at least that her tone would carry a bit of comfort.

"Muchas gracias, muchas gracias," they repeated again and again. A Mexican servant, who had come to stare, told Ellen that it meant "many thanks."

The American girl resolved to see that the prisoners had food and water while she was there, at least. She thought of sending at once for help from the authorities. In America the first impulse always is to "call the police."

But in Mexico, on a cattle ranch miles from any village or town, most details of law and human conduct are in the rancher's hands, and Don Julio Montoya had a more commanding situation. Ellen thought it best to let him alone. He had stormed at her once, suspecting her with having something to do with Panola's disappearance. She would keep to herself—and wait.

This immediate period of waiting, however, was very short.

Felix and the three Indian trailers were back within a few hours, their horses spent and sweating.

"Was no trouble finding the trail," Felix explained to Ellen, after he had reported to his father and the others. "They ride to the mountains. First they race, then they walk fast. The tracks weer plain.

"Then we come to place where is much trouble. Brush is broke and grass tear down, and tracks all confuse every way. Men have attack Panola and Senor Baron, and take them away."

Ellen's hand went to her mouth in alarm.

"Taken them away?' she echoed.

"Si, senorita. The Yaquis. I think we now owe you the apologize for thinking you maybee have part in trouble. It is the Indians. I should have know."

Felix spent a moment with his mother, trying to comfort her. Don Julio already was hastening here and there, issuing guns and ammunition to his servants and the few cowboys who chanced to be at hand. His thought was to arm the six or eighth men present and start to the rescue at once. In high excitement Ellen offered to do everything possible. She made Felix listen to her while she offered to spend any money necessary. She wanted to send for American soldiers, police, anything. She urged that they spare no expense.

Felix, however, had more restraint. He told his father and Ellen alike that great caution would be necessary.

Armed forces far stronger than they could either muster or hire had gone into the mountains to raid the Yaqui Indians in times past—and had come out losers! If the government had not succeeded in subjugating the wild ones, how could a girl and a rancher hope to do so?

"That is true, senorita," he admitted. "Nevertheless—"

He was obviously trying to think of a sensible course.

"I have it" the girl suddenly announced. "I will go.'

Felix turned to look intently at her. Quickly he translated what she had said, to his parents.

"I will go," she repeated. "It is not as crazy as it sounds, I think. These Indians—the Yaquis—they hate Mexicans, fight with you, you say."

"Yes. But—"

"They must want something! They would fight you. I do not think they would fight me, a girl. An American girl. I will go!"

The idea of course was fantastic. The assembled men and women—the Montoyas and their employees—all gazed at her, incredulous. Ellen's face was a study.

It was Senor Montoya who spoke softly. Felix translated slowly, as if meditating.

"My mother say, she say, you love this man, this Baron, very much, senorita. It is true, no?"

Fight That Baffling Inferiority Complex

Banish Embarrassing Shyness

Mary's determined to throw off her shy, hesitant manner. So she's asking a psychoanalyst to help her to poise and assurance.

"Your battle's half won," he is telling her. "Bravely admitting your handicap and having courage to fight it are the most important steps toward a cure.

"Now, set out to meet more people. Join a club. Take every chance that comes to talk to people, to understand them. Give yourself the outward appearance of poise even if you're panicky within. Keep your head up and your hands still. Each day you'll find the going easier."

Our 32-page booklet gives you, too, the advice of this expert on self-consciousness and other inferiority complexes. He has given self-confidence and happiness to thousands. Get rid of your inferiority feelings with his understanding help.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—What makes an old maid? O course, they always say it is because Mr. Right never came along, but I think that every old maid just lost her chance with the man she loved. I know an old maid who was once in love with my husband. She went with him six years when she was a girl. He says he never thought of marrying her, but she as good as proposed to him time after time. He is always telling me how much even now when they meet she smiles and looks so pleasantly at him and tries to get him to talk to her. When she passes by our apartment she looks as if she were looking for some one. What do you think makes a girl an old maid?

BROWN-EYED SUSAN.

Answer:

Well, Brown-Eyed Susan, I would think that if the woman you write about is an old maid because she missed marrying a man who was such a cad that he kissed and and told and brags about how he won her heart and then ditched her, she should consider that her guardian angel saved her from a fate worse than being a spinster. Also you must take into consideration the likelihood that she was one of the many women who enjoy the attentions of men and find them useful as escorts, but who have no inclination toward the domestic state, and that she said "no" when your husband popped the question.

The tradition is that all women are crazy to marry, but this is far from being the truth. There are many women who are celibate by nature, and who would rather have a chimney that smokes, a parrot that swears and a cat that roams at night than any man. They love their own freedom, their own pocketbooks and their own little ways better than a husband, and they pity their friends who have to rush home from a bridge game to get dinner for John or Mike and who have to clean up after untidy creatures who leave a bathroom looking as if a typhoon had hit it and who scatter newspapers and cigarette ashes all over the floor.

Many modern girls don't marry because they don't want to give up a hundred-dollar job for a fifty-dollar man. They look at marriage with a hard-boiled eye and they do not see what they would gain by swapping a mahogany desk in an air-cooled office for a gas range in a hot kitchen. They look at Mary, who was so pretty and fresh looking before she married and who is now so haggard and worn with childbearing, cooking, washing and trying to make one dollar do the work of five; they consider Sally, who used to look like a Daily Hint From Paris, and who is now drab and shabby, and it makes them wonder if marriage is always a woman's best bet and if she isn't just as well if she plays safe and stays single.

Undoubtedly there are many women who are old maids because no man came down their street whom they wanted. They would have been glad to have married if they could have found their ideal; but, failing that, they would not descend to a lower standard just to be a-marrying.

There are other women who never marry because of environment. There are many Adamless Edens in which there are no males save senile grandpas and adolescent boys. And there are other women who do not marry because they are shy and timid and do not know how to attract masculine attention.

But most of the women who are old maids are self-sacrificing saints who have laid all their hopes and dreams of love and marriage and husbands and homes and children on the altars of their families. They couldn't marry because their earnings were needed at home. There were little brothers and sisters to be fed clothed and educated, and they couldn't put this burden on a husband's shoulders; or there were an old father and mother to be nursed and taken care of, and by the time Father and Mother were dead and the little brothers and sisters grown up and on their own, Jennie or Maggie was no longer a girl. She was a middle-aged woman, with her youth, freshness and beauty gone her gayety dimmed by years of hard work and anxiety, and men passed her by for flappers.

Oh, there are many reasons why girls don't marry, but not once in a thousand times is an old maid an old maid because she was jilted.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young man attending college and in a short time will enter law school. For fifteen years I have had my heart set on becoming a lawyer, and with that ambition in view I have struggled hard and overcome obstacles, but now that I am within a short distance of my goal I find myself confronted with the most serious problem of all. I am in love with a young girl, and I do not know whether to complete my education and possibly lose her or give up my hopes of being a lawyer, obtain a position and marry her. I feel I must do one or the other, but cannot do both because of financial conditions. Which shall I do? T. S.

Answer:

This is a problem that you must settle for yourself. It is something between you and your own soul, but you should be very certain that what you feel for the girl is the grand passion and not a passing fancy before you sacrifice all of the ambtions of your life for her.

Your dilemma is one of the unfortunate ones in which you are likely to regret your decision whichever one you make. If you decide to pursue your career, no matter how successful you are in it, you will always think how happy you might have been if you had married the girl, who will take on added charm and perfections in your imagination as the years go by.

And, on the other hand, if you marry the girl and give up your career for her sake, you will always be wondering if she was worth the price. And when you hear some brilliant and successful lawyer acclaimed and look at your own drab job, you will know many a bitter hour of regret. So there you are. And it is no wonder tht you do not know what choice to make.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What can a fellow do when his girl lives so far from town that he can't ask her to walk to some entertainment and he doesn't have a car? Must he go on and on with parlor dates? PUZZLED.

Answer:

What's the matter with street cars and the ubiquitous bus? They solve the transportation problem for a lot of us.

The Examiner Fashion Service

Everyone loves a dirndl for playtime and "date" time. This popular peasant fashion, with a feeling of romance and adventure, is so youthfully becoming. The all-around gathered skirt, makes your waistline appear ever so tiny. The bodice buttons up to a quaint low square neckline. Or it may have a little girl collar, if you please. Pockets, too. Make it of non-crushable peasant linen....wear it in or out of town, for country or beach. Wear it everywhere. You can have a crownless hat of the same fabric.... and a contrasting bright corselet belt (with or without suspended straps) derived from the Swedish peasant fashion. Pattern No. 2778 also includes a hat with a high pointed crown. The hats are designed in one size and the belt comes in small, medium, and large. A dark ground sheer cotton voile print is very conservative, yet picturesque and feminine. You'll wear it for daytime in town and for dining and dancing in the evening.

Style No. 2554 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 33, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material with 5½ yards of braid.

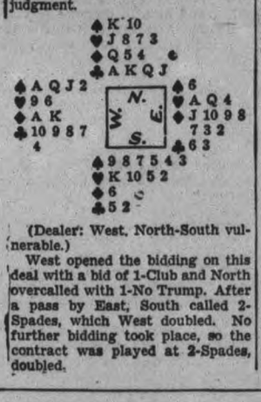
"The Authority on Authorities"

DOUBLE AFTER A BID

WHEN AN experienced player has opened the auction with a suit bid and then doubled on his next turn, without having heard anything from his partner except a pass, he is making an informative double asking for a takeout. That is, unless the doubled bid is two or more no trump or at least three of a suit. In such circumstances, the double of a suit bid of three may usually be treated as either for information or for penalties, putting it up to the partner to use his judgment.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West opened the bidding on this deal with a bid of 1-Club and North overcalled with 1-No Trump. After a pass by East, South called 2-Spades, which West doubled. No further bidding took place, so the contract was played at 2-Spades, doubled.

West cashed the diamond A and then switched to the heart 9, East winning the trick with the A. He returned a diamond, which South ruffed. Two rounds of clubs followed and on the third East ruffed and South overruffed. When a spade was led, West jumped in with the A and led his last heart, which South won with the K. West ruffed the next heart lead and cashed his two remaining spades but was able to take no more tricks, so that South made his two spade contract, doubled.

Three diamonds could have been made by East-West and should have been bid by East unless he felt he could defeat the contract of the opponents.

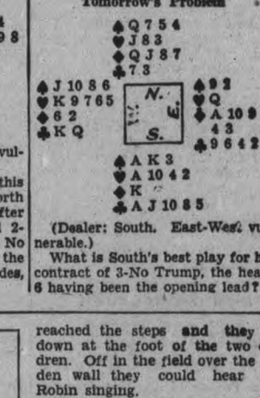
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is South's best play for his contract of 3-No Trump, the heart 6 having been the opening lead?

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Now Knarf and Hanid, the shadows with the turned-about names, knew that Mrs. Robin was sitting on four little eggs in her nest in the oak tree. They had gone floating over the nest in a soap-bubble balloon as I told you yesterday. When they asked Mrs. Robin if she minded if the children—the children the two shadows belong to—came to visit her nest, Mrs. Robin answered: "Not at all. Only they must promise not to disturb the eggs."

So that part of it was settled. All the shadows had to do now was to let the children know that Mrs. Robin had a nest in the oak tree. The children couldn't see it from the ground, you know. And Mrs. Robin, of course, wasn't going to tell them. I mean, she wasn't going to tell them in any language but her own. She chirped and sang about her nest and her eggs in her loudest voice. But the children didn't understand a word she was saying.

And now the two shadows decided to tell the children themselves.

"Only how are we going to make them understand us?" Hanid asked Knarf as they hurried down the garden path. The children were sitting on the back steps of the house.

Go to Children

By this time the two shadows reached the steps and they sat down at the foot of the two children. Off in the field over the garden wall they could hear Mrs. Robin singing.

For a little while neither of the two shadows said anything. Finally Hanid whispered to Knarf: "Well—aren't you going to try to let the children know about the nest? You ought to do something."

"Don't get impatient, Hanid. I'll let them know all right. W've got to wait a little while."

"But—"

Just then Knarf's master — the little boy named Frank—turned to his sister, Dinah, and said: "Let's play with the ball. Do you want to?"

"Oh yes," replied his sister.

Then they got the painted rubber ball from the porch box and walked out into the garden to play with it.

"All right, Hanid....come along now," Knarf said quickly. "Let's stay near them. They're going to find out about that robin's nest in a few minutes."

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Don't let them spoil your Summer

It sometimes seems as though those spiteful Rheumatic twinges in your joints bring you up with a jerk deliberately—just when you're specially enjoying yourself. How often the prods of pain catch you the very minute you bend over at work or play. Don't listen to pessimists who say there's no relief from Rheumatic trouble with its Uric Acid crystals that prick and pain. You can help dissolve these crystals, and curb Rheumatic pain.

Wealthy people "take the waters" at some European Spa. Nothing better for those who can afford it. For those who can't there's a simple remedy of a similar nature. Fynnon Salt is its name—a name echoed gratefully by many Rheumatic sufferers.

Take a ½ teaspoonful in a glassful of water every morning. It liberates Sodium, Potassium and Lithium—a combination of 'Salts of the Earth' that help disperse Uric Acid and remove from your system the poisons that cause it. Take Fynnon Salt, the enemy of Rheumatic pains, and see how fine you feel, how soon pain goes. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists. xx

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I enjoy the recipes you give in cooking hints, and would like the recipe for Paradise Loaf or roll that you printed about three weeks or a month ago. I have mislaid my copy—it was made of graham crackers, dates and whipped cream.

Do you have a recipe book? I'd love to have it if you do. Thanking you, Mrs. W. T.

ANSWER: I have not published a recipe book as yet but have placed your name on my file and as as soon as we have one compiled you will be notified.

Paradise Roll
(Graham Cracker Pudding)

One pound graham crackers (save out 8 crackers to use separately), 1 pint whipping cream, 1 pound marshmallows, 1 pound dates, 1 pound walnuts. Roll the crackers very finely, cut the marshmallows into pieces (with scissors dipped in powdered sugar), cut the dates and nuts into coarse pieces, then roll all together with whipped cream and mould all these ingredients into a roll. Roll the remaining crackers finely and coat outside of roll with them. Leave overnight in cold place and serve in slices with extra whipped cream. This is a very large amount and should be cut in half for family use.

QUESTION: Will you please send me recipes how to can dandelion greens, cooked and uncooked. Thank you, A. F. B.

ANSWER:

Canned Dandelion Greens

Gather only the tender young plants (after dandelions have bloomed the greens are rather bitter). Wash very well discarding any root or withered leaves, and rinse in at least four lukewarm waters. They may either be steamed or boiled. Boiling is recommended because the water from them can be poured over when they are in the jars. Sterilize jars for 20 minutes—including rubbers, tops and rings. Pack spinach which has been boiled 5 minutes only into sterile jars loosely—this is to prevent too tight packing when heat cannot penetrate to center or jar. When jar is full of loosely packed spinach, pour over boiling water or water in which spinach was boiled, diluted with enough boiling water to cover all the spinach in jars, and add 1 teaspoon each salt and vinegar. Put on tops rather tightly and process in hot water bath 2 hours, counting time after water boils vigorously over jars.

It is not recommended to process spinach by the cold pack method.

QUESTION: Thanks very much for the nice recipes you so kindly published and as soon as rhubarb appears in our stores I shall make the recipe you recommend.

I would be very glad if you could find time to print a recipe for Meat Loaf which can be used cold in the summer time for supper. I believe there is a very good one using ham and beefsteak, but no doubt you are familiar with others. A few of those would be a real help especially at the summer cottage when meals have to be got ready in a hurry for unexpected company. What use do you make of bologna, can it be used in a meat loaf to give variety?

Any help you give me along these lines would be greatly appreciated and I do get so much help from your page. Mrs. H. R. (Primrose).

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter:

Emem's Quality Loaf

Three pounds ground shoulder beef, ½-pound fat salt pork (ground with the beef), whites of 2 eggs beaten (or one whole egg beaten), 1 cup fine sifted cracker crumbs, ½-cup tomato juice, ½-cup hot water, ¼-teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce, a little catsup and cayenne and paprika may be added if desired. Horseradish is another optional addition. Mix all ingredients, adding the beaten egg or whites last. Pack into buttered pan (a ring mould is fine for when loaf is cooked and cooled it may be turned out on round chop plate and hole in centre filled with salad.) Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour—loaf in ring mould requires only about 50 minutes. This loaf may be extended by adding more crumbs, tomato juice and another egg.

There are some nice uses to which bologna can be put. In our house its chief popularity lies in sandwiches! Peter thinks a bologna sandwich is food for the gods! However, if you like the bologna flavor you could put sage and thyme in your meat loaf and extra black pepper, to simulate the flavor.

Purchase a good quality of bologna and slice it not to thinly and use it as the only meat item on a salad plate. Place slices of cucumber or tomato between the overlapping slices of bologna. Surround this with a border of lettuce or watercress and four small mounds of potato or cabbage salad. Serve hot cheese tea biscuits with it. This makes a nice economical company supper. The reason I would not suggest using bologna in a meat loaf is because it seems like an inexpert way of giving the loaf flavor, which could be had with spices.

Write asking specific questions so that we can be of the best use, whenever you need us.

One Year Old

Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. Holds Garden Party

The Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. Garden Party, held on the velvety green lawn of Miss Violet Davidson's home, was a delightful affair, largely attended.

The hostess, Miss Violet Davidson, and the Regent of the Chapter, Miss Anne Heideman, welcomed the guests.

Small tables, bright spots of color with their covers of green, turquoise, scarlet and yellow, were arranged at both sides and one end of the garden.

The candy table, at which containers in pastel shades, topped with crepe paper rosebuds, were sold, was under the direction of Miss Robert McWilliams. The flower table, displaying tiny pots lacquered in blue, white and Chinese red, and containing plants and flowers, was in charge of Miss Mary Mulholland.

The tea table, covered with a yellow linen cloth, was centred with a basket of yellow and mauve iris, and silver tea services were placed at each end. Tea was poured by Mrs. F. H. Hooper, Honorary Regent, Mrs. W. Comstock, Mrs. E. Borbridge and Mrs. R. S. Heideman. Assistants under the direction of the tea convenor, Miss Grace Comstock, were members of the Chapter and a number of their friends. Treasurer for the day, and seated at a table underneath an enormous orange and green umbrella, was Miss Lahring Parsons.

Fashion Show

The C.D.S. Fashion Show was again an interesting feature of the afternoon, and the charming models were Mrs. Wilfred Preston, Dorothy Finnie, Violet Davidson and Dorothy Marshall.

A carpet, laid the entire length of the garden, was the "boardwalk" on which the girls paraded to display their lovely frocks. Soft music was heard during the pageantry.

Blue, a lovely turquoise, was the shade of the first of a number of uncrushable heavy linen dresses shown, and was worn with a white lingerie blouse and gloves. The turquoise felt hat had a bit of wine grosgrain ribbon for trimming. Two-piece styles were favored. Short sleeves; narrow belts; box pleats, and action backs were popular features in this cool looking fabric, which also was shown in combinations of brown and white, or natural with brown trim. Two-tone shoes and bag added interest, and shallow-crowned leghorn hats, grand for hot weather, were banded to match the costume.

An inky blue dress, zippered in navy from waist to neckline, had pleats darting diagonally from the high neckline, and was worn with a wide-brimmed hat of rough black straw, inky blue ribbon encircling the crown.

Gay bathing suits, looking much too nice to swim in, were new and different. A printed blouse with detachable skirt was removed to display a one-piece bathing suit embroidered over with flowers, and beach shoes of blue cotton were worn. A two-piece culotte was of paisley design, and white shorts, pleated to resemble a short skirt, had a trimly tailored blouse.

Print Patterns

Afternoon dresses featured a vivid print patterned in navy, yellow and wine, with narrow green suede belt, and a navy net, its skirt appliqued with taffeta, and worn over a rustling taffeta slip, was shirred at the bodice, and had white flowers perched at the v-shaped neckline; a printed sheer with three-quarter length coat banded in white, was of brown and beige, and with it was worn a panama off-the-face hat with tiny veil. Brown and white shoes and bag completed the ensemble.

Printed cotton was the material used in romantic evening dresses, and the patterns were expressed in medium, large-sized or scroll-like florals, combining color combinations of dark grey and scarlet (scarlet flowers at the neckline), brown and white, or white on navy. Detachable boleros were worn over these dresses, which were backless (to display summer tan) save for narrow straps criss-crossed, or placed to give a square effect to the neckline.

The bridal and bridesmaids gowns, of particular interest this month of June, were exquisite creations. The taffeta, had a scroll design of corded taffeta trimming the skirt and short, puff-sleeved jacket. Tiny white flowers formed the hair ar- bridal frocks, of white net over rangement, and the bridal bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley.

A bridesmaid's frock of pink net, with shades of deeper hue in the organdy flowers at the neckline, had a tiny bolero; a gown in robin's egg blue was embroidered with a tracery of blue leaves on the bodice, and blue flowers were worn in the hair.

The final breath-taking dress shown was of heavy silk, and had a dainty floral design of delicate mauve and green on the white background. Tiny sleeves were so full that they stood up like old-fashioned leg-of-mutton sleeves. Enormous orchid flowers were at the neckline.

Charming Tea Cooking Sale

A very charming and successful tea and sale of home cooking was held at the home of Mrs. H. V. Dobson, Engleburn avenue, Wednesday afternoon, June 8, under the auspices of the St. John's Scout Group Auxiliary.

Owing to the unsettled weather, the affair was held in the house instead of in the garden, as had been arranged. The spacious rooms were lovely with a profusion of flowers.

The guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. Dobson, and Mrs. J. Cridland, the Auxiliary president. Members of the auxiliary acted as tea room assistant.

Mrs. Crocker and Mrs. Gynane were in charge of the home cooking table, and Mrs. Mae Grierson sold tickets on a tempting angel cake, which was won by Mrs. Wolstenholm with ticket number fifty-two.

W. L. A. Holds Banquet

The last meeting for this season of the Women's Liberal Association took the form of a banquet Wednesday evening, held in the Duffus Board room, with about fifty members present.

An event of the evening was the draw for a beautiful hooked rug. Little Betty Ferguson made the draw, and the rug was won by Miss Greta Dinsdale of Westcott Street.

The remainder of the evening was pleasanlty spent in bingo and other interesting games.

Shower Held For Bride-Elect

Mrs. (Dr.) J. W. Wright of Millbrook entertained at four tables of bridge on Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Doris Jean Bannister, B.A., a bride-to-be of next month, when her marriage to W. R. Howard, M.A., of Millbrook, takes place in Peterborough.

The outstanding feature of the evening was the presentation of a kitchen shower to the guest of honor. The hostess and Mrs. H. D. Bigelow brought in a large daintily-trimmed basket, overflowing with gifts, and placed it in front of Miss Bannister's chair. Immediately preceding the presentation, the bride-to-be was showered with confetti, and the pleasant task of opening the many parcels and reading the enclosed cards with their messages of goodwill, occupied a considerable period of time. The shower, which was a very complete one, followed a color scheme of cream and red.

A buffet lunch was served by the hostess, the table was lovely with a lace cloth, a service of silver, and was centred with a silver container of rose-colored peonies. Large vases of gold and purple iris were in the living-room and were much admired.

Mrs. J. E. Allen received the prize for high score in bridge, and was given a watered silk bag, in mulberry shade, for holding cosmetics; and the consolation prize went to Miss Bannister, a complete mending set.

Quilt Draw Made at Meeting

The monthly business meeting of St. John's Women's Friendly Bible Class was held recently in the Ladies' Parlors.

The president, Mrs. Dainton, opened the meeting with prayer. After the usual routine of business, it was decided an outing would be held on July 14 by taxi to Cobourg. The class will close on Sunday, June 19, and re-open September 11.

A draw for a quilt was made, the winner being Mrs. Street of Montreal, whose lucky ticket was number 50. The June birthday group is holding a social night at the home of Mrs. J. Bacon, 202 Edinburgh Street, on Monday, June 13.

The meeting closed with prayer, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Bassett and her committee.

Jolly Birthday Party

A jolly birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Parks, 270 McDonnel street, on Wednesday, when their little daughter Johann reached the age of five.

The table was pretty with its centrepiece of crystal filled with blue and yellow iris on a white linen cloth. A birthday cake, iced, and decorated with pink candles, occupied the place on honor in front of the little hostess.

After full justice had been done to the dainty eatables, the children spent a happy time playing games. Many useful gifts were presented to Johann.

Among the small guests present were: Maxine Gorman, Margaret Gorman, Marie Freidley, Verna Freidley, Marilyn McInroy, June MacGregor, Thelma MacGregor, Sylvia MacGregor, Douglas Underwood and Robert Parks.

Surprise Party For Mrs. A. Ellis

A delightful surprise party was given in honor of Mrs. A. Ellis, Gladstone Avenue, who is leaving shortly for a few months' holidays with relatives in England, by a number of her friends.

Following the presentation, a pleasant evening was spent in playing bingo, and dainty refreshments were served.

With Mrs. L. Coombs at the piano, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was sung.

Those present included Miss Ida Whinsett, Mrs. S. Leither, Mrs. H. Carter, Mrs. H. Collingwood, Mrs. E. Chambers, Mrs. L. Coombs, Mrs. J. Ridyard, Mrs. W. Pond, Mrs. E. Doleman, Mrs. F. Blaby, Mrs. E. Glover and Eleanor Glover.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland Guest Speaker

The Murray Street Women's Mission Circle held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors.

The guest speaker was Mrs. E. W. Rowland, and she chose for her subject, "The Compassionate Heart of Jesus." The speaker made reference to the Master's loving response to the sick, troubled and sinful during His time on earth, and spoke of such a need in the present-day world; presenting a challenge to the Christian, whose duty it is to face these needs.

It was planned to hold the annual picnic of the Circle on Wednesday afternoon, July 6, on the church lawn, and plans were also made to pack the bale of White Cross gifts for India during this week.

Reports were heard from convenors of committees in charge of arrangements for the Women's Missionary Convention held in the church last week. It was felt that the convention had been a very successful one, and the work of entertainment well carried out.

After the Scripture reading, read by Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Miss J. Jackson closed the meeting with prayer.

Muscial Cruise Presented

Rolling green waves of crepe paper, breaking against the deck of a ship equipped with anchors, life belts, maps, etc., and manned by a crew of gay sailors in white middies, caps and slacks was the novel manner in which the Musical Cruise was presented by Lily Bacon's pupils Tuesday night in St. John's Parish Hall.

The ship's captain, Arthur Bacon, was chairman, and announced the following numbers, in which the young artists demonstrated a thorough knowledge and keen aptitude of their subjects.

"Rendezvous" (Aletter) was played by Doreen and June Wallis, and as the ship set sail on its World Cruise, all joined in singing "O Canada." As they reached England, the "Land of Hope and Glory" was sung by the entire company. In Wales Billy Holland played "Land of My Fathers"; in Ireland "Harp Echoes" (Rolfe) was played by Vera Barnes; Jean Millard danced the Highland Fling in Scotland; Doreen Wallis played Debussy's "Clair de Lune" in France; June Blewett played Oberhardt's "German Legend" in Germany, and a duet, "Contra Dance" (Beethoven) was given by Betty and Barbara Wyatt. The "Norwegian Pastorale" (Petre) was played in Norway by Arlie Connell; a Russian gypsy melody "Two Guitars" (Peery) Lencre Fausett; Paderewski's "Minuet" for Poland, June Wallis; a slavish dance "Trinkaus" was played in Czechoslovakia by Betty Wyatt; in Hungary a "Hungarian Dance" (Gerard) was played by Jean Coleman; and in Austria a "Viennese Refrain" (arranged by Felton) by Barbara Wyatt.

"In the Alps" (Claffiin) was played in Switzerland by Barbara Ferguson; in Spain "A Spanish Dancer" (Adair) Mary Richardson; in Italy "Italian Doll" (Mueller) Jean Coleman; a Turkish March" (Biehl) was played in Turkey by Patricia Holland; in Egypt "Egyptian Parade" (Brown), Billy Holland; South Africa "Kikuyu" (African Intermezzo) Lenore Fausett; Indian "Indian Sunset" (Klemm) Violet Betts; China "In a Chinese Temple Garden" (Ketelbey) Arlie Connell; Japan "A Jolly Juggler of Japan" (Peyke) June Wallis; Australia "Country Gardens" (Grainger) Janet Kearns; Hawaii, guitar selections by Fred Kiff and Harry Murray. Vocal solos were given by Leslie Groombridge and by Ernest Lee; in Cuba "Havana Nights" (Cooke) Connie Nicholson; United States "Canzone Amorosa" (duet by Nevin), Connie Nicholson and Miss Bacon.

Returning to Canada, 'The Maple Leaf Forever' was sung in a chorus, followed by the National Anthem.

Clarke—MacFarlane

Saint Mary's Catholic Church, Young's Point, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Monday morning at 8 o'clock, when Mary Loretta MacFarlane, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William MacFarlane, and great-grand-daughter of Francis Young, the first settler of Young's Point, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. Father J. J. Garvey, to William Clark of Norwood.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Cornelius Young, of Toronto. The attendants were Miss Molly Young and Leo Young, Toronto.

Fry—Linn

The wedding took place in Centreville on Wednesday, June 1st, of Jessie Iren Linn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linn, Burnbrae, to Leo Fry, son of Mr. George Fry of Seymour Township. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. D. A. McKenzie.

The bride was gowned in a lovely dusty rose sheer crepe with matching accessories. Her only attendant was a sister, Miss Leafa Linn, R.N., of Peterborough. Linday Fry supported the groom.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Fry left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and on their return will reside on the groom's farm, English Line. For travelling the bride wore a gray tailored suit with navy hat and accessories.

Camp Meals To Cheer Heart Of Budget-Minded Director

By MARY MOORE

". . . at our church camp our advisor is a man and he thinks each meal should be different, so that the campers do not know what they are going to get, in which I heartily agree with him. The average child pays about eight to ten dollars for ten days of camp life, so we would like to see them all get a square deal and yet live within their income—a thing I am sorry to say has not yet been done—but now it has to. . . ."

The foregoing excerpt from a conscientious camp executive will give you an idea of what difficulties many camp staffs have to hurdle. The youngsters are constantly hungry, constantly interested in "When do we eat?" and expect (and deserve) this little glimpse of paradise they get once a year to yield heavenly food. And to do it, the directors well night have to work miracles.

Breakfasts

While we know full well that boxed cereals are used in camp because they are so easy to handle, porridge such as cornmeal or rolled oats or mixed whole grain porridge ground fine, should be given their places. Many camps run on a profitable basis served cooked cereals for breakfast because the campers like and ask for it. It takes less whole milk than boxed cereals do. Serve brown sugar with cereals.

Fruit Courses:: :

Tomato juice, stewed prunes, sliced or diced unpeeled, cored apples with whole milk (these when no cereal is served), berries in season, dates or raisins, bananas and sliced oranges, stewed figs, apple sauce, canned cherries, rhubarb. (Canned fruits can be purchased from wholesale grocers in No. 10 cans—106 oz.).

Breakfasts Excluding Cereals:

French Toast (use one beaten egg to each pint of milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar); buckwheat pancakes and corn syrup (this may be made thin enough to pour by adding hat water—is much cheaper than maple syrup unless some kind church members donate maple syrup); scrambled eggs on toast—extend these by adding very find crumbs to the beaten eggs—add ½ cup milk for each egg; bacon and hot cornbread or bran or blueberry muffins; fried cornmeal mush; eggs in the shell; poached eggs on toast.

Dinners:

If meat is served every other day that is quite sufficient for nourishing purposes,—however plenty of vegetables must be provided. Canned tomatoes and juice should be on hand at all times, as they are cheap and one of the best sources of vitamins and mineral salts.

The Roast Beef that is served Sunday (rump and rolled shoulder are most economical) should be held over until Tuesday for second serving when it can be sliced and reheated in gray or made into pies with onions, potatoes, and pastry crust.

When meat is roasted potatoes should be baked in the shell while the oven is hot (children should be urged to eat the skins), or pan roasted. A light vegetable such as spinach, stewed tomatoes, boiled onions, or cabbage slaw or apple and celery salad, should accompany a hot meat and potato dinner.

Good Combinations for Vegetarian Dinners:

Chopped Carrots with parsley and butter, Macaroni in tomato sauce, Creamed Onions, String Beans; Boston Baked Beans, Hot Bran Muffins, Cabbage, Celery and Nut Salad; Creamed Hard Cooked Eggs on Toast, Mashed potatoes, Spinach; Casserole of Rice Baked in Cheese Sauce, Baked Diced Beets or Baked Diced Squash with Bacon Drippings, mashed turnips, radishes and lettuce; Baked potatoes, corn, creamed celery and peas, carrot and cabbage salad.

Meat or Fish Dinners:

Roast Beef (rump or rolled shoulder as suggested above) with baked or pan roasted potatoes, spinach, boiled onions, stewed tomatoes, or salad accompaniment; serve this the second day following as a pie or sliced in gravy or in a hot sandwich restaurant style—the meat between two slices of bread, boiling hot gravy poured over all, and a mound of mashed potatoes on top; all that is needed with this is a generous serving of fresh fruit; Codfish cakes or creamed codfish on toast, scalloped tomatoes and onions, if oven is used for tomatoes and fish also bake potatoes, if not, boil potatoes quartered and coat them in parsley butter; Meat balls ground with 1 part fat salt pork to 4 parts meat and baked in tomato juice, baked whole parsnips, celery; Lamb Stew with vegetables — whole onions, sliced carrots, small potatoes, peas and turnips optional; Liver and onions, succotash; frankfurters, mashed potatoes, sauerkraut.

Dinner Desserts:

Jelly with sliced banas; stewed prunes and apricots combined; Open face raisin pie; Lemon snow; gingerbread; Blueberry pudding; hot applesauce cake; fruit cornstarch pudding; sliced oranges.

Supper Suggestions:

(Our particular correspondent says a vote has been given against soup—too much soup—so if some of you think I am passing it by too lightly that is the reason.) Spanish rice (sauted rice, with onions and tomatoes, simmered until thick), all bran muffins, baked apples, Milk, Split pea soup, crackers, cottage cheese, strawberry tarts, milk, sliced hard cooked egg and lettuce salad, apple Betty pudding, cocoa; baked beans and bacon, orange and prune fruit cup, milk; Welsh rarebit on toast, cabbage and tomato slaw, milk; Vegetable soup, hot tea biscuits, rice pudding with dates, milk; toasted cheese sandwiches, tomato jelly and lettuce, chocolate malted milk, tomato soup (cream of or puree), cornbread, canned cherries or peaches, milk.

Corn Chowder

Is another supper dish that is neither a soup or a solid, but fine flavored nourishing soup—I sincerely wish the director that objects to soup would listen to reason on this one dish, for youngsters love it so it is a shame to deny them.

Creamed Drief Beef or Creamed Salmon are both delicious meat dishes that can be economically prepared, and macaroni or spaghetti baked in casserole with tomato juice and plenty of cheese makes a supper dish that grown-ups will love too.

Trail Dinner:

It is well to plan a trail dinner: this can all be prepared ahead of time. Each hiker will carry a can of corn or lima beans,—sauteed and chopped bacon and water are added to the beans and corn and all is cooked together. Hungarian Goulash as it is fondly called is loved by every hiker that ever tasted it —if you like other ingredients put 'em in. Of course we sincerely hope these suggestions appeal to you and that your camp this summer is a success.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Sometimes I gain. sometimes I lose;
Sometimes I'm bruised, sometimes I bruise.
One day (in Yenchow style) YOU cheat,
Then I become the God Deceit.
We fool each other pleasantly,
And neither of us bends the knee.
You are your stern and proper self,
Who'd never sin . . . except for pelf,—
While I of course do nothing rash..
Except to earn a little cash.
Then let us trade—and do it gaily—
And pick each other's pockets daily."
—Song of the Shantung Trader.

Dear Friends:

Isn't it funny how we enjoy getting a bargain. We feel in a manner of speaking, that we are getting the best of someone, that the thing we trade our money for is worth far more, so we hurry home to gloat over this, and tell our friends how clever we were in buying.

And generally at the same time, the one who sold this to us is congratulating himself or herself on getting rid of a "sticker" something that has stuck around on the shelves or hung around on the racks so long they are tired of looking at it. So, they thought they got the best of the bargain, and the one who bought thought the same, and they were both well away in their trading.

So many want to get the best in every way from life. They forget that "what you lose on the horses you make on the merry-go-round", in other words what you gain one way you lose in another, and what you lose one way you gain in another. It's never losing all the time, any more than it can be gaining all the time.

So, let us trade with one another. "fooling each other pleasantly." I remember a funny experience I had in a store. I had never been in this particular store before, and I was looking for a particular kind of warm gloves, so I was shown a number of different kinds, until finally the proprietor came along and said he had just the thing I was looking for.

Well, I liked them, they fitted, and I asked the price. "He said, looking owlishly at me, "seeing it's you, I will give them to you for $1.49." I said, but you have never seen me before. And he retorted, "yes I have lady, yes I have, so I give you these gloves cheap, seeing it's you."

I started being haughty, then saw the humour of the thing, bought the gloves and took them home. When I was showing them to my daughter and telling her about "seeing it's you" when he had never saw me before. she said how much did you say you paid? I said $1.49. She laughed and said, the price tag says here, $1.25, so seeing it was you he charged you more.

It has been a standing joke with us ever since. If either of us comes home with what we fondly think is a bargain. the other is sure to say "seeing it's you" the man or woman let you have it for more. No I did not go back with the gloves, I had had too much fun being cheated.

And that is what we do all the time in a manner of speaking. We do not want to feel that we are giving more than we are getting. Of course you have to use common sense, your bump of humour must be well developed, so that you virtually say to your friend "seeing it's you" I will do this or that for you, and get a lot of kick in the doing of it.

You hear some grumble at the wages they get, but they never think of the time they waste. You hear others complain of how little they get for the wages they pay, never thinking how little these wages are. So, "seeing it's you" I shall look for a letter, and I don't want to be disappointed this time.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

BIRTH

MERRETT.—To Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Merrett, 508 Cross St. on June 9, the gift of a daughter, (Ann Isobel).

IN MEMORIAM

ROWLAND.—In fond and loving memory of Jack Hugo Rowland, who passed away on June 9, 1937.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him will keep green and never fade away.

ROWLAND.—In loving memory of a faithful son and dear brother, Jack Hugo Rowland, who died on June 9, 1937.
Rest in peace dear Jack,
You are safe in Heaven's Bower,
The day when we shall meet you,
Draws nearer every hour.
—Mother, Dad, Dorothy, Helen, Phyllis, Ferdinand.

NORTHEY.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. W. T. Northey, who died June 5, 1937.
We cannot say, we must not say,
That she is dead. She is just away,
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair,
It needs must be, since she lingers there,
So we think of her faring on, as dear,
In the love of There as the love of Here,
We think of her still as the same and say
She is not dead, she is just away.

MACH.—In memory of our mother, Mrs. James Mach, who passed away June 9, 1926.
Twelve years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Ever remembered by Bessie, Pearl and Sam.

Bushy Tail Saves Life of Fishing Vessel's Mascot

BOSTON, June 9 (CP) — The crew of the Gloucester, Mass., halibut fishing schooner Dawn today credited a chow dog's bushy tail with saving her life while the vessel was on a regular trip to the Grand Banks.

Captain Archie MacLeod, formerly of Cape Breton Island, said the Dawn, with a crew o f31, encountered bad weather soon after they left port. For 10 days the schooner was so beset by violent storms the men were unable to launch dories.

Patsy, chow mascot of the vessel, and her playmate, Kid, a Spitz owned by one of the crew, are good sea dogs and didn't mind the rough weather a bit. In fact, they liked it because it kept the fishermen aboard most of the time, and if there is anything the dogs like it is plenty of company.

One day the Dawn was jogging on the grounds waiting for a severe southeaster to let up before continuing fishing operations. Two of the crew, John McKay, formerly of Shelburne, N.S., and Edward Hewstis, formerly of Canso, N.S., were in the wheelhouse on watch, assisted by Patsy.

Without warning a giant wave heaved out of the sea on their starboard quarter, curled over the vessel and crashed to the deck with such force that a section of the starboard rail was carried away.

The deck was inundated under raging waters that raced aft, struck the wheelhouse with enough force to break all the windows and carry in the door. One of the door panels was ripped off as it flung against the wheel and Hewstis was struck a glancing blow in the back by the flying wood.

It happened so quickly that McKay was stunned for a moment but recovered his senses in time to see the beloved mascot being swept over the deck into the sea.

Two leaps and McKay was at the rail, just in time to grab Patsy's bushy tail as the dog was being swallowed up by the icy waters.

Hauled back on deck, the choking dog shook herself several times, licked McKay's hand in gratitude and then trotted back to duty in the wheelhouse.

Japan's Troops Cut Railway

After months of bitter fighting, Japanese troops reached and cut the strategic Lunghai Railway west of the Chinese city of Suchow on May 14, and these graphic photos from the front lines depict the culmination of the long campaign. At TOP Nipponese infantry and engineers are carrying explosives toward a bridgehead on the Lunghai line, and a few moments later the blast pictured BELOW, destroyed the bridge. The move was made in an effort to cut off retreat of troops defending Suchow. It failed, for though the invaders took Suchow, the majority of the defending troops were withdrawn safely.

Hardy Cottage Sold

DORCHESTER, England, June 9. —(AP) — The Moorland cottage where Thomas Hardy, the novelist, was born June 2, 1840, and which he wanted to remain the home "of an ordinary laborer living in an ordinary laborer's world," was sold today to a local farmer, P. F. Parsons.

The seller was Lady Hanbury, widow of Sir Cecil Hanbury. Before he died—on Jan. 11, 1928—Hardy had asked Sir Cecil to keep the cottage so it would be "taken no particular notice of by anybody, certainly not by sightseeing tourists."

School Children Present Musical In Apsley Hall

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, June 9.—The pupils of four schools in this district, namely, Apsley, No. 3, Burleigh, No. 6, Anstruther, and No. 2, Chandos, under the direction of the music supervisor, Mrs. G. Kilborn, presented "The Land of Dreams Come True," an operetta in three acts, in the Parish Hall, Apsley, on Saturday evening, before a delighted audience which filled the hall.

The dances and drills were executed with grace and precision, and evoked prolonged applause, while the tuneful melodies and choruses were excellently sung. At the close of the play the Rev. F. C. McMulkin voiced the appreciation of the audience to Mrs. Kilborn for her painstaking and successful work, who in her reply paid a warm tribute to the teachers for their co-operation, and for their contribution in making the costumes.

On Friday evening the Apsley Players gave a performance of their play, "The Road Back," in the Town Hall at Coe Hill, in aid of the Red Cross Outpost Hospital there. The play met with an enthusiastic reception, the sum of $35 being realized. At the close the cast was provided with dainty refreshments at the Outpost by the staff.

Looking Back
On This Date

JUNE 9

Today is the 55th birthday of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. On June 9, 1883, George J. Maulson issued a circular letter calling a meeting of persons engaged in the grain and provision trades to "consider the advisability of organizing an association to protect our mutual interests." A meeting was held and a provision committe elected. At a second meeting 25 business men subscribed $5 each toward preliminary expenses and if nature had been kinder the venture might have been a success. But 1883 was a very bad year. An early frost killed the crops on the Portage Plains and on the "Big Plain" (Carberry), discouraging the early settlers and giving the country a bad name in the east, which was continued by the experiences of 1884 and 1885, while in 1886 there was no rain from seeding to October, a sad setback for those who had just broken the prairie at Qu'Appelle, Regina and Moose Jaw.

Fred Williams

But 1887 brought a change. Manitoba produced 10,000,000 bushels of wheat and Saskatchewan 4,000,000 more. Then the grain exchange was revived. D. H. McMillan (afterwards Sir Daniel, lieutenant-governor) was elected president, G. F. Galt, vice-president, and C. N. Bell, secretary, and the membership fee was fixed at $15 per annum, which was in time increased to $25. $50, and then $100. During the boom years of a decade ago the price of membership was fixed at $50,000, but I think the highest fee ever paid was $35,000, while total trading of $6,500,000 in 1889 has since been increased a hundred times. All the pioneers of the exchange have gone.

The port of Vancouver, then in its infancy, welcomed 45 years ago today (June 9, 1893), the Miowera, the first steamship of the Canadian-Australian Steamship Company to trade between Vancouver and Australia. She was not a big ship; but she was comfortable. A good vessel all round and was on the route for many years, doing much to open up that phase of intra-empire trade which has done so much for Vancouver.

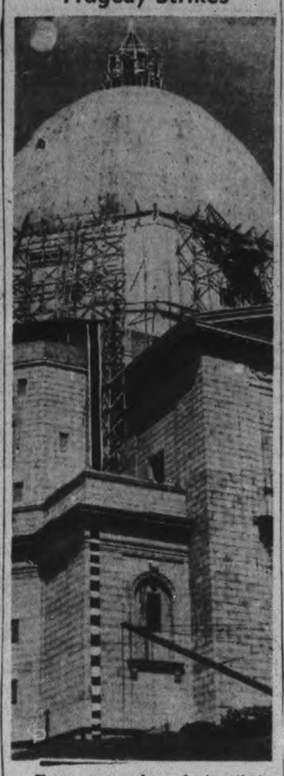
Tragedy Strikes



Four men plunged to their deaths as they rode an elevator down the 300-foot shaft of the dome that crowns Brother Andre's $1,000,000 shrine, St. Joseph's Oratory, Montreal. The men fell to their deaths when a beam, supporting the hoist, shifted, plunging the men nearly 60 feet. The black line, ABOVE, shows where the elevator fell to the church's main floor. One of the victims, plunged through the floor of the hoist and again through the wooden flooring of the church, as indicated by the broken line.

MR. JUSTICE KRUSCHEN IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

Rheumatic Pains Gone

Welcome Reformation

JUDGE CONGRATULATES EX-PRISONER

"I remember your case very distinctly and I congratulate you on your recovery. I hope you now realize how serious your crime—rheumatic pains—was and how easily it can be avoided."

The judge then added that if the few remaining foolish people would only realize that a little daily dose of Kruschen Salts is as necessary to cleanliness as soap and water there would be fewer aches and ailments. There would be less suffering from the pains of rheumatism, neuritis, gout, sciatica or lumbago. Constipation would be on the wane and there would be fewer cases of getting run-down, and far less likelihood of catching colds.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. OTTAWA RULES TROOPS MAY BE FASCIST

Urge Ottawa Control Employment

Proposal Follows Patronage Charge By Bennett

OTTAWA. June 10 — (CP) — A move to place employment services under federal control would find support on both sides of the House of Commons but only if federal jurisdiction over other aspects of the employment problem, such as insurance, hours and wages were included.

This was made evident in debates yesterday over the labor estimates. Labor Minister Rogers was pressed for an opinion on this point and agreed that better results would come from a unified dominion control of these matters. He agreed that politics had been played in the employement offices of various provinces, to which the Federal Government contributes.

C. H. Cahan (Con. St. Lawrence-St. George) said the time would come when the Dominion would have to either acquire such control or withdraw its financial support from unemployment relief activities.

During the afternoon the house wrangled over Labor estimates with opposition leader Bennett and Mr. Rogers renewing their old dispute over the former's charges of political partisanship in relief employment jobs.

Anti-climax came when the evening session convened at eight o'clock. It had been announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the house would not observe the King's birthday but last night so many members absented themselves that there was no quorum and so a half holiday was declared.

Only 17 Members Present.

It was the first time in many years the House has been forced to adjourn because of lack of a quorum which requires 20 members, including the Speaker. After waiting about 10 minutes, Opposition Leader Bennett read the rule governing such cases and a count of heads revealed only 17 members present. Mr. Speaker Casgrain adjourned the House until today over the suggestions of several that time be permitted to summon more members.

A brilliant military display by the Governor - General's Footguards carrying out the ceremony of trooping the colors on the Parliament Building lawn was apparently the attraction that caused so many members to play truant.

When the vote of $63,925 for administration of the Employment Offices Co-ordination Act was under consideration, Mr. Bennett said he believed the Minister "should be made aware of the fact these offices have become purely partisan establishments."

"The men who occupied positions in them were dismissed when he came to office. That, in my opinion, is exactly contrary to what was intended when this statute was enacted.

"In good times no one bothers much about patronage and partisanship, but in days like these it is

Boston, June 10—(CP). A $10,000,000 estate was left by a Canadian-born woman, Mrs. Phoebe K. Higgins, who died here last Sunday.

Born in Saint John, N.B., she left there at the age of 27, and later married Frederick J. Kennedy, who built up a fortune on a chain of clothing stores. She was 74 when she died, seven years after Kennedy, who left her his millions.

Patterson Looks For 2 New Cabinet Men

REGINA, June 10—(CP)—With two deferred constituency elections more than six weeks away, Premier Patterson of Saskatchewan turned today to cabinet questions.

Faced with two vacancies in his government through defeat of Hon. C. M. Dunn, Minister of Highways, in Wednesday's election and retirement of Hon. George Spence, Minister of Public Works, early decision on new appointments was expected.

Final results of the election showed the Liberals with 36 seats in the ninth legislative assembly with an opposition of 14.

The opposition is composed of 10 C.C.F. members under George H. Williams, official opposition leader; two Social Credit members, a Union Progressive and an Independent.

Result of the deferred elections in Cumberland and Athabaska on July 26 will have no effect on the Liberal administration which was re-elected with a reduced majority in the house of 52 members.

Possibility of a recount in Melville constituency where Mr. Dunn was defeated by J. F. Herman, Social Credit, still lingered. Mr. Dunn so far has made no announcement about petitioning for a recount.

Appointments to the cabinet without changing the portfolios of other members is possible although a shuffle may be made.

Date for the first caucus of the newly-elected Liberal members has yet to be decided.

Last Minute News Flashes

OTTAWA—Appointment of high commissioners to one or more of the autonomous dominions of the empire is under consideration and action may be taken shortly, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

Paris, London To Fight Air Pirates

French Heads Warn Central Europe Situation Delicate

LONDON, June 10—(CP)—Great Britain, fully backed by France, concentrated today on finding practical means of stopping Spanish Insurgent raids on Anglo-French shipping.

Georges Bonnet, French Foreign Minister, was reported to have told Sir Iric Phipps, British Ambassador in Paris, that France was willing to cooperate with London in "extreme measures" to combat the Mediterranean air pirates who have sunk or damaged at least 15 neutral ships in two weeks.

Sir Eric was believed to have reported to London that M. Bonnet was indignant at the attack yesterday on the French freighter Brisbane at Denia in which seven persons were killed and eight wounded.

Britons, too, were shocked by the series of attacks reported yesterday—the machine-gunning of the British freighter Stanray when a lone Insurgent plane bombed and destroyed much of the British-owned Port of Gandia Wednesday, the wrecking of the British freighter Isadora off Castellon De La Plana, and the attack reported by the Spanish Government on an unidentified ship of Spanish registry off Benicasim with a loss of 12 killed and 19 wounded. The Stanray attack, reported only yesterday, resulted in no casualties.

The piratical attacks continued today with the sinking at Gandia of a two-masted Spanish schooner and the destruction of the main warehouse of the British-owned port.

Dangerous Weekend Ahead:

Adding to concern here, the French Foreign Minister was said to have told the British Ambassador he considered the Spanish problem "urgent," especially since Czechoslovakia's final municipal elections Sunday held promise of a dangerous weekend in Europe.

Reliable quarters in Paris reported Stephan Osusky, Czechoslovak Minister to Paris, told Mr. Bonnet before he left for Praha that the Central European situation was delicate.

A Lone Raider Returns

MADRID, June 10 (AP)—A lone insurgent air raider, flying an Italian-made Savoia seaplane, again bombed Alicante, Denia and the British-owned port of Gandia today. The British freighter Thorpehall, which was bombed three days ago at Alicante, again was struck and started sinking stern first.

The civilian section of Alicante, which previously had suffered one of the worst bombardments of the war from a fleet of insurgent air raiders, again was battered. Details, however, were not immediately available. At Gandia the "phantom" raider, repeating his practice of striking about midnight, destroyed the main warehouse of the British-owned port and sank a small Spanish coastal schooner.

Baptist Charges R.C's Seeking To Run Ontario

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 10—(CP)—Rev. H. C. Wilkinson of Temple Baptist Church, Ottawa, told delegates to the Ontario- Quebec Baptist Convention here today the Roman Catholic Church is seeking to control all public institutions in Ontario "as it has in Quebec."

He quoted Cardinal Villeneuve of Quebec as saying: "In Quebec the church is mistress of all public institutions." Mr. Wilkinson said: "We who know of Quebec know that is largely correct. The Roman Catholic Church is seeking the same power in Ontario, and don't mistake it."

The Ottawa Minister, who also is pastor of First Baptist Church at Hull, Que., said Protestantism "arose at a time when the church had need to protest against violation of its freedom and it seems to me there is need today for just as strong a protest against the same violation of our spiritual and religious liberties in Christ."

An Example to Follow?

Mr. Wilkinson suggested the Baptist Church might "take a leaf out of the Roman Catholic book" by making every effort to have its children remain within the church.

"We in the Baptist Church allow our children to go and then wonder as they grow up why we lose them," he said.

"In the church of Rome we see a church which struts about in the garb of Christian Doctrine. We must bring to work al ithe mental

2 Cents Worth of Cod Feeds Whole Family

OTTAWA, June 10. — (CP). — What happens to a Canadian codfish after it reaches the West Indies is described in a report presented to the House of Commons:

"The largest number of individual purchases of dried and pickled fish in the West Indies are made by the colored population. The average retail purchase is one or two cents worth.

"The majority of the retail stores have a large square chopping block, counter high, on which they place a codfish and then proceed to cut it up with a heavy meat cleaver. The choicest part of the fish brings a higher price than the thinner parts. As a rule every portion is sold including the tail.

"The two cents worth of fish is used as the basis of a stew to which is added rice and beans. The whole dish does not cost more than five cents and in a good many cases feeds a large family and does for more than one meal."

Toronto O.C's Ban Is Reversed

Had Barred Recruit Being Soldier And Party Cohort

TORONTO, June 10.—(CP)—Col. F. E. Odlum, officer commanding the Toronto Scottish Regiment, said today one of his company commanders told a recruit he could not belong to the fascist party and be a member of the unit, but that an order from Ottawa overruled this.

"This man in our regiment had been receiving a certain amount each day from the fascists for picking up their mail in the morning and delivering it to their office," said Col. Odlum.

"When his company commander told him he could not belong to both, this chap apparently went back to the fascists headquarters and told them he could not stay in the militia if he joined the party.

"The fascists wrote the commanding officer stating their aims and objects—a letter which I now have on file. This letter was referred to me. The letter went to headquarters here and on to Ottawa. Eventually I got a reply from Ottawa advising me there were no regulations prohibiting a man joining this group.

A Free Country

"It must be remembered this is a free country and a militia man can act and think as he sees fit so long as he observed the laws of the land and the rules and regulations of the army.

"I know the fascist party is anxious to have men with military training. They are a semi-military organization, so a man with military training is of greater benefit than a civilian. I don't know, however, of any of my men who belong to the fascist party."

(Five non-commissioned officers and men of the 7th Toronto Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, attended in uniform a fascist meeting here last Monday night at which Adrien Arcand, Montreal, was speaker. The soldiers gave the fascist salute to the fascist leader. An investigation now is being conducted by the officer commanding the regiment).

England Assumes Strong Position First Day's Play

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., June 10 — (CP Cable)—England's heavy artillery slashed out 422 runs for loss of four wickets in the opening day's play of the first test cricket match against Austria today. The initial contest of the five-game series is being played on Nottinghamshire's ground at Trent Bridge.

Scoring 174 runs for three wickets at the tea interval, England's test cricketers assumed a strong position in the opening day's play of the first match with Australia today. At lunch the Mother country had obtained 169 runs without loss.

C. J. Barnett, Gloucestershire, and Leonard Hutton, Yorkshire, thrilled a crowd at Trent Bridge that increased to more than 20,000 after lunch by hitting centuries and putting on 219 runs for the first wicket. The former made 126 in a shade less than three hours, his 21-year-old colleague obtaining an even hundred in three hours, 20 minutes.

William Edrich succeeded Barnett but was bowled by W. J. O'Reilly after scoring five runs. Walter Hammond, England's captain, and Edward Paynter, Lancashire, defied the Aussies until the tea hour, making 20 and 7 respectively.

U.S. Army Plane Hit By Bolt Crashes, 8 Die

DELAVAN, Ill., June 10 (AP) — Eight United States Army Air Corps men were killed to-day in the crash of a huge army bomber on the Youle farm north of here during a brief but violent storm.

Miss Laura Youle said she believed the craft was struck by lightning.

"There was an explosion, debris flew in the air and the ship came down about a half mile from our farmhouse," she said. "It fell on muddy ground. Wings and fuselage were badly torn. At least seven bodies were strewn around, some wearing unopened parachutes, and one was still in the plane."

An army bomber carrying three officers and five enlisted men was missing on a routine flight from Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., to Denver, Colo. Air Corps authorities at Rantoul would not say definitely the crashed plane was the missing bomber; but admitted they had been out of communication with the ship for hours.

"My brother Carey," said Miss ed to the spot where they saw the to to the spot where they saw the ship crash. I ran out also and saw bodies lying all around the ship. The winds of the plane were smashed and everything seemed to have been torn apart.

"Some of the bodies seemed to have parachutes attached to them. They were unopened. At least one body was still in the ship.

"I was unable to tell whether the bodies were those of men or women, because the wings and fuselage were smashed. I was unable to tell the ownership of the plane. We came back to the house and telephoned the sheriff's office at Pekin."

Plan No Election Results Till All Polls Close Across Dominion

Ottawa Committee Also Would Bar Vote To Employees In Temporary Public Works' Camps

OTTAWA, June 10 (CP).—The special House of Commons committee on electoral matters today unanimously adopted a motion favoring the general principle of forbidding the publication of any federal election results until the polls have closed in all parts of the Dominion.

The committee agreed it was wrong that Western Canada Voters going to the polls could vote with the knowledge of what the trend of results in Eastern Canada indicated.

There were several suggestions as to how the recommendation could be made effective. The chief ones were:

1. Extension of polling hours in Eastern Canada.
2. Delaying of counting in Eastern Canada.
3. Making it an offense to communicate the result of the vote at any pole until all polls in Canada were closed.

No Vote For Camp Workers

Persons temporarily resident in a federal constituency because of employment on public works, or as a resident in any camp temporarily established in connection with such works, would become ineligible for a vote in that constituency under a new clause inserted in the draft bill by unanimous vote.

The clause reads: "No person shall, for the purpose of this act, be deemed ordinarily resident at the date of the issue of the writ in an electoral district to which such person has come for the purpose of engaging temporarily in the execution of any public work, or as a resident in any camp temporarily established in connection with any public work under government control located in such electoral district."

John MacNicol (Con. Toronto-Davenport) raised the issue of the publication of election results before the polls are closed all over the Dominion. There should be some way of preventing voters in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia being influenced by Maritime results. He suggested the Maritime polls might be closed an hour later and the western polls an hour earlier.

Foresees Trouble.

Chairman Charles Bothwell (Lib. Swift Curent) said it might be made an offence under the Election Act to publish any results in any province until the polls in that province are closed. He foresaw trouble if election officials were required to withhold results until an hour that would be uniform over Canada.

"If we had six or seven candidates, each with two scrutineers, we just couldn't compel secrecy as to the result at polls for a couple of hours after voting ended," he said.

Hon. Hugh Stewart (Con. Leeds) said the principle of the secrecy of the ballot was firmly established. It would be an extension of this principle if results were required to be withheld until polls were closed all over Canada.

"It is certainly an abuse to have a partisan send a wire to British

McCall Admits Cash Boy's Kidnap-Murder

MIAMI, Fla., June 10 (A.P.). — J Edgar Hoover, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced to-day Franklin Pierce McCall had confessed the entire Cash kidnap and that he killed five-year-old James Bailey Cash, Jr.

Hoover said McCall's admission detailed that he stole the boy from his bedroom while he slept. He placed a handkerchief over the child's mouth and another over his eyes and took him to the McCall home, where he found the boy was dead.

McCall had no confederates at any stage of the case, Hoover reported.

McCall said he thought at first the boy still was asleep, Hoover declared, but when he found after about 15 minutes he was dead, he took the child in his arms and ran and walked to a spot in the woods near his home with which he was well acquainted from hunting trips.

There he flung the body into a dense thicket where it was found early yesterday morning.

Having disposed of the body, Hoover continued, McCall returned to his home to get the first of three ransom notes which he had written in advance.

Then, despite the death of the little victim, he took it to the shack of a negro, John Emanuel. Disguising his voice, McCall tried to persuade the negro to take it to James Bailey Cash, Sr. When Emanuel became frightened and fled, McCall placed it under his door.

Semagraph Produces Type Automatically Via Wire

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP). — A man sitting in the New York offices of the Associated Press operated a linotype machine in Charlotte, N.C., last night.

All he did was punch the keys of a typewriter and feed his copy into a metal transmitting device. The result was type, set in column-width, in the office of the Charlotte Observer, 611 miles away.

The device, caled semagraph, is the invention of Buford L. Green, veteran of 26 years' service in the Observer composing room. He perfected the semagraph after 12 years of work, with the co-operation of John O. White, mechanical supervisor of the Observer; W. T. White, and the financial backing of Curtis B. Johnson, the publisher.

The typewriter used in New York was a standard machine which, each time it struck off a letter, also printed a "code" figure of one to six dots. Each line of copy contained five to seven words, the number that appears in a line of type one column wide.

The pages of this copy were fed into a transmitter in which a photo-electric cell picked out the coded dots—the letters—and sent corresponding impulses over the wire to Charlotte.

Unit On Linotype.

There, in the Observer composing room, a standard Associated Press printer, equipped with special type bars, reconverted the impulses into letters and their accompanying code dots.

This sheet, identical with the original in the New York office, went into the semagraph unit attached to a linotype, and another photo-electric cell transformed the dots into impulses that operated the typesetting machine.

Ten thousand words were transmitted in the first long-distance test of the equipment, and type was produced in Charlotte at the rate of seven lines a minute.

Johnson, who supervised the New York end of the demonstration, said he thought the semagraph would not result in displacement of labor.

"The semagraph is just another advance in progress, such as have made American industry the greatest in the world."

Santa Fe, N.M., June 10.

NEW MEXICO State Penitentiary physicians sought means today of removing a five-inch knife blade lodged three months in the brain of a 32-year-old negro convict. Columbus George said he suffered the injury last March. He lost an eye, but the fact the knife blade had broken off in his head was not discovered until a month ago. Physicians explained the steel had passed through the "silent part" of the brain and had not affected speech, movement or thought.

Jap Troops Cut Hankow Railway

SHANGHAI, June 10 (AP). — Japanese cut the Peiping - Hankow railroad for the first time south on the Yellow River today and launched an attack on Chengchow against feeble resistance as their drive inland through the heart of China gained momentum.

Chengchow is the junction of the Peiping-Hankow railroad, main link between Hankow, China's provisional capital, and the central front, and the east-west Lunghai railroad, the western end of which the Japanese already have captured.

Hankow-Chengchow traffic was halted when a Japanese raiding column blew up a bridge south of Chengchow.

Although the Japanese, swiftly closing in toward the junction from the sandy plains southeast of the city, were meeting heavy Chinese fire, it was believed the defenders merely were fighting a rear-guard action.

Most of the Chinese forces were said to have withdrawn to the south, first to defend arsenals in the path of Japan's westward offensive, and, secondly, to make their stand in more mountainous country where Japan's highly mechanized forces would have less advantage.

Chinese bombing planes sank a Japanese warship at Kweichen, on the Yangtse River, with a direct hit, a Chinese communique reported.

General Chiang Kai-Shek, in the face of military adverses, declared China was closer than ever to "ultimate victory," and appealed to all friendly nations to aid China with trade boycotts, arms embargoes and other measures against Japan.

London Juror's Car Impounded

LONDON, Ont., June 10 (CP).—The first man in London district to have his car impounded under the new law that went into force June 7, was Austin Stiltz, 51-year-old farmer of R.R. 2, Ilderton, who pleaded guilty in city court today to a charge of being in charge of a car while intoxicated.

Magistrate Donald Menzies sentenced Stiltz to seven days in jail and ordered his car seized and impounded for three months.

Stiltz came to London to act as a juror at the June Session of the Peace for Middlesex County, now being held by Judge Wearing at the Courthouse. He was found sleeping in his car on the night of June 7, the day the law became effective.

Bonds Are Stronger

TORONTO, June 10 (CP).—Saskatchewan bonds advanced 2 to 4 points in the Toronto market today on the election news from that province. In recent weeks quotations had weakened.

The stronger note in the western oil share market today was also attributed by some brokers to "diminishing fear" of further regimentation of the oil industry.

Saskatchewan six per cent., 1952 bonds, the 5½ October '52's and the 5 per cent. August '58's are up 2 to 3 points, and the 4 per cent. '55 are up about 4 points from Wednesday's quotation. There was no buying rush, however, bond dealers report.

Witness Shot, One Abducted In Kentucky Labor Trial

LONDON, Ky., June 10—(AP)—The shadow of the slaying of a prospective witness and the sensation of a reported attempt to kidnap a miner who has already testified hung over the proceedings of the Harlan labor trial here today.

Both the slain man and the purported kidnap victim were under government subpoenas for the duration of the trial and, hence, technically under the protection of the federal district court. Both were active in Harlan county union affairs.

C. N. Noland, chief deputy sheriff, of Harland county said Lester Smithers, 30, was shot to death at Guilston, Ky., and two brothers, Verlin Fee, 29, and Clyde Fee, 27, were held at Harlan in connection with the slaying.

Nolan said Verlin Fee told him the shooting followed an argument "about the union." Smithers was a former president of the Yancey, Ky., local of the United Mine Workers of America.

George Titler, a field representative of the United Mine Workers of America, reported to agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation last night that three men forced John Isom, a union organizer, to drive in their automobile from Cumberland, Harlan County, Ky., to a nearby mining camp.

Titler said he supplied the agents with descriptions of the men Isom said abducted him.

Grabbed in Restaurant.

Titler reported the men took Isom from a restaurant and shoved him into their car after calling him a "Damn Union Man."

Kincardine, June 10—(CP).

WILfred NORMAN, employed on highway construction work here, undertook to stand on the seat of his motorcycle, his arms akimbo, and ride through the town's main street.

In this Magistrate F. W. Walker today concurred, and fined Norman $10 and costs of $5.25, as well as suspending his permit for thirty days.

Isom told Titler, the latter said, that the men remarked about his having been a government witness here. When Isom denied his identity the men decided to take him to Harry Bennett, General Manager of the Harlan Central Coal Company, Titler said.

Isom escaped when the automobile stopped at a home in the camp where the men sought to identify him, Titler recounted.

Isom testified several days ago that he lost his job with the Harlan Central Company after he was called before the Federal Grand Jury which returned the indictment against the 66 Harlan County Coal Corporations, coal operators and present or former peace officers now on trial here.

Hunt Others In Florida Kidnap Case

Note Writer Silent On Abduction, Ransom a Puzzle

MIAMI, Fla., June 10 —(AP)— Authorities sought to learn today whether the kidnap - slaying of James Bailey Cash, Jr., was a one-man crime. While plans went forward for bringing Franklin Pierce McCall of Princton to trial, federal agents apparently continued a hunt for possible accomplices.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said the 21-year-old McCall had admitted writing the three ransom notes and collecting the $10,000 paid by the boys' father, but was silent about the actual abduction.

At Princeton, the parents prepared to bury their five-year-old only child, whose body was found early yesterday, 12 days after he was stolen from the Cash home.

Recovery of all but $5 of the ransom money, $9,750 from one place and $245 from another, presented a puzzling angle which Hoover did not explain.

Other than to remark "the investigation will actively continue," Hoover withheld comment on the course the probe was taking. There were unconfirmed reports at least two persons in addition to McCall were held at F.B.I. headquarters.

The Miami Herald said McCall's pretty wife, Claudine Evelyn McCall, and her mother, Mrs. Joseph Hilliard, spent six hours at the headquarters yesterday and left in the company of agents.

Circuit Judge Arthur Gomez called a special Grand Jury session Monday morning to consider any charges State Attorney George A. Worley may bring against McCall. Hoover said no Federal law was involved in the case. Florida provides a death penalty for kidnapping for ransom, however. A jury has the perogative of recommending mercy, in which case a sentence of life imprisonment is mandatory.

The former Jasper High School athlete was held without charge while at the F.B.I. office.

Senate Proposes To Kill Farm Credit Act

OTTAWA, June 10 (CP).—A proposal to kill the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act at the end of this year except in Saskatchewan and Alberta will come before the House of Commons shortly. The Act, passed in 1934, was designed to give farmers relief from oppressive debt burdens.

The proposal was endorsed in the Senate last night when the members refused, by a vote of 33 to 13, to kill a committee amendment making the bill inoperative after December 31, 1938, except in the two provinces.

Senator J. W. Farris (Lib., Vancouver) attempted to reverse the committee decision but his move was defeated and the Senate gave third reading to a government bill, originating in the House of Commons, which makes several technical changes in the Act.

In a busy day the Senate gave its final decision on the F.C.A. amendment, rejected a resolution which would have divested it of divorce-granting powers and gave third reading to the government bill making $30,000,000 available for loans to municipalities for self-liquidating works. It also gave third reading to a government bill setting up a $350,000 revolving fund to be loaned to Indians to buy cattle and farm implements.

Conservative Leader Meighen, speaking on the Indian measure, said the government would be lucky to get back any of the money loaned Indians. He told of cases where cattle had been furnished Indians and had been eaten. Bulls had been later found being used as oxen and many had been killed.

Plane Orders Years Ahead Loom For Canada

Control Company For All Canadian Plants May Handle British Contracts

OTTAWA, June 10 (CP).—First fruits of the visit made recently to the United States and Canada of the British air mission, headed by Commander J. G. Weir, have resulted in an order for 400 American machines.

With this announcement in London was joined the statement yesterday that the British government would place contracts for other aircraft in Canada.

This follows the line indicated by Commander Weir when, in Ottawa, he said that if such orders were given they would be on a long term basis, while deliveries from the United States might have to be made speedily. The prospect has become more definite of the Canadian aircraft construction industry becoming securely established, with orders assured for years ahead.

Co-ordination of the activities engaged in by the Canadian companies, of whom there are about a dozen, will, it is believed, be a natural corollary to their United Kingdom connection. To achieve this it is understood establishment of a controlling company is under consideration. This "super-structure" will be internally financed, and its job will be to divert the orders for different types of machines to the concerns best equipped to handle them, and also to ensure continuity of supply.

Use Cost-Plus Plan.

Contracts will eliminate the "profiteering" element in that they will follow the cost-plus plan now current in Canadian Defence Department programs and the general practice in the United Kingdom.

Authorities of the National Defence Department continue reticent on the matter of British aircraft orders. It is indicated these are affairs entirely between the British Government and the Canadian industry. The Department has facilitated contact between the two by obtaining from the Canadian manufacturers exhaustive memorandas dealing with the capacity, equipment, and personnel of their plants. This was placed at the disposal of Commander Weir and his colleagues when they visited Ottawa last month.

Heavy Service Fighters.

No estimate could be placed on the potential value of the contemplated orders for Canadian machines, officials indicated. Information was lacking both as to quantity and type. However, it is understood the Canadian industry will be called upon for the heavy service fighting plane, similar in construction to those manufactured in Great Britain.

For the most part the Canadian plants are running under capacity and are in a position to begin work immediately on contracts from the United Kingdom. It is also understood that necessary special metals used in the construction of special types of planes, and not hitherto produced in Canada, will be furnished in this country.

The British Air Ministry's statement is regarded as a logical step following the course of events in the past two months. Dissatisfaction in the United Kingdom with the slowness with which the aircraft rearmament program was being proceeded with prompted the despatch to the United States and Canada of Commander Weir's Commission.

Baptists Appalled By Rise Of "Isms"

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 10. —(CP).—Rev. R. G. Quiggin of Owen Sound, Ont., told Ontario and Quebec Baptists in convention here, during discussion on possibility of union of the Baptist church with other denominations, that Christianity needs "a vehicle by which it can express itself on world issues."

Mr. Quiggin expressed this view last night as the convention adopted, except for one paragraph, a report by the committee on the state of religion and convention welfare. The paragraph dealt with the possibility of union of the Baptist church to other bodies and will be considered by a special committee.

"We wanted you to discuss that question," Mr. Quiggin told delegates, in urging the possibility of "one united Protestant front." Mr. Quiggin added: "We are appalled to-day to see Nationalism giving place to Fascism and Communism. We have always been opposed to war, but now instead of a negative and passing opposition we see the rise of a more positive opposition."

A prospective deficit of $26,000 for this year was reported by the Foreign Mission Board, despite increased receips for the first half of the year. Rev. H. E. Stillwell, Toronto, General Secretary of the Board, will resign next year, it was announced, to be succeeded by Rev. John B. McLaurin, now a missionary in India.

Plan No Election

Columbia to say Maritimes voters are all going Conservative, as they probably will at the next election, or to say they are all going Liberal as they did at the last election," he said. "I think it has an effect."

People were often persuaded in by-elections that it was in their interest to vote with the Government, said Mr. Stewart. The same principle might influence Western voters if Eastern Canada results were all one way.

The Story in Vancouver.

Hon. Grote Stirling (Con. Yale) said that in 1930 a newspaper in Vancouver at three in the afternoon, three hours before the polls closed in British Columbia, published stories concerning New Brunswick results. Undoubtedly the vote in Vancouver and district was influenced.

"It is worse to-day because of broadcasting," he said. "Details of how to prevent the news being spread will be difficult."

James Turgeon (Lib. Cariboo) said that in the 1925 general election all voting in Vancouver was at schools. Voters entered the school grounds through gates.

"At one p.m. there was a newspaper published that told of a Tory landslide in New Brunswick. It was sold at gates through which the voters had to pass. Everyone went to the polls after three p.m. with the impression the Liberal Party was annihilated in the East. I would give a great deal to remedy the situation. There is an unfairness, but I can't see what Parliament can do that won't rankle as an injustice in the minds of the people."

Maritimes people might not want to wait until four hours after their polls had closed to know results, said Mr. Turgeon.

(There is four hours difference in time between the Maritimes and British Columbia on standard time.)

Mr. Stewart made a formal motion that the committee go on record as favoring the prohibition of the publication of results in any province until polls were closed all over Canada, publication to mean the conveying of information with respect to the result of the vote at any poll.

The committee could decide later if the results were to be achieved by staggering voting hours or by withholding publication until a uniform time.

Mr. Turgeon said closing the polls at five o'clock in British Columbia would not please the workers. They might have to lose time from work.

Chairman Bothwell said the committee today should content itself with endorsing the general principle of doing something to prevent electors in one part of Canada knowing before they voted the results of the same election in another part of Canada.

The committee agreed it would take a lot of study to work out a feasible way to bring about its recommendation and the members said they would bring their suggestions for a detailed clause in the Election Act to the next meeting.

Year Of Faithful Service.

Another year of faithful service "rendered by all the workers from Hull to Moncton" was reported by Rev. Aubrey W. Small, board secretary.

Through the "Canadian Baptist," the Mission Board's annual report sent to all churches, "our many friends in the churches have been able to keep in close touch with the ongoings of our missionaries through the year," the report said, adding: "We confidently count on them for continued prayerful and generous support of our endeavours to carry the New Testament Gospel to our French-Canadian people."

"A full century of Gospel teaching, preaching and living on the part of our French Baptist people in Quebec has won the sincere respect of all those thousands of educated Catholics among whom they live and labor," Mr. Smal reported.

"But the Roman hierachy, as a religio-politico force, fearful of Communism in its ranks, of mixed marriages and of the propinquity of Gospel light—through the open Bible and Protestant democracy and preaching—is being forced into making false charges of Communistic teaching and tendencies against our Protestant democracy and preaching—is being forced into making false charges of Communistic teaching and tendencies against our Protestant faith.

"The Quebec padlock law is a mediaeval hangover, inane and childish in the nth degree. In the face of these old foes in new faces the Grand Ligne Mission proposes to carry on, preaching nothing up but Christ and nothing down but sin and superstition."

The report was adopted by the convention as the week-long meeting neared its end. More than 500 delegates are attending the convention, expected to close to-night.

Early Marriage Not Approved By Magistrate

Marriages at to tender an age came in for some vigorous condemnation at the hands of Magistrate Campbell in Police Court this morning as he dismissed, for lack of evidence, a charge against Louis M. Corbett of failing to support his wife and three young children.

Corbett said his age at the present time was 24, but his wife in the witness box said he was 22. The evidence showed that when the young couple were marride the bride was only 16 and the groom not a great deal older.

"These marriage of young folks constitute a problem," the Magistrate remarked. "A boy and girl get stuck on each other and they marry and have childen and then find that the love bug is disappearing and they lose not only their affection for each other, but their faith in each other. It is a shame there is so much of this kind of thing. If I were a minister or a priest and a young couple like this came before me to be wed, I would refuse to marry them."

Gets Three Months.

While the non-support charge was dismissed Corbett was sentenced to three months in jail on a charge of obtaining $27.50 from Nathan Fine under false pretences to which he had previously pleaded guilty.

It was explained to the Court that Corbett had sold a radio to Fine, stating that he was the sole owner of the machine, whereas the truth was that the Canadian General Electric Company had a lien on the radio.

On a third charge of having stolen two sets of boxing gloves from the Riverview Athletic Club, Corbett was allowed to change his previous plea of guilty to not guilty and the case was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

Mrs. Corbett was called to give evidence in the non-support charge, and said that she married Corbett four and a half years ago, and they had three children, the youngest five months old. In January, shortly after the baby was born she and her husband had separated and he had gone to board with Ken Roy. He was to pay her $12 a week and for some time he had paid her, but since Good Friday she had not received a cent from him. She could not say as to whether he had been working or not during the period when nothing was paid her.

Police Matron Mrs. Maguire testified to the separation between the Corbetts and to the fact that the husband made the choice between living with his wife or going with Ken Roy.

Accused Examined

Magistrate Campbell called Corbett into the witness box and examined him closely as to what he had been doing since he had stopped giving his wife any money. Accused said that he and Roy had travelled around looking for work and had gone as far as New Brunswick, but had not found any and that in the period in question he had not made more than $7 or $8.

"Why did you go all the way down to the Maritimes?" asked the Magistrate. "Didn't you know the conditions there were much wore than here?"

"I didn't until I got there," replied Corbett.

The accused was cross-examined vigorously by Crown Attorney McEldery as to his movements recently and about a girl.

Corbett denied that the latter had lived with him or travelled with him. He said that he had not given his wife any money because he had none and had no work.

Magistrate Campbell said that because of lack of evidence as to whether Corbett had been working during the time he had failed to support his wife, he was forced to dismiss the non-support charge.

"It is one of the worst features of these early mariages," he said, "that the young wife is forced to carry the whole burden because she married a worthless husband."

"That is just what you are," he said sternly to Corbett, "a worthless husband. You have not a spark of decency in your whole being. All you cared about was going around boxing and having a good time. What you need is to have some big buck negro with boxing gloves—the Masked Marvel would be the fellow to attend to you—to beat some sense into your head."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Renewed export buying of Canadian new-crop wheat and investment interest following outside market advances yesterday sent Winnipeg wheat futures more than three cents higher today. At the final bell quotations were 1¾-3¼ cents higher, July $1.02¼, October 82-82⅛, December 80⅛-¼ cents.

Improved United Kingdom demand for Australian wheat, unfavorable crop report from the United States southwest and Canadian new-crop sales, estimated at 350,000 bushels, offset bearish influence of good rains in western Canada yesterday.

July future eased after advancing nearly two cents earlier with several eastern and southern interest on the selling side against support offered from one large southern firm.

Street Dance Draws Big Marmora Crowd

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 10—The seventh annual street dance under auspices of Marmora Agricultural Society was held on Forsyth street on Thursday evening and due to the fact that an entertainment was provided at the same time throngs lined both sidewalks for the event.

The Lindsay Boys' Band, under Bandmaster P. C. Cox, was the premier attraction and the variety of their selections and the complete harmony characterising their play made their program delightful for all listeners. Solo numbers by bandsmen and vocal numbers by other Lindsay artists also took well with the merry making crowd.

Music for round and square dancing was provided by Jack Grant and his Aces. Refreshment booths and bingo helped to make the evening delightful for all.

23 Taking New Study Course At Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 10.—The report of the agricultural inspector, Mr. Norman Davies, who recently visited the High School to inspect the work being done in agriculture by the school, was a most satisfactory report. Out of 91 pupils enrolled in the school, 23 are taking agriculture. Mr. Brohman has made a splendid beginning in teaching the subject, and the principal has provided a satisfactory time allotment and is giving full support to the work in agriculture, stated the report, which was read at the regular meeting of the Lakefield High School Board, held in the council chambers, Lakefield, on Monday.

"The principal has provided a satisfactory time allotment and in other respects is giving full support and assistance to the work in agriculture."

"The Board by approval of purchase of books and special equipment have made possible efficient and practical instruction in dairying, poultry and gardening.

"The pupils appear to find a keen interest in the course, and have undertaken a variety of practical home projects.

"The introduction of the new Grade X. course in September will make necessary further additions to equipment and it is recommended that expenditures to the full amount of the grant be approved in 1938," Mr. Davies' reported stated in conclusion.

Blame Short Drive

EDMONTON, June 10 — (CP) — Shortness of the campaign was an important factor in the Liberal victory and the crushing defeat of Social Credit forces in the Saskatchewan election yesterday, Hon. Solon Low, Provincial Treasurer in the Alberta Social Credit government, said here today.

"Indications," he said, "point to a large Social Credit vote, which, in view of the suddenness with which the election was called and the short period of 21 days that elapsed from the announcement to polling day, is very gratifying.

Havelock Hires New Principal

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 10.—The vacancy in the principalship of the Havelock Public school, caused by the resignation of Mr. P. Yuill, was filled at the regular June meeting of the Board, by the appointment of Mr. Wellintgon Duncan, of Balderson. Present at the meeting were Trustees Mrs. Brisbin, Mrs. Nobes, Smith and Iles with Chairman Dr. G. H. Gardner presiding.

The newly appointed head of the Public school staff is a married man, 33 years of age. He holds a permanent first class certificate, elementary certificate in agriculture and in physical education. He has had fourteen years' experience and for the past eight years has been the principal of the Balderson school. His salady for the ensuing year will be $1,100.

The Board authorized a letter to Constable Akins, requesting greater supervision of school grounds after school hours.

On motion of Trustees Nobes and Iles, Trustee Mrs. Brisbin was appointed as a publicity committee to pass on reports of the proceedings as reported by the newspaper correspondents. On motion of Trustees Smith and Iles, Trustees Mrs. Nobes and Mrs. Brisbin were appointed as a committee to correct statements as appearing in recent issues of the Havelock Standard.

The Property committee were instructed to prepare requisition for repairing roof of the school building, asking for tenders to be submitted by July 6th.

Hints Dismissal For Gardiner's Tip

OTTAWA, June 10 (CP)—In disclosing the government's $50,000,000 housing program in a Saskatchewan election campaign speech in Regina last Thursday agriculture Minister Gardiner had acted in a manner that had once brought dismissal of a secretary of state for India, opposition leader Bennett told the House of Commons yesterday.

When the housing legislation was introduced by Finance Minister Dunning, Mr. Bennett said that it had been used by Mr. Gardiner on the Saskatchewan Hustings and telegraphed all over the country before it was announced in the House of Commons.

In 1922 a British secretary of state for India had sanctioned publication in India of a government document without permission of his colleagues, and his resignation followed immediately, Mr. Bennett said. He did not develop his association of the two incidents.

Propose Homework On Road Rules

TORONTO, June 10 (CP)—Motorists should "do a little homework" and learn the rules of the road, according to W. G. Robertson, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Ontario Motor League.

Mr. Robertson approved of the action of Magistrate M. D. McCrimmon of St. Thomas who fined a student $5 for speeding and ordered him to recite a section of the Highway Traffic Act before the court.

"I'd make them learn the whole Highway Traffic Act," said Mr. Robertson.

Magistrate R. J. Browne was not so enthused. "Why, we'd have to open a special court to listen to all the recitations."

"It might be a good idea," said F. I. Malone, assistant crown attorney. "The Magistrate might as well have dropped the fine and made the offender learn two sections."

Still "Working"

HAMILTON, Ont., June 10 (CP) — The Dominion Public Building was closed to-day because of the King's Birthday, but in the spacious structure somebody was "working."

It was John Barleycorn. Recently Mounted Police seized a quantity of mash. The mash is stored in the Public Building. It hasn't quit working, and the fumes filled Hamilton's $1,600,000 Federal structure to-day from cellar to roof.

Niagara Bridge Tangle Deepens

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., June 10—(AP).—The International problem of who is going to build the new honeymoon bridge became more tangled Thursday as Ontario government and a company in the United States pressed forward with construction plans.

H. J. McNulty, counsel for the Ontario government and Niagara parks commissioner, asserted at a hearing in Ottawa yesterday the Ontario government planned a $4,000,000 bridge, to be toll free in 15 years.

By contrast, he said, the International Railway Company, American owners of the famed honeymoon bridge which crashed in a January ice jam planned a new $1,500,000 bridge, to be built as cheaply as possible, for the purpose of making money.

McNulty's utterance prompted Walter J. McCausland, public relations director of the International Railway Company, to declare in a statement:

"There is nothing cheap or shoddy about a $1,500,000 bridge. Ours will be entirely adequate and in keeping with the scenery of the falls.

Impossible Proposal

We've shown before that a $4,000,000 bridge can't retire its cost in 15 years. Five per cent interest on $4,000,000 would be $200,000 a year."

Revenue of the fallen honeymoon bridge averaged $271.00 a year during the last 10 years, he said.

"That would leave $71,000 a year for operation, maintenance and depreciation. It can't be done."

McCausland said Canadian and United States attorneys had told the company it had the right to replace its bridge.

Commenting on McNulty's statement that the company had not filed plans with the Ontario Government or obtained a licence, he said the company would take whatever formal steps had been prepared.

McCausland said the company could build a bridge for $1,500,000 because it still had offices and customs and immigration stations, as well as other equipment used at both ends of the old bridge.

A War Office Worry

WASHINGTON, June 9—(CP)—Representative Andrews, New York republican, predicted yesterday the International Railway Company, owner of the famous falls view (honeymoon) bridge which was swept away by an ice jam at Niagara Falls, N.Y., last winter would not be allowed to rebuild the structure.

"The war department holds that the company must obtain congressional permission to reconstruct the bridge," Andrews said, "and the trend of congressional action during the past 15 years has been away from privately owned bridges and toward publicly owned ones."

The Invasion That Failed

The people of Saskatchewan preferred to retain what they have in the way of government and administration rather than experiment with what William Aberhart of Alberta came to offer. It is nothing new for Saskatchewan to have a Liberal government, as on only one occasion since they started having legislatures in that province has there been anything else, and that one exception was a Conservative administration.

It has been anticipated that Premier Aberhart of Alberta would make a better showing. He elected only two or possibly three candidates and there is said to be recount proceedings launched already. The Examiner anticipated Social Credit would make greater inroads and so did a good many people. It was one of those affairs which seemed easy enough to predict in advance. People in Saskatchewan have been having a hard time and when people are hard up they are apt to be in the mood where they will try anything on the general principle that the new venture cannot be much worse than the experience through which they have been passing.

In leaving his own province to enter the fight in Saskatchewan Premier Aberhart did something which has never been attempted in the history of our country. It may be the people of Saskatchewan resented it. His coming may have caused a good many nominal Conservatives to have turned in with the Liberals. Whatever the explanation may be the result was a plain rebuke for Mr. Aberhart. If he has to be content with a political black eye today he can know for certain that he went out looking for it.

It is not at all likely Social Credit will increase its following in Saskatchewan. The history of all such movements is that they come to a peak-hour in their numerical strength and then they decrease. If Mr. Aberhart was going to swing Saskatchewan to Social Credit he would have done it in the 1938 election. His big chance came and departed and he failed.

No matter what government they may have in Saskatchewan at the moment it is a fact that to a large extent it has to depend on the central government at Ottawa for its financing. From there it must draw its money for seed and tractor operation and for much of its relief expenditure. It may be the people in Saskatchewan thought of that when casting their votes, knowing well enough that Premier Aberhart and his methods of conducting financial matters would not receive much of a hearing or favorable response at Ottawa.

Well, What About It?

Weston Board of Education heard strong language directed toward the educational managers of Toronto. The tactics of the Toronto people were compared with those of Hitler, and all because some of the Weston teachers had been engaged to go and teach in schools of Toronto.

Of course these teachers are not entirely new at the business. They have had opportunity to put into actual practice what they learned during their course of training, and they must have been able to demonstrate that they were good teachers. So after having been tried out and found all right in Weston they are acceptable for Toronto. That is what Weston does not like—being used as a proving and training ground for Toronto.

But what can Weston do about it? Perhaps the members of the Board of Education there feel better after they say plainly what they think of the custom. But what then?

There is no law saying that Toronto must not engage a teacher in Weston or Peterborough or any other place. The teachers themselves are not forced to go. They leave of their own free will because they have found a place with higher salary attached. That has been going on for a long time and will continue.

They Keep On Doing It

There have been four drunken driving charges in Peterborough court in four days.

The people who go in for this sort of venture know well enough what it is all about before they start.

They know the courts of the entire country are now set against the practice, and they know also that people who drive when drunk get sent to jail.

They know too when they go to court on that charge they are not going to get out free men no matter what sort of explaining they may do.

If they read the papers they must be fully aware of what is going on because these cases are always reported.

There can be only one course to follow, and that is to make people quit drinking and driving. The court and the law for which it stands cannot compromise

If sending people to jail does not stop drunk driving—and so far it has failed—then the court will have to be empowered to take the next step, that is, remove the license plates from the car and impound it for a good long stretch. If that comes to be the custom the drivers will have the satisfaction of knowing that by their wooden headed persistence in drunk driving they asked for the tough sentence.

Could Not Qualify

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, 26 years old, and worth $20,000,000, was married the other day. There were pictures of the young couple in a good many of the papers, and it was explained that Alfred had been considered "the most eligible bachelor in United States," and eligibility was based on having a fortune and being about the right age.

Probably in every country there are a class of people who restrict the use of the word "eligible" to a certain few who have a good deal of money. But there are a good many people who have lived happy and useful lives who never would have qualified under that heading of "eligible" if their financial standing had been the yard stick of measurement.

Grandfather and his father before him would have been left out in the cold. They came to this country in an old sailing vessel that took seven weeks to make the trip, and after they landed all they had after a good many weeks of travel and searching was a hundred acres or so of bush land. After there was a start made on the land it finally came time when some taxation had to be paid and although the amount required was not large as we regard tax money today it generally had to be borrowed and paid back at high rates of interest.

If they had been looking for eligible people in that neighborhood based on the amount of money possessed the search would have been a vain one.

Our Floating Bridge

Newsreel editors have just discovered that Peterborough county has a floating bridge; in fact they believe it to be the longest in North America. Hence always interested in items of this kind G. H. Valequette, cameraman from Ottawa, was sent here this week to make a movie of the bridge. Mr. Valequette got what he believes to be a first class news film and this no doubt will appear in theatres throughout Canada and the United States.

But what struck Mr. Valequette was the lack of interest taken by this district in the Chemong bridge. He was certain people would come for miles to see this bridge but he found no large signs pointing out the route. Travelling all over Canada as he does he was certain that if many other communities had such an attraction for tourists at their doorstep they would have it widely advertised and also the route well marked so as motorists would have no trouble in reaching the bridge.

Mr. Valequette brings up a point which we believe worthy of consideration by our municipal authorities. If we have such an attraction and no doubt people come for miles to see the bridge, why not let us take full advantage of this tourist attraction and make it more easy to find

As It Was On the Tenth

We noticed in one of the town papers where a meeting of the Ladies' Aid had been held in one of the churches and it was decided to have a strawberry festival. It said "Committees were named to purchase berries and cream and the ladies will provide the cakes."

On the Tenth Concession there used to be an organization known as the Willing Workers and they functioned in the church at the corner of the Tenth and the Broken Front Road. When they had a strawberry festival there on toward the end of June or early in July the people provided everything and it was also a time when the church yard had to be cleaned up quite a good deal.

It would be announced from the pulpit that the Willing Workers would hold a meeting on such and such a date for the purpose of making arrangements for the annual strawberry festival. The men always stirred uneasily at the time of that announcement and looked a little guilty. Some of those who sat along the side and could look out the windows knew what it meant. Even at that early time in the season they could see hay rising and burdocks doing fairly well in the church driveway.

There was room at the back of the church building for the big event and the church shed always had to be cleaned out in case of rain. A couple of days before the event the men turned up in the closing hours of the day to beautify the premises, or at least remove the most offensive features. Most of them were used to working in large fields and open spaces and found themselves a little cramped when it came to operating a scythe or sickle and then cleaning up with a garden rake. Then the men were generally a little out of their class when it came to putting up wires to string the Chinese lanterns around the place. They generally had to leave that to the last as the president of the Willing Workers had considerable taste in such matters and liked to supervise arrangements.

Most people along the Tenth and the side lines had a few strawberries and they also could furnish cream and cake, and when supplies were sent to the church they had to be good. There was no such thing as getting by with anything but the best because the ladies at the church knew where everything was coming from and if the berries were green on the end or looked as though they had warts on them there was likely to be some conversation. It was the same with the cream. There were no separators then and if the cream from any place looked a little thin then it was certain to be remarked that the skimming had been done too deep.

It was always an event worth attending was the strawberry festival on the Tenth Concession. The good effects lasted for several weeks until the burdocks took on a new lease of a life and the grass and weeds started once more to respond to the urge for growth and development.

More Important Today

As a rule people do not pay much attention to marking or celebrating Magna Carta Week. When children go through school they learn of course about Magna Carta, which actually means "great charter." Possibly afterward they recall that it was on June 12 in the year 1215 that King John was cornered at Runnymede and made to sign this document.

The trouble was King John had become intolerable; he was a sort of nuisance and a threat and the barons desired to have him renew his allegiance to the old charter of Henry I promising "to observe the good laws of Edward the Confessor." King John would never have signed the Magna Carta if he had been able to see any other way out of it. He wanted to resist but he had nothing with which to make resistance possible. It has been said that the barons were probably looking after their own interests, but history has shown that in so doing they also safeguarded the interests of the whole people.

King John would have been a dictator in his day had he been able to command sufficient force. He signed a document because he had to sign it, but his signature sounded the death-knell to any dictatorship in England. That is why the document is even more important today than it was on the date of signature. The world has turned more toward dictators not from desire but by reason of compulsion.

Under the Magna Carta there can be no dictator in the British Empire. Nor can there be one in the United States. The reason is that every man is under the same law; neither the King of England nor President of United States is above the law.

In the countries of dictators an individual can be jailed without reason and kept there indefinitely. That cannot be done in British territory. The changed conditions in the method of governing the world make Magna Carta week more important right now than the event has ever been before. It has an assertive force kindly and just in an age when it is needed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We would say that the result in Saskatchewan indicates that Premier Aberhart must have been mistaken when he thought he read "Welcome" on the map.

There are 50,000 cyclists in Toronto and each one of them is a reason why conscientious motorists are becoming gray prematurely.

When he starts to annex part of the United States that seems to be covering too much territory even for a live wire like J. F. Pouliot, M.P.

It is stated that 198 meter readers in New York were bitten by dogs last year and some people will advance that as a proof of canine sagacity.

Promotions within the service have been made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ontario's deputy-minister of mines. That is the businesslike way of dealing with such matters.

Hon. R. B. Bennett wanted to know what the government had been doing since it came into office, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe quietly offered the reply "We have listened to speeches." And no one rose to say the Minister of Justice had not spoken the truth.

NOISE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I read an article today, 'twas written in a kindly way, nor was it rough or rude; it was of churches and their make, of pains that people ought to take, so they might be subdued.

¶ The color schemes should be just so, so there would be a softened glow, with nothing to offend; and everything about the place, should lend itself to peace and grace, and quietly they should blend.

¶ There should be carpets in the aisle, and they should be of modest style, quiet dignity and poise; when people walked in here or there, their steps would not disturb the air, and they would make no noise.

¶ I went to church when but a lad, and memories of those days are glad, they'll stay I know they will; the preacher looked right straight at me, and every movement he could see, so I stayed very still.

¶ There were no carpets laid down there, to deaden sound in Sunday air, the window shades were green; the walls were plain as they could be, and it was very plain to see, they had no color scheme.

¶ The folk who took collection then, were honest sort of toiling men, who labored all the week; and as each simple offering fell, I can remember it so well—their boots would always squeak.

He Has Listened To the Speeches

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. BENNETT: But I want to go a step further. Some time ago the Minister of Finance (Mr. DUNNING) referred the matter to the tariff board and the board went west and made investigations. So far as is known, the tariff board has made no report, and some of the Canadians who have been operating in the Turner valley of Alberta oil fields valley are very resentful that no action as being taken, and have expressed themselves in rather strong language. For instance, they refer to us in this parliament in terms which I hope will not be regarded as highly offensive:

The Canadian tariff board "investigates" the Turner valley situation and adjourns forever. In Ottawa 245 costly politicians talk for five months and accomplish nothing.

Mr. BERTRAND (Laurier): That is from an Alberta newspaper.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, that is an extract from an editorial in The Albertan.

Mr. BERTRAND (Laurier): Sent to every member of the house.

Mr. BENNETT: I did not know that; I thank my hon. friend. That shortens the need for my observations, because I see that my learned and hon. friend has already read it.

Mr. DUNNING: It was sent to every hon. member.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, the hon. member just observed that it was sent to every hon. member. That of course does not in any sense lessen its value.

Mr. DUNNING: No, it would be impossible to lessen its value.

Mr. BENNETT: Well, I do not look upon the matter in just that way.

Mr. DUNNING: That kind of comment I do.

Mr. BENNETT: I am not so sure that having regard to my observation of the government of this country for the last five months one is not warranted in making that statement.

Mr. DUNNING: It says that 245 members of parliament talk too much. My right hon. friend is one of them.

Mr. BENNETT: Of course he is. But it rests with the government of the day to take the initiative. It is their job to see that something is done, for they only can expend money.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): There is too much talking.

Mr. BENNETT: They alone can take steps in regard to the tariff. They are the only ones who can deal with a dumping duty; they only can deal with unemployment, they only can deal with relief. What have they done?

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Listened to speeches.

Mr. BENNETT: Well, they have been poor listeners; for the Prime minister has not been in this house an average of an hour and a half a day since the session opened.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): That is not fair.

Mr. BENNETT: It is as fair as it was to say it about me when I was Prime Minister.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): The Prime Minister is tired and has not been well for a few days. I do not think this remark was called for. We did not do the same to my right hon. friend.

Mr. BENNETT: You did not? Read the record. Day after day, week after week you referred to the fact that I was not in my place because I was working long hours on work that I had to do. Now I say that the Prime Minister has not been in his place in this parliament on the average an hour and a half a day since it opened. Let there be no misunderstanding. Hon. members may have had to listen to speeches, and what is more, they may have to listen to more. One thing is perfectly clear, we have been here for five months and done nothing for the public good.

An hon. MEMBER: You have talked a lot.

Mr. BENNETT: What else was there to do? What was the government doing? It was the duty of the government to produce its program.

FALL FROM GRACE.

(Baltimore Sun)

IF THE 17th century Calvinist theologian had dared predict that the time would ever come when the doctrine of predestination would be abolished by popular vote of the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly, he would have been considered by his colleagues guilty of a lapse into synergism or worse. Nevertheless, that is just what has happened, and we find this church body on record, 151 to 130, against the proposition that "some men and angels are predestined into everlasting life and others foreordained to everlasting death; and their number is so certain and definite that it cannot be either diminished or increased." . . .

The minority of 130 will doubtless console themselves with the grim reflection that the vote of the majority makes clear enough the nature of their predestined fate, although they, too, are confronted with another theological problem in the reconciliation of the act of the majority with the important Calvinist doctrine of the "impossibility of the elect falling away from grace."

PLEASANT COMPARISON.

(Detroit Free Press)

AN INTERESTING and comforting comparison may be drawn between the situations existing in Europe and on this continent.

While German and Czech troops eyed each other suspiciously across their frontiers Sunday, a Canadian regiment swung up Woodward Ave., Detroit, with glistening equipment and skirling bagpipes.

The tenth annual "invasion" of Detroit by the Essex Scottish Regiment of Windsor occasioned applause instead of jitters.

There is a feeling of security behind such evidences of international fiendship and good will.

When the major powers in Europe can live together in the neighborly spirit which prevails between Canada and the United States there will be fewer wars, and disturbing rumors of war, than are likely to issue from their present feuds and fears.

YES, HE SHOULD

"I am after that mouse. If all goes well he should enter this maze, get completely lost, and finally collapse from exhaustion."

• Civil Service Pay In Germany

("Public Opinion" Excerpts)

Dr. Erich Kordt, First Secretary to the German Embassy in London, in a contribution to "Public Administration," describes the Civil Service of Germany and the recent changes made under the Nazi administration. Writing about the work and salaries of Ministers and staff, Dr. Kordt says:

A REICHS Minister gets about 36,000 marks, from which taxes have to be deducted. Counted at the level of exchange of 12.3 marks to the £, this corresponds to a net salary of £2,000 to £2,500. Officials of the rank of permanent Under-secretaries of State, Presidents of the highest German Law Courts, such as the Reichstagericht, the People's Law Court, etc., receive about £1,600, Provincial Governors £1,500, and Ministerial Councellors—Assistant Secretaries of a Ministry—at the average £700 per annum. The lowest rank of the Higher Services receives £320 to £560.

The Higher Intermediate Service is relatively well paid, as it receives in its best paid classes approximately the same salaries as the lower ranks of the Higher Service. A sub-registrar of a central office gets about £350 to £400, a Police Inspector £200 to £330, a Customs Officer £200 to £300.

Officials of the Intermediate Service, that is, lower clerks, Police Officers, and qualified foremen, get an average of £125 to £275 net.

Officials of the Lower Service, such as foremen, workmen, postmen, ushers, porters, night watchmen, etc., get from £8100 to £175, the highest salary in each class being always attained only after a service of 40 years. All officials contribute to the best of their abilities during the months from October to March to the Winter Relief Funds, the lowest contribution being about 1 per cent. per month.

All officials receive pensions when they attain the age limit, or when, because of illness, etc., they cease to be officials at an earlier stage. Pensions increase with the number of Service years, but they never exceed 75 per cent. of the salary and of some of the allowances. Widows receive 60 per cent of the pensions due to their husbands, and further allowances are paid to the orphans up to the age of 21.

There are no fixed working hours for officials, but that does not mean that they have to work without interruption. As in most countries, German officials, and now almost every German worker, gets paid for holidays. The number of days off varies slightly between the different classes of officials, and with their age. The greatest number of days is attained in each class at 40 years, when it varies between four and a half and seven weeks, Sundays included.

Another important point in the life of the official is the question of promotion the German Officials' Law expressly provides that seniority is not a reason for promotion. But there are certain restrictions which prevent an official from being promoted too quickly. No official can be permanently appointed until he is twenty-seven years old. Another provision prescribes that no official should be promoted twice in the same year.

From the lowest rank of the Higher Service, which on the average cannot be attained before the age of twenty-nine to thirty, no one can be promoted to the next higher rank before three years' service, and to the rank of a Ministerial Counsellor before six years' service and unless he is thirty-five years old.

At least three years of this time must be spent outside the central office, so that the official shall acquire a practical view of the application of laws and ordinances, and at least the year preceding the promotion to a Ministerial Counsellor, or what you would call Assistant Secretary, must be spent in the central department. Any exception from these rules can only be made with the special permission of the Fuehrer on the joint recommendation of the Ministers of the Interior and Finance.

• "I Suspect" A Number of Things

(By Sir Josiah Stamp)

I SUSPECT easy solutions and very pleasant ones. Only very occasionally will it be possible to put in shorter hours and higher wages, lower taxes and balanced budgets, all together at one moment. I do not think France and New Zealand have hit that occasion.

I suspect good bargains between nations or classes—they are usually boomerangs. In a lasting bargain both sides gain equally.

I suspect any immediate personal interest. For even a sixpence held near the eye will blot out the Bank of England.

I suspect any solution that does not stand an ethical test. The sermon on the Mount is perhaps too fine a sieve for today, but the decalogue is a mesh that can do thorough work. That at least we have not outgrown in standard. Do not think that education weans you from the spiritual law, either.

I suspect any solution in which one factor is modified and the others are all assumed to remain the same. Only in Wall street booms is each man a millionaire if he sells out, on the assumption that none of the others do so at the same time.

I suspect any method of getting the best of two worlds at the price of one.

I suspect every solution that carries over nothing from the past, just as I suspect every one that merely snuggles down in the old way.

To The Editor

PLEASE BE FAIR!

Editor Examiner:

Sir: My attention has been dawn to a letter by Mr. J. H. Burnham appearing in last evening's Examiner, by one who feels that it was meant to cast a slur upon a church in which many of us believe for through it we have been led to God. May I therefore set down a few statements that ought to be considered along with Mr. Burnham's letter.

1. Since there is no A. F. Irwin a minister in the United Church of Canada, I presume that Dr. A. J. Irwin is meant, but neither he nor any Irwin has been Moderator of the United Church of Canada.

2. Dr. Irwin's name does not appear in the Year Book as an executive officer of the Social Service committee. By permission of Conference he has been for years General secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation. The chief executive officer of the Social Service Committee is Dr. D. N. McLachlan.

3. I know of no minister of the United Church of Canada who does not believe in the supernatural. Since Mr. Burnham's letters often cast the same reflection on other denominations may I add that after meeting with the various ministers of the city for a year in the Ministerial Association and hearing them frankly discuss various problems, I say without qualification I am sure they all believe in the supernatural.

4. Anyone who reads the articles and editorials by Dr. Irwin in the "Temperance Advocate" knows Dr. Irwin himself to be a strong believer in the Supernatural.

5. May I further add that as a student, my whole theological training before ordination was taken in a United Church Theological College and I have and cherish notes taken from lectures given by professors there: from these and from their own personal testimonies, I know that those professors believe in the Supernatural.

I have no intention of starting a long newspaper debate on religious matters, but I have been moved to write this because to those of us who know these facts this and like letters appear misleading and unfair.

Yours,
REV. VERNIE E. ZUFELT.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THE NAME of the Lord is a strong tower: the righteous runneth into it, and is safe.—Prov. xviii, 10.

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the foundation of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise.—Jer. xvii, 13, 14.

And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for they cleansing, according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them. But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.—Luke v, 12-16.

A HOLIDAY REMINDER

Wills too often carry a suggestion of finality when as a matter of fact they require periodic revision. Births, deaths, changes in business, in assets or in a residence, your children's marriages, may at any time make a Will at least partially obsolete. ¶ In the consideration from time to time of any changes in your Will the officers of the Toronto General Trusts, through long familiarity with estates matters, can give you practical assistance. They will be glad to estimate the probable amount of your Succession Duties and to explore the effect on your plans of recent changes both in law and taxation with you or in collaboration with your solicitor. ¶ Inquiries or consultations place you under no obligation.

Pupils Present Musical Program

(Examiner Correspondence.)

The schools included were Lifford, Fleetwood, Bethel, North and South Janetville and the music supervisor was Mrs. Switzer. The piano accompanist for the evening was Mrs. Rowe of Whitby, a sister of Mrs. Switzer.

The various schools were heard in unison and in two, three and four part numbers. North and South Janetville schools rendered two rhythm band selections, most creditably.

Four pupils, Ruth Medland, Louis White, Louis Staples and Stuart Staples all of Lifford school played piano solos, the former three receiving their only musical training from their school teacher Miss Ethel Stephenson, all four members were exceptionally well rendered.

Caesarea and Blackstock schools were present and sang the numbers which won for them first place in the Durham Festival and also the shield in the open class. The Gold Medalist Jean Malcolm of Nestleton was heard in a vocal solo, "How Soon." The South Janetville Continuation school sang two, four part songs.

Horse And Binder Days

ENID, Okla., June 10 (A.P.).—Too much rain—successor to drought as the south-west's leading crop menace—has brought "horse and binder" days back to parts of the wheat belt. It's harvest time in the high places, but farmers entering fields this week saw their modern machinery— cumbersome combines and powerful tractors — bog down in mud. So they brought out the horse-drawn binder that had been gathering dust and rust for a decade.

CLOWNING CASEY STENGEL KEEPS BOSTON BEES NEAR THE TOP

Veteran Mound Staff Holding Club In Place

By Bill Braucher
(Central Press Canadian Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, June 10.—One of the least pretentious of the major league master minds is Casey Stengel, the former taxicab driver and dentist who is managing an aggregation of uniforms called the Boston Bees. A clown and a brawler during his long and boisterous career on the diamond, he is in there now with the same old hard-boiled smile, doing just as good a job of thinking as those heavy minds who run ball games with ominous frowns and unfathomable strategy.

Castoff Best Hitter.

As good a job, I might say, if not better. For Stengel isn't burdened with what might be called a glittering galaxy of talent in Boston. With only one regular .300 hitter on his ball club, and three or four old pitchers rescued from the minors, he is up in the first division giving Our Will Terry and Charley Grimm bad afternoons and sleepless nights. His .300 hitter, by the way, is an American League castoff named Debs Garms, who happens to be an outfielder by trade. Casey has put him at third base just to get the benefit of those precious base hits.

Stengel is a disciple of old-fashioned baseball as taught to him in the days when he played under John McGraw. It is a close-to-the-vest game based on an alert defence and good pitching. Considering the pleasant way Casey is getting such splendid results, you begin to wonder if all of McGraw's ferocity was necessary. But don't get the idea that Casey can't be tough. He can, but his sense of humor gives his commands—and complaints—a light touch. He is a funny man, yes, but rough.

No Murderers' Row Here.

Casey has a first baseman, Elburt Fletcher, hitting in the neighborhood of .250. His shortstop is Rabbit Warstler, a .225 figure at the plate. Joe's brother, Vince DiMaggio, is the third hitter on the club, with an average somewhere around .240.

Old John Cooney, a St. Louis, Brooklyn castoff who was sent to the American Association eight years ago to spend his last days, is in there hitting .250 for Casey, but not playing regularly because of senility. Gene Moore, another Boston outfielder, has been hitting .224. Second Baseman Tony Cuccinello has managed to compile a batting average of .278. Max West, a young outfielder from the Pacific coast, not a regular, is hitting in the neighborhood of .207. Catcher Ray Mueller, who came up from the Southern association a year or so ago, has been clouting .232.

Certainly that isn't much noise at the plate. The Bees are absolutely last in club batting—and 50 points under their rivals in the other league, the Red Sox—yet there they are right up with the leaders and making the situation very uncertain and unpleasant for the touted ball clubs, particularly the Giants.

Ah! It's the Pitchers!

The pitchers are the strangest part of this quaint ball club. Ira Hutchinson, a White Sox castoff whom Bill McKechnie rescued from St. Paul last year, has been doing the relief work whenever necessary, with such success that he's right at the top of the league in effectiveness. Jim Turner, 32-year-old flinger who came up last year after being remanded by several major league ball clubs, is one of the aces of the staff. Lou Fette, another who didn't reach the majors until he had passed 30, is doing remarkably well for Casey. Danny MacFayden, who was sent on his way by the Red Sox, Yankees and Reds, has won five games for the Bees, and lost one, shutting out the Giants in a recent appearance. Milburn Shoffner, a winning southpaw with the Bees, was condemned as unstable by Cleveland years ago.

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Baseball trading deadline nears... Cubs and Cards both want Mungo.. Yanks wuold like Buck Newsom of the Browns but the chances are slim since St. Louis wants players rather than cash for the big South Carolinian...Brooklyn needs everything and will take anything...Most of other clubs, particularly "Zinzinnati" are content to go on with what they have rather than dig down in those jeans...The Reds are pretty well fixed as they are and will get better...Anyway it looks like the races in both leagues will be closer than in years...Even New Yorkers have given up on a runaway for the Yanks.

Hastings Girls Revenge Defeat

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 10.—Hastings girls took a 20 to 13 slugfest from Warkworth girls in an exhibition game played here last night. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

The toughest lacrossers your eyes have clamped on
Are the gutted-stick boys who play for Brampton;
But the Petes will rafe 'em like the Japs rafed Canton,
And the boys from Brampton will be well stamped on!

* * * * * * *

AND SO THE Bramptonites and the Petes will clash in the O.L.A. senior "B" opener here tonight at 8.30 in the lacrosse arena. And a goodly gathering of gals and guys should be on deck to see the fireworks. Mostly stars and shooting meteors, but maybe the odd "bang" and rocket, as well as plenty of sparklers. Two teams will play before the big game and at halftime. Yessir, it should be a real game, folks, with action galore.

* * * * * * *

COACH FRANK RANDLE'S crew will be at full strength to meet the bolstered Brampton boys. Besides the local array of talent, and it is a good one, there are three newcomers here. Worthy and Westonfelt have been seen in exhibition games with the Petes this spring and fans admit they are real good. And there is another lad by the name of Walter (Shorty) Reid, who played last year for the Orilila squad which won the Dominion junior title. Crowe played against him in juvenile and Magee worked out with him early this spring in Orillia — and both local players say he is smart. He was a teammate of Jack Westonfelt's, and is reported a tricky little player. Red Creighton had his nose broken last eve in practise and will be out abouta month — a mighty tough break for the locals' goalie. Meyette will be in goal and has looked good this year.

GATE ADMISH to this tilt is still two bits for adults and a dime for kids. But the east stand is reserved at a dime a throw. They found it cost over 50 bucks to go to Woodbridge the other night and will be more for Orangeville, Hamilton and Owen Sound. And the rest. First idea was to boost general admission at the gate to 35 cents, but it was ruled out as many fans figure a quarter enough, and then some stand up during the games instead of parking in the grandstand. Lots of fans prefer sitting where they aren't too crowded and will pay extra for it, so it was decided this was the best method — the club naturally not wanting to go in the red this year. The Petes have no sponsors and no city grant, and they have to hustle for everything. And last year they didn't even boost the price in playoffs. Now they ask the same as the ball club and we don't blame them. The fans won't kick either, we feel sure.

SAME JUDGES at the Riverview A. C. mitt-mat card Monday eve in the lacrosse arena here as in the last fight show. Two hotcha rasslin' bouts lined up, including the Garner-Crothall rematch, and some first-rate fights. Wallie Hicks of Toronto wanted to box Nick Orlando but the local promoters decided to make him show his stuff first and not risk a bad match. Hence they have put him in against a good Ottawa pug, Joe Tumblin, welter. Bill Joiner and Hal Jones, local lightweights, ought to stage a nifty scrap. Semi-finals sees Sonny Hobbins paired with Joe Scott. Toronto welter, and you can look for oodles of action in this one. Main event is between Nick Orlando and Ernie Hicks of Toronto, and these lightweights are both rated highly in the amateur ring game around Ontario. It'll be another fine show.

JIMMY LAWSON has been home on leave recently from the Royal Canadian Navy. Jim is a Peterborough boy who used to box and play minor ball around these parts several years back. He was welter champ in the navy two years ago and last year but has put on a bit of weight. A few weeks ago in agarrison mitt show in Halifax, he fought Stoker MacIntosh, a lightheavy, and spotted him over 10 pounds. It was for the "open lightheavy crown" and the stoker got the nod — but Jim did extra well against a noted pugilist.

WESTCLOX GALS once again walloped Lindsay Supremes last night, by a 16-3 score, in an exhibition tussle of gals' softball at the Bowl. It was run for charity in connection with the Rotary Carnival, and saw Ab Delahaye's damsels get good pitching, fielding and thumping base blows out in the direction of the ferris wheel and booths by the river. Barb Blade, succeding H. Bradley on the home mound, pitched fine ball. While the Armour Hill maidens are dominating in this first-half schedule of the lasses' loop, none of the others are worrying too much yet, Lindsay, C.G.E. and Keene all knowing there is another half and also playoffs in each half. And flowers that bloom in June sometimes . . . oh, well. Tonight, Keene and C.G.E. gals have an exhibition softball tilt at 6.15 in the Bowl, proceeds going to the Rotary Carnival.

CHURCH SOFTBALL tonight: George St: Majors vs. the Buzzers at the Oval, umps from Knox and Mark St.; St. John's Juniors vs. All Saints at Central, loop supplying umps; George St. Juveniles vs. St. James at King Edward school, umps from All Saints and Park St.; and St. John's Bantams vs. All Saints at Prince of Wales school. We have been asked about a ruling on a runner when the pitcher takes the rubber. Does he have to return directly to his base or can he wait for a throw to his base or make a dart for the next one. Senior church teams have been arguing over this. Rule 48, Sec. 21 of the O.S.A. book says: "The base runner is out if, after the pitcher has assumed his position on the pitcher's plate, with the ball in his possession, he leave his base before the ball delivered by the pitcher has passed home plate or results in a hit." So we gather if the runner is off his sack when the pitcher with the ball steps on the rubber, it's up to the runner to get back fast to his base — or be called out.

RUSS KITCHEN and Jack Turner will probably renew their May 24th pitching battle in Oshawa tomorrow. The big righthand curver was going great guns after the second inning of the opening C.O.B.L. contest here, while Turner was almost unhittable that day. But the Petes are some 50 per cent stronger and Oshawa has not improved. Hence, we look for another local win on Saturday right in the GM-men's home park. The locals had a workout last p.m. in Riverside but the boys weren't doing much to Lefty McNally's delivery. Glad he's on our team! Oshawa scrivener says: "The visit of the Petes to Oshawa this Saturday for a C.O.B.L. fixture is taking on every aspect of an invasion." Ah, yes, indeed, George, and leave us parking space in the press box as we'll be on deck for it.

Picard and Hines Top Pace Setters In U.S. Amateur

DENVER, June 10 (A.P.). — Slightly groggy but still in there punching, golf's bigwigs and less noted members of the clan let loose their best shots to-day in another bout with par which brought the United States open championship through the second round.

It was "do or die" this day on ribbon-like fairways and treacherous greens of Cherry Hills. When the bombardment ceased nearly two-thirds of the field was slated to take that last long trek to the sidelines. The 60 low scorers and ties remained to fight it out in the last 36 holes to-morrow.

Lead Pace-setters.

Pace-setters Henry Picard and Jimmy Hines knocked out a first-round 70. It was one under par for the mile high course where drives travel swiftly to greater distances in the rarefied atmosphere.

Picard from Hershey, Pa., clubbed his sub-par effort into the records with a 36-34. Hines, blond New Yorker, reversed the figures for the same total.

Canada's lone hope, Kasmir C. Zabowski, Winnipeg professional, carded a 79, going out in 40 strokes and coming home in one less. Merlin H. Luther, Buffalo amateur representing the Fort Erie, Ont., Downs Golf Club, shot a poor 90, taking 45 strokes for both halfes.

Willie Hunter, one time British amateur champion now playing for pay out of Los Angeles, and Dick Metz, Chicago, teed off in good second round shape with 73's. Ernie Zimmerman, a "dark horse" had a 72.

Senior Lacrosse Tilt Here To-night

The opening of the 1938 Ontario Lacrosse Association senior "B" schedule in Peterborough takes place tonight (Friday) at 8.30 o'clock in the George St. arena between Brampton and the Petes. While the locals have played and won three exhibition tilts to date this year and won an O.L.A. game earlier in the week in Woodbridge, this will be the first scheduled fixture in Peterborough, and the first senior "B" team in the history of lacrosse. The locals have been raised to this category this year and are in a powerful group, which has an interlocking schedule with another powerful group, and every game should be a real battle. Brampton has bolstered considerably and hopes to pull out a win but the Petes will be plenty strong, too. They have added another player, an ex-Orillia junior, named Walter (Shorty) Reid. He was with the junior champions of Canada last year and will be playing tonight. As well as Worthy, Westonfelt and all the local classy performers.

It should be a dandy game and rates a big crowd of fans, if the weather is right this evening. Admission will be: Adults 25 cents, children 10 cents, and east stand 10 cents. It was decided to reserve the east stand and charge an extra dime, as the club needs this money to meet extra travelling expenses in the heavy schedule for the summer.

Cricket Notes

The Peterborough Club will play Lindsay C.C. at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon, June 11.

Brampton Gains Third-Place Tie Senior Lacrosse

TORONTO, June 10 (C.P.). — Brampton Excelsiors' first home victory of the season was a long time coming, but when it came it pulled them high into contention in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series.

Excelsiors finally scored over Hamilton-Burlington Combines 10-5 at Brampton last night, stepping into a third-place tie with Mimico. At the same time Orillia's league champions regained a first-place deadlock with the undefeated St. Catharines team by downing the winless Brantford Indians 25-8 at Orillia.

Only two points divide the two top teams from Brampton and Mimico, and the Excelsiors can bridge the difference to-morrow night when they tackle the Combines again at Hamilton. Playing the same aggressive lacrosse they showed last night, they may make the grade.

Hamilton was on the defensive most of the way and when the Combines broke away they usually found Duke Savage to stout an obstacle in goal. iWth Barron leading, Brampton stepped into a 5-0 lead in the first quarter and Hamilton never made it close.

Orillia's fifth consecutive win was just another march. The Terriers got only a 5-3 lead in the first quarter, but they scored eight times in the second and seven in the third. After scoring four times, Ernie Curran drew a penalty and Jack Connell another to keep Orillia from piling up an even higher count.

JIMMY FOXX MAY REPLACE LOU GEHRIG IN ALL-STAR GAME

Ace Boston Batting Champion Will Accompany Lefty Grove To The Cincinnati Classic

Grove Is League's 10-Game Winner In Loop So Far

NEW YORK, June 10 (CP).—Unless there's a major epidemic of broken legs, or train connections between Boston and Cincinnati give out, Jimmy Foxx will be doing the American League's first-basing chores in the all-star game against the National League next month.

Jimmy's been in on the show before—in four of the five mid-summer classics—but never yet has he held down the first sack. Always he's been at third. This year, however, it's another story, what with Foxx taking the cover off the ball, Lou Gehrig amounting to just another ball player at the plate, and the rest of the opposition, with the possible exception of Hal Trosky, far behind Jimmy.

10-Game Winner.

Lefty is the big leagues' only 10-game winner so far this season, having reached that point in what looks like a 25-game year by blanking Cleveland Indians 8-0 yesterday. Foxx drove in two runs behind Lefty's elbowing and contributed his 18th homer of the year.

While the Sox were taking their series two games to one from the American League leaders, the National League spotlight remained focussed on Chicago, where New York Giants made it three straight over the Cubs, largely through some more of that special Cub brand of master-minding.

With the score tied in the ninth inning, two out and two Giants on base, Cholly Grimm summoned Rookie Bob Logan to relieve Tex Carleton. Now Logan is a left-hander, and, as such, figured to give the Giants more trouble than a rightie. But Logan previously this season had appeared in just nine innings, and had obliged the opposition with nine hits and six runs.

Bob gave up a hit to the first batsman, walked the second to force in a run, and finally was tagged for another hit, scoring two more. By the time Old Jack Russell rushed in to put out the fire, the Giants had the ball game sewed up 8-5, and pulled a game and a half in front.

Pirates Top Bees.

In the only other National League game, the Pirates clubbed Jim Turner for 10 hits and topped the Bees 5-3, behind Mace Brown's fine relief pitching. The Dodgers and Cardinals were rained out.

The Yankees stopped playing cousin to Chicago White Sox and whipped Dykes' outfit 5-3. Rookie Dario Lodigiani clouted a homer with the bases loaded and paced the Athletics to an 8-5 win over Detroit Tigers, ending Vernon Kennedy's run of nine straight victories. Jimmy Deshong and Pete Appleton pitched a four-hitter between them and Washington Senators sank St. Louis Browns 6-4.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Lefty Grove, Red Sox—Fanned eight in blanking Indians 8-0 with nine hits, and drove in three runs.

Walt Brown, Giants—Shut out Cubs with two hits in five-inning relief trick to save 8-5 win.

Dario Lodigiani, Athletics—Hit homer with bases loaded and three singles, driving in five runs in 8-5 win over Tigers.

Mace Brown, Pirates—Held Bees to two hits in seven-inning relief performance, and drove in two runs for 5-3 victory.

Jimmy Deshong, Senators—Held Browns to four hits for eight innings for 6-4 victory.

Sonny Hobbins In Program

Birds Keep Up Winning Pace Wallop Bears

TORONTO, June 10.—(CP). — The International League is back to normal again, now that Newark Bears have proven vulnerable and the long losing streak of the Baltimore Orioles is at an end.

Buffalo Bisons demonstrated their double victory over the Bears Tuesday was no fluke when they walloped out No. 3 over the champions yesterday by a 13-3 count, and moved within four games of the pace-setters.

The Orioles not only broke their 13-game losing streak by defeating Montreal Royals 7-5 but regained the services of Lefty Carl Fischer, who broke an arm early in the season. The ace southpaw relieved young Johnny Wittig in the sixth inning and held the Royals to one hit in 3 1-3 innings to receive credit for the win.

Jersey City Giants took their third in a row from Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-3, behind the seven-hit pitching of Hy Vandenberg, and Rochester Red Wings split a double-header with Syracuse Chiefs. The Chiefs won the opener 2-1 but dropped the second game 1-0. Rookie Cardin Gillenwater smashed out a homer in the ninth inning for the lone run to break up a hurling duel between long Johnny Gee and Rochester's Si Johnson.

Mark St. Loses To Murray St.

Murray St. Seniors kept very much in the Church Softball League running last night with a 10-9 nod over Mark St. at the Oval in a nifty scrap. Two dropped flies in the outfield gave the Baptists four unearned runs in the last two innings. Mark St. got but five hits, two homers by Ferguson and Brady, with Craig hitting a triple and single. Craig fanned six and walked six for the losers, as Wilson struck out 10 but walked nine. Davis got three hits for the winners, and Wilson and F. Spencely two each. The teams:

Lindsay Lasses Lose To Westclox

In an exhibition girls' softball game last night at the Bowl, in connection with the Rotary Carnival, Westclox handed Lindsay Supremes a 16-3 lacing before a big crowd of fans. The game did not count in the Girls' Softball League standing, being put on for charity. It was a fair tussle but too one-sided to be really interesting. The Clockmakers had a good margin in hurling, hitting and fielding to earn the nod handily. They scored seven runs in the seventh frame on five hits and two walks.

H. Bradley twirled for Westclox four innings, limiting the opposition to four hits in that time as she walked four and struck out an equal number. Barb Blade took over then and gave up but one hit the rest of the route, no walks and fanned two in a dandy showing. J. Corley lasted six heats for Lindsay as she fanned six, walked one and was reached for 12 hits. M. McCabe finished, fanning and walking one and giving five bingles. Lindsay hitters were: D. Botting with a homer and single and F. Mark, E. Campbell and D. Sexsmith. M. Hawthorne of Westclox got two doubles and two singles, with M. Allison hitting a triple, double and single. Nice fielding was shown by V. Morton, D. Botting, A. Sturgeon and M. McCaul. The teams:

Lindsay: F. Mark, ss; M. Campbell, 2b; D. Botting, rf; E. Campbell, c; J. Corley, p, cf; D. Sexsmith, lf; D. Lees, 1b; V. Morton, 3b; E. Halliday, cf; McCabe, p.

George St. Bantams of the Church Softball League climbed into first place last night with a 25-4 win over Knox at Central, the losers being shorthanded. After the first frame, only six Knox men got to first against Smith's neat twirling and only one scored. George St. were pushing runs in all through with Wellwood, Burnham and McCurrock leading the attack. The teams:

Cricket "Ashes" Originated In Year 1882

Cablegrams from the Old Country this week-end will contain much news as to the cricket match being played between England and Australia and will be sure to make reference to The Ashes, a term which may be somewhat of a mystery to many Canadians; its origin will be explained later. The match which begins at Nottingham to-day (Friday, June 10) will be the 140th of the series, of which Australia has won 56, England 54, and there have been 29 drawn games. Five games will be played to decide the cricket supremacy. There is a history of some three-quarters of a century behind them. It was on Christmas Eve, 1861, that the first English touring team arrived in Australia. It was a great success and the Australians avidly took to the game; now it is with them almost a religion, with Don. Bradman as High Priest.

Upsets England

In 1878 they were able to send a team to England which surprised the Old Country men by its ability. They came again in 1880, but it was during their visit in 1882 that they dealt a shattering blow to English prestige by defeating England on their own ground. This happened at the Oval on August 28 and 29, 1882, and that epoch-making game is referred to as The Ashes Match. England had to get 84 runs to win, and they made 77. Spofforth, the Australian "demon" bowler, took 14 wickets for 90 runs in the match, and during the final crisis bowled 11 overs for 2 runs and four wickets. Cricketers will realize what that means. At the end of the week the London Sporting Times published the now historic obituary notice which originated the term "The Ashes." It ran in full as follows:

"In affectionate remembrance of English Cricket which died at the Oval on 29th August, 1882. Deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. R.I.P. N.B.—The body will be cremated and the Ashes taken to Australia." The phrase struck the public imagination, and has lived to denote the cricket supremacy.

The Australians are the holders of these mythical Ashes, having taken them from England, in England, in 1934, and retained them against the onslaught of the English team in Australia in 1936-37. In this present series of five matches it will be England's ambition to recover them.

Though The Ashes are mythical, there is actually an urn in existence to hold them. The next year an English team went to Australia and avenged their defeat. The ladies of Melbourne subscribed for and obtained an amphora-shaped urn upon which is inscribed "The Ashes." This was presented to the English captain, the Hon. Ivo Bligh, afterwards Lord Darnley, who by his will bequeathed it to the M.C.C., and it now rests in the pavilion at Lord's.

This in brief is the story of the origin of The Ashes, and now, after a span of 56 years, the fight is again on, and it would be a sanguine man who attempted to name the winner. It seems perhaps like a case of Bradman and ten others, but he is a host in himself. Cricketers fully realize what his Test match record means. Here it is: In 23 test matches he has played 40 innings, twice not out, scored 3,406 runs, with an average of 89.63 per innings; he has to his credit two triple-centuries, five doubles, and five single hundreds, twelve centuries in all—a perfectly unique and astounding record. Probably the result of the 1938 Tests depend greatly upon his success or failure.

Watercraft Games

The Canadian Watercraft League softball teams played the fifth games of their schedule last night at the Exhibition Grounds, with Comets beating Falcons 42-8 and Venetians defeating the Admirals 26-8. In the first fixture, the Comets' twirler fanned 15 and had good backing while Falcons were sloppy in the field and failed to hit. The second setto saw the winners getting the breaks and also playing good ball to earn the nod. Next Thursday, Falcons meet Admirals, while Comets play Venetians.

Urge Ottawa

a terrible thing if an institution set up by a government for providing employment shall be subject to control by representatives of a political party."

Mr. Rogers said complaints had reached him from the various provinces and he held the view that employment offices should be Federally controlled if they could be allied with a scheme of unemployment insurance under a commission.

Minister Agrees

"I am inclined to agree," the minister said, "that from time to time employment services have been used for political purposes." Although the Dominion helped pay expenses of the provincial employment offices it did not control them.

Mr. Bennett suggested the provinces should be warned the Dominion would not contribute to the employment services if they were not maintained on a non-partisan basis.

"Do honorable members realize," Mr. Bennett asked, "that this is the first time in the history of democracy when a majority of the electors are on relief? And we have those responsible for providing relief telling them that if they do not vote right they will go hungry."

Mr. Rogers replied that was a reflection as well upon those on relief. "Does my right honorable friend suggest for one moment that because a man is on relief, even if there were dictation of that kind it would be submitted to? Suggest that is an impossible statement."

Mr. Bennett: "I at once say yes, and, what is more, I know. A man with a wife and family is not taking chances on starvation."

Pressed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King for an instance to support his charge of such persuasion Mr. Bennett said the federal Liberal member for Regina was reported in the press as having said electors of that province should return Liberal candidates because Liberal governments in Saskatchewan and at Ottawa have brought them more abundant relief than they would otherwise have received.

Mr. Mackenzie King submitted this was not something of which the Opposition leader had personal knowledge. "Does he know of his own knowledge of any case where a man has been told that unless he voted a certain way he would go hungry."

Bennett Reads Letters.

Mr. Bennett proceeded to read letters from men complaining they had been refused employment on relief works in the Kingston district, represented by Mr. Rogers, because they were not supporters of the Liberal party.

It was possible such things happened when he was Prime Minister, Mr. Bennett said, but he had set up safeguards to prevent them. His point was that the present government had undertaken to end that sort of thing.

This was the third time, Mr. Rogers said, that the Opposition leader had brought up these "veiled charges" by which he sought to "create the impression that I, as Minister of Labor, had defintely connived at violation of the terms with respect to employment under relief agreements."

"All I ask from the Minister," Mr. Bennett said, "is that he give the House some assurance the policy indicated by the Prime Minister will be adhered to and that this sort of thing will be stopped, and he can stop it if he wants to.

Points to Saskatchewan.

"We shouldn't say much about Social Credit and $20 a month when we remember what has happened in Saskatchewan in the last few weeks. For the first time in history we have had 75 per cent. of the people on relief and we have had the men responsible for the administration of relief telling them they had better vote for the Government if they don't want to go hungry."

Mr. Rogers asked if Mr. Bennett had nothing to regret about happenings at the relief camp at Barriefield near Kingston, during his administration.

"Ah," said Mr. Bennett, "but you were going to stop all that. This was where the professor was going to see that decency prevailed."

The minister said Mr. Bennett had complained earlier in the Parliamentary session about his accepting the recommendations of the local Liberal executive for casual appointments to departments outside the Civil Service Commission. He was not hypocritical enough to deny he had followed the same practice always followed.

There was nothing wrong in that, said Mr. Bennett. What he mentioned was the fitness of one man for a job, a man who a few days after his appointment spent the night in jail for impersonating an elector in an Ontario election. So far as he knew this man was still employed and wearing the uniform of the country.

The Stansbury Case.

If Mr. Bennett's present information was no more reliable than some he had given the House earlier in the session it was not worth much, said Mr. Rogers. He had said A. E. Stansbury, president of the Kingston Liberal Association, was a director of a contracting company, which was not so.

"He was compelled to make the most ungracious retraction I ever heard," said the minister.

"That was because I know a lot about Mr. Stansbury," said Mr. Bennett.

The minister said Mr. Stansbury had never profited from any Government contract.

"How was his garage built?" asked Mr. Bennett.

"He has no garage," said Mr. Rogers.

"I mean the garage at his house," said Mr. Bennett. "It was built in part with public property.

Bomb Raids

bane and dropped two bombs aboard the crippled ship. The Brisbane, which had been smoldering on the beach since incendiary bombs set her ablaze yesterday, filled rapidly and settled to the bottom. Seven persons were killed in the first attack on the Brisbane but no new reports of casualities followed the latest raids, which started about 10.30 last night.

Gandia was first attacked two days ago with the destruction of a dredgeboat, a warehouse and railroad property in what Edwin Apfel, British manager of the operating company, said was a "deliberate and brazen attack on British property."

The two-masted schooner sunk today was of Spanish registry. The plane dropped six bombs.

Main Warehouse Wrecked.

Two bombs made direct hits on the schooner, blowing her apart. Three hundred and ninety feet of the principal warehouse was razed.

Apfel said the whole harbor works would have been blown to bits if three of the largest bombs had not been duds. He said he was certain it was the same phantom raider which attacked the port before. He was not able to make out its markings, however, because of the speed with which the flier worked.

Residents of the tiny village of Grau Gandia, near by, heard the drone of the plane's motors. They fled to the fields, threw themselves flat on the ground and watched the methodical destruction.

The attack was one of a series by a lone flier who wrecked two British and French merchantmen yesterday. In addition the plane machine gunned the British freighter Stanray Wednesday in the attack on Gandia, the ship reported last night.

Ships bombed yesterday were the Brisbane, the British freighter Isadora at Castellon De La Plana, and another ship of Spanish registry, name not reported, at Benicasim. There were no foreigners among the 12 killed and 19 wounded at Benicasim.

Marriage By 'Phone

GREENVILLE, Tex., June 10.—(AP) — The telephone company stands to collect a nice fat toll because of a marriage here. Miss Malura T. Weaver of San Antonio and M. D. Thomas of Greenville were married in a hotel yesterday with the rites being read over the telephone by her father, Dr. A. F. Weaver, from his home in York, Pa., more than 2,000 miles away. It was a seven-minute call.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Marmora Institute Plan Park Benches

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 10—The regular meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lewis Phillips with the newly-elected president, Mrs. James Gardenier, in the chair and the attendance numbering thirty-one. The roll call for this meeting as in former years was "Pay your dues." The question of a proposed first aid course was discussed with the result that it was decided to leave the matter in abeyance until after the annual district convention. The question also of putting tables and benches in Booster Park was left to the committee for community activities to bring in a report. It was decided to entertain the Springbrook Women's Institute on the lawn of Tipperary Hotel, Crowe Lake, on July 6.

Following "Current Events," capably given by Miss M. Brown, Mrs. E. Schofield gave a thoughtful talk on the motto, "A merry heart is good medicine." A brain tease contest was then held followed by bingo after which lunch was served by the following committee: Mesdames W. E. Gould, E. C. Prentice, C. Hamilton, M. Linton and L. Green and Miss M. Savage.

Hurled Into Ditch

SUDBURY.—Veronica O'Neill and Dorland Kidd escaped serious injury last night when the carriage of an airplane swing in which they were riding at a carnival became loose and hurled them 25 feet into a ditch full of stagnant water.

Such was the list of lucky folk whose tickets were drawn out of a big box containing thousands of stubs by Mayor James Hamilton at the windup of the first night of the Rotary carnival at Riverside Park Thursday night.

The climax of the big event will come tonight at 11.15 o'clock when the Mayor will dip his hand down once again into the huge receptable and from thousands of stubs, ten which incidentally bear the name of Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's Governor-General, will select one, and as a result some fortunate individual will be able to purchase a 1938 car for one dollar.

Favored by fine weather conditions, despite the fact that atmosphere cooled perceptibly as the evening wore on, the first night of Rotary's carnival was an unqualified success. The crowd came early and stayed late and all the booths and games were able to report excellent business, while the Giant Wheel, merry-go-round and kiddies auto speedway never lacked patrons.

Held at Riverside

From a picturesque as well as a financial viewpoint the new locale proved splendidly successful. The decorated booths and the bright lights made a much more effective picture spread out on the level green sward of Riverside Park against a background of fine trees than was the case on the market square and both Rotarians and their patrons voted the change worthwhile.

After Mayor Hamilton had finished the draw, James Dutton, president of Rotary thanked the crowd for the fine assistance they had given and the carnival manager Jack Seels, for the manner in which he had planned the event. "Any success we have achieved in the past," said Mr. Dutton, "is largely due to him and those who have helped him."

"Rotary's work," continued the speaker, "concerns itself with the welfare of crippled children. Many a child in Peterborough would have grown up crippled if it had not been for Rotary and it is only through the splendid and generous support you have given us that we have been able to carry on."

Everything will be in full swing at the big carnival tonight. The program will get under way with a soft ball game between C.G.E. and Keene girls and when that is completed the booths and games will be ready for the night's business. At 11.15 the draw for the car will be made by Mayor Hamilton and the draw for the fine terrier pup will be completed at the same time.

Kinsmen Are Told Of Campaign In Dardanelles

Captain W. Larmer of Toronto, master of a troop ship during the Great War, and one who was closely in touch with the Dardanelles campaign, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kinsmen Club held on Thursday evening in the Empress Hotel.

Captain Larmer told of the mismanagement and the utter lack of ability of the allied leaders to be able to grasp the opportunities that were presented to them by the Turks in that campaign.

Born in Ireland, Captain Larmer early in life became connected with Royal Ulster Yacht Club, and when war broke out he was master of a ship. His vessel was one of those that took the first Canadian contingent across the Atlantic.

The speaker described the preparations for the campaign and how valuable time was wasted by the allied forces waiting for orders to attack. That month of waiting meant the loosing of the campaign, for the Turk was given time to prepare. Then again the places of attack were possibly the most vulnerable along the whole coast and the loss of life in landing was tremendous. It was later discovered that prior to the allied evacuation the Turks had withdrawn from the peninsula.

The speaker also described many submarine incidents and claimed that the airplane was being greatly overrated as an instrument of warfare.

Elsworth Deyell announced a $200 "Shopping Certificate" contest and also four consolation prizes of $10 each. The draw is to be made at the lacrosse game on Friday, July 15.

Wiser Gate Crasher

WINDSOR, Ont., June 10 (C.P.).—There's a wiser and sadder lad in Windsor to-day who will think twice before attempting to "gate crash" again. The unidentified youth tried to board a moonlight excursion steamer last night without a ticket and fell into the Detroit River.

The accident occurred as the boy slipped while attempting to jump from the dock to the boat. He managed to swim to the dock, climb up and scamper away before police could stop him.

Home Is Mighty Influence For Good Or Evil

The home was described as the "mightiest influence for either good or evil in the world today, by Rev. Father Augustine, of the Passionist Order, addressing the men of the Immaculate Conception Church on Thursday night.

"Let me impress on the fathers that yours is a noble vocation, you represent God in the home, and the father who realizes the sublimity of his mission is blest indeed. The father should realize that his children must read in his life the virtues and principles taught by Christ."

Father Augustine stressed the great value of good example in the raising of a family to live Christian lives. "I have no fear for the children of a father who exemplifies Christian virtues in his daily life." Preaching to children as to what they must do could go on till Doomsday but the children take their cue from the father's actions, and it is true that in some cases all the teachings of the priests and school teachers are lost because a father is indifferent and careless.

Respect Your Wife.

"You cannot expect your children to respect you if you do not show the proper respect for your wife. I know it is difficult to live together day after day and not quarrel, but the patience of God should be imitated. Don't nag the children or your wife, and a whining man is a scourge," said Father Augustine.

He urged all fathers to forget the distractions of the world after the evening meal, and instead of turning on the radio, spend some time in personally supervising the religious education of their children. He pointed out that a close watch should be kept on the conversation of the children, on the movies they attend and the books they read so that their moral education will be correct. "The great trouble today is that so many parents feel their neighbors' children are capable of any offence but that their own children are angels."

"Are you one of those fathers who will spend the better part of an hour whistling and searching for a pet dog or a Persian cat before you go to bed, to see that they are sheltered for the night, and then you retire indifferent to the fact that your 12-year-old son or daughter is on the streets, and will not come home until hours after you have fell asleep." He explained at this point the value of obedience and said it was the duty of fathers to teach children respect for constituted authority. "In many homes the children give the orders and the parents obey," he added.

"You are forbidden to allow your children to keep company with a divorced man or woman, he declared, and explained that the Church does not recognize divorce nor tolerate marriage to a divorced person. Referring to mixed marriages, he stated such were increasing and were a threat to the growth of the Church. "Some parents tell their child when the young man or woman marries and sets up a home for themselves that if everything does not go alright they can always come home." This interfering is wrong, if the young married couple are forced to stand on their own feet they will get along, but interference by good intentioned but unwise parents has put many marriages on the rocks."

The Mission is continuing and will be finished on Sunday afternoon next.

Boy Is Charged With Theft From Cottages

The fourteen-year-old boy picked up on Highway No. 7, Wednesday afternoon by Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton and discovered afterward to be a fugitive from the Bowmanville Boys' School was charged before Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning with having broken and entered three cottages down the river and stolen a quantity of stuff, including two canoes.

The boy was remanded for a week.

The charges against him followed the discovery of the fact that summer places on the Otonabee side of the river had been broken into recently and a number of articles taken.

From the cottage of Leonard Vass, several paddles and a quantity of fishing tackle was stolen.

Afterward a canoe and some dishes and eatables were taken from a cottage belonging to Ernest Croft. The accused and a younger brother are alleged to have paddled down the river in the Croft canoe and when it began to leak to have run it ashore and abandoned it. Later they are said to have broken into the cottage of Richard Scrace and stolen another canoe and this too was left when the boy noticed some men working near the river bank.

A pair of wading boots belonging to Scrace had been ruined when the tops were slashed off with a scythe.

Prisoner Brands Himself Social Outcast

HAMILTON, Ont., June 10 (C.P.)—Branding himself a "social outcast," whose young career in society had been scared by a reformatory term, Leonard V. Klink of Toronto entered a plea of guilty in Magistrate's Court to-day to four charges of forgery and uttering and four of false pretences. Magistrate James McKay sentenced him to the Ontario Reformatory for 15 months' determinate and six months' indeterminate on the forgery and uttering charges and three months concurent on the charges of false pretences.

Klink had been ashamed to live at home, he said, after serving his first term in the Reformatory.

Detective Herbert Witthun testified the accused had ordered furniture, furs and coal from four Hamilton firms, tendered cheques in payment, and received sums of cash as change.

In his own defence, Klink said he was on his way to Atlantic City to take a position offered him, when immigration officers arrested him in Cleveland, O., for illegal entry into the United States. He committed the acts, he said, in order to gain funds for the trip to Atlantic City. Police will take him to Peterborough this afternoon.

Relief In City Cost $1,041,432

Disbursements totalling $1,041,432 represent the cost of relief in Peterborough since the plan of using public funds was adopted for assisting unemployed men and women and their dependents up to the end of 1937.

Grants from the federal and provincial government amounted to $717,231. Peterborough has contributed by direct taxation on property $254,201, and an early issue of $70,000 debentures was the rest of the demand on the municipality.

These totals were compiled by Morley E. Shaver, city treasurer, for presentation to Rowell Commission.

Relief Budget Be Exhausted During August

Peterborough's appropriation for relief will be exhausted by August, Alderman Dutton informed the relief committee of the council last night.

Total expenditure to the end of May was $62,540.45, with a rebate from the government, including approximate amounts for April and May, of $30,599.05, leaving $31,941.40 as the five months' total demand on the city treasury. As the appropriation for the twelve months was $47,500, based on the encouraging decline in relief costs last year, due entirely to the improvement in employment, the sum remaining for seven months is $15,558.60. Prospect of a heavy overdraft at the present rate of disbursements has cast a cloud already over the council's budgeting for 1938.

Some of the totals in the statement of the expenditure for five months were: Provisions, $31,552.40; rent, $9,197.05; fuel, $6,229.09; milk, $4,119.55; doctors, $3,169.34; clothing, $2,733.34; and various other smaller amounts.

Some Comparisons.

The city's relief bill for May was $10,205.04; for April, $10,975.41, and for May last year, $6,061.88.

The number of persons on relief last month was 1,796, April 1,892, and May last year 1,249.

The relief for each person in May was $5.68, in April $5.80, and in May last year $4.85.

Mr. Metheral's statement to the committee included comparison of the relief scales in Ottawa and Peterborough.

Peterborough's relief allowance for a man and wife for one month is $40.38 and Ottawa $28.25; for man and wife and three children, Peterborough $59,02, and Ottawa $45.95 a month.

For a man and wife and five children, Peterborough $67.86, Ottawa $56.56 for a month; and for a man and wife and seven children a month, Peterborough $77.95 and Ottawa $64.19.

15 Couples Have Registered Intentions With City Clerk Of Marrying In June

Probably none of his friends consider Simon R. Armstrong as an intermediary of Cupid, and as a matter of fact and exactitude the City Clerk may not appear in that office and role, but certainly he definitely fits into the matrimonial picture somewhere.

Those brides and grooms of yesterday who applied at the city hall for marriage licenses know that they had to engage in a session with Mr. Armstrong before they declared their "I Do's" beneath the floral bower or whatever the setting may be. So far for this month's pealing of the marriage bells fifteen couples have registered their intentions of subscribing the original Magna Charta, the universal covenant of domesticity.

Nothing much is ever heard from the city hall about the registration of marriages. City Clerk Armstrong never mentions it. His records are for the provincial archives, but if you are in and out of the clerk's main office from time to time and see couples, mostly young, heading in to the inner office where the Clerk presides, you become aware of this extra duty of his that makes him a confederate of Cupid.

Why "Magna Carta Week"?

It was on June 15, 1215, that King John met the freedom-loving barons of England in a meadow named Runnymede, near Windsor Castle, and was forced to sign what came to be known as the "Great Charter".

That, of course, was a very long time ago; and it may seem somewhat far-fetched to celebrate to-day a victory won by the English barons over the English king at such a remote date.

Actually, however, the celebration of "Magna Carta week" is not so far-fetched as it may seem; for Magna Carta has become a sort of symbol of the principles underlying the British system of government—and, indeed, of the English speaking peoples the world over. It is something in which the people of Great Britain and the British Dominions may take pride equally with the people of the United States of America.

The object of "Magna Carta week" is to remind us of the advantages of the system of government we enjoy:

(1) It is democratic. No doubt, democratic government has often grave defects; and other kinds of government, such as dictatorships, may seem sometimes more efficient. But democracy has at least this to be said for it that it enables the majority of the people of a country to change by their ballots conditions they do not like. Under a dictatorship, this can only be done by bullets. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAVE BULLETS SUBSTITUTED FOR BALLOTS?

(2) It is based on the rule of law. Not even the king of Great Britain or the president of the United States, or the governor-general of Canada is above the law; and in Canada every officer of government, from the prime minister down to the humblest civil servant or police constable, is liable in the courts if he breaks the law. But a dictator is always above the law. His will is law. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE SUBJECT TO THE WHIMS OF A LAWLESS RULER?

(3) It is based on individual liberty. This does not mean liberty to say or do what one likes, but liberty to say or do only what one likes within the law. It means, however, what are known as "freedom of speech", "freedom of assembly", and "freedom of the press". It means that the state exists for the individual, and not that the individual exists for the state. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE A SLAVE OF THE STATE?

(4)—It is characterized by freedom from arbitrary arrest and from imprisonment without trial. This has long been a feature of the British system of justice, with its Habeas Corpus Acts. It has never been a feature of dictatorships. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE ARRESTED WITHOUT ANY CHARGE BEING MADE AGAINST YOU, AND KEPT IN JAIL INDEFINITELY, WITHOUT ANY RECOURSE TO JUSTICE?

(5) It is based on religious toleration. In all the English-speaking countries there is the fullest religious freedom. That is not always true in countries under a dictatorship; nor is it likely to be true. HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE PERSECUTED FOR YOUR RELIGIOUS BELIEFS?

It is because we have inherited from the Mother Country not only the English language and literature, but also THE BRITISH WAY OF DOING THINGS, that we should celebrate "Magna Carta" week.

FICTION AND FEATURES

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, set out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after their long ride, Bill and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, they soon are subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians. Convinced Bill and Panola have been seized by Indians, Ellen offers to go after them with the aid of two Yaqui Indians Felix had taken prisoner and whom she had befriended. Felix tells Ellen his mother has said she loves Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 10

Ellen did not answer immediately when Felix asked his question.

How could she admit or deny that she loved Bill Baron, when she herself did not know The man was virtually a stranger to her, an aviator whom she had hired in an impulsive moment a few days ago. True, he had saved her life in a rather spectacular fashion, and he had a drawling charm of manner. But love? That was another matter!

"Naturally I do not wish harm to come to him," Ellen replied, seriously. She did not include Panola in that wish, but the omission was an unconscious one. "He is an American. He is in danger and I feel an obligation to him."

"Then you do not love him?" Felix suddenly jabbed the question. His intent manner surprised her. She looked into his eyes, and gave no answer for a long moment.

"I did not say that," she almost whispered it, finally.

Now he began storming that it was inconceivable for a mere girl to try to rescue Bill Baron and Panola.

It was inconceivable, and yet the idea was not without its possibilities. Don Julio had the political influence necessary to get a detachment of soldiers and could himself have armed several men; but all of these would be wasted in the defiant crags and canyons where the Yaqui Indians lived.

"If we send in men, some will surely lose their lives," Felix reminded his father. "Panola and Senor Baron would likely be first to be killed."

"It is so," the mother added.

When Felix had translated for Ellen, she agreed. "And if you or your father went in alone; you would simply be killed or held captive too, wouldn't you? You or any other Mexican man. But I—am a stranger to them. An American. Do they hate Americans?"

"No," admitted Felix. "In fact they look to America as escape. They have two Yaqui villages in Arizona, Mees Dale, one near Phoenix, anawther near Tuscon. They are estranjeros—aliens, you say—they have no country. They have been run out of Mexico."

"You mean they were forced out?"

"Yes."

"And the United States does not deport them? Then they are expatriates?"

"Si, senorita! It is the word! And the Yaquis they all look to your countree as frineds. It is why you might be able to do what you propose, if you are brave."

"I am not afraid."

But Don Julio interrupted with an important thought. How would Ellen communicate with the Indians? She spoke no more than a dozen words of Spanish which she had learned since her arival in Mexico, and knew nothing of the idiom or dialect of the Yaquis.

That stumed them, evoked much discussion in which Ellen took no part. She was doing some rapid thinking. Suddenly she grabbed Felix Montoya by the arm.

"Come with me for a moment," she commanded. "You know how to talk to them.

She led him, surprisingly around back of the storehouse to the window of the two imprisoned men. They stared out curiously, and it was plain that hatred for Felix shone in their eyes.

"Tell them you translate for me, that you speak for me alone," Ellen commanded. "Tell them I plan to go into their village and get the white girl and man. Ask them where I must go, whom I must see."

The conversation that followed was a rather long one. Felix had some difficulty convincing the prisoners of Ellen's plan.

"They say you can never find the village."

"Oh!" the American girl looked at the men, who stood glued to their bars. "Tell them—ask them if they will go with me, show me the way? Be my interpreters and guides?"

Felix glared at her.

"It is impossible!" he declared. "You, a—"

"Tell them! Do as I say! It is my business. You can think of nothing better, no other way to rescue your sister and my friend! Tell them, at once!"

Felix translated again, and this time the conversation was longer. But in the end he had made an amazing deal.

"They say, in return for their freedom, they will escort you right to the village chief and see that Panola and Senor Baron go free!"

"Oh, that's what I want," cried Ellen. "Tell them it's a bargain, and I will pay them well also. Tell them—here, give them these." She removed two rings which she wore and extended the bright trinkets, which were of considerable value, to the Yaqui men.

She couldn't have clinched the deal better. She stayed near the window while Felix hastened to inform his parents, and to get the key to set the prisoners free. The Yaquis stared at her with the same dog-like gratitude in their eyes that they had shown when she brought them food and water.

"It will not be necessary to talk, if you explain everything to them before we start," Ellen reminded Felix. "Make all the arrangements clear. I am not afraid to go with them."

"I shall wear a pistol and follow them at some distance, Don Julio. They will do me no harm."

The old Mexican didn't understand her fully, but he could see she was obdurate. He talked to Felix at length.

"Can you handle the gun, the shooting?" Felix asked her.

"I—yes!"

It was not strictly true. Once in a Hollywood movie scene Ellen Dale had been required to fire a pistol, blut it was a small one and of course harmless. Never before or since had she touched one of the things. But she thought best not to go into details now.

"And the horses?"

"I can ride," she said, which was true. She had two horses of her own in Hollywood. She was accustomed to the flat pan-shaped English saddles, but she had an idea the Mexican saddle with its high pommel and cantle wouldn't be any harder to cling to. In that she was right.

While she was making hasty preparations to start, Felix was tying a canteen and a parcel of food on her saddle, and he personally inspected a rifle, loaded it and put it in the saddle holster. Then he assisted her to strap a pistol belt and ammunition on.

All the while Ellen was feeling just a trifle ridiculous. Her mind was really in a sad state of confusion. "Why am I doing all this foolishness?" she asked herself. "Bill Baron is nothing to me. He walked into the trouble. My business is to get out of Mexico as soon as I can and go home."

She told herself that, but she knew it was futile reasoning, knew she would not listen to her own counsel. She had said she wasn't afraid, but she knew she really was very much so.

The Yaqui men were each given a horse and provisions also. When the party was all set to go, Don Julio caused them to halt for a brief moment while he said a prayer. News of the plan had interested everybody about the ranchhouse, so that nearly 20 servants and others were bowed there.

The three were just starting when they were again interrupted, however.

Senor Montoya came hastening out of the house. She herself carried a rifle, and a canteen. Her kindly old face was set with a strange, strained expression. She spoke crisply to her son Felix, as if in command, then to a cowboy who quickly dismounted and turned his horse over to her. A stir and murmuring went through the assembly of Mexicans.

"My mawther," began Felix, addressing Ellen, "she say American woman is no braver than Mexican, and she will go with you, talk for you, help you all she can."

There were no more words. Silently the group watched the strange cavalcade ride away—two savages, leading a woman and a girl. Don Julio stared ,transfixed, too appalled to protest.

Turn your out-of-date sofa into a young modern. Fit a smart new slip cover round its faithful frame! Easy to make one—even a tricky looking style.

Smooth the material wrong side out over your sofa; anchor with pins three inches apart. Cut, allowing 1½ inches for seams. Baste, try on, stitch and finish. Weight skirt with lining. To remove covers easily, make plackets with zipper fasteners.

Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step directions for slip covers for sofas, chairs, pads, automobile seats. Diagrams and pictures show how to estimate, cut, fit, finish seams.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Utilities Head Jailed

HAMILTON, June 10 (CP)—Escaping injury when his car went out of control on No. 5 highway four miles west of Clappison's Corners and crashed into a guard rail today, Charles Waterous, 60, Brantford, who described himself as a commissioner of public utilities, was arrested by Provincial Highway Traffic Constable Earl Bond on charges of reckless driving and being intoxicated in charge of a car.

DOROTHY DIX

AMONG the things that intrigue me most about the last Mother's Day were the pictures of Mother that adorned the illustrated magazines and the advertising pages of the newspapers. Invariably she was depicted as a stout, squashy lady with gray hair neatly parted in the middle, wearing a fichu folded across her ample breast and held together by a large cameo breastpin. Heavy bowed spectacles covered her dim eyes and her expression was that of one who had done with earthly things and was preparing to meet her Maker.

Apparently artists are still sold on the idea that Mother is always a decrepit creature hobbling around in the nineties. Whereas in reality most of the mothers we know are fortyish and don't look it, and are the most up-and-coming people in the community. The traditional mother, as a species, is among our disappearing fauna.

And if it is hard to find in real life a mother who looks like her Victorian portrait, still more difficult is it to come across a grandmother who lives up to what we have been taught to expect of her. For grandmothers aren't what they used to be. No longer do they climb on the shelf and WAIT for the END when grandpa dies. They start out to live their own lives for the first time. No longer do they sit in the chimney corner and knit baby socks. They buy a ticket around the world, or get themselves jobs, or go in for club work or civic betterment and get to be personages instead of Mary's or Tom's mother and have more dates than a debutante.

The altered status of grandma is forcibly illustrated by the Grandmothers Club which has been formed in Chicago, with members in a dozen states, all of them having not only grandchildren but also active and important jobs. The president, who has three grandchildren, heads the women's department of one of the big railroads. The secretary is a popular and higly paid lecturer. One member directs a $2,000,000 estate. Another manages a gravel pit. One young thing of 72 sells insurance. And so it goes. Every grandmother of them all on her tiptoes instead of in bedroom slippers, full of life and pep, proving that you can't keep a good woman down by a few years and gray hairs and a second crop of olive branches.

Perhaps even the founders of this club did not realize that they were writing a new chapter in the history of woman's progress, nor sensed that they were lighting a beacon of hope in the despairing breasts of millions of their sex. But such are the momentous consequences of their action. They proved to women that they could beat the rap of age and showed them how to take the curse off grandmotherhood.

For this club symbolizes woman's emancipation from the taboos of the conventions of the past, when a woman at middle age was supposed to be done with all personal vanities, interests and pleasures, and thereafter to find her happiness in good deeds and serving others. When the modern woman counts her blessings, she may well go down on her knees and thank God that, instead of being old at 40, she is still young, going strong and having the time of her life at 80.

The Grandmothers' Club ponts the way out of the slough of despond in which so many women are engulfed when their husbands die and leave them penniless and they are forced to live with their children. No figure is more pathetic than the dependent mother. No tears are bitterer than those the woman sheds who knows that she must either be a firebrand or a rubber stamp in her children's homes. No humiliation more galling than that the woman suffers who degenerates into being nothing but "granny."

To those lost souls the Grandmothers' Club sounds a clarion call to action. To be up and doing something about the situation they find unpleasant. At 50, at 60, at 70 most women are stronger and healthier than they were in their youth. They could not have lived that long without acquiring some skill by which they could support themselves. They have years of good work in them, and they would be so much happier if they would only strike out for themselves and have their own homes and their own pay envelopes instead of going on a sit-down for the balance of their lives. So I hail the Grandmothers' Club and urge the women in every community to organize one.

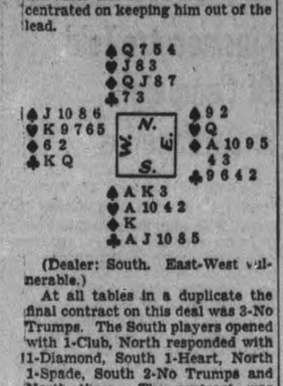
"The Authority on Authorities"

MINIMIZE YOUR RISK

SCIENTIFIC play of a no trump contract is frequently a matter of minimizing your risks. By so doing, you conversely increase your chances of success. Usually one defender is more dangerous than the other and efforts must be concentrated on keeping him out of the lead.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

At all tables in a duplicate the final contract on this deal was 3-No Trumps. The South players opened with 1-Club, North responded with 1-Diamond, South 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-No Trumps and North three. The contract was made with two overtricks at some tables and defeated at others, all depending upon how the South players handled the club suit.

The heart 6 was the opening lead, which was won with the A. The diamond K was allowed to hold, and West won with the heart K the return lead of that suit. He followed with a heart to the J. Now the club finesse was tried and, lost to West, who led another heart to South's 10. Those who failed to make the contract entered dummy with the spade Q and took another club finesse which lost to West, who cashed another heart and led a diamond to East's A.

The contract was made by those who on the seventh trick laid down the club A, figuring they could afford to lose a club trick to East but not to West. Played in that way, only two tricks were lost.

Looking Back

On This Date

One hundred years ago today (June 10, 1838) there began one of the most remarkable invasions of Canada in our history. A number of the refugees who had followed W. L. Mackenzie into New York state plotted an expedition to persuade the Indians on the Grand river to revolt against the British crown. Some 200 had agreed to join the party, but when it got under way on Sunday, June 10, only 26 met at Fort Schlosser and crossed to Grand Island, where they were given arms. The next night they crossed the Niagara on the steamer Red Jacket and landed at the head of Navy Island. "Colonel" James Morreau, who had taken the command away from "Colonel" George Washington Case, a refugee from Hamilton, had, on June 7, issued a proclamation headed "State of Upper Canada," and calling upon the residents to rise in the cause of liberty.

After lying concealed in the woods for two days and a night, the raiders crossed into Crowland township and then to the Quaker settlement near the Short Hills. For nine days the "patriots" or "banditti" (take your choice) roamed the country doing little but propaganda work. Then Morreau wanted to give up the game and return to Buffalo, but was overruled by Jacob Beemer and Dr. Wilson, who asserted that "having come to Canada they would not return without striking a blow."

It was then decided to attack a party of Lancers at St. Johns. Morreau resigned the leadership, but accompanied the party as a private. Their first act was to rob an old farmer of $1,000, simply because he had fought for the King in the American revolution. Then they attacked a tavern in which were seven of the Lancers. They set straw against the building and smoked out the soldiers, who had to surrender. It was proposed that they be hanged, but this was vetoed by the majority and they were released "on parole."

This was followed by dissension in the ranks, which was not less for the knowledge that troops were in pursuit. Eventually 39 men and two women were captured. Morreau was caught just as he was making what looked like a successful flight. When he was given a glass of wine and he drank it to the toast: "May Canada never become quiet until the American eagle floats on the Heights of Queenston!"

He was setenced to death and hanged by Sheriff Alexander Hamilton. Seventeen others were also sentenced to death, but were respited and all save one were transported to Van Dieman's Land, being saved through the intervention of Lord Durham.

If you are epecially interested in this raid on the Short Hills, let me commend to you Volume V of the Welland County Historical Society Papers, just issued. The volume is most valuable especially in view of the fact that later in this month the raid is to be reviewed when a cairn is erected in the district. The volume can be obtained from Louis Blake Duff, Welland.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

FRANK AND his sister, Dinah, were playing ball together in the garden. Back and forth went the painted ball as they tossed it to each other. They didn't notice that Knarf and Hanid — their two shadows — were running up and down, too.

Hanid kept saying to Knarf every time he came near him: "Well, when are you going to tell them about Mrs. Robin and her nest of eggs in the oak tree? How are you going to let them know about it?"

"I'm going to let them know in a minute or two."

Knarf kept bouncing the ball.

"But how?"

"You'll see."

It didn't seem to Hanid, though, that Knarf was ever going to be able to let the children know. Shadows can't talk to children—I should say, shadows can talk to children but children don't hear them.

"And if the children can't understand shadow language, how is Knarf going to be able to tell them about Mrs. Robin?" the little shadow girl said to herself as she waited just behind her little mistress.

Does Strange Thing.

Just then the little girl tossed the ball to her brother. Hanid saw Knarf suddenly pop out from behind his master and run toward the ball. Hanid didn't think that was so strange; but what happened the next moment was the strangest thing she ever saw.

This is what Knarf did. He all at once made himself very tall — shadows can make themselves as big or as small as they please — and reached up and seized the ball in the air. Instead of letting it fall into the boy's hands, he gave it a push. Over the garden wall it sailed. Then he sprang over the garden wall and jumped down into the pasture and kept bouncing the ball. Hanid could see it going up and down, up and down, right in the direction of the oak tree.

Meanwhile ,the two children were greatly upset. They didn't know of course, that it was the shadow boy, Knarf, who had done it all. Hanid knew, but she couldn't tell them. All she could do was to climb over the wall behind them and to say to herself: "I wonder why Knart did it? He's always up to mischief. He must have forgotten all about getting the children to find out about Mrs. Robin and her nest."

Relief Schedule For Employable To Be Reduced Immediately Committee of Council Decides

Peterborough's winter schedule of relief for persons who are employable will be reduced immediately until the end of October, the relief committee of the council decided last night on Alderman Cotton's motion seconded by Alderman Stocker and supported by all the members who were present.

A number of men who are considered physically fit to work and who refused to cut wood in a camp that is supplying fuel to be purchased by the city have been struck off the relief list. One man had come in from Smith Township several years ago, originally from Omemee, who had been working in a factory until some months ago, was told that by refusing a job in the wood camp while it lasted he had made himself ineligible for relief. The work had been offered to him by Relief Officer Metheral, but the man turned it down. Mr. Metheral withheld relief and the committee endorsed his action. This man presented a doctor's certificate, obtained yesterday, to the effect that he was unable to do bush work, but the committee instructed him to report to the Medical Officer of Health for examination. He has eight children.

Two men who applied to the committee last night are expecting important events in their families within a short time. The committee felt that one of them had sufficient assitsance at home to look after the children while he was away, and committee withheld relief. The other was not so well situated domestically, and he said he was willing to do any work in the city for the present, and to go to the woods within the next two weeks. The committee was favorably impressed by his attitude, and will keep him a wood-cutting job. His factory employment was suspended during the early part of the winter.

Peterborough's scale of relief was said by Alderman Dutton to be "very fair" in comparison with many of the other cities in Ontario. Several like Kitchener and Brantford were mentioned as having a higher schedule, but there are others like Kingston where the relief allowance is less than Peterborough's.

"As long as this city's scale of relief is where it is there are people who'll never work," Mr. Metheral said, and Alderman Gordon remarked that many of them were incompetent. He suggested that G. A. Gillespie be requested to advise the committee of any inquiries he received for farm labor.

Ald. Gordon said that a man of Mr. Gillespie's experience and contacts would be valuable to have on the committee, and several women might also be invited because of their knowledge of available work in homes and elsewhere. It was decided to write Mr. Gillespie and also A. L. Elliott, M.P.A., asking for any assistance they could give the committee, and M. H. Gainey of the Suburban Area Commission is to be advised on Alderman Bradburn's motion, seconded by Alderman Cotton, that the Council will appreciate his support in placing unemployed city wen on suburban area road work. The committee recognizes that beyond a certain distance in the country men of rural residence will be engaged in road construction, but it was felt that nearer the city there might possibly be more work supplied for local men.

Two families on relief have requested that they be given transportation expenses to the Old Country. Mr. Metheral was instructed to arrange for their sailing.

The president, Mrs. Wand, presided, and after the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Wm. Cunningham gave the Scripture reading, and Mrs. Morrow led in prayer.

An interesting article on the work of the auxiliary, urging all women not to belong only, but to be active members in the work, attending regularly and helping the cause of Christ by their services, prayers and gifts, was given by Mrs. B. Frederick. A letter was read by Miss E. MacKay from Miss Armstrong, a missionary worker in Trinidad, giving an account of the work and conditions there. A solo "Take My Life and Let It Be", by Miss Loretta McDougall, was very much enjoyed.

A very instructive temperance address by Mrs. J. H. Rowe was listened to with much interest. The speaker spoke of alcohol as defiling the body which is the temple of God, and said that through its use more are killed than through war. She urged all to pray for the cause of temperance.

Plans were made for a garden party to be held June 23 on the lawn of Mrs. B. Frederick's home, Dublin street.

Mrs. Wand closed the meeting with prayer, and refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

Mrs. Harvey moved a hearty vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the afternoons such an enjoyable and profitable one.

Presentation Is Made Brotherhood Member.

The executive of the Brotherhood of St. James' United Church with their pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik, surprised the youngest class member and pianist, J. Ashton Fife, and his bride at their Princess street home on Thursday night, presenting them with a handsome occasional chair and the following address:

"Dear Ashton,—The Brotherhood of St. James' United church wish to felicitate your marriage in grateful appreciation of your music, which has both soothed and stimulated us for the approach of the Lesson.

"We hope this occasional chair will be a haven of relaxation and inspiration — perhaps therein to compose some typical Canadian music like the "Land of the Sky-blue Water."

"As most of us are your senior in years and matrimony, we wish you every happiness and the two cardinal domestic virtues—tolerance and a sense of humor.

Fraternally, the Brotherhood of St. James.

M. Drysdale, President.
Ben Kerr, Secretary.

Evening Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The Evening Auxiliary of George Street Church held its final meeting of the season in the Board room of the church Thursday evening.

The meeting, opening with a hymn, followed by prayer led by Mrs. C. McBride.

Two delightful violin solos were played by Kenneth Reid, a pupil of Roy Rome, and were followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. Patterson. June Wellwood, silver medalist at the W.C.T.U. Elocution contest, gave in her clever way the reading which won the prize.

Two lovely piano solos by Thelma Zavitz were followed by the business meeting, at which a satisfactory report was given by the treasurer, and plans were made for a family picnic to be held at Nicholls Oval on Thursday, June 23, to which all members of the family are invited.

Mrs. McBride, president, was elected as a delegate to the School for Leaders, which is to be held in Whitby from August 29 to September 2.

On Tuesday, June 14, the W.M.S. is holding a family party in the church, when all articles for the White Cross bales will be on exhibition.

The Study book was taken by Mrs. M. C. Parr, assisted by Mrs. C. Poulson, Miss Gertrude Creba, Mrs. Ross Davidson, Mrs. S. Ward, Mrs. Frank Greatrix and Mrs. A. Fitzgerald.

A hymn "The Whole Wide World for Jesus," folowed by the Mizpah Benediction, closed the meeting, which was followed by a social half hour.

Whitmore—Young

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday at 10 a.m., at the George Street United Church Parsonage, with Rev. Parr officiating, when Hazel Elizabeth, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Young of Clanricarde became the bride of Eric Elmer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whitmore of Apsley. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edwards of Peterborough. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon at Owen Sound and Mount Forest. On their return they will reside in Apsley. The wedding reception will be held later in June.

Mount Julian Visitors

Mrs. Percy Thompson and son, Jack, left for Cleveland, Ohio, on Thursday for a ten-day visit and graduation exercises of her daughter, June.

Miss Constance Legon, who has been confined to her home in Peterborough, due to a minor foot operation, is back again at her duties, teaching in the local school.

Mrs. Ernest Lean has returned from Nicholls Hospital, after a short illness.

Mrs. Charles Lauder's eighty-fifth birthday comes on Sunday, June 12. In spite of this ripe old age, Mrs. Lauder has all her faculties and has always taken a keen interest in all community and church work, but for the past few weeks she has been suffering from a cold and a bad attach of asthma and bronchitis, which gives her little rest, and has left her in a weakened condition.

On Wednesday afternoon Bishop Owen, Primate of Canada, held confirmation service at Holy Trinity Church. Six candidates were presented for confirmation by the rector, Rev. E. C. Moore. They were: Ruth Shewen, Isabel Bolton, David Dunford, Douglas Dunford, Orville Bolton and Milliford Bolton.

Mrs. Percy Stenner, of Young's Point, was special organist for the occasion. Mrs. Derwyn Owen also attended the service.

On Wednesday, June 8, the Hydro power was first turned on in this district.

We Noticed

. . . How soignee was the ensemble of a young lady on George street. With her black satin dress and smart felt hat with up-turned flaring brim was worn a gorgeous set of twin silver fox furs.

. . . A young teen-age miss wearing a navy dress, its bolero embroidered with leaping gazelles, and a red taffeta sash with long tasseled ends wound round and round her waist in the style of a Mexican dancer.

. . . That tennis racquets are being swung with gay abandon these days, and the shops, with their new ideas in sport clothes, are helping add up a grand net total!

Dressy Play Suit

Soft fringe is the individual trimming used on this play suit worn by Rosemary Lane.

A sash of the same fringed fabric ties at the waist.

If you don't care for anything so dressed up when you play, four-piece gabardine suits are fine. They consist of shirt, skirt, shorts and slacks, and may be had in white, navy, brown, rust or faded blue. They will fit you out for any week-end at the beach or country.

Social Evening Is Given Bride-Elect

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 10.—A very delightful social evening, in honor of Miss Doris J. Bannister, B.A., assistant principal of the Millbrook Continuation school for the past four years, was held in the school assembly hall on Wednesday at 8 p.m., the event recognizing the resignation of the guest of honor previous to her marriage, which takes place next month at Peterborough.

Dancing, with William Edworthy at the piano, filled in the first part of the evening quite happily, and following this the guests were seated and the chair taken by Orval Wainman, president of the M.C.S. Literary Society.

The program, which opened with "O Canada" included a reading by Leatha Rowland, "At the Boxing Match"; a trio, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot", by Ken Kidd, Jack Arundel, and O. Wainman; a duet by Eleanor Bigelow and Bea Fallis; and solos by Orval Wainman; Robina Tate and Esther Might were the accompanists of the evening.

The outstanding feature of the evening, which took the guest of honor completely by surprise, was the presentation of a handsome mirror-reflector for the dining-table, in three sections, the centre one oblong in shape and the two end pieces fitting into this to make it almost circular; with a cut glass flower bowl and two cut glass candle sticks fitted with pink candles, Marian Belch reading the appreciative address, and the gifts being offered by Kathleen Smith, Barbara Argue, and Hugh Williams.

Miss Bannister made suitable and feeling reply, and a humorous note was introduced by Jack Arundel in an impromptu speech relative to the unsettled state of the world, and the need of closer relationships and harmony particularly in the home, when he also presented Miss Bannister with an elaborately-tied parcel, which turned out to be a rolling-pin, with red handles, on which each pupil had inscribed his or her name, with "M.C.S." prominently displayed.

The service of lunch, and further dancing completed a very enjoyable evening, for which the committee in charge included Marjorie McDowell, Ken Kidd, and Marion Belch. Previous to the gathering at the school a friendly game of softball was played between Port Hope High School and Millbrook, the latter winning by a score of 16-6.

The visiting team was invited to stay for the social evening at the school, adding to the general good feeling of the occasion by their contribution to its merriment and its other features.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Queen Too Tall In New Picture

LONDON, June 10 (C.P.). — At the private view of pictures at Burlington House special attention was, of course, paid to the Cornation and other Royal pictures. Dugdale's delightful portrait of the Duchess of Gloucester was fully appreciated, it is recorded, but people wondered why Lindsay Williams made the Queen look so tall, and the two portraits of Queen Mary were much criticized.

There was always a large group before Russell Flint's picture of the Spanish women facing the guns of Spanish soldiers "in their own home." The tendency was to believe the soldiers represented the particular side each spectator condemned.

The distinction of the private view as the first dress parade of the season did not long survive the war, and now, because of the spread of fantastic fashions through all classes, Burlington House looks mildly on any eccentricity of dress. Some eyebrows might have been raised when two girls arrived wearing neither hats nor stockings, or a youth lounged through the galleries in a teddy-bear coat. The two girls wearing tartan - patterned smocks did, however, cause some stir.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

We did our duty by pineapple and "did down" about 60 cans,—but now that the season is threatening to draw to a close it is more popular than ever—so I tried a Pineapple Upside Down Cake using fresh pineapple—of course canned sliced pineapple could be used with less sugar.

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

(Using Fresh or Canned Slices)

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in good frying pan, tip till pan is covered, and add 1¼ cups brown sugar (1 cup if canned pineapple is used) and 6 to 7 slices of fresh pineapple, centred with maraschino cherry. Set pan aside and make a sponge cake batter of 1 cup white sugar, the juice from a can of pineapple (or 1 cup syrup made of 1 cup water and ¼ cup sugar and juice of 1 lemon), the yolks of 3 eggs well beaten, and 1 cup flour sifted through with 2 teaspoons baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 3 eggs and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Pour this batter over mixture in frying pan and bake in oven of 340 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. When done let stand a few moments before turning out on large round cake plate, and serve cream.

Hawaiian Recital Colorful Affair

A colorful Hawaiian Recital by the pupils of Helen Ludbrook, assisted by several other talented artists, was given Thursday night in the Legion Hall, and will be again presented this Friday evening.

The young artists, looking like natives of Hawaii in ther gay costumes and wreaths of flowers and leaves, brought to the audience through the throbbing, plaintive music of many quitars, visions of a romantic land of sunset skies, waving palm trees, tropical heat, and low, happy laughter. Special lighting effects changed the stage to silver moonlight, high noon or dusky twilight, according to the mood of the numbers chosen.

Wilfred Galvin, as the able Master of Ceremonies, presented over the microphone in true radio style the varied and interesting program.

A Hawaiian number by the entire group, suggestive of moonlight waters and drifting canoes, speedily changed to the gay mood as the music swung into that popular number, "Whistle While You Work."

A guitar duet by Bill Rayner and George Pomeroy was a well-played cowboy song, "Home on the Range," with "Lamplighting Time" as an encore.

Little Shirley Garner and Kenneth Simmons, well known tap dancers, and pupils of Thelma Buller, gaily danced the Highland Fling, attired in plaid costumes and caps.

An amusing reading, in which an Irish lady related her experiences at the clinic, was given by Mrs. Charles Huffman, talented elocutionist.

A lovely number "In the Garden," sung by Velma Scott, Jean McElwain and Helen Ludbrook to their own accompaniment of soft guitar music, and a Texan Scene, depicting cowboys returning fro their day on the range to the bright light of a camp fire, where pretty range girls, wearing wide Stetson hats and gay bandanas, waited to brighten the evening with music and song, were highlights of the program, which was as folows:

Orchestra Selection, "The King's Serenade" and "Whistle While You Work"; guitar duet, "Home on the Range' and Lamplighting Time,' Bill Rayner and George Pomeroy; a group number, "Long, Long Ago" and "Boots and Saddles" played by Dorothy Anderson, Dora Weiss, Grace Hunte, Paul Meiklejohn, Bill Rayner and George Pomeroy; "In the Garden" (sacred) sung and played by Velma Scott, Jean McElwain, Helen Ludbrook; reading, "Being Clinicked" by Mrs. Charles Huffman; Junior Orchestra, "My Bonny," Peggy Houghton, Muriel Craft, Lewis Corbin and Gordon Hanes; solo (selected) by Jack Flagler, boy baritone; group number, "Drifting and Dreaming" and "Kahola March."

Taking part in the Texas scene were: "Shorty" (Tom Parker), "Slim" (Jim Sands), "Hank" (Wilfred Galvin, "Joe" (Paul Meiklejohn), "Rusty" (Fred Agnew), "Rosie" (Velma Scott), "Carrie" (Joan McElwain), "Anne" (Helen Ludbrook), messenger boy, Kennie Doughty.

The playlet was followed by an orchestra selection "Grandfather's Clock" by Sheena McPherson, Jean Larmer, Kenneth Doughty, Clare Connel, and a tap number "Waialae," by Lenore Gordon; duet, "Hawaii Calls," Helen Ludbrook and Wilfred Galvin; solo by Jack Flagler; "Yaka Hula Hickey Dula," Jean McElwain, Velma Scott, Helen Ludbrook, Wilfred Galvin.

Two orchestra selections, "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky" and "Now It's Time to Say 'Aloha' to You," completed the program.

The Thompson–Ferguson Wedding Party

Shower Is Given Bride And Groom

KEENE, June 10.—A large number from the community assembled on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Short, where a miscellaneous shower was tendered for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Godfrey (nee Irene Short) in honor of their recent marriage.

The house was nicely decorated and a pleasant evening was spent in playing cards and dancing to the music of Miller's orchestra.

During the evening the merry-makers went to the lawn, where a pleasing address was read by Jack Bolin. A large number of presents and a heavy laden and beautifully decorated basket was carried in by Miss Laura Taylor and Harold Stillman, assisted by Misses Zetta Wilson, Nellie Hunter, the Messrs. Allen Thomson, Ralph Drummond and Ernest Wilson.

The groom thanked his friends and extended to them a hearty invitation to their new home on behalf of himself and his bride. All joined in singing 'For They Are Jolly Good Fellows.' Dancing was resumed and dainty refreshments brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. Kenneth Mahood of Hamilton and infant daughter, Carol Claire, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson.

Mrs. Wm. Jeffries is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Fletcher.

Rainer To Divorce Bronx Playwright

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(AP)—Dark-eyed Louise Rainer of Vienna, who acted as a forlorn wife so well that the movie academy gave her two awards, today sought a divorce from the playwright from the Bronx, Clifford Odets.

Back of the filing of her suit was Hollywood's eternal hazard to domestic happiness—career versus marriage.

Miss Rainer, who charged cruelty, also declared that Odets, author of "Golden Boy," one of the season's biggest song hits, insisted she give up her acting because he felt there should be one career only in the family.

She charged that while she was ill in a hospital, Odets failed to carry on a conversation with her. She charged that many times he deliberately provoked quarrels with her over trivial matters and on several occasions remained away from home all night and refused to make any explanation to her.

IN MEMORIAM

ROWLAND.—In fond and loving memory of Jack Hugo Rowland, who passed away on June 9, 1937.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him will keep green and never fade away.
—Ever remembered by sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Tully.

CARD OF THANKS

Havelock Opens Drive On Transients

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 10.—The Havelock Council met on Monday evening in the council chamber, with all members present and Reeve E. Seeney in the chair.

The Clerk was instructed to refer the account and claim of Mrs. James Weymark to the insurance company for settlement.

A petition was received asking the Council to withhold the by-law drawn up to prohibit parking on the south side of Ottawa Street, suggesting instead that the Department of Highways be requested to mark off a twenty-foot strip in this area in which no parking would be allowed. After some consideration the Council instructed the Clerk to take up this matter with the Department of Highways and get their opinion.

The matter of making Mathison a through street from Union to Victoria Street, as suggested by D. R. Brennan, was laid over on motion of Councillors Squire and Forde.

In reply to a request to rent the Town Hall for a number of weekly motion pictures, the Council granted the hall to the company for this purpose for the sum of $12 per evening. A rebate of $4 per evening will be given provided the hall is rented for 20 or more nights.

A notice is to be placed in the press requesting the citizens to refuse aid to transients calling at their doors in an effort to discourage their stopping in the village. Constable Akins was also instructed to keep the transients out of the village as much as possible.

By-law 452 was passed appointing D. F. Miller, B.A., village solicitor, at a retaining fee of $10 per year.

The following accounts were passed for payment, and the account of T. A. Brown Co., reduced by $2.30, for gravel delivered by village, on motion of Councillors Chiles and Squire:

W. J. Akins, salary and phone, $54.50; J. W. Stillman, trip with plow, $2.50; County of Peterborough, pupils attending Peterborough Collegiate and Norwood High School, $207.36; T. A. Brown and Co., cement walks, $41.53; Dr. A. S. Thompson, indigent account, $4.50; Provincial Treasurer, hall license, $3; E. Fennell, insurance renewal on Town Hall, $13; R. Sanderson, timber and forms, $45.31; A. C. Denike, flag for hall, $13.65; H. B. Puffer, postage, phone, etc., $15.33; village treasurer's pay sheet No. 1 $89.15, No. 2 $124.38, No. 3 $80.82, No. 4 $12, No. 5 $12.26; Bank of Toronto, Hydro, Town Hall, $14.67; Hubble Hardware, cement, $361.12; R. A. Buchanan, trucking, $20; Fred Pollock, refund 1937 taxes, $1.22. Relief accounts: A. Leeson and Son, $4.75; Rae Williams, $4.75; G. W. Chiles, $4.75; F. J. Squire and Son, $5.40; Wm. Forsythe, $4; G. Rutherford, $4.96; W. Akins, $1.20; B. Smith, $1.95; J. Leask, $3.50; medical services and supplies based on 9 recipients at 35c, $3.15.

Revision Court.

Cour of revision was held the same evening.

The assessment on the property of Mrs. E. J. McMillan was reduced by $25, on motion of Chiles and Squire.

Mr. Rhynard Post requested a reduction in his assessment, but it was sustained on motion of Councillors Squire and Forde.

Mr. George Watson asked the council to have his land value placed the same as it had been during past years, due to the fact the back part of his property was of no use. A reduction of $25 was made on motion of Councillors Squire and Forde.

A refund of $1.22 was granted Fred Pollock on his 1937 taxes, on motion of Councillors Chiles and Wilde.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, June 11.

A rather difficult and unsatisfactory day may be looked for, judging by certain planets. Deceptive and undermining influences prevail, with dangers of loss, vexation and disappointment in both business and personal affiliations. Loans are inadvisable and investments hazardous. Be careful with writings, law and documents, also short journeys and youthful indiscretions.

Those whose birthday it is may not have a particularly progressive year, as treacherous and hazardous conditions prevail, calling for much sagacity, watchfulness and discretion in both personal and business affairs. Lost legal papers may complicate matters. Loans and investments are perilous.

A child born on this day may be versatile, quick in thought and action, fond of travel, new situations and change. It may drift into some calling where these traits and its volubility may count for success.

The following taxes were struck off the roll on motion of Councillors Squire and Wilde: John Buchanan, 1937 business tax; Bruce Longmuir, 1935 dog tax; Dr. Holdcroft, overcharge for business tax, 1937; George Wilde, business tax, 1936-37; Joseph Doughty, 1937 taxes on property reclaimed by village; Johnson and Kennedy, 1936 business tax; Theodore Quinn, 1937 business tax.

On motion of Wilde and Chiles T. Patterson is to be assessed for business tax at the oil station instead of Messrs. Cook and McDonald.

The following are to be placed on the rolls as tenants: Mr. Marko Byrdar, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bannon, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Russell are to be assessed as owners of the late Wm. Mathison property.

Court of revision was adjourned till June 30.

Mr. Earl Godden visited his brother Kenneth in Toronto during the weekend.

In observance of the 723rd anniversary of the signing of the Magna Charto, members of the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion, together with comrades from neighboring points, will attend church parade on Sunday evening. The members will meet at the Post Office from where they will march in mufti with berets and medals to St. John's United Church. The address of the evening will be delivered by Rev. Harold B. Neal.

Japs Shun Canton On 13th Day

CANTON, June 10 (AP) — Japanese airplanes ferried their cargoes of explosives and dropped them in the vicinity of Canton to-day for the 13th consecutive day.

The raiders blasted three railway stations in the vicinity, but dropped no bombs on the shattered South China Metropolis, where intensive anti-aircraft fire greeted them.

The stations were Yingtak on the Canton-Hankow line, Sheklung, on the Canton-Kowloon line that feeds China war supplies from the unblockaded British port of Hong Kong, and Shiukwan.

The Sheklung bombing at 9 a.m. smashed locomotives and coaches of a train, but crew and passengers escaped.

Chinese soldiers brought their rifles into play when one of the planes flew low several times over Shameen, the International Settlement, but the firing was without effect.

400 Traitors Executed.

While the war-depleted populace nervously scanned the skies for a continuation of the attacks which have dealt a staggering blow of more than 8,000 killed and wounded since May 28, it was reported unofficially that Canton authorities in recent weeks have executed 400 alleged traitors, including Formosans and Koreans.

Large quantities of hand grenades were said to have been seized and an internal uprising thwarted. One theory advanced was that Japan's savage bombing attacks were the result of the thwarted plot, though military authorities viewed the raids as an effort to paralyze this South China centre of rail communications and halt the flow of munitions to the Chinee front.

Twenty-five planes which struck at the city last night in the last of three attacks yesterday set huge fires blazing from incendiary bombs near the Asia Hotel and across the river from the international quarter.

B.C. Timber Houses

LONDON, June 10 (CP Cable) — Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, today announced plans had been approved by various Scottish authorities for the erection of 23,000 pre-fabricated houses built of British Columbia timber, for which contracts are expected soon.

The decision is the outgrowth of construction under the supervision of Douglas Roe, British Columbia timber commissioner in the United Kingdom, of two pre-fabricated houses at Hull, which were finished 9½ days after the laying of foundations.

All Chinese Ordered Into Army

Kai-Shek's Orders Ignore Family Wealth

SHANGHAI, June 11.—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek today ordered an unprecedented conscription of men for the army regardless of family, wealth or influence.

Advices from Hankow said that eventually the conscription would be made general throughout China on a basis of population of the provinces.

The order, it was believed, was meant to end existing unfairness, especially evident in Shanghai where hundreds of young bloods of wealth are carrying on business and are dancing at night.

A vanguard of Szechuan province troops from far southwestern China arrived in Hankow. It was said to be the first of 100,000 new troops expected from Szechuan.

The general's order was announced while rearguards were fighting desperately to hold Chengchow, junction city 300 miles north of Hankow, the provisional capital already being partially evacuated, and Japanese warplanes and warships were pounding Chinese positions in the Yangtze river for an advance on Anking, 215 miles southeast of Hankow.

Chinese Burn All Behind

Rain impeded the Japanese attack on Chengchow, already in ruins as a result of bombardments and the application of the Chinese "scorched earth" policy that aims at leaving no useful thing for Japanese occupation.

Japanese claimed to have cut the Peiping-Hankow railway south of the city, but Chinese said their flank attacks east of the city were halting the invaders.

In the land, air and naval battle up the Yangtse River, Chinese reported a squadron of bombers sank a Japanese destroyer at Kewichih, 30 miles northeast of Anking. Many sailors were killed.

They also said a Japanese bomber was shot down when 27 Chinese planes attacked 10 Japanese planes over Tatung, nearby.

2 Drivers To Blame In Fatal Crash

HESPELER, Ont., June 11.—(CP).—Jury probing the death of William Nuttall of Preston, in a truck-auto crash near that town last Saturday, found negligence on the part of both drivers, in not using proper precautions in approaching the intersection.

In a rider the jury last night recommended proper warning signs at the approaches to the intersection be erected.

Nuttall was driving the truck and Ernest Wright, Hamilton, who came to Galt for the 34th Battalian reunion was the driver of the car. Nine witnesses were called and the jury took 47 minutes to reach its verdict. Harry Rider, Windsor, a 34th veteran who was badly injured in the crash, is still in hospital here.

It was raining at the time of the accident and Sergt. Oliver ofthe Ontario Provincial Police, who investigated declared if the car had been going at any fast rate, the three men in it would not be living.

Texas Tornado Kills 13 Wrecks Town

CLYDE, Tex., June 11.—(AP). — A slowly-moving tornado killed 13 persons in this West Texas village of 700 last night, left several missing, injured at least 40 others and shattered two-score houses.

Weary volunteers searched the debris to-day, fearful that more bodies lay in the wreckage.

Clyde was isolated several hours when the tornado tore down communication lines, delaying calls for ambulances, doctors, nurses and volunteers from Abilene and other nearby towns.

Like a huge snake, the storm crept upon the town shortly after dusk. Many saw it coming and scrambled to safety inside storm cellars. Others gambled vainly that their houses would withstand the shock.

The wind split a freight train, tumbling box cars along the rails. At least one transient was killed. Some reports said three were hauled dead from the wreckage.

Pitiful Stories.

Survivors told terrifying tales. J. B. Easterling, whose wife was killed, said:

"When we saw the storm coming, we went back in the house. I wish we hadn't. All at once the wind hit. The house seemed to fall apart. A chimney fell all over me.

I scratched my way out and began looking for my wife. She was under a piece of timber. Lord, but she was twisted and torn. I couldn't get her loose. I was holding her head when she died."

Ralph Short, newspaperman, saw the cloud while he was about eight miles from town. It moved very slowly, he said, and "residents told me it seemed an eternity before it hit. It was so solid that it looked like a vast column of brown earth, sitting in a big brown bowl."

In the mad dash for safety, 25 people crowded into one small cellar and 20 in another.

King Strikes Back Hard At Bennett

House Is Given Treat As Heads Tangle Over Corruption

OTTAWA, June 11 (C.P.). — If R. B. Bennett leaves politics at the end of this month he will leave fighting. The House of Commons will have a fresh memory of one of the sharpest parliamentary battles in years—a duel of words between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Mr. Bennett.

Just three weeks from the opening of the convention which will select a new leader for the Conservative Party, Mr. Bennett levelled charges of political corruption at the Liberal administration and drew upon himself allegations in kind from Mr. Mackenzie King.

All day in the House yesterday abusive epithets were hurled back and forth across the floor and many a word had to be withdrawn at the direction of the chairman. It was one of the liveliest scenes since the 1935 general election, and reminiscent of earlier clashes on the Beauharnois Canal scandal.

The Conservative Leader made no personal charges against members of the Government, but Prime Minister King accused him of conspiring with other members of the Cabinet in 1935 to bribe three Manitoba constituencies with money for road-building.

Mr. Bennett's ammunition against the Government consisted of allegations relating to contracts and jobs in Kingston, the constituency of Labor Minister Rogers.

The Webb Letter.

In return the Liberals tossed at him a letter writen by Ralph Webb, former Mayor of Winnipeg and Manitoba Conservative organizer to Mr. Bennett when he was Prime Minister in 1935.

The letter urged Federal participation with the Mantioba Government in the construction as a relief measure of the Piney-Morden-Sprague and Brandon-Clear-Lake Highways. Col. Webb informed the Prime Minister this would be good politics and would ensure the elec-

No U. of T. Bans Upon Jews

TORONTO, June 11 (CP).—No discrimination will be shown against Jews at the University of Toronto, Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the university, told the Alumni Association's annual commencement dinner last night.

Dr. Cody spoke in connection with his announcement that Dr. Leopold Infold, collaborator with Albert Einstein in relativity research, had been appointed to the university staff. Dr. Infold, like others, had felt the anti-semitic influence prevailing in parts of Europe, he said.

"It stirs me to the depths of my heart to be a British subject," he declared. "I'm no little Canadian—I glory as much in being a British subject as in being a Canadian."

Commenting on the fact a University of Toronto team had won first place in a continent-wide mathematical competition, Dr. Cody pointed particularly to the achievement of Irving Kaplansky, who gained a place among the first five in individual competition.

"He's a genius—keep your eye on him," Dr. Cody said. "In a day when the race to which he belongs is being harassed and massacred in countries that call themselves Christian, I'm glad there is in the British Empire and under the British flag freedom for all and a fair opportunity for all who come."

Intended No Harm To Boy Says McCall

MIAMI, Fla., June 11 (AP).—A coroner's jury was called into session again today to return a formal verdict in the death of James Bailey Cash, Jr., whose kidnap-slaying was fully solved yesterday with announcement by Federal agents of a detailed confession from Franklin Pierce McCall.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said McCall admitted he alone was responsible for abduction of the Princeton, Fla., child. Previously McCall had told of writing three ransom notes and collecting $10,000 from the boy's father.

The 21-year-old unemployed truck driver was under guard in a cell high in Dade County's skyscraper jail.

Whether the jury actually could determine how the five-year-old kidnap victim died was problematical. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition after lying in the open for 12 days.

Hoover said McCall insisted he had not planned to harm the boy.

Czechs Warn of Her Defences Eve of Election Finals

Britain Rushes Plans To Protect Ships After 60 Attacks In Recent Months

PRAHA, June 11 (AP).—Czechoslovakia made ready today for the last of three Sunday elections in an atmosphere of military preparedness and under-cover diplomatic manoeuvres.

There was wide-spread expectation the turning point in the little post-war republic's future relations with her Germanic minority and neighboring Germany would come in the next few days.

A member of the Czechoslovak army's general staff, Major Rudolf Broz, in a radio broadcast on national defences yesterday, warned that any invader would face a "chain of machine-gun nests along our border."

Much of the expectation of a new turn in events was attached to the fact both the Czechoslovak minister in Berlin and his colleague in Paris were in Praha conferring with Premier Milan Hodza, foreign minister Kamil Krofta and President Eduard Benes.

Diplomatic quarters heard Great Britain again was pressing Praha to hasten publication of its definite proposals for settlement of the Sudeten German issue of minority rights.

With France and Britain again facing a delicate situation in Spain as a result of bombing raids on neutral shipping, it was believed Britain was anxious to see the central European problem disposed of.

Britain Uneasy.

LONDON, June 11.—(AP).—New Central European danger signs today brought new anxieties to British officials continuing their search for means of ensuring respect for the British merchant marine in in Spanish waters.

Germany's sudden virulent anti-Czechoslovak press campaign on the eve of Sunday's municipal elections perturbed officials as they prepared dossners on bomb-shattered British freighters for Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax, who are due back in London to-morrow after the Whitsuntide holidays.

Experts are believed already to have darfted detailed measures to protect freighters engaged in legitimate, non-contraband trade with government Spain.

The measures, which will be submitted to the Cabinet at a meeting Monday, were ketp secret but it was believed they contained little provision for safeguarding British-owned vessels under cvharter to the Svanish government. In this category were most of the ships recently attacked.

Sixty British ships have been attacked and 78 British seamen killed and injured since the Spanish civil war started nearly two years ago.

Both the Prime Minister and Lord Halifax, mindful of the crisis which arose three weeks ago at the time of the first Czechoslovak elections, arranged to keep in touch with the foreign office over the week-end.

Assault Charges By Hepburn Are Quashed

BRAMPTON, Ont., June 11. — (CP).—Judge W. N. Munro quashed assault charges in court here today against eight Lakeview relief strikers. The charges, result of a group of relief recipients allegedly holding Relief Administrator R. S. Moore, Toronto township, prisoner for a time April 28, were laid by orders of Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Trial of the eight will continue on a charge of unlawful assembly The eight are Mrs. Elizabeth Meeker, Mrs. Fred Cooper, Mrs. Edith D'Aigle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey George Kellett, Ed Lace and William Finch.

Mr. Hepburn ordered the arrests April 26 after 42 from Lakeview marched the eight miles east to Toronto to protest to Mr. Hepburn against lowered relief allowances.

Would Mark Cattle

SARNIA, Ont, June 11.—(CP)—Marking of cattle found by private tests to be afflicted with tuberculosis or bangs disease, so they could not be sold without their condition being evident to the purchaser, is favored by Lambton county council.

A resolution drafted by the Lambton ex-wardens association to that effect has been adopted by the county fathers.

Cricket In Store

BALTIMORE, June 11 (CP).—They were far from home and pining for cricket, so said the crew of a British freighter in port here, but today they will only be far from home. They will have cricket. The Carribean Cricket Club, informed of the cricketless plight of the Nailsea Meadows crew, promptly scheduled a game.

Kingston Works "Reek" Says Bennett

OTTAWA, June 11.—(CP)—Some of Conservative Leader Bennett's statements, made in the House of Commons yesterday, concerning works at Kingston:

1. Supplies resulting from demolition of relief camps were stored in a large warehouse and removed, no one knew where.

2. Some 25 cans of white lead were taken away in the night.

3. The storeskeeper was dismissed but was appointed to a position under the Ontario Government on the recommendation of A. E. Stansburg, president of the Liberal Association.

4. Stone belonging to the government was used by Mr. Stanbury on the improvement of his garage.

5. The Frith Construction Company had a contract for work at Fort Henry and also one for the erection of a building at Queen's University, for which cement was supplied by the Ontario Government.

6. Some cement shipped in a certain car, of which Mr. Bennett gave the number, was taken to the University building and some to Fort Henry.

7. Empty cement bags from the University building were taken to Fort Henry.

Large quantities of supplies from disbanded camps near Kingston had been stored in a large warehouse. These supplies had been sacrificed, Mr. Bennett said. One of several tarpaulions taken away had been recovered and a man sent to penitentiary.

On a Cost-Plus Basis?

Nearby construction work was proceeding on Fort Henry. A contract for part of this work was let to the Frith Construction Company for some $70,000 but nearly $1,000,000 had been expended, half of it paid by the Federal Government.

Mr. Bennett said a citizen of Kingston had been charged in police court with non-support of his wife could not get a job because he could not afford the money for a certain man's beer account at a hotel. If he could get the money he could get a job. The magistrate had adjourned the case and nothing further had been done in the case.

"What I want to indicate is that this whole business at Kingston is as bad as it is possible for anything to be and reeks to high heaven," Mr. Bennett said.

"I do not believe the minister of labor would do it and I have made that clear."

Britain, Belgium and France Rock As 2 Quakes Make Millions Dizzy

Violent Tremors Centred In North Sea Crack Walls, Break Recorders, While Falling Debris Injures Many

LONDON, June 11 (CP).—Great Britain, Belgium, northern France and the Netherlands were jarred at noon today by earthquakes that swayed buildings, toppled chimneys and made millions dizzy for a few seconds.

Damage apparently was minor but two children were reported badly hurt in Northern France.

In Belgium, where the shocks were described as the severest in the nation's history, a few persons were injured when flimsy buildings collapsed in the first tremor.

Frightened Belgians streamed from houses and factories in Brussels when the first series came, lasting from 10 to 20 seconds. Roof tiles crashed to the streets and many windows splintered.

A second, milder tremor came two hours later.

London observers said the quake's epicentre was in the North Sea, some 25 miles northeast of London.

It was felt particularly in the southern provinces of the Netherlands. A wall collapsed in the Hague and a bookcase overturned at the United States legation.

All London Sways

London, from "the city," financial district, to the fashionable west end and the peaceful suburbs, swayed gently. Tea splashed from lunch-time teacups. Telephones jumped from their tables.

Employees of one Regent Street firm said "everybody got dizzy."

"I was sitting at my desk," said an official of the British Broadcasting Corporation, "and suddenly I felt my legs shaking. I thought I was ill. I looked down and my legs were 'jittery'."

"We were sitting in the office," said a typist who works in Lincoln's Fields. "When all the walls began to shake. It was about 30 seconds before the walls were completely still again. We did not hear any sound of an explosion which could have explained it."

In France the shock was limited to northern sections.

Furniture Shifts.

Numerous inquirers reported furniture moved by the shock. Several clocks in a cheapside office building stopped exactly at noon.

The stocks were felt chiefly by occupants of floors several storeys above ground.

The staff of the Canadian Press felt the building, in Tudor street, sway gently. The pictures moved for several minutes. There appeared to be two distinct shocks which first were noticed when swivel chairs rocked, after which a slight movement of walls was visible in the office, which is on the third floor.

England Sets Test Match Cricket Record

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 11.—(CP Cable).—An all-time record for England's test cricketers against Australia was set to-day when Wally Hammond declared the English team's innings with a total of 658 for eight wickets. Previous high of 636 runs was recorded at Sydney in the 1928-29 Australian series.

The Englishmen compiled a series of records as their innings progressed. Four individual centuries hit up by Edward Paynter, C. J. Barnett, Denis Compton and Leonard Hutton set a new mark.

Paynter, in carrying his overnight score from 75 to 216 not out, registered the highest individual score by an Englishman against Australia in England, passing Philip Mead's 183 made at the Oval in 1921.

Hutton and Compton joined eight other old country players by hitting centuries in their first test appearance against the Aussies. Two wicket partnership marks were also broken.

Play had not proceeded very long before the gates at Trent Bridge was closed and it appeared likely the 35,250 ground-record of the noted Nottinghamshire ground had been broken.

5 Alberta Women To Be Honored

OTTAWA, June 11.—(CP).—Five Alberta women will be honored tonight when Prime Minister Mackenzie King unveils a bronze plaque to commemorate their achievement in obtaining recognition for all Canadian women as "persons" within the meaning of the British North America Act and as such eligible for appointment to the Senate.

Arranged by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, the ceremony will take place in the foyer of the Senate chamber where the plaque will be placed and will be followed by a reception in the Senate Speaker's Chambers.

Mrs. Nellie L. McClung of Victoria, one of the two living members of the delegation which appeared before the Supreme Court of Canada and were ultimately awarded a victory by the Privy Council in 1929, will attend the unveiling. Mrs. Irene Parlby, of Edmonton, former minister without portfolio in Alberta, the other living member, will not be present owing to poor health.

Mrs. H. M. Edwards of MacLeod, Magistrate Emily F. Murphy of Edmonton and Mrs. Louise C. McKinney of Claresholm were the other members of the Alberta delegation.

Crow's Abuse of Neighbors Nets Eight Summonses

MONTREAL, June 11 (CP).—Jacko, a pipe-smoking crow with a flair for the high art of pickpocketing, may be a nuisance to some residents of Rosemount but to Thomas Jeffery, his owner, he's a much-maligned and rather remarkable bird—so remarkable Jeffery will "fight to the highest courts in the land" to keep him.

The harassed owner has received no less than eight summonses, none of them in the least flattering as to the conduct of the pet he rescued three years ago from a group of mischief-bent boys. The summonses charge Jeffery "did unlawfully hove in your possession, or in your custody, within the city limits, an animal, to wit, a crow, whose intermittent or re-iterated cries were heard by the neighbors."

"He is a great favorite in the neighborhood and when we had a little party here the other night for some of the kids, Jacko appeared to enjoy it as much as any of the youngsters," he said.

Jeffery has hired a lawyer to defend his case in Record's court and is getting ready to circulate a petition that he may be allowed to keep the pet.

Swastikas To Go

NEW YORK, June 11 (A.P.). — Greek crosses will supplant swastikas as the decoration on the 335-foot chimney of the New York Hospital. The swastikas were placed in brick mosaic on the smokestack before Hitler came into power, as a "universal symbol of well-being," hospital officials explained. Lately the swastikas had been irritating local anti-Nazis and hospital authorities promised to remove them as soon as money was available. About 100 persons contributed funds to cover the expense.

U.S. Woman Seeks Paradise Thinks It's In Essex

WINDSOR, Ont., June 11 (CP).—Providing there is water, light and heat available, a 59-year-old Connecticut woman wrote the Y.W.C.A. here she would like to buy 10 or more acres of land in Essex county, "and build myself a one-room house." She hastened to explain, however that she hated snakes and tornadoes.

Her letter, referred to the Chamber of Commerce, said she expected to raise enough food for two or three people to live on, and that she would like to plant "forest trees."

"How do people get water, heat and fuel?" she asked. "I am not a church mouse and not well off, either. I would pay 25 cents a letter if someone would correspond with me and answer questions. Are the winters cold? Are the snows very deep? Do they have floods in that section?"

Recognition of the place held in Canadian literature by the stirring novel "Maria Chapdelaine" comes 25 years after the Frenchman met his death accidentally while in search of further literary material.

Stocks Move Up On Week's Sales

TORONTO, June 11 (CP).—The latest upward swing of the Canadian mining share market has carried prices to their highest level registered since the year's lows were posted in March.

Rumors were rife in brokerage circles during the week of an impending change in the Washington policy regarding gold and towards the week-end these reports, mentioning a $41.34 price for metal, were given prominence in New York and London though there was no official confirmation.

Buying of the senior golds increases. The Toronto exchange gold share index passed the 118.00 mark in the week for the first time since March 10. The base metal share index also hit a new top for the last three months.

Dome on Friday sold at its highest price of the year at $60.10. McIntyre posted a net gain of $1 for the week and Hollinger and Lake Shore are up about 50 cents each.

Gains and losses were mixed among the medium-price issues but penny golds displayed a bullish tone. Favorites included God's Lake, Naybob, Augite, Gunnar, Wendigo and Temiskaming.

Although selling ex-dividend $2, Noranda shows a net gain of $2.50 Hudson Bay firmed $2.75 and Smelters and International Nickel are up $1.25 to $1.75 each.

London dispatches suggesting early distribution of munition contracts to Canadian firms by the British government awakened interest in the steel stocks and the majority of them have gains to show for the week.

Walkers common, up $1.50 and Fanny Farmer, up $1.25 stood out among the industrial gains while the two big oils, Imperial and International Petroleum, were conspicuous on the down side.

Western oils were inclined to improve.

Baptists See Liquor Public Enemy No. 1

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 11—(CP)—Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke of London, Eng., told Baptists from Ontario and Quebec at the closing sessions last night of their annual convention here that evangelizing work could be carried on only with the utmost of prudence in Germany and Italy.

Dr. Rushbrooke, general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, said that small churches were being "closed out." He also claimed that Rumania was second only to Russia in the restriction of religious freedom but said there had been some modification of what he said was intolerance of authority there.

Ontario has a liquor problem which is a "growing menace," said Rev. M. C. McLean of St. Catharines, Ont. President of the Ontario Temperance Union, Dr. McLean called the problem the Province's "public enemy No. 1," and one on which millions of dollars was "wasted" annually.

Report of the Social Service Board, presented by secretary Alexander Stark of Toronto, was adopted and it was suggested that in the coming year the board consider the question of indecent literature and of the marriage annulment question in Quebec.

Japs Plan To Blast Path Up Yangtse

SHANGHAI, June 11.—(AP)—The Japanese navy served warning today that it planned to blast its way up the Yangtse River to Hankow, China's provisional capital.

All foreign shipping was advised to evacuate a 200-mile zone between Wuhu and Kiukiang in an effort to prevent possible international complications. Kiukiang is 120 miles down the river from Hankow and Wuhu is 326 miles from the provisional capital.

The only foreign ships now in the Yangtse are British, United States and French gunboats. About 40 Japanese gunboats and transports were reported up the river from Wuhu, taking part in the new drive. They were led by the Idzmo, flagship of the Japanese fleet in China waters, which led the naval attack on Shanghai last year.

The Japanese were expected to meet the stiffest opposition near Kiukiang where the Chinese have formed a boom in the river by sinking junks loaded with rock.

Too Much Foam

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—The city council has taken steps to knock down the size of collars being worn by Chicago beer steins. Alderman William Rowan complained there was too much foam and too little beer. He wants a standard fixed for tavern keepers.

"Beer steins these days are wearing a collar that comes up to the ears," he said. His suggestion that an ordinance be drafted to "take the starch out of these collars, to wilt them down" was approved enthusiastically by his colleagues.

Aberhart's Reason

EDMONTON, June 11 (C.P.). — Premier Aberhart states the main reason Alberta recently withdrew its Privy Council appeals against court rulings which upheld the Federal power of disallowance and the right of a Lieutenant-Governor to reserve assent was because "the other provinces have not associated themselves with these appeals."

In a prepared statement issued here last night Mr. Aberhart urged the other eight provinces to "come together in a purely inter-provincial conference to agree on the main issues in dispute."

Regina, June 11.—(CP).

TRAILED down Albert Street at twenty-eight miles an hour by a motorcycle constable, Earl E. Robinson, Regina district, had the distinction in Police Court today of being the first man in Regina, possibly first in Canada, to be fined for speeding in a farm tractor.

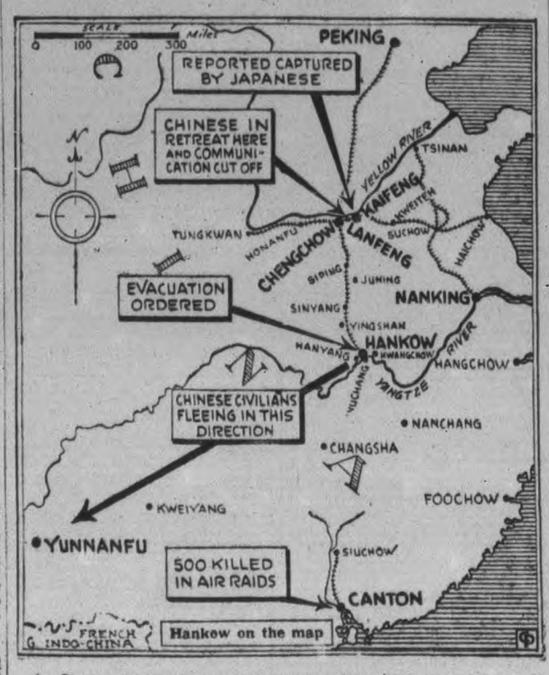
His father, R. A. Robinson, farmer, appeared and entered a plea of guilty. The penalty was $4 and costs.

Robinson said the tractor had been driven to Regina from St. Paul, Minn., passing along streets of such large cities as St. Paul and Winnipeg without police objecting to speed. He claimed the tractor had a normal speed on high gear of thirty miles an hour and had averaged twenty-eight miles an hour on the trip.

Oppose Buffalo Hunt

SANTA FE, N.M., June 11 (CP)—The New Mexico Association on Indian affairs condemned today a proposed buffalo hunt in which Redskins, armed only with bow and arrow, would pursue shaggy bison to entertain rodeo spectators. The organization said the hunt would be "exploiting the Indians for profit, and an inhumane practice that would make pincushions of the buffalo."

Chinese Evacuating Hankow



As Japanese armies in the north rolled along the Lunghai railroad in a drive on Hangkow, and Japanese bombers killed 3,000 in Canton, nearly 300,000 civilian inhabitants of the Chinese capital on the Yangtse, 500 miles inland, began evacuating. Observers said they thought it was "the beginning of the end" as far as Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek's defence of Hangkow and the middle Yangtse valley was concerned. The ABOVE map shows the position of Hangkow.

Quebec Liberals Would Let Women Vote

QUEBEC, June 11—(CP)—Quebec's Liberal party concluding a provincial convention here today tackles as the last piece of business selection of a leader who will be charged with the direction of the party's new program.

Choice of a chief appeared to lie be tween Adelard Godbout, former Premier and Minister of agriculture, and Edouard Lacroix, House of Commons member for Beauce.

The convention last night unanimously went on record in favor of abolition of the legislative council, the Province's Upper House whose Liberal members are in a big majority.

Last night's convention also adopted resolutions, to stand in the new program, in favor of votes for Quebec women in provincial elections, establishment of a provincial government youth ministry and government development of the Province's almost unlimited waterpower resources.

The convention called for state development of water power to bring down electricity rates by giving Hydro-Electric Companies "just competition."

It proposed building of "one or more Hydro-Electric plants in populated centres of the Province," municipalization of power, and cheap rural electrification.

Women were admitted to the convention on the same footing as the men for the first time in Quebec's political history. Convention chairman Ellie Beauregard of Montreal hoped "convention organizers' iniatitive will be followed by formal recognition of the women's right to vote in Quebec."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 11 (C.P.). — Beneficial rains in Western Canada only partially offset the bullish United States crop news yesterday as Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1⅜c to 3⅛c higher.

Renewed Canadian export business with sales of 350,000 bushels of new-crop wheat since Wednesday, improved United Kingdom demand for Australian wheat and higher outside markets yesterday, accounted for higher prices.

Southern interests purchased July to offset Eastern sales in that position, while exporters and intermarket operators pushed October and December to their high points at the close. Trading, however, was dull at times as trades apparently were awaiting the Canadian and United States crop reports to be released later in the day.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to ¾d higher, responding to continued unfavorable United States winter wheat crop reports, fair inquiry for Australian wheat and further sales to Italy. Buenos Aires pared yesterday's gains of more than 4 cents, and at noon was 2¼ to 2⅝ cents off.

Chicago closed ¼ lower to ⅛ cent up.

Loss Of Niagara Span Boon To Fort Erie

FORT ERIE, Ont., June 11 (CP)—Tourists traffic at Fort Erie is up 15 per cent. for the first 10 days of June compared with the same period last year, Dugald H. McIntyre, Ontario Government Tourist Director here, said today.

"We find owing to fact the Honeymoon Bridge is no longer in operation, a good many folk are using the Peace Bridge apparently under mistaken impression there no longer exists a bridge at Niagara Falls," Mr. McIntyre said today. "We find this especially so with tourists who have visited Ontario previously, the widespread publicity attendant on collapse of Falls View Bridge helping to emphasize a mistaken impression."

Fishers Hook Deer

DARTMOUTH, N.S., June 11 (C.P.). — Here's the latest fish story from the backwoods of Halifax County, and four Dartmouth anglers were back in town to-day with a picture to support it.

The four were fishing in Ship Harbor Lake, 60 miles from here, when A. H. Harrison and W. G. Austen got a strike. Looking around they saw a young doe struggling in the water, entangled in both their lines. The fish hooks were removed from the deer and the anglers took a picture of it before they turned it loose in the woods.

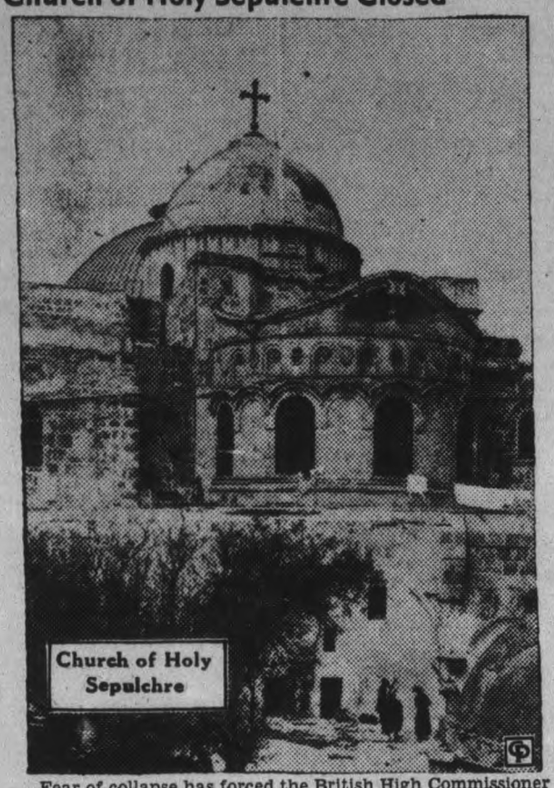
Church of Holy Sepulchre Closed



Fear of collapse has forced the British High Commissioner in Palestine to close the world-famous shrine of Christendom in Jerusalem. Built by the Crusaders in the twelfth century the church stands over the traditional site of the tomb of Christ.

World Famous Shrine Threatened Large Cracks Appear in Walls

By CHARLES A. SMITH
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

LONDON, June 11.—Fearful that the tottering structure will collapse and overwhelm worshippers, the British government has ordered the basilica of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, world's most noted shrine of Christendom, closed to public worship.

Built by the Crusaders in the twelfth century, the church stands over the traditional site of the tomb of Christ in the centre of Jerusalem. It encloses the mound of Calvary. Millions of devout pilgrims have visited it in the course of centuries.

Announcement of the closing, which was decided on by the British high commisioner for Palestine, Sir Harold MacMichael, was conveyed to the hands of the religious bodies which for centuries have used the basilica for worship.

Secretary Explains Decision

In a statement explaining the decision, issued in London, the colonial secretary said:

"The British government has for some years had under consideration the safety of the Holy Sepulchre. Accordingly, William Harvey, the architect, was invited to visit the edifice some years ago, and in accordance with the report then received steel and wooden structures were put into position in 1933-35.

In October, 1937, there was an earthquake shock which, although slight, was sufficient to shake the building in every part. Reports from his technical officer as to the state of the building were so serious that the high commissioner decided that it was essential to obtain expert advice.

Second Inspection Made

Accordingly he invited William Harvey to come again to Palestine and make a second inspection. Harvey has now submitted his report, a copy of which has been sent to each ecclesiastical authority concerned.

Harvey's general conclusions are: "The building stands well in parts that have alreday been provided with steel and wooden structures; yet even in them cracks have occurred. It is impossible to say whether the Katholikon Dome, with its high vaults and heavy masonry, will fall first, or the many piers of the rotunda or of the apse.

"There is also a danger of the vault of the south transept sliding telescopically to the ground or iron galleries giving way and allowing the stone stairway to fall.

Danger Viewed Acute

"It is clear," the government statement concludde, that the danger would be gravely enhanced should any considerable body of persons congregate therein."

It was announced the British govrnment is considering what action for structural preservation of the basilica should be taken. It is likely a world-wide appeal for funds will be issued with the co-operation of the various eclesiastical bodies using the church.

Cathedral Musings

A problem that has confronted all who have sought to enlighten their brethren is the great difficulty of conveying to others that which they, in themselves have known and experienced. To put spiritual realizations into concrete words is impossible without the use of symbolic terms, which, all too often, fail to arouse the same realizations within the minds of others. For example, the Peace of God is often spoken of, so also is the Kingdom of Heaven, but these are but words and phrases destitute of all meaning save to those who have entered into the Peace, or found the Kingdom. Nor ineed can any phase or degree, even of the slightest, of the entering into the realization of the unity with God be conveyed to others in any true sense. As in the Ancient Mysteries, the "Lost Word" cannot be imparted or received. It can only be attained. For with whatever symbolism we clothe them, the mysteries of God are of God, while the symbols are of man.

To think of "heaven" in terms of the material symbolism is a mistake, for although there are heights ineffable, yet in essence, heaven consists of a conscious dwelling in the unity of the Father whether we are here in the flesh or elsewhere in the spirit. As the Master so plainly stated to those who looked for a materialistic kingdom of God here on earth, the Kingdom of Heaven is within us, here and now, if we but seek it.

Neither need we think that bodily death works a miraculous change in our personalities. We enter the astral world exactly the same as we are in this one. But whereas here, we, most of us, camouflage our real dispositions, in that other world all such disguise is stripped away. The chief difference between the two states of being, however, is that here on earth we have freedom of choice and action, we can mould ourselves as well as our conditions, whereas in the astral world we have no such freedom. Our conditions are decided by what we are in ourselves, for we gravitate, as it were, into such conditions and such environment which are natural to us, and we cannot help ourselves in this. It is only here on earth that we can fit ourselves to the higher orders of life; therefore it is necessary, as Jesus said, to work while it is yet day, for the night cometh when no man can work.

LACTANTIUS III.

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

The Administration of the Law. At the head is Jehovah, the God and King of Israel. Under Him, by Divine appointment, is the House of David represented by the Royal Person seated on the Throne as the Chief Ruler in the Kingdom. Under him are the judges duly appointed and representing the King. The United States of America has departed from this system by setting aside the Crown as the centre of administration. But the law in both the British Empire and the U.S.A. is the same common law. We have a system of law which is perfect as to home needs. It touches national life in every department. It takes care for faith and worship, defending the people from false teaching and worship. It takes care for the hallowed estimate of the Name of God. This is a most momentous thing in the life of man or nation. It takes care for the Sabbath, a precious heritage of the Israel people. It takes care for the family life, upon which Biblical and Christian civilization is based. It takes care for life, for property, for character, for reputation, and for the individual, who must eschew covetousness, the root of all evil.

The perfect application of this law will settle equitably the conditions of labor, commerce and finance. It sets the rules for successful agriculture, for safe sanitation, for the public health and for international peace.

The preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom, as illustrated by our Lord in the Sermon on the Monnt, is next in importance to the preaching of the Gospel of Salvation, and well will it be for mankind when all men give heed thereto.

One of the great movements of the day is the spread of the common law to new peoples and nations. Within the British Commonwealth and colonies and the U.S.A. the law follows the flag. For ages the law has been the birthright of the Anglo-Saxon people Long before Christ, the law which Maimutius codified in the fifth century B.C. ran in these islands. The basis of the Maimûtius laws, the King Alfred laws, and the common law as expounded by Blackstone, was the same. The law arose "from the natural and revealed law of God." The law was first brought to these Isles by Israel colonists; as British law has been introduced into America, Canada, Australia and New Zealand by British colonists. The law had an earlier begining than the Sinia Code, for that, as the Scriptures inform us, was a restatement of law already long in existence in the earth among the people of God. The common law never became universal, it followed the branches of one race, the people descended from Shem; especially the Israel people.

The Golden Text

Mark 14:36—"Not what I will, but what thou wilt."

The Supreme Test of Service

"BRASS TOCKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 12 is Mark 14:32-46, the Golden Text being Mark 14:36, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt."

THE GREATEST chance Almighty God ever took was that by which he endowed mankind with free moral agency, including freedom of will to choose to do or not to do the will of God. The first Adam, in his hour of trial in the Garden of Eden, followed the policy, "Not they will, but mine be done." The last Adam, God's "second model", in the Garden of Gethsemane, as in every other hour of trial, followed the policy expressed in his prayer, "Not my will, but thine be done."

"Watch and Pray"

Gethsemane was a favorite place of prayer to our Lord. Judas had gone there often with his Master and knew just where to find him when the hour of betrayal came. Jesus realized most keenly his own need of spiritual preparation for the impending hour of trial. He earnestly desired that his disciples should share this realization with him, and should want to prepare themselves for it by prayer. "My soul is exceeding sorrowful even unto death: abide ye here and watch . . . watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak." "And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee; remove this cup from me: howbeit not what I will, but what thou wilt." St. Luke, the physician, adds in his account that, "being in an agony, he prayed more earnestly; and his sweat became as it were great drops of blood falling down upon the ground."

The disciples failed utterly to meet their Master's test of their willingness to serve him by watching with him during his hour of trial in Gethsemane. Three times he returned to them from his praying and "found them sleeping." Luke adds that they were "sleeping for sorrow." But as they slept Jesus prayed on and on concerning the cup of sorrow he was about to drink. What was this "cup" for the removal of which our Lord prayed so earnestly and insistently in Gethsemane? If it was just the physical death of the cross, then Jesus faced death with far less fortitude than an innumerable company of martyrs. Physical death was only the shadow of that against which he prayed "with strong crying and tears" and bloody sweat. The real substance was spiritual death. This being the larger part of "the wages of sin" it could not pass from him. It was this that he was drinking to the bitter dregs as he cried out of the darkness from the cross, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" It was as he emptied this spiritual cup that he "became a curse for us" and "was made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in him." This was the inexpressible horror that made his "soul exceeding sorrowful, even unto death" in Gethsemane.

The Betrayer's Kiss

The cowardice of the arresting mob reveals itself in the numbers that came against him, in their weapons and in the treacherous sign of the betrayer's kiss. The disciples' failure at this testing time revealed itself in Peter's rash act in wielding his sword and inflicting a wound which Jesus healed in his very last recorded miracle of healing. How often we, like Peter, have kept our Lord busy healing wounds inflicted through rashness and failure to watch and pray!

During Egg Week, Essex, England, collected 51,389 eggs for its county hospital.

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 11.—(AP)—Take the word of her press agent—Shirley Temple saw her first snow here.

She molded and threw a snowball for the first time in her nine years yesterday on snow-banked Berthoud Pass highway crossing the continental divide west of Denver said James F. Denton, spokesman for the vacationing child movie star.

Shirley and her parents are en route to Callander, Ont., to see the Dionne quintuplets.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James
Toronto

Is it lawful to give to Caesar or not? Jesus answering said unto them: Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's. St. Mark 12: 14, 17.

"They sent unto Him certain of the Pharisees and Herodians to catch Him in His words." What do you understand when you read the words "Pharisees and Herodians." Do you not sense the awful bitterness and hatred against the Lord when sworn political enemies unite. For the time being they bury the hatchet.

The question is full of dynamite. If He answered: "It is lawful to give tribute unto Caesar" the great mass of the people would leave Him. If He said: No; they would accuse Him to the Roman authorities on the charge of treason. They could see no way out. No wonder "they marvelled at Him."

Yet the answer was true to their own experience. The Jews are allowed to worship in their multitudes in the Temple courts. On the outside wall were notices forbidding any Gentile to enter that sacred enclosure on pain of death. One of those tables were lately found in Jerusalem. This by authority of the Roman Government. Not even Pontius Pilate could enter the sacred enclosure. It was Rome's recognition that there was a place in the Jewish religion where Caesar was powerless.

But the Master's answer meant that three days later He walked through those streets carrying His Cross and there was no tumult on His behalf in the City. Can you see how men strained their ears to catch His answer? They were loyal Jews. Many had come weary miles to worship. They hate the foreign yoke. His answer caused them to turn their backs on Him. He was not a patriot. Perhaps you will understand why the populace cried: "Not this Man but Barabbas." Barabbas had been accused of sedition. Barabbas would have given the straight answer—NO. Moreover Our Lord's answer very probably decided the ecclesiastic authorities to hasten His arrest. They need not fear a tumult. He had signed His own death warrant.

But there is more to it than that. Our Lord's answer brought pain and agony to multitudes in the days to come and especially today. It was a political principle that the State was everything and the individual nothing. But Roman and Jewish authorities recognized it. You will remember that the three Evangelists, Matthew, Mark and Luke, record this answer; so that Jew, Roman and Greek may know of this new political principle.

There is a tradition that Marcus Aurilius, the best and noblest of the Roman Emperors, carefully examined the Christian Gospels and when he came to this statement of Our Lord remarked that the Speaker was guilty of high treason; that all Christians who accepted this principle should be prosecuted and put to death. He, the best of the Roman Emperors, issued a fearful and terrible persecution, beginning with bishops and clergy, then the laity and lastly destroying all the sacred books which fell into the hands of the government.

Our Lord was laying down a new political principle. As long ago as 1596, Andrew Melville, preaching before King James, instructed the monarch that "there are two Kings and two Kingdoms in Scotland; there is King James, the Head of the commonwealth, and there is Christ Jesus, the King of the Church, whose subject King James VI is, and of Whose Kingdom he is not a king, nor a lord, nor a head, but a member.

The president of Cheshunt College, Cambridge, a short time ago, made an impressive appeal to Roman Catholics and Protestants alike "to remember that they are united in their certainty that there are aspects of human life which belong to Christ and which never belong to Caesar; and that the Church, which is a Divine Society, holding its authoritative commission from the living God, can never be a department of State."

You will remember that Pastor Niemoller, a noted and honored submarine officer in the Great War, was imprisoned for many months and tried for his refusal to accept the rule that Hitler is above God. He refuses to surrender the things of God to Caesar. He is now under protective arrest somewhere in Germany. This is the modern worship of the state which claims to be always right.

It is good for Christian people to remember what dictatorship really means. The Christian citizen, living in a democracy, living under the authority created by the whole body of citizens, will willingly accept those rules and restrictions of personal freedom for the good of the State. This is "rendering tribute unto Caesar." But he must jealously resent any attempt on the part of the state to interfere with his duties towards God. "Render unto God the things that are God's."

"Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom."

The Supreme Test of Service — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Mark 14:32-46.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

From the supper table in the upper room in Jerusalem Jesus led his disciples to an olive orchard on the Mount of Olives, where he went for prayer so often, that Judas knew just where he could be found.

Jesus took Peter, James and John farthest into the garden and asked them to watch while he prayed. His prayer was "Father, remove this cup from me, howbeit not what I will, but what thou wilt."

This prayer Jesus repeated three times "with strong crying and tears" and bloody sweat. But after each prayer he found his disciples asleep. Then he watched over them until Judas came with soldiers to arrest him.

The sign Judas had agreed on with Jesus' enemies was that he should kiss Jesus. As he did so Jesus said, "Betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss?" (GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 14:36.)

Confusion of Allegiance

It would be small wonder if people became confused when trying to follow all that is taking place in our own country. A few days ago five non-commissioned officers from a Toronto regiment attended a Fascist meeting in Toronto. They were wearing the King's uniform but gave the Fascist salute to the leader of the meeting.

Then there was discussion about the matter; there was correspondence between the officer commanding in Toronto and the department in Ottawa, and the last word is that there is nothing to prevent a member of the Canadian militia being a member of the Fascist organization. That ruling has its basis in the claim that this is a free country and that people are at liberty to join such organizations as appeal to them so long as they obey and respect the laws of the country.

One is ready to grant the force of that argument and yet raise a question mark about members of our militia being associated with the Fascist organization. Fascism has not the age of Socialism or Communism. It had its birth in 1919 in Italy and was a movement started by Mussolini to oppose the move toward extreme socialism following the war. One cannot deny that Mussolini has done much for Italy, but Fascism essentially is a form of government which finds its ultimate expression through a dictator.

Fascism cannot be in agreement with our form of government, and it is opposed to democracy as exemplified in our method of constitutional administration. Right there we believe there would be trouble for the man in the militia of a democratic country belonging to a Fascist organization. Being a soldier he might be called upon to defend a thing of which he did not approve. He would be in the position also of having to swear allegiance to his King and country as a militiaman and when he joined the Fascists he would also have to subscribe to their creed. We cannot see how this dual membership and allegiance is possible.

A Timely Message

Rev. Father Augustine of the Passionist Order talked plainly to the men assembled at the Immaculate Conception church in this city, and he was addressing himself to a very old question. In a general way it was the influence of the home and the place of the father in the home in regard to his children.

The speaker placed the issue so squarely before the men that there could be no dodging it. Father Augustine was certain the child in the home was more impressed by the life of his father, by his actions and words, than he was by anything that might be said to him. The speaker also had something to say about fathers spending part of their hours in giving religious instruction to their children, and right there Father Augustine might well have been addressing his remarks to fathers in Protestant homes as well as those of his own belief.

What used to be known as the old family altar in Protestant homes has been broken down within recent years. Family prayers have been discontinued and there are plenty of homes where the act of returning thanks before partaking of a meal is no longer observed. We are certain fathers in general regardless of their religious affiliation could have listened with advantage and benefit to the timely words of Father Augustine.

West Must Look East

Of the fifty members elected to the Saskatchewan Legislature 21 are farmers. The next largest group is composed of lawyers of whom there are eight. There are also three members who are secretary-treasurers of rural municipalities and they can be counted on as representing the farmers. So in all there is a very strong farmer representation in the Saskatchewan legislature.

Saskatchewan is essentially an agricultural province, and it is a place where everything depends on what goes on among the farmers, and for that reason it seems right enough that the farmers themselves should be strongly represented in the legislature.

The one limitation they will experience is that there are questions about which they hold decided views which are not dealt with by their government. The average Western farmer is at heart a free trader but from his seat in the legislature he cannot get his hands on the making of tariffs; that is all attended to for him at Ottawa.

The farmers represent a large group in Saskatchewan which have been in need of assistance because they have not been able to grow sufficient grain to provide their own seed. In the legislature they will find that in that essential they will have to look also to Ottawa as Saskatchewan is not able to finance such matters.

There may be many things the farmers in the western legislature have in mind which they would like to see done, but for a while at least they will have to train themselves to look toward Ottawa.

Prefers Being Alone

Albert Rowles of the Peace River district in Alberta has been visiting with a sister in Stratford. A reporter of the Beacon-Herald talked with him just as he was getting ready to start for home. Mr. Rowles talked little about the election, but spoke chiefly about his own desire to get back home, where his nearest neighbor is 20 miles distant.

Mr. Rowles first setted in central Saskatchewan 35 years ago, but ten years ago he moved on to the Peace River district where there are no crop failures. Otherwise he is not much of a traveller as he has been back East but once in that 35-year period.

What's more he lives alone 20 miles from any other person and likes it. He has no radio and does little reading. During the winter he goes and lives in a small town some 40 miles distant. Best of all he likes being on his farm and being alone.

There are a few people who would share his view; there are many more who would not. If Mr. Rowles has occasion to call on his nearest neighbor he takes a horse and makes a 20-mile trip which he does not consider very far. He never finds the time hanging heavy on his hands and never does he experience a desire to have any person living closer than 20 miles.

If a vote were taken on the question we believe the great majority would say they could not agree with his outlook. They would find greater enjoyment and contentment in living some place where there would be human friendship within reach. Even Robinson Crusoe seemed to find life better after he had his man Friday come to live with him.

We Could All Do It

The purchasing Agents' Association of Toronto paid a visit to Peterborough a few days ago. There were over a hundred members of the party and they liked this city. They said so plainly at the time and several of them have said so since by letter.

Citizens had opportunity to meet these visitors at a dinner at the Kawartha Club. In conversation with one of them the Examiner learned a desire had been created to visit Peterborough because one resident here always spoke so well of the place. This is what he said:

"One of your citizens has occasion to call on me in my office in Toronto and every now and then he has taken occasion to tell me something more about Peterborough. He mailed me one of your Examiner tourist editions. I remember one summer when we had to go easy on the use of water for lawn purposes he told me how green everything looked in parks and lawns in Peterborough because there was plenty of water. He has told me what a short distance it is to your lakes and of how good the roads are; he has boasted even of what a short trip it is between his office and home. He has spoken so well of the city that he has always left me with the feeling that I wanted to come and see the place. A man like that is an asset to your community."

The Toronto visitor was right. Perhaps most of us cannot be on central communities attending to publicity and giving out favorable views about our city and the district in which it is situated, but there are few people who could not as occasion presented say a good word for their own community. It takes little effort and it is highly effective.

Baptists Discuss Union

The convention of Baptist churches in session at Brantford named a committee to "study the doctrinal and practical relations of the Baptist denomination to other bodies of Christian believers." There are those who will quickly interpret that as being the first step toward entering church union. The move is not a new one because the same question has been studied a good many times before.

Judging from some of the addresses given on this point the feeling of speakers was that there was a certain necessity in the times which made it desirable to present a united Protestant front. Apart from certain doctrinal differences there is a gap between the Baptist and United Church in the matter of church government and the Baptists might find it a little difficult to have the harness of centralized regulation placed upon them.

Each Baptist church is a self-contained unit as far as management is concerned; each church deals entirely with its own pulpit; there is no stationing committee. There are some Baptist churches where they insist upon closed communion; there are others where any Christian, whether a member of the church or of some other denomination, is welcomed at the communion service. In all such matter individual churches make their own decisions.

The matter of union with other churches has been more discussed within recent years, although at the time when the church union movement was started in Canada the Baptists decided to stand aside. It may be regarded as at least slightly significant that when the matter was suggested at the Brantford gathering there was no voluble protest against the committee going ahead and making a further study of the situation.

Building a Home

Plans announced from Ottawa for a new housing scheme are meeting with a mixed reception. The provision for spending $135,000,000 on municipal schemes was made with the idea of getting needed work under way. We have noticed in several municipalities it has been claimed the present plan gives an advantage to the builder of a home which was denied to the man who built some years ago and who has since then been carrying his full burden of municipal and relief taxation. That, at best, is taking a short look at the question. The fact that a prospective builder can get a loan today on better terms than were made possible a few years ago is not going to injure the man who already owns a home. He can have the assurance that when a man builds a home today it will be only a matter of time until he is a paying member of the community in the form of taxation.

Some years ago a number of municipalities in Ontario went into the building of houses, and in some places the houses were erected by the municipality and then sold. The other plan was to deal with individuals who had their own ideas of where they wanted to live and what sort of a house they preferred, and who were also prepared to make a suitable down payment. This latter plan worked much better than the other. Where the municipality had a number of houses on its hands for sale it was found people did not want them; they looked too much the same; they were not of the plan they preferred. It was found that many of them after being sold were up for sale again as the prospective buyers could not or would not carry them. The selection of suitable people to go ahead with a plan for home building and home owning is as important under a government scheme as under any other. There are advantages in the present plan which should not be overlooked. Building a home remains as a substantial part of a man's ambition and doing it now puts a number of people in gainful occupation.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The fact that Sir Josiah Stamp has been made a baron should be considered an honor by the philatelists.

The annual convention of the Canadian Gas Association is being held in Toronto and that suggests some real opposition for parliament.

Saskatchewan has had a heavy rain but it was nothing compared to the soaking Social Credit got in that province on election day.

There are only eight lawyers in the Saskatchewan Legislature and that surely entitles the legal profession to apply for a recount.

A man who rode through the streets of Kincardine, standing on the saddle of his motor cycle has been charged with reckless driving and there is no reason to feel that the charge was too drastic.

Saskatchewan elections did not make any change in the standing of the Conservative party in the legislature. There weren't any before the election and there are none now.

If there is any one party entitled to do a little celebrating following Saskatchewan's election it is the C.C.F., which went in with five members and emerged with ten.

We heard of the young curate who since coming to a new parish had made what he called nodding acquaintance with a number of his people. Would such acquaintance be made during church hours.

The House of Commons had to be adjourned the other night because there were only 17 members present. Some 228 politicians will remain silent on that point when the election campaign gets under way.

When the 1938 strawberry crop in Victoria, B.C., was ready to market it was found the cold storage places still had on hand a quarter of last year's crop. Not so good. That hang-over must have cost a good deal in storage charges and then it would compete at once with the present crop.

CRITIC

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The critic who lives up our way, has often quite a lot to say, on all the things he'll see; I can't recall at any time, he said a thing was smooth and fine, and done so he'd agree.

¶ My neighbor Lem he got some paint, and fixed his place up cool and quaint, he worked there hard and long; the critic came and saw the thing, then he tuned up and had to sing, the color scheme was wrong.

¶ Jim Stubble changed his yard around, and dug a lot of stubborn ground, and made it look quite fair; the critic said he'd spoiled the lot, by doing things he shouldn't ought, and folks would stop and stare.

¶ Joe Dauber's wife can sing a bit, and Joe is rather proud of it, she sings a simple verse; there's better singers here and there, but really she does pretty fair, and lots there be do worse.

¶ The critic heard her and he said, her sense of beauty had gone dead, she had no grace or poise; and when she sang he'd block his ear, so he made sure he would not hear, it was an awful noise.

¶ So he knocks everything that comes, and speaks in icy word that numbs, and spreads his hurtful thought; there's just one man that he esteems, on whom he smiles and always beams—he likes himself a lot.

It All Started In An Editorial

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. DUNNING: I am not criticizing anyone, but am merely excusing myself if any statement I make should be incomplete. I will endeavour to be sure that it will not be inaccurate.

With regard to charging the government with inaction in the matter, I do not think any of the producers in the Turned valley will join in such a charge. When last year the new production of the Turner valley first became certain the problems apparently arising in connection with that production were brought to the attention of the government by the producers' association in the Turner valley. They asked a thorough investigation into a situation which would be created by the development of a heavily producing oil field in Alberta.

If my memory serves me aright, in the early months of this year the Alberta government indicated that they were making a further test of potential production, but the hearings had reached the point where the independent producers' association requested the board to adjourn sine die. Those words have a bearing on the editorial that was read. The unfairness of the editorial is indicated by the fact that the adjournment of the hearings was at the request of the parties principally interested, the parties for whom my right hon. friend was so ostensibly speaking.

Mr. BENNETT: What does the minister mean by "ostensibly"?

Mr. DUNNING: I assume my right hon. friend was trying to help the producers. In his effort to help them he quoted an interview alleged to have taken place with one of them and blaming this government for killing off the inquiry, or putting it to sleep, which I think were the words used.

Mr. BENNETT: I read only four lines of the editorial.

Mr. DUNNING: Four lines did sufficient damage to the government for my right hon. friend's purpose.

Mr. BENNETT: That was not my purpose at all.

Mr. DUNNING: Having accomplished that—

Mr. BENNETT: I am going to raise a point of order at once. That is a misstatement of what I said. It is a habit the hon. gentleman is learning. I did not make the statement he attributes to me.

Mr. DUNNING: What is the statement?

Mr. BENNETT: My hon. friend states that I read the editorial for the purpose of injuring the government. I read five lines from the editorial which referred to the whole 245 members, as the hon. member has pointed out. The hon. member starts off by saying "ostensibly." If he is going to repeat what I said, he should give the words I used or their meaning, and not put another construction upon them.

Mr. DUNNING: If I am to profit in connection with that sort of thing from the instructions I am constantly receiving from my right hon. friend, I doubt whether it is a matter of congratulation so far as I am concerned.

Mr. BENNETT: The hon. gentleman must realize that that is offensive. The other day he used a word which was offensive and he withdrew it at once.

Mr. DUNNING: Exactly.

Mr. BENNETT: He is doing the same thing now, only worse. I recommend that he make himself a little more familiar with the rules which state that motives cannot be assigned to members. He says that I have been giving him instructions as to how to break the rules—

Mr. DUNNING: No.

Mr. BENNETT: That is the sense of his statement. It means that or nothing.

Mr. DUNNING: Mr. Speaker, I am in your judgment. I said no such thing.

Mr. BENNETT: What did the hon. gentleman say?

Mr. DUNNING: May I continue?

Mr. BENNETT: If the minister keep within the rules I shall not intervene. If he keep within the rules, he need have no fear of my objecting to his doing so.

Mr. DUNNING: I have sat here and smiled when my right hon. friend has seen fit to break the rules in his references to all and sundry, and I did not try to throw him off his argument.

Mr. BENNETT: Such virtue!

TELL THE AMERICANS.

(Daily Express (London)

MR. EUGENE MEYER is the publisher of a great American newspaper, the Washington Post. Before he was a publisher he was a successful financier who became governor of the Federal Reserve Bank. He is a Jew, and a friend of President Roosevelt. Mr. Eugene tells his readers that Britain has come out on the side of the Fascists in Spain. So he thinks the United States should redress the balance by coming out on the other side. We will hope that Mr. Meyer's information on Britain's attitude to the Jews is better than his information on our attitude to the Fascists. But let us do something ourselves to correct the illusions spread by Mr. Meyer, possibly among Americans visiting here. We should meet them at the ports, treat them with courtesy at the Customs, charge them no taxes—and give them all that is good for them about the enlightened institutions of our country, our free Press, free speech and toleration of races and creeds persecuted in other and less happy lands.

A JUST SENTENCE.

(North Bay Nugget)

IF PENALTIES imposed by District Magistrate E. R. Tucker, Cochrane, on a hit-and-run driver at Kapuskasing are a criterion of what such offenders in the future may expect, there is a strong possibility of fear impelling those inclined to recklessness to quickly mend their ways.

Dealing with a man who speeded away after striking a young boy, to leave him with a fractured leg in charge of his brother, Magistrate Tucker committed him to jail for one year, fined him $100 and recommended that his driving license be suspended for two years.

• Pressure On China and Japan

(By Guenther Stein in Christian Science Monitor)

HONG KONG, CHINA'S man power is five to six times that of Japan. But can Japan afford the outlay of three, or four, or even five dollars against every single dollar that China spends on the war? For this is the proportion of respective material sacrifice in the present struggle. China carries on a stubborn defensive, cheaply as far as material expenses go, against Japan's wasteful offensive. Japan has the financial disadvantage of a longer haul to the front lines, and of the much costlier support of her troops in more or less devastated, guerrilla-infested territories.

Superior economic strength, therefore, will decide the outcome of the war. How do Japan and China compare in this regard?

It is doubtful whether, even in the initial stages of the war, the obvious superiority of Japan's economic structure over that of China was sufficient to offset the much higher running cost of the Japanese war machine. Then months of desperate fighting have certainly done more harm to the complicated capitalistic system of Japan than to the rather primitive and robust economy of China. The mere dislocation of normal economic activities, on account of the war, has upset the sensitive economic structure of Japan very much indeed; while even the loss of Shanghai and of other business centers seems to have mattered little to China, which is still almost self-sufficient in any given unit of her huge territories.

When it comes to the question of foreign assistance, China ought to be able to expect more from the world than Japan. For foreign countries have a large economic stake in China which a Japanese victory would jeopardize, while they have no stake in Japan. Furthermore, China is neither an industrial nor a political competitor, as Japan is, of the world's potential borrowers. And an independent China, after the war would offer a much greater field for international trade and investment than ever before, not only because of the need for reconstruction but especially on account of the opening up of her longneglected Western and Southern territories for which the consequences of the war have at last paved the way.

The last, and probably the most decisive, point in which, in the long run, Chinese economy may prove to be just sufficiently superior to hold out longer than that of Japan is the greater willingness and ability to economic sacrifice on the part of China's population. Its war enthusiasm is rabid and genuine, while that of Japan is mainly artificial and hampered by dim popular doubts in the justice and expediency of their country's cause. China's millions in all their misery are more sturdy as a whole than those of Japan, and while they expact social progress from a successful defensive war, the Japanese people know that they have nothing to expect even from victory but a further deterioration of their unsatisfactory living conditions, and fresh preparations on the part of their military for further warfare.

AMONG THE hundreds of relief stories which have been told in the last few years many, by the way, in favor of recipients, we think that the following in the current issue of the Printed Word just about takes the championship.

A Toronto school teacher received in her classroom an unexpected visit from a representative of the relief authorities. Did the school teacher receive a rather pretentious Easter egg from a little student named Blank? The teacher did, and judged its price at about 50 cents. "It cost 75 cents", said the relief representative. "And did the well-dressed little girl student deposit money in the Penny Bank?" he asked. Fifty cents per week, the teacher informed him, and the girl's balance was now 14 dollars.

"The family is on relief", said the classroom visitor. "But, ah!" said teacher, "the child has a grandmother who is very fond of her. Perhaps she gives her money. I know that she bought a dollar's worth of tickets for the school concert and that her grandmother came to the concert."

"Grandma, too, is on relief," said the inspector.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

LABOUR NOT for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed. Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work? Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.—John vi. 27-33.

Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time; casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.—I Pet. v, 6, 7.

To The Editor

WHY DO TEETH DECAY?

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In the Globe and Mail of the 10th there appears an article on the above subject written by Dr. Bunderson who has probably earned the right to speak with authority on health problems. More than most men in his profession. He stresses the part that diet plays in building strong teeth and bones and reasons that if the enamel is resistant enough tooth decay will not be so nearly liable to stage an attack. These facts have been reviewed time and time again by nearly every writer on this subject? in fact the laity are becoming quite familiar with them and many sincere mothers are trying their best to provide their children with the very things in their diet that are so necessary, only to find decay is rampant, new cavities appear at each examination and it all seems in vain.

It is too bad that Dr. Bunderson failed to mention one fact that is of vital importance in preventing decay and that is a well cared for mouth. I am sure that I voice the opinion of many men in our profession when I say that the child fed on the average diet but who has his teeth properly cleaned each day runs far less danger of tooth decay, than the child fed on the particular diet mentioned in this article and who is careless about his mouth hygiene.

To get results the brushing of children's teeth must be supervised. Not one child in a hundred will do a good job at brushing unless he knows he has to show his mother just how well it has been done.

The old slogan that a clean tooth never decays has very much truth in it, and those who would help prevent tooth decay in children's mouth's must teach and preach oral hygiene in and out of season.

Imperial Vets. Plan To Form Organization

A preliminary meeting has been held here for the purpose of organizing a branch here of the British Imperial Comrades Association and on Wednesday next there will be another meeting in the Legion Hall at which it is hoped there will be a large attendance and that the final steps to complete the organization will be taken. Those who attended the first meeting signed the application forms and got the branch under way.

The gathering was addressed by James W. Stone of Omemee, organizing secretary for the district, and Mr. Tinling of St. Thomas who made the trip here for the purpose of assisting in the organization of the Peterborough branch.

The meeting opened with a minute's silence in memory of fallen comrades after which Mr. Stone explained the steps that had been taken to launch the Imperial Comrades Association and thanked the comrades and the Canadian Legion here for the assistance they had given.

Mr. Tinling, honorary provincial secretary of the organization gave a most informative address in which he emphasized the necessity of veterans of the Imperial army living in Canada geting together. Mr. Tinling said there were 200,000 former soldiers of the Imperial forces living in Canada getting together. Mr. Tin- enrolling in the Association Imperial veterans would be fighting for justice and better conditions for these men.

Percy T. King has consented to take on the position of secretary for the present and it is hoped that at next Wednesday's meeting the list of officers will be elected.

James W. Stone, district organizer, had an interesting war record. He enlisted in the 5th Battalion Suffolk Regiment on the 7th of August, 1914, and after training in England came under the command of General Ian Hamilton and slated for the Dardenelles. A platoon was selected to help form a divisional cyclist comany and Mr. Stone became a member of that unit which embarked for Gallipoli in July. He served through the whole Gallipoli campaign and afterward had to go to hospital in Egypt from where he was invalided to England. Later he volunteered for service in France with the 56th Divisional Cyclist Company and was in France for the balance of the war, later going to Germany and signing on for an extra year with the Rhine army.

Eight Ocean Planes Ready By September

LONDON, June 11—(CP Cable) —Giant Imperial Airways flying boats, with a range exceeding 3,000 miles and capable of carrying upwards of 4,000 pounds of mail, will be ready to cross the Atlantic by September. At the same time Pan-American Airways propose to inaugurate service.

At present eight of these craft are on the stocks at Short Brothers' Seaplane Works at Rochester, and two are so far advanced it is expected they will be passed for tests by early August.

From the water the boats will take off with a load of 48,000 pounds, which could be increased to 53,000 by refueling in mid-air . Ultimately it is planned to use the boats for passenger traffic, but none will be carried on the experimental flights this year.

Meanwhile the overhaul of the Mercury, upper half of the Mayo composite aircraft, is nearing completion in preparation for its Atlantic flight late this month.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 12.

Sunday's horoscope is an auspicious one for affairs of the clergy, elders, property, and solid investments. These show some encouraging gain in the way of security and stability. But there may be some anxiety in employment where superiors may be critical or exacting. In all matters it would be well to sidestep intrigues and curious or treacheous problems.

Those whose birthday it is may have opportunity for gaining much in the way of establishing their security and stabilizing their fortunes, either by industry, investment, property or the benefices of elders. But placate superios and be wary of duplicity, secrecy and peculiar conditions.

A child born on this day may be serious, industrious, with sound ideas and ambitions. It may accumulate wealth through investments, property or possible by trust insurance, inheritance or the favors of elders.

For Monday, June 13.

Monday's astrolcgical forecast is for a rather unsettled or disturbed state of affairs, although these may not be of major importance. There may be some unlooked-for change of a disquieting rather than formidable nature. A loss or strange contact of a disagreeable tone may prove irritating. But offsetting this there may be harmony, happiness, and probably emotional or social gratification.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much activity, happiness and gratification in their domestic, social, artistic, or affectional lives. In business there may be an irritating or perplexing situation caused by a strange or unorthodox adventure, with enmity or malice possible.

A child born on this day may have much solidity of character, and be serious, studious, responsible and hard working. Its rewards may come in the confidence of its friends and intimates who may assist in its substantial success and accumulations.

Play Presented At Eden Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT JULIAN, June 11.—The play "Everybody's Getting Married," a three-act comedy was presented on Tuesday evening in aid of Eden United Church. The humorous scenes appeared so frequently, and were so well acted by each member of the cast, that the large audience was kept in an almost continuous uproar of laughter. Dramatic talent of these young people and their faithful perserverance in getting up this play merits the highest praise. In his address, Rev. McMullen gave special credit to the boys who are engaged with the highway construction company all through the day, and then have travelled many miles in the evening to take their part in making the play the delightful success that it was, and also to Rev. S. Brenton who, on very short notice, so kindly took the place of one of the cast, who was unable to be present.

The play was under the direction of Mrs. Williamson Church, who also took part in it. The rest of the cast presented her with a gift in appreciation of her diligent work with them.

The cast was as follows: Dean Garrett, a business genius, Gilbert Northey; Reginald D'Arcy, a quiet young man, Raymond Lean; Viola Compton, his fiancee, Carrol Thompson; James, his valet, Walter Bolton; Mr. Gordon, a Philadelphia lawyer, George Booth; Mrs. Lancaster, a rich widow, Mrs. Ottis Northey; Mrs. Hardin, another widow, not so rich, Mrs. Theodore Wilson; Marie Black, a business girl, Miss Isabel Lean; Miss Effie Cramer, a spinster, Miss Constance Legon; Dulcey Lane, an actress, Mrs. Leonard Barnett; Mrs. OLeary, an Irish washwoman, Mrs. William Church; "Floppy" Smith, Rev. S. Brenton; "Tip" McCarty, Alvin Booth; "Spike" Jones, Ottis Northy, three gentlemen of fortune.

Czechs Prepare For Trouble Over Weekend

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 11 (AP). — Czechoslovakia maintained vigilant and large-scale precautions to preserve order today as the last of three election weekends approached.

Military arrangements were as thorough as those for the balloting May 22 and May 29, when the government called up reserves and kept troops on the German border as the result of dangerous incidents between Czechoslovak soldiers and citizens and the Sudeten German minority.

No less than 8,170 communities prepared to vote Sunday, with Konrad Henlein and his sweeping demands for Germanic autonomy the issue. Fewer than 3,000 municipalities voted in the two previous elections.

Of those voting Sunday, about 1,880 are predominantly German, including such cities as Reichenberg, Teplitz, Trautenau and Leitmeritz. In about 4,000 communities, both predominantly Czech and German towns, candidates were unopposed, however.

Berlin Press Routs.

A revival of anti-Czechoslovak propaganda in the newspapers of Germany, just as airplane attacks on neutral shipping in Spanish waters are engrossing British and French attention, caused apprehension here. It was feared Czechoslovakia's friends might find their hands full with the Spanish situation should some new incident fire anew the dangerous minority question here.

National defence preparations attracted lively attention, street collections for defence funds continued undiminished. Karel Englis, governor of the National Bank, has been commissioned to organize voluntary defence subscriptions by corporations. One Jewish banking firm already has offered a contribution of 30,000,000 crowns (more than $1,000,000).

School Students Guests of W.I. Hastings Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 11.—Three pupils from the Hastings Separate School and one from the Public School who took part in the musical festival at Colborne were guest artists at the June meeting of the Hastings Women's Institute held in the Town Hall on Friday.

The program was made most delightful due to the young pupils. Flora MacDonald sang most sweetly "Under the Blossoms that Hang on the Bough," with Miss Carrie Doxsee as accompanist. Olive Couglan contributed as a pleasing piano solo, "March in D." Isabelle Herrington sang as Miss Doxsee again played "Hasten Tonight." Vera Richardson in a strong and tuneful voice sang a lovely song entitled "The Little Indian Maid," as her mother Mrs. E. Richardson accompanied her on the piano.

The newly-elected officers presided and the president, Mrs. J. A. Brown in her address expressed her thanks for the honor bestowed upon her in being elected president.

The correspondence read included a 'thank you' note from a shut in; a letter from the St. John's Ambulance Association in regards to a short course in first aid. After discussion it was decided to make no application for the course.

Mrs. J. A. MacDonald gave a report of the district executive meeting at Codrington on May 16th and also announced the following—The district annual will be held on June 22nd at Smithfield when Miss Collins, Miss G. Pollard, Mrs. F. Denyes and Mr. Martin the agricultural representative will be the speakers.

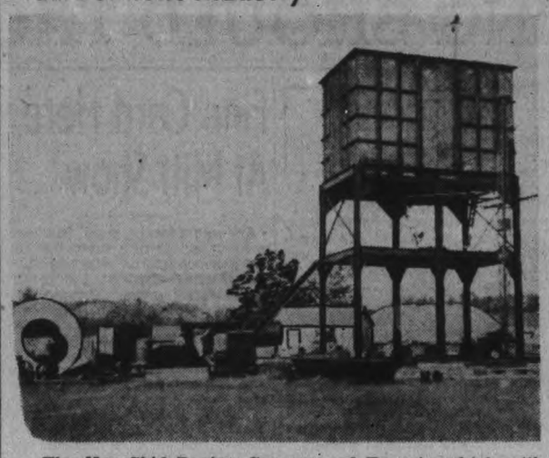
Mrs. J. A. MacDonald, the district representative was chosen to answer the roll call on "Our best program of the year" at the district annual at Smithfield.

The co-operative program was discussed and subjects chosen for a speaker's service were, "Feeding the Family for Health," "Musical Appreciation" and "Mothercraft."

Mrs. C. M. Baker, leader of the short course, gave lesson V on "Laundering, special and general methods," demonstrating her work with samples.

Following the meeting the members and their guests were treated to a generous supply of home-made candy.

New Belmont Industry



The Non-Skid Paving Company of Toronto which will introduce a new industry to Belmont township within a few months, have already made some progress with the plant which they are erecting just south-west of the Ontario Rock Company's Havelock quarry. The C.P.R. have placed a siding into the property which is about four acres in extent. Superintendent "Jim" Hall of Toronto is supervising the work. The company will manufacture a non-skid, cold mix pavement from asphalt and trap-rock which can be shipped in freight cars for almost any distance. The material it is said will stand for an indefinite time and still remain workable.

SCHMELING SHOULD TAG JOE ON WHISKERS AGAIN THIS YEAR

Brown Bomber Easy "Sucker" For Haymakers

NEW YORK, June 11.—Joe Louis defended his title against three men in a comparatively short time. But an impartial blueprint of his fighting style reveals that he has made very little improvement if any, since the night when Max Schmeling tagged him on the whiskers with a myriad of right hands.

Tommy Farr hit him with plenty of right hands. Nathan Mann found that hitting him with the right hand was so easy that he threw caution to the winds, which was his own undoing. Harry Thomas hit the champion with haymakers so obvious that the ringsiders gasped.

Joe Not Very Bright.

Louis is not a very fast thinker. There isn't much variety in his methods. All of his fights are cut to pattern, and when his opponent crosses him up, he has a whole lot of trouble trying to untangle himself. Joe is at his best with an opponent who leads with a left jab. He shoots a paralyzing left hand counter punch.

That's how Schmeling beat him—at counter punching. I have studied a film of the last Schmeling-Louis fight for hours and the whole thing boils down to a short, straight right hand. Joe waits for Schmeling to lead to him with the conventional left. Schmeling does so, but he carries his right hand high when he does. The right hand not only blocks Joe's left-hand counter punch, but goes on from there to hit. There is nothing very complicated about that procedure, but that is how Schmeling beat Louis the last time, and it wouldn't surprise me if Max beat him again in the same way.

Of course, what Joe has to do to make Schmeling's style effective is to counter with his left after that first poke of Schmeling's. If the champion should feint back with his left, instead of starting to punch Schmeling back with it, and then should shift and bring over a right, the story might be different. Or if he should use a right uppercut, instead of lashing back with the left, he could cross Schmeling up. The point is that al through their fight, Joe follows the same dumb style, letting his left hand lead him to slaughter.

King Of Counter Punchers

Joe had success against his more recent opponents not because he changed his style, but because his opponents were miles short of Schmeling's quickness and counter punching ability. Louis could hit Farr, Mann and Thomas with the same left hand that Schmeling stopped with a glove. Schmeling is the greatest counter puncher Louis ever has met, in fact one of the best counter punchers in the business.

When they meet again on the 22nd, I'll have to put in with Schmeling, because I haven't seen any variation in the Bomber's fighting pattern. In order to win a fight from a hitter like Scmeling you have to hit him and avoid being hit at the same time. I don't think Louis can do either.

SPECULATOR, N.Y., June 11 (A. P.) — Except for Ferndale (which) was kept exclusive for Barney Ross) this is the most ideal of fight camps ....Max Schmeling likes it so well he has trained here for several of his important jousts....Until Baer came a cropper against Louis, the Osborne brothers, who run the town, say it had never turned out a loser ....Instead of burying himself far back in the woods as he did at Napanoch while prepping for his first fight with Louis, Max now hangs his hat in a cottage almost directly across the big road from the open-air arena where he works.... Passing autoists can see him reading on the porch or perhaps shooting arows at poor Otto Petri, his closest friend, in the yard....To-day Max will be both boxer and lawyer ....Brig.-General John J. Phelan, head of the Boxing Commission, is due, and Max intends making a personal plea for the reinstatement of Joe (Yussel the Muscle) Jacobs, his American representative....Max Machon, the trainer, does most of the talking for the firm...."Is Max in shape?...."Ja"...."Can he repeat over Louis?"...."Ach, ja, ja"... ."Why?"...."He win before, he win again, ain't it?"....As for Schmeling, he simply says: "You go ask Joe Louis is he afraid of me?"

Fine Card Here At Mitt Show

An ambitious program has been lined up for the next Riverview A.C. amateur boxing and wrestling show this Monday night at 8.30 in the local lacrosse arena. Toronto, Ottawa and Peterborough boxers will take part in five mitt bouts, and Ottawa and Toronto grapplers will stage two mat tussles. This will be the fourth Riverview Club card held here in the past year, and the previous three have been fine affairs staged before big and enthusiastic crowds. Another good crowd and a another fine show is predicted for this coming Monday evening at the George St. stadium. Norm Bowler is the promoter.

A feature is the rematched grapple bout of Red Garner and Bert Crothall, ferocious Toronto middleweights, who thrilled the fans here two weeks ago. Pete Pernokie of Ottawa wrestles Spider Shakleton of Toronto in the other mat bout, both being good middles. Main boxing bout has Nick Orlando in against Ernie Hicks, Toronto lightweight. Joe Hobbins meets Joe Scott, Toronto welter, in the semi-final. Wallie Hicks of Toronto tackles Joe Tumblin of Ottawa in a lightweight prelim, and Red Riel meets Hal Jones in an all-local lightweight scrap. Curtain-raiser sees two local 80-pounders in action, Buddy Redmond and Bobby Quirt.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, since my last epistle the Petes has taken the wraps off a left-handed heaver by the name McNally and I'm here to claim this bird works so gosh-darned smooth that you never think he wasn't tossing the old apple in there with his right flapper. Mister McNally was tossed in against the Kingston Ponies which incidentally didn't look a bit like the same and he quite spoiled their p.m. by blanking them for the 7 frames what was played before rain chased everybody home or over to the beverage rooms.

The portsider has a world of speed, a curve ball that does funny things and above all he can wheel that old onion in there about where he wants it.

He Wasn't So Hot

The Ponies used their left-hander Mister Ed Poller, also from south of the international line. He was the bird what shut Oshawa out with only 2 hits but Sat. was another day again. The big boy was under the weather, hadn't no control and about the only person he fooled very much, was Manager Bob Elliott who essayed the task of catching and didn't make much of a job of it. Bob seemed to have trouble deciding just where some of Mister Poller's slants was going to go and most of the time he guessed wrong. The Petes didn't break no fences with their hitting but it is a old baseball saying you can't hit what you can't reach and a good deal of the time Mister Poller's offerins was unhittable for that very reason.

With 3 of the Napanee team in uniform the Ponies didn't look like the old gang and they didn't act like them either, the atmosphere around the Pony bench being serene during most of the proceedings and the police not having to be called in once to maintain law and order.

Boxlas Going Strong

The lacrosse team after a bunch of exhibition fracases started their regular campaign this week and done theirselfs proud with a way-from-home win over Woodbridge. The boys has been working hard and now they got a nice fat schedule with plenty of games they should make this a memorable summer for the lacrosse bugs and they is getting more numerous all the time we suspect.

In the big leagues Mac, they has been some notable doings this week. I was the way the Giants after a bad slump sailed in to and pulled themselfs up to the top of the ladder again the hard way by walking right into Chicago and trouncing Cubs 3 in 4. It takes a game team to come through in the clutch thataway and the experience will help the Terryites and not do the Chicago boys much good.

He's Pouring The Pine

In the American old timer the feature this week has been the way Mister Jimmy Foxx has been powdering the ball. He has been sailing some runs outa the park with as much ease as the lad on the flying trapeze flew through the air and as this is being wrote he's 5 up in the parade as well as leading the runs-batted-in- brigade by a coupla city blocks.

That's about the week's issue so let's separate here and now.

Sportfully Yours.
A. Wise Cracker.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

JUST RECENTLY a guy named Dunnell, who writes sports down Stratford way, upped and issued a blast at O.B.A. clubs using U.S. ball players. Wants there should be a limit placed on 'em — or we suppose a sort of quota. Mentions especially Niagara Falls, Kingston and the Petes. We feel he is well answered by Bill Gaynon of the Falls' Review, who intimates it might be a case of sour grapes, and adds that Stratford has imported plenty of players but thinks it is okay if they are Ontario lads and not Yanks. "If you must seek outside aid," says he, "why not assure yourself that your newcomers are better than those already in your midst?" Yep, we tried a number of Toronto stars and they failed to shine in the C.O.B.L. 'Twould be better, of course, to aid the minors here develop future stars.

* * * * * *

THINGS ARE heading toward trouble in the Central League and the Ontario Baseball Association this year. Over C.O.B.L. clubs using players who have not received transfers. The Petes have Doll and McNallyl, neither of whom has had a transfer, and the Ponies have several — including Poller — who have not even applied for transfers. Yet these clubs have been calmly using these gents. Oshawa GM-men are fairly clean this summer, even if Bennett did leave town for a time and returned and Turner is residing in Toronto. With Doug May possibly returning yet. None of these clubs are kicking at all about these players, but the O.B.A. is getting nosey.

* * * * * *

THERE ARE several angles. The O.B.A. declined this year to help this loop get outside teams or an interlocking schedule — in fact forbade them. And the O.B.A. dropped all pretence this year of being tied in with the Amateur Union. On the other mitt, the Ontario body has a March 15th residence rule and players must all be okayed who move from club to club in the O.B.A. Yet the C.O.B.L. has ignored this so far this year and goes its own sweet way. Well, it can't go indefinitely. Either the O.B.A. will toss the Central League out of the association and term it an outlaw loop, or the C.O.B.L. will have to decline to enter O.B.A. playdowns this fall, that is the winning club. The affiliation fee is paid, but the loop can default in O.B.A. finals — just operating in league competition for this summer.

* * * * * *

WE CHECKED up with Max Swanston, who is C.O.B.L. prexy and also an O.B.A. executive member, yesterday and he stated something would have to be done right soon or there would be trouble. In his dual role of C.O.B.L. and O.B.A. officer, Max is right in the middle. His sympathy is probably with this circuit, but he has a duty to perform with the Ontario body. So Max is thinking of calling a league meeting in Oshawa next Saturday — after the Oshawa-Kingston game there — and threshing it out. See if the loop wants to play ball with the O.B.A. or run more or less independently for this year. The club officers can discuss all the angles then and arrive at a definite decision. It will be a wise move and will clear the air considerably. Otherwise, some C.O.B.L. club will be importing a new U.S. star about the middle of July and saying: "So what? There is no ruling which forbids it anymore than bringing one in sometime in May." Yeah, let's have this meeting.

ONE CHANGE has been announced in the Riverview A.C. mitt-mat card here on Monday. In one of the prelim boxing bouts, an all-local lightweight affair, Red Riel, and not Bill Joiner, will clash with Hal Jones. Otherwise the card will be as advertised, and it looks like a good one to us. Possibly some of the fight fans don't realize what these boys go through in training. The customer only sees 'em in the ring for five or 10 minutes. But these same scrappers have been drilling hard for some two months or so in the gym. They have been doing road work, skipping rope, punching the bag and boxing with sparring partners. And some of those gym scraps are better than the ones you see in the ring. It's a tough, tough sport — and don't let anyone tell you differently. Takes a lot out of a guy, far more than baseball, lacrosse, rugby or hockey. And some of these aren't too gentle.

SOME GOO Drasslin' is lined up for Monday at the lacrosse arena, especially that rematch of Red (Killer) Garner and Bert Crothall of Toronto. These boys dish up more action than three barrels of monkeys and really give you a show. There areToronto, Ottawa and Peterborough rasslers and scrappers in this show, and it will be worth seeing. The Riverview A.C. has staged three cards here so far and each one has been better than its predecessor — hence we have no hesitation in boosting this one. We know it will be good. And we are anxious to see Nick Orlando, local pugilist who hails from Montreal, in against a good fighter who isn't afraid — like the last one was. If the weather, for a change, behaves like respectable June weather should, it ought to pack in the customers like sardines. And they won't be disappointed.

* * * * * *

A deluge of rain and rival goals swamped the Petes here last night in an O.L.A. senior "B" struggle, the bolstered Bramptonites doing 'em dirt with a 12-4 shovel. While nearly a hundred fans sat in the dismal drizzle. The winners looked good and earned the decision handily, while the locals looked somewhat awful. Couldn't get clicking in any department — and the reverse may do 'em a lot of good. At least, they will now realize they are in a tough, tough grouping this semester and it'll get no softer fast! Miller, Chute and Westonfelt were probably the pick of the Petes, with this new lad, Shorty Reid, showing a lot of promise. Slippery ground made the travelling skiddy. Adding injury to insult, the gang took a financial beating because of the typical weather of this gorgeous glorious month of June. What is so rare as a nice day this June? Nothing, just nothing!

NO MEN'S softball game tonight at the Bowl, as last night's postponed exhibition gals' game between Keene and C.G.E. lasses will be held this eve at 6.15 in the Bowl. In connection with the Rotary Carnival again. Next loop game for the ladies will be Tuesday twilight at 7.15 between Keene and Westclox at the Ashburnham diamond. Monday sees the second part of the men's City Softball League schedule commence, with Westclox and Motorists clashing at the Bowl. Schedule is in tonight. All games here for the male softballers will start at seven p.m., daylight saving time. Don't forget we are on daylight saving time after tonight.

PICKING 'em off the grapevine: Poller pitched for the Ponies as they blanked Clarkson Tech the other day, 2-0, before 300 fans . . . and in six heats he held 'em to three hits while fanning eight and walking three . . . The Belleville intermediates beat Napanee 4-3 with the latter team using Bob Bell, imported hurler; the Quinte gate grossed $22 . . . 'Tis said the R.C.A.F. crew at Trenton will not be in the O.H.A. next winter — probably running a senior squad n the Ottawa Valley Loop with Corwall, Montreal and Ottawa . . . So the Petes might be forced to go back to amateur hackey once more! . . . Just had a call frox Swanston, saying the C.O.B.L. would meet in Oshawa next Sat'day eve . . . A former McGill outside wing in rugby, two or three seasons back, will be teahcing at Grove School in September . . . Moose Matthews will be back in the Oshawa lineup any day now . . . Not sure yet if the Petes' game in Oshawa is still on . . . Now honestly wouldn't this weather get you lower than a fishworm's undercarriage?

Little Harlemites Are Whitewashed

The league-leading Little Harlem team of the Southend Softball League and De Laval both met their first defeats of the season during the past week. Little Harlem were whitewashed, 14-0, by Frank Shine of the Quakers, in a one-hit pitching performance, and De Laval lost 16-8 to Cogs. The latter was a surprise victory for Cogs, who pounded Naish and Elliott for 17 basehits. The luckless Leafs suffered their fifth straight reverse in as many starts at the hands of the snappy Keene crew. The Hawks, by losing to Little Harlem, dropped from third place to fifth. Keene and Cogs passed them to tie for third place. With two weeks left in the first half, seven teams are still in the running for the three playoff berths. Leafs are out but will click in the next half.

Commencing next week, all games go nine innings and will start no later than 6.45 p.m., daylight saving time. Games with Keene will start at 7.15 at the Brinton field and at 7.00 in Keene. The standing and next week's schedule are published elsewhere in tonight's paper.

England Adds Cricket Count

NOTTINGHAM, June 11 (CP Cable).—England continued to pile up runs in the second day's play of the first cricket Test against Australia today. At lunch the home batsmen had carried their overnight score of 422 for four wickets to 589 for six.

Twenty-five thousand spectators saw England create a world's Test record when four individual centuries were registered in the innings.

Playing superbly throughout the morning, Edward Paynter, Lancashire, carried his score from 75 to 155 not out, and 20-year-old Denis Compton of Middlesex was dismissed after reaching 102. In yesterday's play C. J. Barnett, Gloucestershire, hit up 126 and Yorkshire's Leonard Hutton 100.

L. O'B. Fleetwood-Smith and E. L. McCormick opened the Aussie bowling. They were unsuccessful, and the latter gave way to Stanley McCabe, touring vice-captain, who quickly had Compton in difficulty. The young Middlesex player was almost beaten when a fast in-swinger tipped the edge of his bat. At 88 Paynter narrowly missed being stumped off the same bowler.

Paynter smashed W. J. O'Reilly's first over for 14 runs to reach his 100 in three hours, simultaneously passing the fifth-wicket partnership record set up in 1904.

Softball Schedule

The second section of the men's City Softball League schedule has been released by Secretary Max Glover. It commences this Monday night at the Bowl with Westclox playing Motorists. All games here henceforth will start at seven p.m. daylight saving time. Following is this section of the schedule.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

To a great many of our bowlers, we suppose, the rain Friday night meant disappointment — some had been looking forward to the week-end tournament, but to us it was just a night off. No scores to check up, no games won or lost to be posted, no special announcement to make, so we will devote our space to a little differnt line to-night—something along the line of just what lawn bowling means. And here is our interpretation:

"The game of bowls provides a gentle and soothing influence. There is room for imagination in bowls; there is virtue in the game; one feels better, perhaps humbler, for participating in this prince of pastimes. There is beauty in bias. There is poetry in motion after exercising patience and acute observation. Happy moments come when one turns a "four down" into a "one up."

"No matter how old one looks one can spring surprises at bowls; sometimes the bent old player can make the sprightly young giant look small. Yet the game is governed by a common and cheerful sympathy and by sharing the inward fragrance of understanding. The mental pleasures of bowls are heightened by regular change of "ends" and by an intimate union with the souls of ones companions."

To anybody who is on the outlook for a very pleasant new interest in life we strongly recommend lawn bowling.

Hamilton Club Quits League

HAMILTON, June 11 (CP).—First defeat of the season for St. Catharines Athletics and announcement of the withdrawal of Hamilton-Burlington Combines provided the news today in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's Senior League.

Athletics dropped a 15-12 decision last night at Fergus to Fergus Thistles. The loss meant that the hitherto undefeated Athletics now share first spot in the standing with Orillia Terriers. Both teams have won five games and lost one.

Club President Russell T. Kelly announced the Combines intended only to play their scheduled game at Brampton tonight with the Excelsiors and then withdraw from competition. Kelly said the step was taken because of league action in granting the services of Don McCallum to Mimico Mountaineers.

Kelly claims McCallum lives closer to Hamilton than to Mimico and should be with Combines.

The Thistles piled up a three-goal lead in the first period while holding Athletics scoreless. They led 7-4 at the half and 9-5 at the three-quarter way mark. Thistles were paced by J. B. Bergin, who scored three goals, and Chambers, Campbell and Dean, who each scored twice. Joe Cheevers and Wilson each tallied three for Athletics.

PETERBOROUGH LACROSSERS SUFFER FIRST LOSS OF SEASON

Slim Crowd Sees Petes Handed Initial Setback

Brampton defeated the Petes, 12 to 4, last night at the local lacrosse arena in an O.L.A. senior "B" scheduled fixture. About a hundred fans braved the rainy weather to see a fair setto with the locals looking worse than their rivals in the wet and slippery going. The Brampton squad, on their showing last night, were the better team and earned the decision.

It was a fairly speedy and quite clean contest all the way through. The score was 1-0 for Brampton in the first frame and 4-2 for them at halftime. They had a 6-1 edge in a big third heat, looking decidedly better than the homesters, and got 2 to 1 in the fourth. Only three penalties were drawn, the visitors being guilty twice. Brampton showed a bolstered team, husky, fast and experienced. They passed and shot well, and covered up closely. The Petes kept trying but were off-form and missed on passing and shooting. Defensively, they looked weak and could not hold their rivals out consistently.

Chute and Miller were probably the best of the Petes over the whole route, with Westonfelt also going good. Most of the gang found the slippery going tough and looked bad. Of the visitors, Anthony, Clevely and Stapleton were probably the best, but the whole crew shone in this tilt. They battled hard but cleanly and dished up a lot of smart lacrosse, considering the adverse conditions. It rained hard before the game and during the last part of the fixture.

The teams

Brampton—Goal, Harris; defence, Stapleton and E. Harris; centre, Dodds; wings, Forest and Clevely; Rover, Anthony; alternates, Hazell, G. Harris, H. Harris, Lynn, Tusdale, Arthurs, Burrows, Clark.

Petes — Goal, Meyette; defence, Miller and Chute; centre, Magee; wings, Crowe and E. Creighton; rover, Pammett; alternates, King, Dundas, Worthy, Whitton, Reid and Westonfelt.

Referee, Bruce Laton of Toronto.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Alex Kampouris, Giants — His single with the bases loaded drove in two runs to beat Cardinals 3-1.

Bill Dickey and Lefty Gomez, Yankees — Dickey hit two homers and a single and Gomez pitched a seven hitter to trounce Indians 8-2.

Monte Stratton, White Sox — Handcuffed Red Sox with five hits and hit homer with bases loaded in 15-2 win.

Hary Eisenstat, Tigers—Blanked Senators with two hits in four inning relief pitching trick in 7-6 victory.

Buck Newsom, Browns — Held Athletics to eight hits and connected for two singles, himself, driving in one run, in 8-4 win.

Yanks Wallop Lead Indians By 8-2 Count

NEW YORK, June 11 (CP).—Back in the Ruthian era of swat, they used to say that as the Babe goes, so go the Yankees.

The Babe is gone now, "doing" his baseball from a box near the visiting dugout, but the Yankees haven't stopped—because another cannon is booming. This one is sweet William Dickey. When he's around, the Yankees travel in high gear; and when he's missing, monkey wrenches show up all through the machinery.

They say Dickey is the greatest "clutch" hitter in baseball; that when there are "ducks on the pond," he'll shoo 'em in; that when it's a tight ball game and the Yanks need a run, sweet William'll do it.

One of the major reasons the Yanks are 2½ games out of first place right now, is because Bill was on the hospital list for six games. And the Yanks dropped four of 'em.

Lost Them All.

Last week Bill had an ailing side, stayed out one game and the Yanks lost 6-5. The next day, the Yanks needed a run, so Bill went in as a pinch-hitter and drove it across. He stayed out the next three games, and the Yanks lost them all.

That brought matters up to yesterday and the start of the important series with Cleveland Indians. Bill came back for that one, and all he did was clout two homers to spark the Yanks to an 8-2 victory.

That shaved a full game off the Indians' league lead, and, since Boston Red Sox absorbed a walloping at the hands of Chicago White Sox, 15-2, the Yanks were left in sole possession of second place.

In the National League, only two games got by old man weather. Prince Hal Schumacher allowed just three runners to pass first base, and the Giants clubbed the Cardinals, 3-1, stretching their National League lead to two full games over Chicago Cubs, whose tilt with the Dodgers was rained out.

Hugh Mulcahy tossed the Phillies to a 3-2 decision over the Pirates. Rain also ruined the Bees-Reds encounter in Cincinnati.

Buck Newsom fanned eight and pitched St. Louis Browns to an 8-4 win over the Athletics. Detroit Tigers outlasted the Senators to come through 7-6 in 10 innings.

Stars In Loss

DOUG MILLER

Local veteran lacrosser who played a sterling game on defence for the Petes and was in on two of their three goals in their 12-4 reverse last night at the hands of Brampton in the local arena.

Stiles Blanks Toronto Leafs For Fourth Win

TORONTO, June 11—(CP)—Newark Bears, who finally beat down those belting Bisons from Buffalo, are casting an unusually friendly eye toward Jersey City were the hated Giants are preparing to lend the International League champions some unexpected assistance.

The league-leading Bears, who dropped the first three games of their current series to the Bisons, finally halted the onsurge of the runners-up, 9-8, in an 11-inning thriller last night. And, though they meet the Bisons today and tomorrow, they're counting on the Giants' classy hurling staff to keep Buffalo down when the O'Neillmen journey to Jersey City for the next series.

The Giants, who have had nine pitchers go the distance in their last 11 games, hung up their fourth straight over Toronto when Rollie Stiles blanked the Maple Leafs with four hits to win 4-0. Stiles was the fourth successive Giant twirler to go the route against the Leafs, who have averaged less than six hits a game off them.

Baltimore Orioles, who broke a 13-game losing streak Thursday, lost to Montreal Royals 6-4. Each team got 11 hits, but the Orioles, pitchers were wild. Despite their loss, the Orioles pulled the feature play of the game with a triple play in the fourth inning. After Benning and Kies singled, Moser lined to Cissell who threw to First Baseman Corbett who in turn threw to Richardson at second to retire both men.

The fourth scheduled night game between Syracuse and Rochester was postponed because of rain.

MAKES COUNTY DEBUT

BRIGHTON, England — (CP). — H. T. Bartlett, former Cambridge University cricket captain, made his first county championship appearance recently playing for Sussex against Warwickshire.

Henry Picard Retains Lead

DENVER, Colo., June 11.—(AP)—When the sun rolls over the rockies late today they'll be crowning the 1938 United States Open golf championship.

The big show will be over, unless of course, a 72-hole tie re-sets the stage for a play-off. Such an anti-climax has not taken place since the memorable battle between Billy Burke and George Von Elm in 1931. Burke won at the end of 72 extra holes, a world's record.

The push over the half-way mark saw the advantage, slight as it was, hitch-hiking a ride with slender Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa. He took the lead at the end of 36 holes.

Picard coupled two fine 70's, good enough to set the pace when time to whittle the field of the 60 low scores arrived.

Canada's lone hope Kazmir Zabowski, of Winnipeg, rallied yesterday to shoot a 76 and qualify with a 36-hole total of 155.

Merlin Luther, young Buffalo amateur representing the Fort Erie, Ont. Downs Golf Club, fared a little better than he did on the first 18, but his 87 of yesterday left him far out of the qualifying group. Luther aggregated 177.

As they swung into the third stage of the battle, Dic Metz of Chicago was on Picard's heels. He had a three-under par 68 and total 141. Jug McSpaden, from Boston, and the Portland, Ore. "dark horse," Emery Zimmerman, were well on the pace with 142. Defending champion Guldahl, at 144, considered himself in a fine spot to repeat.

Racing smoothly at 145 strokers, only five away from the number one man, were Jimmy Hines of New York, Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., Canadian Open champion, Olin Dutra and his fellow townsman from Los Angeles, Willie Hunter.

Open Bridge In Old Home Week

Ferguson Barr Guest Speaker Warsaw Service

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, June 11. — Warsaw Presbyterian Church was filled at both morning an evening at eighty-second anniversary services on Sunday. Ferguson Barr, divinity student, son of Rev. Dr. Barr of St. Paul's Church Peterborough conducted the services. Rev. Mr. Preston was present at the evening service and led in prayer.

The eighty-second anniversary supper held the following Tuesday evening was a great success. The ladies, as usual supplied an abundance of good things to eat. The tables were decorated with green and pink runners and lovely flowers. The young waitresses were most attentive. What pleased the ladies was the large attendance from near and far.

Later all repaired to the church where an interesting program was given for which Mr. Preston was chairman. Friends from Peterborough gave the greaterp art of the entertainment, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Coward sang "Lay My Head Beneath A Rose" and "Harbor Lights"; Mrs. Chaplin, Lakefield recited "Brother Iras and the Fashionable Chair." A quartette of young men sang "Low, Low Breathe and Blow" and a comic; Miss Clarkson gave a vocal solo; Mrs. Chaplin recited; Miss Hunter, pianist for the evening gave a delightful piano selection; Rev. J. W. Wilkinson gave a short address on "Things That Count"; Rev. Mr. Walker, Lakefield, gave an address with many jokes; Miss Clarkson another vocal solo; the Young Men's quartette sang "The Old Apple Tree in the Orchard" and "Good Night Ladies"; Mr. Preston said a few words of appreciation and pronounced the benediction.

Oldest Member.

John Rose is the oldest member and oldest elder of Warsaw Presbyterian Church. He well remembers as a little boy playing around when the men were building the church and to this day bears a scar above his nose, caused by a wound when he fell on a board. Mr. Thomas Choate had the contract and many men of the congregation helped build.

Rev. Mr. Bowie, the first minister lived at Colquehoun's Corners, now Cottesloe, used to drive up and tie his hoirses to an elm tree, which is still standing. Mr. McFee and Mr. McIntosh (both dead) have both told of remembering that tree as a sapling. The fiftieth anniversary services were held on March 11, 1906 and services led oy Rev. A. C. Reeves, then of Campbellford. On the following Monday evening there was an oyster supper, and the ministers present were Rev. Dr. Torrance, Peterborough; Rev. A. C. Reeves, Campbellford; Rev. Potter Peterborough; Rev. Kemp, Havelock; Rev. McDonald and the Warsaw ministers, Rev. Nicol, Methodist and Rev. Steadman, Baptist. The manse was built in Warsaw.

Institute Meets.

The W. I. attendance was rather small on the holiday. In the absence of the president through illness, Mrs. Morgan took the chair. After opening exercises, Mrs. David Taylor reported she had spoken to Councillor Stuart Clysdale and he had promised the junk near the east bridge would be cleared away.

Mrs. E. N. McDonald sent her report of the district meeting at Havelock, which was read by Mrs. Charlotte Cooper.

A meeting will be held at Mrs. Lattas hoem on June 22 to arrange the year's program. Those who have red geraniums for the plot are requested to send them to Mrs. Moore. The treasurer reported a nice amount on hand. Meeting closed in the usual way after singing "Darling I Am Growing Old".

Rev. Mr. Preston was in Warsaw on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Baker, nurse-in-training was Tuesday guest of Mrs. Wilkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tamblyn, Orono were holiday guests of Rev. J. W. and Mrs. W. Wilkinson.

Mr. Allan Dunford is spending his vacation with his sister, Mrs. Henry Clements.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rose are visiting Mr. Rose' brother, Mr. John Rose, and incidentally calling upon many old friends, as both lived their early lives in the community.

Starts With Twins

STRATFORD, Ont., June 11 (CP). —"Mollie," a 14-year-old Clydesdale mare on the farm of Joseph Longeway, near here, had never borne a colt until recently, but she started off in a big way with twins. The colts are still living and seem as healthy as normal animals.

Had Monster Tapeworm

This is my little girl's picture about one month after being relieved of a 18 - foot tapeworm by Mulveney's famous tapeworm remedy. She had been under medical care for months and was treated for bronchitis. Finally it was discovered she had tapeworm. After taking one dose of Mulveney's famous tapeworm remedy she was relieved of the tapeworm, head and all. I cannot speak too highly of this remedy. From one that is very grateful.—Mrs. M. L. B., Sackville St., Toronto, Ont.

OTHER TYPES OF WORMS.

People will also have round worms, whip worms, awl tail grubs, spike worms, pin worms, thread worms and even lizards. Only too often children as well as adults are given soda, magnesia, cod liver oils, salts, pain pills, tonics, pile remedies, bed-wetting remedies, etc., when their true need is a worm remedy. Mulveney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND" is available at most drug stores; this remedy expels these different types of worms, it is also a laxative and it is very soothing for the nerves, cools fevers and tones the entire system. That means that it is bound to do you good in many ways, even if worms are not your trouble. Every one should take a worm remedy just as a precaution. It is impossible to prevent worms, as the invisible eggs gain access to the intestines through leafy vegetables, fruits, meats, fish and impure drinking water. Flies also carry these tiny eggs. They are also on pets. Don't wait for the more serious symptoms. Make sure that worms are not your trouble. Go to your family druggist and purchase a bottle of Mulveney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND." Take according to direction and if you have worm trouble you will see them as they pass out into the exterior. If you think you have tapeworm, write us direct, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for quick reply. The tapeworm treatment can only be purchased direct from us. The Mother's Friend can be supplied to you by your druggist. He can always get it for you. Try it today. R. L. Mulveney's Remedies Limited, Dept. D.16, 211 Ossington Ave., Toronto, Canada. If you happen to be in Toronto call and see us. Telephone LL. 7538.

In Defence Of Faith

The Rev. Dr. Zufelt, a minister of high repute, states in his letter to The Examiner that I am wrong when I stated that the report to conference of Rev. Dr. Irwin, (general secretary), in which he deplored the falling-away of interest in the church and Sunday schools by both parents and children was a confession and that the falling away and lack of interest is really due to the failure of many members of the ministry to believe in the Supernatural, which is God, I am not mistaken. The United church adopted as a body the belief that people have a right to criticize the Word of God as any other book, and God Himself as any other author. I say that anyone who believes that cannot believe in God. If he confines his right to "criticize" to the Bible Dr. Zufelt cannot believe that the Bible is the Word of God or else he would not dare to criticize it. Further, the whole idea of the right of "higher criticism" is simply to say that a man has a right over even God Himself to say what he may believe which is not only disbelief in God It is not possible. The Rev. Dr. Zufelt intimates that he may not reply. I hope he will do so as it is a matter of the utmost interest to the laity.

Quebec Liberals To Give Women Voice At Rally

QUEBEC, June 11 (CP) — A two-day convention of Quebec's Liberal Party to round out a new program and select a Party Chief who will be charged with its directions opens here to-day.

Delegates from most of the province's 90 counties arrived in the city last night and registration committees went to work in Palais Montcalm, the Capital's big civic centre, which has been converted into convention headquarters.

Among the delegates will be Justice Minister Lapointe, Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, Works Minister Cardin, and Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State.

Women will be received at the meetings on the same footing as Liberal men, and likely the question of women's vote on Quebec will be raised.

Quebec women have not the right of vote in provincial elections and their admission to the convention will be something new to provincial politics.

In the important business of picking a leader, the convention will have three or four Liberals to choose from. Candidates mentioned for the position were Adelard Godbout, Quebec's last Liberal Premier and a former Agriculture Minister; Edouard Lacroix, House of Commons member for Beauce; Dr. Emile Noel of Sherbrooke; and Lucien Dubois, Liberal member of Parliament for Nicolet County.

In their general election defeat, the Liberals lost all but 14 of the 90 Provincial Legislative Assembly seats. Since then they have lost one of those 14 in a by-election.

Alicante Lies City Of Ruins

MADRID, June 11.—(AP)—Alicante was a city of ruins, emergency hospitals and funeral corteges today at the end of two weeks of insurgent aerial bombardments which have killed or wounded more than 2,000 persons.

The raids continued today, but details reaching Madrid were sparse. Alarms sounded throughout the morning.

Most of the populace not engaged in building new air raid shelters and burying the dead remained underground day and night. As a result three raids yesterday killed only 24 and injured about 100 compared to a toll of 250 killed and 1,000 wounded May 25 in a series of attacks.

The hardest-hit town besides Alicante were Castleton De La Plana, Denia and the British-controlled port of Gandia.

Bombers, said to be of Italian or German manufacture, yesterday sank the British freighter Thorpehaven, bombed earlier in the week at Alicante, and the French merchantman Brisbane, ablaze off Denia since she was bombed Thursday, sank following a raid of Castellon yesterday when a bomb tore a big hole in her side.

Game Inspector Gets Promotion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, June 11—Word has been received from Fort William to the effect that R. D. Windsor, former assistant inspector of Game and Fisheries, and recently transferred from Lindsay to Fort William, has been appointed to the post of Inspector with the Province as his territory.

Mr. Windsor, who is well known in Peterborough district, recently engineered the seizure of 1,402 furs, the largest in years, in the Fort William area.

Back in 1913, Mrs. Thomas Richardson of Viewlake, near Janetville, wrote a short story for a Sunday school publication. The story didn't appear and she forgot about it. Recently, however, she looked through a copy of the same publication, to which she still subscribes, and she found her story. Since it did not deal with current events at that time, it still maintained its interest despite its age.

The Board of Health of Lindsay expressed "keen disappointment" to the Board of Work Commissioners regarding the unfavorable reports on Lindsay's domestic supply of water. In a communication to the water board, they state they are disappointed in the reports especially in view of the large expenditure recently made in new equipment and additions to the system and in view of the fact that it is early in the summer season when the water ordinarily is not at its worst.

Mexican Peso Note Passed For $10

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 11.—A Mexican 10 peso bank note was received from a customer by T. A. Coughlin, druggist, for $10. The bill is slightly smaller than Canadian paper money. It bears a striking resemblance with exception of Mexican printing on either side.

Mr. Coughlin is endeavoring to locate the person who passed it, believing it escaped detection by its previous owner. The note has a face value of $2, according to information received from a bank here.

PROSPERITY IN SWEDEN

Sweden reports that all branches of economic life in the country were very prosperous in the last year.

Living Quarters Condemned

The Apsley township Board of Health is concerned about the living conditions of certain families in the northern part of the district who have come from the vicinity of Peterborough to work in the wood lots. As a result of an inspection last week the medical officer of health has condemned the shacks that are occupied by these families as unfit for human habitation and the board is insisting that conditions be improved immediately. The shack, above with only sufficient cubic space for one person is occupied by a family of five children and their father and mother. (Examiner Correspondent's Photo.)

Four Ontario Justices Are Over 75 Will Be Affected By Age-Limit Motion

Toronto, June 11.

FOUR JUSTICES of the Ontario Court of Appeal are affected by the resolution introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

The resolution, notice of which was given at Ottawa Thursday, indicated a reduction in salary, or possibly no salary at all, would be the means by which the Government would relieve Supreme Court Judges reluctant to retire at the set age limit of 75 years.

Supreme Court Judges past this age limit in Ontario are Justices William E. Middleton, James R. Latchford, Cornelius A. Masten and William R. Riddell.

The eldest of these four, Mr. Justice Riddell, is 86 years of age and has been in poor health for more than a year.

The resolution of the Minister of Justice read as follows:

"That it is expedient to amend the Judges Act to provide certain annuities upon retirement to Judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, the Exchequer Court and the Superior Courts (Supreme Courts in Ontario, and for the reduction in the salaries of Superior Court Judges retaining office after reaching the age of 75."

Sergeant C. G. Barber said yesterday a blood-stained man's handkerchief had been found on a hillside trail at Ymir.

Finding of the handkerchief brought Barber's comment that "there is more to this child's disappearance than appears on the surface."

Kiwanis Plans To Offer Modern Home

Some lucky ticket holder is going to have a brand new home given to him this fall. At the Kiwanis luncheon on Friday plans were discussed for a monster fall project as a part of which a house worth in the neighborhood of $3,500 will be built by the club, demonstrated, and turned over to some lucky man or woman.

The club is forming a new Home Owners' Association, to encourage home building and home ownership. As a practical demonstration, the club is building a house of a type which the average small-salaried man can afford. The City Council, to encourage the effort, is donating a lot and tenders will soon be called for prices in the various trades. The club does not expect merchants submitting tenders to bid below cost, but its officials point out that since the house will be open for demonstration purposes following its erection, those who have helped build will derive a great deal of advertising from it.

Membership tickets in the Home Owners' Association will be sold for twenty-five cents or five memberships for one dollar. They will be numbered, and at the end of the drive, during the Kiwanis Club's annual celebration in the fall, one lucky ticket will be drawn and the demonstration house will be given to its holder, absolutely free, lock, stock and barrel. The funds that are collected over and above the expenses of building the house, from the sale of tickets, will be used in the club's 1939 activities at Jackson Park camp for underprivileged children. The tickets are expected to be on sale within the next ten days.

A Living Language.

"Latin is indeed a living language today," declared Rev. P. J. Kelly, guest speaker at the luncheon. He suggested that the old classic language could be used as a modern international language with possibly greater ease than any other. Used extensively in the every-day life of the Roman Catholic church, there are some 50,000 men in the world today capable of reading and writing Latin, he said.

He recounted as substantiation of his claim, that once just after the close of the Great War, he had been able to make his needs known in Germany only by a knowledge of Latin. He was unable to speak German, but had been able to find a priest with a knowledge of Latin, who understood his needs through a conversation in Latin.

Father Kelly agreed with the opinion that the study of any foreign language, particularly a logical language such as Latin, is good training for the development of the intellect. There is a great deal of immature thinking going on in the world today, because people are incapable of thinking a situation or an event through in logical form, he said. Every speaker or clergyman has had illustration of that point when members of his audience have come to him with a most distorted idea of what the speaker has just finished saying, he said. He said great numbers of people are incapable of following a logical argument. He claimed for Latin the ability to train a student's mind in logic.

Guests at the luncheon included a team of young Examiner salesmen, Lloyd Williamson and Arthur Roode, winners of the recent Examiner Junior Merchants' Salesmanship Contest. The two boys gave a demonstration of the correct method to approach a prospective customer for their paper with the end in view of selling their product. The lads are in Toronto today representing the Examiner in a contest similar to the one which they recently won, and will compete there against boys from a great many Ontario newspapers. Winners of the Ontario championship will compete against Quebec, winners there going to the United States to compete there against all United States papers for the Bingham trophy.

Cyclist Struck By Motor Car

Jack Cuthbert, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cuthbert, 58 King street, had to have seven stitches put into a cut on his right knee Friday night as the result of an accident in which he was knocked off his bicycle at the corner of King street and Boswell avenue, when his machine was struck by a car driven by Melville McKee, 20, of North Monaghan.

According to the report given by McKee to the police the collision occurred as he made a right hand turn into King street to go west from Boswell avenue. He stated that four boys were riding abreast on bicycles without lights and that because of the rain and the absence of lights he did not see them in time to avoid hitting young Cuthbert's bicycle.

A noted visitior will be the guest of Rev. Canon Paterson toward the end of this month in the person of Norman C. Grubb, son-in-law, biographer and colleague of C. T. Studd, one of the greatest cricketers in the history of England.

C. T. Studd was missionary in China, India and laterly in Africa where he founded the Heart of Africa mission and where he served for eighteen years without furlough until his death about five years ago. Mr. Grubb his son-in-law was associated with him in the work in Africa and carried on after Mr. Studd's death.

Mr. Grubb is coming to Peterborough on a personal visit to Rev. Canon Paterson but the latter hopes to make it possible for him to address a public meeting while in the city.

Deny House Squabble Election Indication

OTTAWA, June 11—(CP)—The mass attack on conservative leader R. B. Bennett in the house last night, particularly the speeches by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, defence Minister Mackenzie and Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) conveyed the impression to some observers a general election might be was in the offing.

"Not a chance in the world," one active Liberal member said when it was suggested to him last night's proceedings had the ear-marks of a fall election. "There will be no election this fall unless something very unexpected happens."

Not only was the attack on the present conservative leader but Mr. Slaght linked up Hon. R. J. Manion, one of the most prominent of those mentioned as Mr. Bennett's successor, remarking he was a member of the conservative government during 1935 when actions the Liberals attacked took place.

Price Of Cheese Holding Firmly

The cheese industry of this district has got off on the right foot, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the Examiner today. "The factories are making a lot more cheese than at this time last year, the quality is particularly good, the price holding firmly at 14¼ cents average so far for the season, the number of patrons is encouraging and there are more to come, pasturage is excellent and you can't put your finger on one weak spot just now."

Mr. Moore said that J. J. Brethour who has been appointed milk tester at the factories of the district has already completed his first round, but instructions by Mr. Moore at dairy farms have been delayed until authority arrives from the Department. "If the season continues as it has started it should be much better than usual," Mr. Moore remarked.

MILLBROOK

Society Favors Summer Sessions

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 11. — Group C of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church was entertained for its June meeting this week at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Zion Line, the hostess being also the group leader.

About twenty-five members and visitors motored to the hospitable homestead, the president, Mrs. A. L. Sisco, taking the chair. A special feature of the progra mwas the presentation of a temperance play, "After Thoughts or Forethoughts," given by members of Group C, including Mrs. Wesley Brown, Mrs. Patton, Mrs. A. Coulter and Mrs. D. Lunn.

Report was made on the bale to be shipped this month, and the leader covered the chapter from the study book on mission work along the Pacific coast. It was decided to continue the meetings during July and August, in conjunction with the Circle and Band, provided the latter two societies favor this plan, and Mrs. M. McDowell extended an invitation for the next meeting to be at her home, the gathering to be in the evening.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY.

Major G. G. Ommaney, development commissioner of the C. P. R. will be the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Rotary Club, his subject being "Reflections of a Railway Development Man."

PREPARING FOR CAMP.

Both the Prince of Wales Rangers and the 4th Battery are working hard in training for their trips to camp at the end of this month. The artillery unit will spend ten days at Camp Petawawa.

CIRCUS AT COBOURG.

Cole Brothers circus was booked for Cobourg Friday and as last night's rain seemed general throughout the district apparently they wound up another day with wet canvas.

RAIN FOR THE CROPS.

Friday night's rain varied in volume around the county according to news from farmers on the market today. In North and South Monaghan the ground was given a generous dampening but over on the east side of Otonabee it was soaked. It was a warm rain that should do a lot of good, Bruce Johnston said.

CLOCKS ADVANCE TONIGHT.

Peterborough's clocks will be advanced an hour at midnight tonight. Churches are operating on the summer schedule which continues until September. City Clerk Armstrong passed out the reminder today as the city joins the many progressive cities that prefer an extra hour of daylight instead of fumbling around in an hour of darkness.

CRASHES THROUGH BRIDGE.

A large trailer truck owned by Bruce Parker, 341 Reid street, this city and loaded with telephone poles crashed through a bridge east of Coe Hill, dropped about ten feet into the river and turned over in about three feet of water. Arthur Lee of 352 Simcoe street, driver of the truck narrowly escaped drowning when the cab lodged against a tree, keeping it from being submerked.

HOLIDAY FOR COUNCIL.

The U.F.O. picnic to Guelph on June 22 is likely to have the company of the county council according to the information reaching Earl Tully who is boosting his estimates of the local crowd to five hundred. He has found considerable interest in the trip at intermediate points all the way up to Uxbridge. The county council was called a day earlier than usual to enable the members to take a holiday with the U. F. O. people to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

TOURIST ADVERTISING.

The following item was taken from the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce Monthly:

We wish to compliment and congratulate the Peterborough Examiner Ltd., for their very pretentious and excellent Tourist Edition which came off the press May 26th—an edition that would do credit to a Metropolitan Daily, and one which will help to bring hundreds more tourists into this vacation land around us. Its rotogravure section was a costly ambitious departure from the regular tourist editions and something which many said could not be done, and we commend the Examiner on its initiative and courage. Mailed away across the line as will be the vast majority of this issue it will exert a wonderful pulling power to thousands to visit this section of Ontario and the thanks and congratulations of the whole district must be extended to The Examiner on this splendid issue.

Denmark shipped over 7,000 tons of flint to the United States last year.

Soap Box Derby Being Planned

On Friday, June 17, at 7.30 p.m. Armour Hill will be the scene of Peterborough's first Soap Box Derby. Boys from 9 to 17 years of age who have built soap box cars will race in the speedway classic of the century. The cars must be built by the boys themselves and must consist of a minimum of four wheels, adequate steering apparatus, two wheel brakes and the rest may be left to the fertile minds and imaginations of the youthful inventors.

Chief of Police Newhall has made arrangements for the safety of the racers. The Y's Men's Club will provide starters, clerks of the course, and all the necessary officials for the race.

Canadian Legion Notes

The Ladies Auxiliary held their last meeting of the present season on Monday last and had a visit from the zone representative from Oshawa. After the meeting was over the ladies were invited to be the guests at the men's social downstairs. It was the first time that the two bodies had jointed in a social together and a very successful evening was the result. It was just the forerunner of many similar events in the future.

Our branch has been honored by the appointment of Comrade Max Sloan as the Zone Representative and it is the desire of the executive that when Comrade Sloan visits neighboring towns in the course of his duties that as many members as possible will accompany him.

We beg to remind the citizens that a Magna Carta week will be held commencing on Sunday June 12th. The signing of Magna Carta laid the foundation of the liberty we now enjoy and a watchful eye has to be kept to see that we do not lose it.

Our Cenotaph has been painted and flowers planted around it and during that evening some children tramped through the flower beds and left muddy footprints on the fresh paint. We would respectfully ask the parents of the neighborhood to impress upon their children the fact that the Cenotaph is sacred and a memorial to our dead.

We have been asked to announce that the Imperial veterans Association will hold a meeting in the ladies parlor of the Legion Hall on Wednesday, June 15th at 8 p.m.

Will all members who intend to bring their families to the Legion picnic on Saturday, July 9th, please register their names as soon as possible as we wish to arrange for transportation to the picnic grounds.

Rotary Carnival Is Rained Out For First Time

For the first time since the event was first organized, rain compelled the postponement of the Rotary Carnival Friday night and as a result the draw for the car and all the other features of the second night's program will be staged at Riverside Park tonight, with the draw scheduled to take place at 11.15 o'clock.

The heavy showers during the late afternoon and early evening made the staging of an open air event impossible last night and it was decided that the only course open would be to go ahead with the program tonight.

With favorable conditions it is expected there will be a record crowd tonight with the attendance swelled by the arrival late in the evening of many folk from the business section who will be anxious to be on hand when the car is drawn.

First Strawberries Offered For Sale

William Forsythe of the Douro-Dummer boundary was the bearer of good tidings this morning as he offered for sale pint boxes of strawberries at 15 cents the pint box.

The good tidings from the east was the arrival of the local strawberry season, awaiting only sun and warmer weather to ripen the crop rapidly. Strawberries and cream, morning, noon and night if you wish, to say nothing of the shortcake and other forms of confection, and then by way of further excess the spring circuit of strawberry festivals in which G. A. Gillespie bats 1,000. And he's not the only one. J. J. Duffus rates right up at the top, and the fact that he has been known to show up at two in one evening, and do a fair gustatory job at both of them. After a bout of such festivals, summer picnics and fowl suppers in the fall it is probably not to be wondered at that Mr. Duffus has to wind up the year at health resort in New York State. All of which is a digression from the salute to Mr. Forsythe and his promise of immediate supply of one of nature's great gifts to man, the strawberry.

Skull Fractured Fall From Truck

Six-year-old Glen Sage, who lives on the Buckhorn Road in Smith township, is in Nicholls Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull as the result of a fall from a truck at Curve Lake, Thursday night.

The little boy was sitting in the machine watching a ball game and when the driver of the truck which was owned by H. A. Shearer of Buckhorn, started off without noticing Glen, the youngster was tossed to the ground and struck his head. He was attended to by Dr. E. E. Willis of Buckhorn and later brought into Nicholls Hospital.

Fatal Plane Crash Blamed On Storm

DELAVAN, Ill., June 11 (AP). — The bombing plane in which a crew of eight perished yesterday "disintegrated" in the air during a storm, Major Roy W. Camblin said today on the basis of a preliminary inquiry.

Major Camblin headed an army board which began a formal inquiry today at the scene of the crash, a farm meadow two miles northwest of here.

He told a coroner's jury: "There is no doubt the plane disintegrated in the air, either because it was struck by lightning or by stress caused by rough handling by the storm."

Major Camblin said a preliminary investigation failed to disclose any "real evidence" that a bolt of lightning hit the ship, a Douglas B 18 bomber carrying three officers and five enlisted men. A wing found about 200 yards from the main portion of the wreckage was not seared by lightning, he said.

Two Engineers To Examine Chemong Bridge

For all its asset of tourist attraction the floating bridge across Chemong Lake to Ennismore is going to be examined next Tuesday by two engineers from provincial and federal departments. Publicity for Chemong Lake is all very well and should help to add more cottages to both shores, but those recent meetings in the township got things started at Ottawa and Toronto, and conceivably the demand from across the lake may eventuate in the replacement of the floating structure by a new bridge that will be high enough above the ice of April to preclude worry for the farmers about the safety of their going and coming to Peterborough.

Pictures, editorial tributes and other appreciative gestures are listed in the poetic and ideal with the old bridge itself, but when the railings have been chiselled off by ice floes the farmers become more interested in such aspects as security and other practical considerations. Reeve Gifford said today he was hoping the engineers would be able to present an estimate of costs that would meet with the approval of the two governments represented by J. J. Duffus and A. L. Elliott who evidently have done their part in carrying the Ennismore petitions to the respective authorities.

Band Concert

By permission of Lt. Col. J. A. Dewart and officers, the Band of the Prince of Wales Rangers will give the following program in Victoria Park Sunday evening, commencing at 8.30.

March "The Commander" (Hall), overture "A Night in Tripole" (Richards), selection of "Victor Herbert's Favorites" (Lake), waltz "Destiny" (Baynes), selection of Welch Melodies (Arr. by Wright), popular numbers from the Walt Disney Production "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", (1) "Heigh-Ho", (2) "Whistle While You Work," intermezzo "Secrets" (Ancliffe), Negro spiritual "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen" (Arr. by Roberts), closing number "God Save the King".

Second Lieutenant Langben, one of the victims, was born in Toronto, September 6, 1909. He specialized in civil engineering at Virginia Military Institute and graduated in 1922.

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, set out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after their long ride, Bill and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, they soon are subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians. Convinced Bill and Panola have been seized by Indians, Ellen offers to go after them with the aid of two Yaqui Felix had taken prisoner and whom she had befriended. Senora Montoya decides to accompany Ellen and the Yaqui.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 11.

THE START from the Montoya ranch home was made about 1 p.m. At the last minute Ellen, the Mexican mother and the two released prisoners had taken some food to eat in their hands, so impatient were they to be riding. There was meat, and the flat, flabby cornmeal bread called tortillas, and some fruit.

Ellen ate hers not from hunger but because she realized she would need its strength. She and Senora Montoya rode about 50 feet behind their strange escorts and guides — savages who were criminals against the law of Mexico, but who had been released without trial on a bargain with a lovely, dainty American girl. The Mexican woman had made it clear to Ellen that she knew how to handle both kinds of guns, and she insisted on riding now with her repeating rifle held in her arms.

This act of constant suspicion and threat really was psychologically a benefit to the plan. By contrast it made Ellen, whose guns remained holstered, more friendly in the Yaquis' eyes. They hated the Mexicans because Mexicans hated them. But the American girl—she was almost like a goddess, fairer of skin and to them, much more kind.

At the end of about two hours' riding, Senora Montoya signaled to all that they must rest. She and Ellen struggled with a few words of combined English and Spanish, but most of their scanty communication was effected by motions and signs. The Yaquis dismounted also, to wait. To stretch her legs Ellen walked a few feet toward them and off to one side among the rocks and gravel.

Abruptly, a whirring startled her. The extraordinary noise—not very loud, and foreign to her experience—caused Ellen's blood almost to freeze. She stood still, motionless with terror.

"Serpiente!" shouted one of the men. It was almost a roar, so deep was his voice. Senora Montoya was shrieking some sort of warning also.

The whirring was like dried peas in a pod. It came from somewhere near her feet, Ellen knew. In the second or two required for her to gather strength to move, she realized it must be a rattle-snake. She had seen them in zoos. She even remembered hearing them rattle, now.

Even as Ellen jumped, however, a rock came whizzing, thrown by one of the Yaqui men. It struck the rattler squarely, knocked it to one side.

The man followed up his throw. In a few seconds he had killed the snake, was holding it up by the tail. It was not an exceptionally large one, but it was most frightening to see. Ellen, trembling, came back near her horse to sit down. She found Senora Montoya's soft Spanish words very comforting, even though she did not understand them.

The incident served to unnerve Ellen Dale for several minutes, but when she observed the matter-of-fact manner in which the other woman and the men took it, she became quieter. Ellen had yet to learn that the western outdoors still holds its dangers among the wild things, but that these are ordinarily treated with unconcern.

She watched the ground and the landscape with greater caution during the remainder of the afternoon. Four times they saw dogs trotting along at a distance, or standing to stare at them. Ellen knew they were wild, but did not know they were coyotes. Once Senora Montoya pointed to a cliff ledge several hundred yards above them and Ellen saw what appeared to be a huge cat, a panthem. A small herd of javalinas ran grunting down a slope, but Ellen never realized how fortunate the people had been, nor knew that wold hogs, disturbed, can be ferocious enemies. Cactus thorns nipped at Ellen's ankles, and she was kept busy dodging rocks as the horses

When night fell, Senora Montoya climbed up the mountain trail. called to the Yaquis and talked briefly with them.

"Is it much farther?" Ellen asked wearily. But her host did not understand. The older woman did make it clear, however, that they must halt for the night.

Now more than ever Ellen became grateful for Senora Montoya's company. The ranch woman knew how to effect a makeshift camp. Despite Ellen's protests, she made the girl wrap in the saddle blanket and lie down on soft dry grass, while she sat on a rock holding her rifle. The men sensibly bedded down also, some few yards away. Ellen promised herself she would snatch a nap—if she could get over her fear of sleeping on the ground and of possible rattlesnakes — then stand guard while the other woman slept. It was an unselfish idea, but it didn't work.

When Ellen awakened, it was too late for anyone to sleep again!

"It is morning!" she suddenly exclaimed, sitting up.

She lay back with a moan. Her muscles seemed afire with pain if she used them, and mostly they were too stiff to move. Senora Montoya was huddled in her own saddle blanket, but she had been sitting and evidently had kept vigil all night. She stirred now and came to massage Ellen's neck and arms and legs.

It was torture to rise, and yet, contradictorily, Ellen felt refreshed too. She walked to the horses, which had been tied to scrubby trees nearby. Long ropes had permitted the animals to graze some. Ellen wondered when they would be watered.

Without Senora Montoya's help she could never have saddled her horse. The animal was skittish, and the saddle was almost too heavy for her to lift. Ellen thanked her lucky stars over and over that the Mexican woman had come.

They ate cold Mexican food. It made an unappetizing looking mess, sodden and greasy. Ellen remembered the dainty "pink breakfasts" she was accustomed to enjoying in her sunroom in California. The contrast was poignant. Ellen wanted to cry, but realized that she had asked for this situation, and that she was driven to endure it and go on with her reckless adventure by some force which she could not quite understand.

Ellen liked to feel that she was a sensible person who could think clearly. This morning as they rode up the mountain trail, she tried faithfully to "analyze" her emotions. She knew she had acted most impulsively of late. She knew she was putting up with hardships now on the mountain trail which she had never faced before, and against which she would certainly have rebelled a week ago. Yet, strangely, she did not resent them.

"Am I imagining myself in love with Bill Baron?" she asked herself, frankly. "He is handsome, but I have met many handsome men, some more so than he. Some of them have been as gentle and courteous and kind, and have made ardent love to me without stirring me like this, so surely I am not now in love. And I don't give a hang what happens to Panola Montoya, except in a general way. And yet here I am risking my life on a crazy attempt to rescue two people from wild Indians. Why?"

She searched her mind and heart for an answer, trying to be logical.

But Ellen Daggs—Dale—didn't know everything. She had been educated in many ways. She did indeed have a thinking mind. But she was still a girl too, and had not learned that once to every man and woman comes a climatic phase in life when it is impossible to be logical.

Awareness of this doesn't matter; experiencing it is an exacting thing.

Anglicans Oppose Wider Divorce

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 11—(CP)—The committee of the Synod today endorsed the stand of Bishop Rocksborough Smith who in his charge to the Algoma Synod of the Church of England in Canada opposed extension of the grounds for divorce, proposed in a new bill now before Parliament. The charge was referred to the committee, headed by Archdeacon C. W. Balfour, Fort William.

A resolution adopted by the Synod called on members of Parliament to use their influence with the Minister of National Revenue and the Postmaster General to obtain stricter control of what was said to be a flood of obscene literature entering Canada. Another resolution adopted outlined arrangements made to obtain for distribution to the clergy a list of approved motion picture films.

Wives Should Not Worry Too Much Over the Fact That Their Husbands Take Them for Granted, Especially if the Latter Are Good Providers

DEAR MISS DIX—What has a wife a right to expect from her husband? I have been married for ten years and am in such an unhappy state of mind that I don't know what to do. First, I want to say that my husband is just as good as he can be, kind, generous and sensible, and we never quarrel, but he never shows me any affection; never shows any concern when I am ill; never does any of the little things that mean marriage worth while. When I try to talk to him he shies away from the topic and says that he loves me pust as much as he ever did, but that he is just unable to show his feelings. We get along together amicably, but our marriage, so far as I can see, is just dust and ashes. There is no mutual understanding between my husband and myself, nothing to look forward to nor work for. The thing that worries me is that now I have stopped caring. I don't care whether my husband loves me or not. So far as I know, he is perfectly content with the way things are and I would hate the thought of divorce, but what is there for me? Am I wrong in believing that I am missing something worth while? And has it been my fault for not understanding him?

A HEART-HUNGRY WIFE.

Answer:

Thousands of letters like this come to this column from wives who are starving for affection and whose marriages are failures because their husbands take them for granted and never show them any affection or tenderness.

The ironic part of the tragic situation is that these very husbands, who never give any indication that they regard their wives as anything more than useful household conveniences, are deeply devoted to their wives and are working their fingers to the bones to prove it, but they don't tell their wives they love them in so many words, and women put words above deeds.

Why a woman who has a husband who is good, kind and faithful hasn't enough common sense to know that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and that the best indication a man can give of the state of his affections is by his trying to keep her safe and comfortable and make life easy for her, nobody can guess.

Nor can anybody even imagine why a man who knows that a few compliments, a 10-cent bunch of flowers now and then and a little soft talk would make his wife's heart sing for joy, keep her happy and satisfied and on her tiptoes to please him, won't take the trouble to hand them to her. Every man knows that a little petting goes farther with his wife than an emerald bracelet or a pearl necklace would. He knows that he can kiss her eyes shut so that she won't see any of his faults and kiss her mouth shut so she won't nag, so why he doesn't use this knowledge to make his wife happy and save himself money and trouble is one of the mysteries of the world.

It is all part of the queer sex business that makes women hanker for lolipops and feel likes brides at 60, while men want roast beef rare for a steady diet and leave romance behind them at the altar. Wives can't take their husbands for granted, and women rebel against their husbands taking them for granted. There you are, and nobody knows what to do about it.

Of course, it seems silly enough for a woman who is married to a man who is good, kind, generous and a good provider to think about breaking up her home and divorcing him because he doesn't kiss her and pet her and tell her how much he loves her. But, on the other hand, if romance and sentiment are what she wants most of anything in the world and her husband fails to give them to her, her marriage is just as great a failure to her as if he were a great villain instead of merely being a poor lover. If you crave caviar, spinach is pretty flat and tasteless food.

— So I can offer no solution of the emotional wife and the undemonstrative husband. Both are as nature made them, but I often wonder how they came to marry.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have a cousin and a girl friend who think I am a foolish young mother because I spend nearly all of my time with my baby, who is 8 months old. They have babies about the same age. While they don't neglect their babies, they go around to places of amusement. They say my baby will grow into a spoiled, unliked child, while theirs will grow into fine manhood. Which of us is right? PUZZLED MOTHER.

Answer:

You will have to wait until the children are grown up and see how they turn out before you can tell which system of bringing up a baby is the best, but if I were betting on it I think I would put my money on the part-time mother rather than the all-time mother.

In her zeal to be a good mother the young mother is very likely to overdo the mothering and the result is a spoiled brat who gets the upper hand of her in the cradle and tyrannizes over her the remainder of its life. No child needs all of its mother's time and it is better off in every way to be left to itself and its own devices a good deal. Even the best baby specialists advocate a little wholesome neglect for youngsters.

Besides which a woman who gives her time exclusively to her baby is bound to get dull and uninteresting, with no conversation about anything except what the baby does and eats and how it says da-da. Likewise, she is likely to neglect her husband because all of her interest is centered on her youngster. Moderation in motherhood is as desirable as moderation in other things.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—When a boy is 21, should his parents not permit him to go where he pleases, when he pleases and with whom he pleases? D.F.

Answer:

When a boy is 21 he is legally a man, and exempt from parental control. He is on his own and responsible for his own acts. DOROTHY DIX.

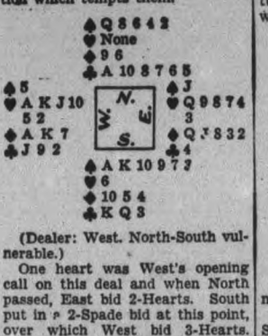
HOW TO LURE DOUBLES

ONE OF the best devices to pick up a flock of extra points is to fool your opponents into doubling a safe contract. You get a good chance to do this when you feel sure the auction will be kept open if you pass on one of your turns. If you then back in with a later bid, you give the enemy an impression of weakness and desperation which tempts them.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

One heart was West's opening call on this deal and when North passed, East bid 2-Hearts. South put in a 2-Spade bid at this point, over which West bid 3-Hearts. North passed again and East bid 4-Hearts. Being vulnerable, South hesitated to bid again and was surprised to heart a 4-Spade bid from North. When this passed around to West, he promptly doubled with the feeling that his side would gain a fine score against his vulnerable opponents.

The diamonds A and K were cashed by him and followed by a diamond, which was ruffed. The remainder of the tricks were captured by South for a splendid score with one overtrick, doubled.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

OVER THE garden wall went the two children, little Frank and his small sister, Dinah. And right after Dinah, as closely as she could get to her, went the little girl's shadow, Hanid. But Knarf, who was Frank's shadow, didn't climb after his master at all.

That was because Knarf had just done a very curious thing. You see, Knarf had just discovered that Mrs. Robin had just built herself a new nest in the oak tree on the other side of the garden wall. She was sitting on four little eggs.

And Knarf had told Mrs. Robin that he was going to let the children know about her nest so that they could come and visit her. But instead of letting them know (he couldn't talk to the children because children don't ever understand shadow language), he waited until they started playing ball with each other in the garden. Then, all at once, he had reached up and seized the ball while it was in the air, and pushed it over the wall. And now he was bouncing it up and down in the neighboring field, bringing it nearer and nearer to the oak tree.

Lodges In Tree.

"There's the ball!" little Frank cried, suddenly spying it. "It's rolling toward that oak tree. Hurry, Dinah! We've got to get it before it's lost!"

He was grinning because right next to the ball was the nest.

Do you know what happened the next instant?

The ball flew high up into the branches of the tree. And there it stuck!

"It's in the tree! We'll have to climb the tree to get it down!" little Dinah said.

"Yes, we'll have to climb the tree," said her brother.

Hanid looked up. There was Knarf sitting on the very branch on which the ball was stuck. He was grinning.

Do you know why he was grinning? It was because right next to the ball was Mrs. Robin's nest. And he knew that when the children climbed up to get their ball, they would be sure to see it. They did see it, of course. They were delighted with it. And they didn't disturb it; they just looked at it. Mrs. Robin flew off her nest and cried: "Aren't my eggs beautiful! Oh—I'm going to have the most beautiful little robins in the world!"

And everybody was happy, Aren't you?

So Bad With Nerves Would Lie Down and Cry

It is generally admitted that nerve troubles are more frequent than formerly and growing more so every day.

Wherever there are people whose health is poor, and their nerves shattered, they will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a tonic that will help to restore the deranged centres, and bring the nervous system back to its old time condition.

MRS. K. M. HARVEY, Bramber, N.S., writes:—"I got so bad with my nerves I would lie down on the bed and cry. Most of the time it just seemed I could not help it and would not know what I was crying for. I used to feel as if I would go crazy I was so bad.

I tried several different medicines, but received no relief. I then took Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills, four boxes of them, and started to feel better after the first few doses. Now I feel better in every way."

I.O.O.F. Members Receive Jewels

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 11.—The regular fortnightly meeting of Millbrook Lodge No. 308, I.O.O.F., was featured this week by an event of peculiar interest, when veterans' jewels were presented to six members who have had twenty-five years' connection with Oddfellowship.

The chair was taken by the Noble Grand, Brother Fred Elliott, who vacated it later for Brother William Constable, D.D.G.M., of Peterborough, who was a guest of honor together with Brother (Rev.) P. C. Howard, of Bobcaygeon, who is the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, and twelve members of the Lindsay Lodge, headed by their Noble Grand, Brother C. Fee.

The District-Deputy Grand Master made the first presentation, pinning the jewel on Brother P. C. Howard, who then presented the others to Brothers P. I. Bentley, E. L. Armstrong, H. C. Argue, A. J. Henderson and T. W. McCamus.

A second presentation was that of a travelling pedestal, made by the Lindsay Lodge to the local fraternity, who may retain it for ninety days, or less, and will then, in turn, present it to some other Lodge of Oddfellowship in ths district.

A number of speeches were made by local and visiting brethren, and following the Lodge session adjournment was made to the dining-hall, where supper was served by a committee of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176.

Brother Fred Elliott, N.G., was toastmaster, the list including the King, followed by the National Anthem; the Veterans, proposed by Brother Wilfrid Elson, P.G., and responded to by Brother P. I. Bentley, P.G.; the Visitors, proposed by Brother (Rev.) A. L. Sisco, and responded to by Brother Fee, N.G., of Lindsay; the Grand Lodge, proposed by Brother Willia mConstable, D.D.G.M., and responded to by Brother P. C. Howard; and finally the Ladies, proposed by Brother V. R. Hunter, P.G., and responded to by Sister Zella Bentley, P.N.G., of the Rebekah Lodge.

Covers were laid for about sixty guests, and the evening was considered outstanding in the history of Oddfellowship in the community.

Art Exhibition Junior Pupils

An event of much interest to both the teachers and pupils of the Peterborough Public School, is the exhibition of Art, the product of Grades I. to VIII., under the direction of Miss Constance Wagar, supervisor of Art.

The display will be made through the kindness of Charles Saunders in the window at Richard Hall's store this weekend, and will give an idea of the scope of the work being done in this department during the past year.

In the general course of the study of Art, as taught by the grade teachers, some fine examples of the work in water-color and crayon, as well as in pencil and charcoal, will be noticed. Among these there will be pose drawing, object drawing, design, lettering, flower studies and landscapes in free brush. Paper-cutting and illustrative work from the hands of the juniors are most effective.

In keeping with the new course of study, several enterprises have been attempted by the various classes, and a fine sample of these will be on view in the carefully carried out dolls' house, complete in every detail, done by a group of Grade III. children.

Another interesting project resulted in books, entirely designed by the pupils, featuring birds and spring flowers. In the new course, work on large surfaces is also stressed, and for this purpose wall-paper and wrapping paper have been used to good advantage, as will be seen in the exhibits.

Craft is another phase to which the principles of Art have been applied, as exemplified in the soap carving of flowers, bunnies and other objects.

Some enterprising pupils even tried their hand at carving in wood, and gaily colored garden sticks are included in the display which we trust you will see.

Weaving on cardboard looms proved a fascinating pastime, with surprisingly fine results, while the prints made from linoleum and potato blocks might be envied by more experienced artists.

The joy and interest with which the school children enter into these projects are something which you may not see in this exhibition, but it is otherwise typical of the trend in the new course in Art.

COTTON — In loving memory of dear "mother" who died a year ago.

One year has passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away.
—Jessie, Robert and Grandson Alan.

PETTY—In loving memory of Lance Petty, who died at Christie Street Hospital, June 11-1932.

Not till the loom is silent,
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Shall God unroll the canvas
And explain the reason why.
—The Christian (London).

—Ever remembered by wife and children.

KINNEY—In loving memory of my dear husband, Harry Kinney, who died June 11, 1925.

Gone dear Harry, how we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember none on earth can take your place;
A happy home we once enjoyed how sweet, the memory still,

Havelock Service Sees 18 Confirmed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 11.—St. John's Anglican Church was filled to capacity on Thursday evening for a most impressive service when His Grace Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen administered the rite of confirmation to eighteen candidates, from the parishes of Havelock, Norwood and Westwood.

Archbishop Owen was greeted at the church entrance on his arrival by the members of the Church Boys' League standing at attention. The church was very attractively decorated for the occasion with carnations and other cut flowers.

The service commenced at 8 o'clock, the Archbishop being assisted by Rev. Wm. Stocks, of St. George's Church, Hastings, and the local rector, Rev. R. E. Lemon.

Archbishop Owen congratulated the congregation and their rector on the restoration of the church after the fire, remarking that it was more beautiful than ever. His words to the confirmation candidates were an inspiration to the whole congregation.

The choir, with their leader, Mrs. Donald J. Holdcroft at the organ, led the singing of appropriate hymns and rendered an anthem, "Come Holy Spirit." The benediction pronounced by His Grace the Archbishop brought the memorable service to a close.

The confirmed members were as follows: Misses Jean Fraser, Verna Isaacs, Beryl Rice, Robina Rice, Gail Fraser, Doris Thompson, Norma Thompson, Anne McNeely, Mrs. Isabella Curry, and Messrs. Howard Lemon, David Lemon, Merle Clarke, all of Havelock; Mrs. Violet Rae, Misses Helen Rogers, Doris Bitten and Messrs. Joseph Rae and Kenneth Wright, of Norwood; and Mr. Donald Seaborn of Westwood.

King Strikes

tion of Conservative candidates in three seats — Lisgar, Provencher and St. Boniface.

Mr. King said Mr. Bennett's charges of patronage at Kingston related to the cheapest kind of ward politics compared to the state of affairs disclosed by the Webb letter. The Beauharnois affair was nothing compared to it. The disclosure would follow Mr. Bennett to the end of his days.

The letter was read by A. L. Beaubien (Lib. Provencher) and Mr. Bennet said Mr. King had "his mouthpiece" do it because he would not disgrace himself by doing it. It was a personal and confidential letter written by a man outside the House and was being used as a basis of attack upon him personally.

No Authority.

All this was no answer to the conditions prevailing to-day and there was no authority for the conclusions drawn from the letter by Mr. King. Mr. Mackenzie King said the letter was not personal, that it was more like a circular letter. Copies had been sent to Hon. J. Earl Lawson, Hon. W. A. Gordon, and Hon. R. J. Manion, all ministers in Mr. Bennett's Goverment.

Mr. Bennett's allegations regarding Kingston were that a contract for the purchase of coal had not been given to the lowest tenderer because the man was a Conservative;

Liberals in employment on the reconstruction of Fort Henry;

That supplies belonging to the defence department had been sold at sacrifice prices;

That two furniture dealers claimed they had paid A. E. Stansbury $100 to be placed on the patronage list for the sale of furniture to the government;

That 25 cans of white lead had been taken away from the Fort Henry project.

Investigation had failed to disclose any basis for these charges, said Mr. Rogers. Mr. Bennett would have served the public better and avoided the debate by bringing such gossip and rumor to the attention of the department so that it might be investigated at once.

Defence Minister Mackenzie entered the debate and dared Mr. Bennett to air his charges before a committee of the house. Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) said the Conservative leader seemed more interested in making political capital than in punishing wrongdoers.

"In all the history of the Canadian parliament never has there been so disgraceful an exposure of corruption and bribery," said Mr. King referring to the Webb letter.

Debate Warms Up

"Beauharnois is not a shadow on this thing," said the Prime Minister. "My right honorable friend shouts Beauharnois and after he has talked about Beauharnois he sits as a cabinet minister and does something that is infinitely worse than anything ever done with Beauharnois — than anything that was done by men who were not even members of the House."

Mr. Bennett: "Quite, and neither was Webb."

Mr. King: "No but my right honorable friend was prime minister."

"Mr. Bennett, "And so were you."

Mr. King: "But I had not any knowledge of the evils my friend speaks about."

Mr. Bennett: "The record shows you had."

Mr. King: "No, I had not and my friend knows it. He himself was the engineer of this whole business."

In making his charges Mr. Bennett said he attached no direct blame to Labor Minister Rogers. He did not question the minister's good intentions or allege any participation by the minister in improprieties. He did believe, however, that a political machine at Kingston had been too strong for Mr. Rogers.

The debate was still raging when the House adjourned last night and there was every prospect of its being resumed next week.

Before the government again directs the House to the estimates on which the discussion took place it is expected to seek to advance the new housing bill through second reading.

Elisabeth Bergner will act the title role in "St. Joan" at the Malvern Festival in Malvern, England, which opens on August 1.

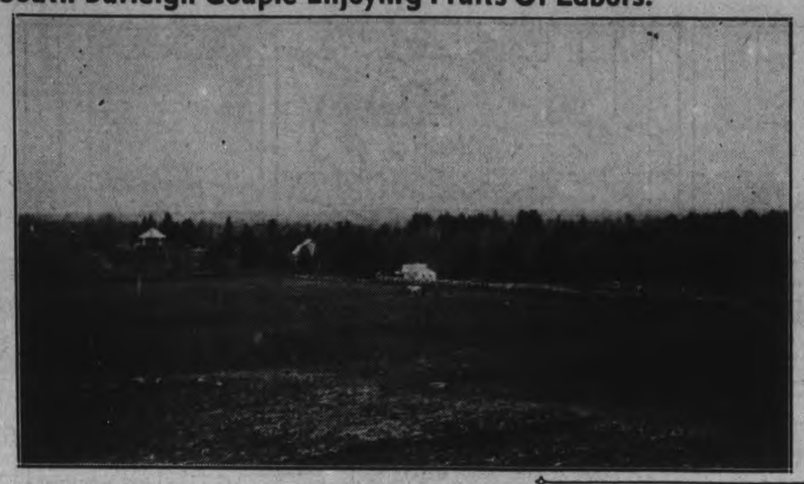
South Burleigh Couple Enjoying Fruits Of Labors.



Mr. and Mrs. George Stone, had two children, a son Melville, two of whose daughters are shown with their grandparents in the bottom picture and one daughter Vera, Mrs. Sanderson who lives in Lakefield. The large house at the left in the top photo is occupied by the aged couple and was built 25 years after their arrival in the Burleigh district. The row of spruce and balsam trees of which Mr. Stone is justly proud, was planted by him about the same time.

South Burleigh Couple Enjoying Harvest Of Life

APSLEY, June 11. — The farm of William George Stone, in the First Concession of South Burleigh, with its commodious frame house and barns, its well tilled level fields, divided by fences built of stones and boulders picked from the soil, and which sixty years ago was virgin forest, stands to-day a striking monument to the industry, patience and dauntless spirit of Canada's pioneers exemplified in the subject of this sketch.

William George Stone was born in Dummer, about a mile from McCracken's Landing, in August, 1859, his father and mother having come there from Ireland a year or two previously. On December 15, 1879, he married in Lakefield Margaret Bolton, who is a year younger than himself, and the following day the young couple moved to their present location in South Burleigh, where there was a small shanty standing in a clearance about an acre in size. The lot had been located, and Stone bought the locater's interest. He at once commenced extending the clearing. He cut timber for two years and worked out on farms for three summers. Then with a yoke of oxen he began clearing the land and put in his first crop. Wheat at the time was bringing a good price, $1.40 a bushel, so he decided to sow that grain as offering the most profitable returns. His first crop yielded him about 360 bags of grain, but just at that time the wheat market slumped and he received only 45 cents a bushel, after making 18 trips to Lakefield, drawing 20 bags each trip. Although bitterly disappointed at the result, he was not discouraged, and carried on throughout the years with undiminished enthusiasm and vigor.

Now after 58 years of unceasing toil, Mr. and Mrs. Stone, in the evening of life, "far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife," can enjoy a well-earned rest among the beautiful surroundings their industry helped to create.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone, now 79 and 78 respectively, are in good health. They declare neither of them ever had any serious illness, always had at least enough to eat, and their lives have been comparatively uneventful. Mr. Stone boasts that he has lost only one tooth—all the rest are sound, a condition which he attributes to having started chewing tobacco in his boyhood — a habit which he relinquished in favor of a pipe in later years.

Prices Of Wheat Firm Slightly

WINNIPEG, June 11 (C.P.). — Decreased estimates of the winter wheat crop in the United States and renewed European demand for Canadian wheat came to the rescue of swaying Winnipeg wheat futures at the close of this week.

Prices, continuing on an uneven keel since the sensational sessions of the previous week, closed the five-day trading period ¾ lower to 3⅛ cents higher, July at $1.02⅛, October 82-82⅛, and December 80⅛-¼ cents.

Prices climbed sharply Friday on southern interest in the old-cop month, July, overseas demand for October and favorable intermarket spreading for December. Unfavorable crop news from the south-west provided the dominating influence as Chicago, Buenos Aires, and Liverpool averaged higher the last two days.

The United States Government crop estimate released late on Friday practically confirmed uneasiness over south-west conditions. The official forecast was for 750,623,000 bushels against the average private estimates little more than a week ago of 810,000,000 bushels.

Disappointing wheat yields, spread of black and stem rust and, in certain areas, too much rain, stimulated buying.

With harvesting under way in Texas and Oklahoma and crops reaching maturity in other areas, effects of spring frosts are becoming apparent. Grasshoppers and army worms are taking toll.

Quake Startles

J. J. Shaw, west end store seismologist, said his seismograph started to record at 11.09 a.m. The shocks apparently were felt in varying intensity and duration in different parts of the city.

He described it as "A good, big shock for the British Isles."

The sharpest Belgian tremors were felt at Charleroi, 30 miles south of Brussels, but the entire country felt the quake in some degree. Brussels boulevards were suddenly thronged with frightened crowds. There were a few injuries due to broken glass.

The shocks there lasted 20 minutes, toppling chimney pots and putting telephones out of order.

Worst In Belgian History.

BRUSSELS, June 11 (AP). — A sharp earthquake considered the severest in the nation's history, today tumbled chimneys, cracked walls and frightened the populace throughout Belgium.

Shocks lasting 10 to 20 seconds were reported from all parts of the nation.

No important damage or serious casualties were known, though numerous persons were cut by flying glass.

Residents of Brussels and other cities rushed into the streets from their homes, factories and movie theatres. A dull rumbling accompanied the shocks.

The Brussels observatory was jarred out of order. Seismographs at Tournai, Charleroi and Verviers registered two successive quakes.

Mrs. Wm. Forsyth had charge of the sixth chapter of the Study Book, "A New Church Faces a New World." This was divided in four parts, being taken by Miss Mae Webster, Mrs. Johnson Blakely, Mrs. Joseph Gallagher and Mrs. J. S. Kidd.

This being a special day for Temperance a short skit was given by four ladies, Mrs. H. Patterson, Mrs. L. Freeburn, Mrs. A. Webster and Mrs. E. N. McDonald, the title of it being "Afterthoughts or Forethoughts."

Mrs. A. S. Cleland was present and spoke a few words, after which Mrs. John Gallagher rendered a lovely solo.

A number of items of business were discussed, among which were the arrangements for the tea meeting which is to be held the Tuesday night following the anniversary services, June 21st. Arrangements were also made for the quilting of the "bale" quilt at Mrs. Webster's home on Thursday. Those who had knit socks and mitts for the bale gave them to the treasurer, to be packed.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. L. Freeburn read an address and Mrs. John Gallagher presented a lovely purse to Mrs. Cleland on behalf of the W.M.S., as Rev. and Mrs. Cleland are moving to Athens the latter part of the month. Little Dorothy McMillan then presented Mrs. Cleland with a beautiful bouquet of Iris. Mrs. Cleland, though taken completely by surprise, replied with a few well chosen words.

The meeting then closed and lunch was served.

16 Lose Lives In Weekend Accident Toll

Car Crashes Kill 6, 7 Drown, Tractor Crushes 2

TORONTO, June 13 (CP).—Sixteen persons met violent deaths in Canada during the weekend and many others were injured on crowded streets and highways. Six were killed in motor mishaps, seven drowned and three were killed in other accidents.

A prospective bridegroom and a hitchhiker he had picked up only a few minutes before were victims of the worst motor crash at Beamsville, Ont. John Coady, 22, driver of the car which sideswiped a truck and buckled up, died three or four minutes afterward, while 21-year-old Leonard Todd of Hamilton, given a ride by Coady, died in an ambulance.

A passenger in the car, but only slightly hurt, was Leona Rooney, of Port Dalhousie, whom Coady was to have married in a few weeks. Todd's 21-year-old hitchhiking companion, Douglas Barwick, of Hamilton, is in hospital with internal injuries and a neck laceration. Abe Horowitz of St. Catharines, driver of the truck, and John Golden of Guelph, passenger with Coady, suffered lesser hurts.

George Richardson, 23, died in hospital at Vancouver, second victim of a runaway tractor which killed Charles Lindstrom at Hillside, B.C., Friday. Lindstrom was killed as the machine turned over and Richardson, riding with him, lay beneath it for two hours before being found.

Taxi Hits Tree

Norman Haskell, 22, of Fort Erie, Ont., died in hospital Saturday night of injuries suffered when the taxi in which he and John Bows were riding, driven by George Slowleigh, struck a rut and hurtled into a tree.

Missing a turn on the Sandwich West-Anderson townline near Ahmhertsburg, Ont., Victor Brown, 22, was killed when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile. Ontario Provincial Police refused to divulge the name of the owner or driver of a motor truck they seized after James W. Montgomery, 73, died in an Ottawa hospital of injuries received when hit by a driver who did not stop.

Three-year-old Huguette Deshaies was killed by a motor car in attempting to cross a road at Almaville, Que., near Shawinigan Falls. Two-year-old Dolores Fox collapsed and died before her parents' eyes after choking on a bread crust at Montreal.

Police continued investigation today into the death of Grace Hambly, 28-year-old stenographer whose body was found in Lake Huron less than 24 hours after she arrived at Port Elgin, Ont., from London to accept a position. She was fully dressed, and police thought she might have fallen in to the water from slippery rocks.

Teacher Drowns

Funeral services were held yesterday at Bromptonville, Que. for Rev. Louis Rene, 20-year-old teacher at the Sacred Heart Academy there who drowned while swimming the previous day. Brother Oliva Paul of the Academy was unable to maintain a grip when he tried to save him.

The body of William Beattie, 17, was recovered half an hour after he drowned in the Yamaska River at Sweetsburg, Que., while Leonard Garvin, 20, drowned while swimming in an abandoned quarry five miles from Smith's Falls, Ont.

To Be Deported

Arrested by U.S. federal authorities in Shreveport, La., some weeks ago and since investigated for possible espionage connections, Miss Sylvia May Bradshaw, 22-year-old English girl, has been cleared of that suspicion. But she is shown here packing her bag before leaving New Orleans for England. She was ordered deported on grounds that she entered the U.S. without an unexpired immigration visa.

Long Session Due If Corruption Charges Probed

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP).—Parliament Hill is wondering today whether the House of Commons and Senate can get through their business in time to prorogue at the end of June—the generally accepted deadline for the parliamentary session. It is believed every effort will be made to finish the session before the Conservative national convention, opening July 5.

But an imposing amount of work stands in the way of early prorogation. The government's housing bill must be pushed through. Justice Minister Lapointe has 50 amendments to the Criminal Code down for consideration, and a monetary reform debate may arise on the government's bill to make the Bank of Canada wholly government-owned.

Then there is the budget, to be brought down Thursday by Finance Minister Dunning, and the consequent debate. The belief is it will contain no tariff changes because the Canadian-American treaty has not yet been signed. Because of that a debate that ordinarily would take four weeks, may be cut to one.

Remarks of Prime Minister Mackenzie King Friday night have led to the belief in some quarters the public accounts committee may be called to consider charges of political corruption. Mr. King said the implications in a 1935 letter from Ralph Webb, Manitoba Conservative organizer, to Opposition Leader Bennett, then Prime Minister, were so serious it might be well to bring the matter before the committee. The letter said three Manitoba constituencies could be won if certain road work was started.

Means Delay of Weeks.

Such an investigation, which probably also would probe charges Mr. Bennett has made of corruption during the present administration, undoubtedly would delay prorogation for weeks.

The charges made Friday brought out into the limelight a political ex-

Woman Shot In Leg By .22 Rifle

Bethune Street Boy Did Not Know Rifle Was Loaded

The old story "Didn't know it was loaded" nearly caused a tragedy in Peterborough Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Richard Burfield, 62, of 371 Bethune Street, was shot through the right leg, just above the knee, by a bullet from an ancient .22 calibre rifle accidentally discharged by her son, Bruce Burfield, 18.

On Saturday night Donald Ellis, 12, of 30 Edinburgh Street bought the old weapon from a boy named Harold Nicholson, Union Street, while the latters parents were out. Sunday young Ellis took the rifle over to the Burfield home and asked Bruce Burfield to fix it for him. The barrel had to be wired to the stock and after the repairs had been made the boys tried the weapon by firing two shots into a hardwood slab in the woodshed.

Burfield then took the rifle into the kitchen of his home and was adjusting the wire when the gun was discharged and the bullet entered the leg of Mrs. Burfield who was sitting on a couch a few feet away. The injured woman was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where the bullet was removed by Dr. Robert Young who found that it had not hit any bone but was lodged in the fleshy part of the woman's leg.

Burfield told the police that he did not know there was a shell in the breach when he took the gun in the house. There was no guard on the trigger.

Young Ellis said that the accident happened before he had time to tell Burfield that the rifle was loaded.

Boy Is Charged.

As an aftermath of the shooting, Bruce was charged in police court this morning, before Magistrate Campbell, with unlawfully discharging a firearm within the city limits.

He pleaded guilty to the offence and asked for an adjournment until Tuesday of next week, his request being granted by the court.

"What were you doing with the gun?" asked Magistrate Campbell.

"I was fixing it for another fellow," the accused explained.

"What did you want to fix it on Sunday for?" the Magistrate wanted to know, but there was no answer from Burfield.

Aussie Scores Twin Century In Test Match

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 13 —(CP Cable)—Featured by a spectacular double-century by Stanley McCabe, Australia's first innings yielded 411 runs in the initial cricket test match with England today. This total was 247 runs less than England's score and the Antipodeans were forced to follow on.

While his colleagues could do little against the strong English attack the Australian vice-captain hit out with abandon for 232 runs, his highest test score against England. At Sydney in the 1932-33 series he compiled 187 not out.

Going in at the fall of the second wicket Saturday McCabe had obtained 19 at the close of play. Today he threw caution to the winds and in clouting the opposing bowlers he hit a six and 34 fours. He scored at the rate of a run a minute.

Of the remaining batsmen only Captain Don Bradman and W. A. Brown played with any degree of confidence. Both completed their innings in Saturday's play, Bradman getting 51 and the Queenslander 48.

Kenneth Farnes, Essex speed demon, turned in the best bowling performance, taking four wickets for 106 runs. Douglas Wright, Kent, dismissed four men for 153.

The tea interval was dispensed with Australia returning to the wickets facing an uphill task.

Guard And Dog Tied, Store Looted

WINDSOR, Ont., June 13 (CP) —Three masked men broke into the Consumers Warehouse, Ltd., here early today, tied up the night watchman and his peaceful dog and made off with a small amount of money and three bags full of merchandise. Entrance was gained by smashing a roof window and clambering down the elevator shaft.

Surprised as he was sitting in a truck in garage adjoining the store, Charles Ladds, Windsor, the night watchman, told police he was bound with heavy cord and that a heavy sack was pulled over his head. A rope was tied about the dog's head and he was tied to Ladds' foot. The dog, a German Shepherd, made no attempt to molest the intruders, Ladd said.

While two of the men ransacked the store, the other stood guard over Ladds.

"He had me sit on an orange crate and said if I didn't keep still he would knock me off," Ladds said. "Every now and then he'd push something hard in my ribs as though he carried a gun."

Now A Peer

Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, left England a knight and arrived in New York with the title of baron. He was elevated to the peerage, in the King's birthday honors list, while on the high seas. He is shown here, with Lady Stamp, as he arrived in New York to discuss the British railways exhibit with directors of New York's world's fair.

Prospector's Hunch Points Wreck Of Lost Airliner

Finds Craft Missing Since March 1, on Peak With 9 Bodies Scattered About

YOSEMITE, Calif., June 13 (AP).—A young gold prospector who followed a "hunch" led the way today to wreckage of a storm-crashed transcontinental Western Airlines ship which vanished with nine persons aboard the night of March 1.

The shattered plane and the bodies of its occupants lay near the top of 9,000-foot Buena Vista peak, 18 air miles south and east of Yosemite valley ranger headquarters. The region is 90 miles east of Fresno.

H. O. Collier, 24, a mining prospector from Fresno, told Chief Ranger Forest Townsley he found the ship Sunday morning. Eight bodies were scattered nearby, said Collier.

"I had a hunch the ship was up there somewhere," he said.

"Last Tuesday I left Fresno to do some prospecting up around Bass Lake, but there was a lot of snow and I couldn't get much done.

"Then I started out to hunt for the plane.

"I found it about 200 feet from the top of Buena Vista Peak on the south side. Apparently the plane did not burn, but it was badly broken up and bodies were scattered about the slope."

Ring Finger Saved By Police Arrival

TORONTO, Jun 13.—Harry Carter, 30, of 25 Wade street, in the face of a crisis, was spared the ordeal Saturday night of deciding which he valued most—a $135 diamond ring or his finger on which it reposed.

"If you don't hand it over," threatened one of two negroes, as the three breathless men struggled on the sidewalk on Richmond street, "we'll cut your finger off."

Bony knees pressing into Carter's neck and gouging thumbs in his eyes just about convinced him discretion was the better part of valor when two policemen drove up, frightening the two colored robbers off.

P.C.s Arthur Glover and Harry Head caught one suspect after a spirited chase in a lane at the rear of Queen Street West. He gave the name of Bruce Davis of Long Branch. Back on the sidewalk, Carter crawled painfully to his feet, thankful his loss amounted only to $4 in cash.

Life In Prison

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP). — The Governor - General-in-Council has commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on John Clark, 24-year-old Isabella, Man., farmer, it was announced today. Clark, sentenced to be hanged June 15, was convicted of the murder of Arthur Ross, his brother-in-law, at the Clark home.

Election Defeat No Worry To Aberhart

EDMONTON, June 13 (CP). — Failure of Social Credit force to defeat the Liberal Government in Saskatchewan June 8 was no reason why Alberta's government should resign, Premier Aberhart of Alberta said last night at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference.

"I did not notice that the Federal Government resigned when we so definitely defeated them in the East Edmonton by-election," Mr. Aberhart added. Orvis Kennedy, Social Credit, was elected in that Dominion by-election March 21.

"They have me politically dead and buried many times," the Premier said.

The Premier said "it was most amazing and ludicrous to get some letters and wires from Liberal supporters bragging of their wonderful victory and threatening the Social Credit Government in Alberta at the next election. One man demanded that this defeat in Saskatchewan was reason for our resignation."

The Premier asserted the Saskatchewan setback would result in "no slackening up of effort on our part. We are determined to secure economic freedom."

Mr. Aberhart said he had "never seen such falsified propaganda" as in the Saskatchewan election campaign and charged "complete and unreserved falsehoods were printed and scattered far and wide."

12-Year Romance

QUEBEC, June 13 (C.P.). — In a bare little chapel at Quebec's immigration headquarters, Harbor Chaplain Philippe Casgrain performed a Roman Catholic marriage ceremony yesterday for Milan Kanjer, a naturalized Yugoslav of Gananoque, Ont., and Luibca Grbcic, who came all the way to Canada from Yugoslavia to join him.

Kanjer came here by train on Saturday from Gananoque to meet the liner Alaunia in which dark-eyed Luibca travelled from the Old Country. He had saved 12 years to bring her over.

Quads Arrive To Mother In Liverpool

X-Ray Prepares Staff For Unusual Event, Three Boys And Girl

LIVERPOOL, England, June 13.—(AP).—Quadruplets were born today to Mrs. Esther Taylor, 29, wife of a teamster.

The babies—three boys and a girl —were healthy. The Taylors have four other children.

The quadruplets were born in Walton hospital, where doctor some weeks ago saw the unborn infants by means of X-ray.

A large medical staff attended the birth. As soon as they were born they were placed in cotton wool and put in an incubator which will maintain an even temperature of 98 degrees.

Physicians planned to feed them first on white of egg and perhaps a few drops of brandy.

The births wil cost Liverpool taxpayers £200 ($1,000) unless Mrs. Taylor's husband can pay. Elaborate arrangements had been made at the hosptal for the multiple births.

Mrs. Taylor, frail and fair-haired, is one of a family of 13. Her own previous children, three boys and a girl, range in age from four to 11.

At present Britain's best known bevy of babies are the Miles quads, now more than 2½ years old. They also are three boys and a girl—Ernest, Paul, Michael and Ann.

Hawkesbury Mill Adds Shift To Ease Lay-Off

HAWKESBURY, Ont., June 13—(CP)— About 100 of 300 men laid off Saturday at the local mill of the International Paper Company were scheduled to be taken on today at the same mill of the same company, it was learned. The saw mill is working on three shifts with about 160 men employed. It went on four six-hour shifts today and will employ about 260 workers.

Chief of Police Beaulne reported that while there was a serious unemployment situation created, that no trouble was expected. He denied police were anticipating any disorder.

Mill officials stated the mill would be re-open on July 4 J. Thompkins, manager of the Hawkesbury plant of the International Paper Company said the only reason for the shutting down of the plant was lack of orders. The plant had been closed a number of times this year.

Omer Laurin, president of the Retail Merchants Association said credit had been shut off and would remain shut off for the balance of the year.

"We don't expect any difficulty but our books are already loaded with unpaid debts and we cannot go on selling things on credit when there is little prospect of being paid."

Rally Will Settle Tory Group Issue

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP).—Whether Conservative men, women and young people are each to have separate national organizations or whether they are to be embraced in one association will be one of the issues to be settled at the national convention of the party here July 5, 6 and 7, it was learned today.

Arrangements have been made to have representation of Young Conservatives at the convention. Women who do attend will come as delegates from ridings that can select men and women delegates.

However, there has been so agitation for national organizations for the women and for the young people apart from the regular national body. The question was discussed at Saturday's meeting of the convention committee, but no recommendation was decided on. The issue will be left open for the convention.

The Liberal Party is organized nationally in the three groups. They hold separate national conventions and meetings.

Champion Chipmunks

MONTREAL, June 13.—(CP).—A pair of perky chipmunks, "Chip" and "Munk" were resting on their laurels to-day, although a trifle lazy from eating peanuts given as a reward by their proud owner, Billy Allen, after capturing the special prize awarded Saturday at the Montreal West pet show, first of its kind held in the Province of Quebec.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng.—With nine wickets to fall Australia needs 145 runs to avoid defeat by an innings in the first cricket test match against England. Replying to the English team's huge total of 658 for eight declared, the Antipodeans were dismissed for 411 today and following on had obtained 102 for loss of one wicket at the close of play.

Hydro Auditor Takes Blame For Lifting Sections Of Records From Fyles

Claims Check Showed Attack On Employee Involved In 68 Adjustments Totalling $71,519,943 Was Unjustified

TORONTO, June 13 (CP).—J. H. Clark, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Windsor-Sandwich, told a resumed legislative inquiry into affairs of the Ontario Hydro-Electrc Power Commission today he had asked two officials of Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Compiny to attend the investigation.

Major Clark stated he had requested R. A. C. Henry and a Mr. Montgomery of Beauharnois to be present at tomorrow's sitting of the legislative committee. The announcement brought from Leopold Macaulay, Conservative house leader:

"I would suggest you ask Sir Herbert Holt to be present also. He is the majority owner, the man who gains most by any fluctuations in these bonds."

Relations between the Quebec Power Company and the Power Commission have been the subject of the testimony before the committee, set up after Mr. Macaulay charged in the Legislature Premier Hepburn had "misled" the voters in last fall's general election campaign.

The Conservative house leader charged that while the Premier publicly advocated a "back-to-Niagara" power policy he secretly was negotiating with Beauharnois for renewal of power-purchase contracts cancelled by legislative enactment in 1935.

Contracts with Beauharnois and three other Quebec power companies, drawn up prior to 1934 and cancelled in 1935, were renewed last December.

Pettit Explains.

W. H. Pettit, head of the Oscar Hudson Company, Hydro Commission auditors, was recalled to the stand in connection with a special report of his firm which he told the committee before its June 3 adjournment had been withdrawn from commission files and revised. The report criticized methods of Hydro's accounting department.

Mr. Pettit presented to the committee copies of deletions that had been made in the report. A copy of the rebuttal to the charges made by the accounting firm, prepared by William Pierdon, chief Hydro accountant, also was filed.

Mr. Pettit objected to what he termed Mr. Macaulay's suggestion the original of the special report had been destroyed.

"I said it had been sunk without a trace as far as this committee was concerned," replied Mr. Macaulay. "I said the document had been taken off the Hydro files."

Mr. Macaulay read into the record the list of deletions given him by Mr. Pettit. One noted that the "control" accounts of the Commission were in arears and that the Oscar Hudson Company could not be held responsible "under present conditions."

Another paragraph pointed out there was a delay of five months before some accounts were completed. The accounting firm had stated this situation would not be tolerated in a commercial house.

"You say the request was made by you to take out parts of the report?" asked the Conservative House Leader.

Pettit Takes Blame.

Located In Lake, Girl's Death Proves Mystery

PORT ELGIN, Ont., June 13 (C. P.). — Investigators to-day are trying to pierce the mystery surrounding the death of 28-year-old Grace Hambly of London. The fully-clothed body of the young stenographer was found in shallow water in Lake Huron less than 24 hours after she came here to take a position.

Miss Hambly was to have started work this morning to replace an office employee granted six weeks' leave of absence. Although her home was in Strathroy, she had lived in London for 10 years. She arrived in Port Elgin, 30 miles south-west of Owen Sound, on Saturday, and rented a room.

The body was found yesterday less than a mile from her rooming house by Gordon McLaren of Toronto.

Authorities expressed the opinion the girl may have fallen into the water from rocks made slippery by spray from an all-night storm while taking an early morning walk.

60 German Advisers Quitting China

HANKOW, June 13 (AP).—China at the end of the month will lose the services of 60 German advisers, headed by General Alexander Von Falkenhausen, who aided General Chiang Kai-Shek in whipping together his national army.

After nearly three weeks of uncertainty since Berlin asked for the release of the men under contract as military advisers and instructors, German authorities today said Baron Von Falkenhausen and all regular members of his mission would leave, en route to Germany, by July 1.

Their departure will deal a heavy blow to China's hopes of resisting the Japanese invasion as General Chiang has turned more and more to Baron Von Falkenhausen for advice.

Rayon Founder Dies

COVENTRY, England, June 13.—(CP).—Henry Johnson, who helped establish the rayon industry in Canada, died today at the age of 72. He was a leading figure in the rayon industry in England, and also was prominent in the establishment of the industry in the United States.

U. S. Builds Non-Stop Plane Able To Bomb Europe

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 13. —(AP)—A land plane, capable of flying to Europe and back without refueling, is a guarded military secret today at the Douglas Aircraft plant.

In a small, isolated hangar, its windows blanked out with white paint, piecemeal construction has been undertaken of the formidable bomber—the army's newest bid for air supremacy.

Aviation circles are confident the new Douglas, when completed, will span almost 250 feet from wingtip to wingtip and weigh about 160,000 pounds.

That would be nearly twice the wingspread and thrice the weight of any land plane ever built before.

Slovak Head Gets Setback On Vote

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 13 —(CP—Havas)— Father Andreas Hlinka's Slovak Catholic People's Party, which seeks autonomy for the Slovaks, emerged from yesterday's elections in a definite minority in the predominantly Slovak regions of Czechoslovakia.

Although gaining many seats and remaining the strongest Slovak Party, it obtained only between 40 and 45 per cent. of the votes in Slovakia. These figures contrasted sharply with claims made by Father Hlinka that his group represents the entire Slovak people.

In Bratislava, Slovak centre, where Father Hlinka last week made a militant speech, his party polled 8,129 votes to 24,692 for the Pro-government Slovak Union, and secured six seats as against 21 for Slovak Union.

Toronto Butterfly Has Wings 7 Inches Across

Toronto, June 13.

A BRIGHTLY colored butterfly, with a seven-inch wingspread, and body almost as large as a person's thumb, was found Sunday morning by Earle Pickering, 1376 St. Clair Avenue West.

The creature, of white and brown markings with a trace of orange, was found on a billboard sign in front of his home, says Mr. Pickering, who is seeking some one who can tell him the variety.

Life Begins At 65

CHICAGO, June 13—(AP)— John Czacherski says he believes that life begins at 67—at least for him. "Our John" as he is called by his 'teenage classmates is going to be graduated by the Medill High school next Thursday. John said he made $30,000 at bricklaying, and thought he had plenty until the stock crash of 1929, "nearly wiped me out."

U.S. Accidents Kill 106,000 Disable 9,900,000 in 1937

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP).— The National Safety Council announced to-day that accidents in the United States claimed 106,000 lives in 1937—a total more than twice as great as the number of American lives lost in the Great War.

The calculable costs of all accidents ran to $3,600,000,000. Motor vehicle accidents during 1937 caused 39,500 deaths, 1,360,000 personal injuries and an economic loss of $1,-700,000,000.

Australia will spent $62,500,000 on air defence.

London, June 13—(CP).

A NEW earth shock, third in twenty-four hours, rocked Northern France and Belgium yesterday as experts prepared to examine the foundations of St. Paul's Cathedral here to determine whether the historic building was damaged by Saturday's tremblors.

Sunday's shock was felt at Waterloo, Hoeylaert and Brussels, in Belgium, as well as throughout Northern France. It was not strong enough to register at the Bromwich Observatory.

Arsenal Of Narcotics

GENEVA, June 13.—(AP).—The League of Nations Opium committee today heard a Chinese spokesman accuse Japan of turning Manchoukuo into "a vast arsenal of narcotics" from which, he said, opium was distributed throughout China.

Dr. Victor Hoo, China's minister to Switzerland, made the charge.

"Japan is systematically trying to poison the Chinese people with drugs," Dr. Hoo declared. Japanese military authorities know this situation and encourage it."

Czechs Watch Nazis Warily Following Victory By Sudetens At Polls

Premier As Concession Toward Peace Drafts List Of Concessions Aimed To Satisfy Part Of Demands

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 13 (AP).—With the overwhelmingly pro-Nazi attitude of its 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans clearly demonstrated at the polls, this 20-year-old republic today approached what may be the most momentous decision since its foundation.

Czechoslovaks were not surprised when Konrad Henleins Nazi-supported Sudeten German party polled an estimated 90.9 per cent of the total vote in German districts yesterday in the third of three Sundays of municipal elections.

They were more concerned with the outcome of discussions on the troublesome minorities question which will start tomorrow between the government and the Sudeten German Party.

Yesterday's elections passed quietly, the only serious disorder being at Maerisch-Schoenberg where five policemen and nine Henleinists were injured when police dispersed a victory parade.

In Czech regions pro-government parties gained substantial majorities, which were interpreted as a vote of confidence in Premier Milan Hodza's government.

Concessions Planned.

Anxious to demonstrate to France, Great Britain and Czechoslovakia's other friends abroad that the government is willing to make concessions in the cause of peace, Hodza is preparing to hand to Henlein's representatives to-morrow precise proposals designed to satisfy at least some of the Sudeten German demands for more self-government in Sudeten districts.

Whether the Henleinists will be content with mere concessions, however, remained a vital question. Another question causing equal anxiety among diplomatic observers was how the non-Sudens would react to any attempt by the government to make sweeping concessions.

As far as can be judged by an outsider the attitude of the Czech citizenry seems to be that the Republic has demonstrated its willingness to fight for its existence and can count on the great democracies—France and Britain—to help it against an invader.

Ready to Mobilize.

(France's former Premier Pierre Flandin said in a speech at Vienne, France, last night the Daladier government was prepared to order mobilization to aid Czechoslovakia if she were invaded by Germany. He warned the danger of war was increasing in Europe and urged members of the Democratic Alliance Party to oppose war unless France herself were attacked.

His speech brought an immediate reply from Pierre Cot, Radical Socialist former Air Minister, who told the National Congress of Republican Reserve Officers at Chambery:

"To say that not one French soldier should expose his life for Czechoslovakia means that no one English soldier should shed his blood if France were attacked. Collective security is a condition of French security.")

(At Stettin, Germany, Rudolf Hess, Hitler's general representative accused Czechoslovakia of being a menace to the peace of Europe. He asserted the Republic was in a condition "practically akin to a state of war.")

News Guild Urges Consolidation

TORONTO, June 13—(CP)—Consolidation of position is the main task confronting the American Newspaper Guild, executive vice-president Jonathan Eddy told delegates to the organization's fifth annual convention—first since its affiliation with the committee for industrial organization—in written message today.

"Possibly the very success which has attended upon strikes of the Newspaper Guild bears with it danger to the program of consolidation strike though we have to, again and again, to defend our position and to make its protection available to the workers throughout the entire industry," Eddy said, continuing:

"We have had little enough union ourselves and, among the thousands of tatally inexperienced members coming in, we find a spirit of adventurousness which must be combatted by all of us.

A distinction must be drawn between adventurousness and sound, progressive, militant trade unionism such as has come to be taken for granted in the Guild."

Attempts have been made by publishers, "notably the Hearst chain and Scripps-Howard chain," to split the various groups of workers in the Guild, he charged. He urged that the Guild guard "against an exaggerated emphasis on the Guild shop, which only plays into the hands of the publishers."

Japs Take Anking In Yangtse Drive

SHANGHAI, June 13 — (CP) — Powerful Japanese land and river forces today captured Anking, capital of Anhwei Province, in a swift thrust up the Yangste river toward Tankow, China's provinisional capital, less than 200 miles farther inland.

Rising flood waters of the yellow river, imperilling Japan's offensive through Honan Province, increased the possibility the drive by land and water up the Yangste may become the main attack on China's seat of government.

A Japanese army spokesman acknowledged that fighting in the Chengchow sector, where Japanese are besieging the junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railroads, was being hampered by mud and rain.

According to official Chinese dispatches from Hankow, the flood-waters already had crossed the vital east-west Lunghai and are flowing southeast toward Anhwei.

Actual occupation of Anking, Japanese reports said, was achieved by infantry which was put ashore from transports.

The inundation of wide areas, although an aid to the Chinese defenders, piled new suffering on Chinese civilians.

Prices Are Steady Farmers' Market

Prices on the Peterborough market Saturday were steady, with only slight changes from the previous week. Eggs were 23 to 25 cents, butter 25 to 30 cents, broiler chickens 28 to 30 cents, and the older fowl 20 to 22 cents. Several growers had a supply of strawberries at 30 cents the large box and 15 cents for the small size. Flower and vegetable plants were two boxes for twenty-five cents, and the new vegetables, spinach, lettuce, onions, were the same prices as a week ago.

Rebels Battering At Rich Port

HENDAYE, June 13.— (AP). — Spanish insurgents, swiftly hurdling crumbling government defences, today battered into the outskirts of ancient Castellon De La Plana, one of the richest ports in Eastern Splain.

With Albocacer, 27 miles north of Castellon, abandoned by retreating government troops, the city became the outpost of defences for Valencial, 40 miles farther south southwest.

Scores of lesser towns fell before the insurgent sweep which, in less than three days, doubled the area of insurgent General Franco's wedge between Catalonia and Central Spain. Franco now holds about 70 miles of Mediterranean seaboard from the Ebro river delta south to Castellon.

Before his guns were brought up within range of the city of 40,000 population and fighting swirled in the orange groves on its plain most of the civil population was said to have been evacuated.

Tons of shells poured into government positions and insurgent bombing squadrons attacked the city.

The air raids at Castellon and elsewhere on the coast were said to have been ordered by Franco to enforce a blockade of government ports which his warships had not been able to establish.

Whitney May Get Job As Lecturer To Sing Sing Pals

Ossing, N.Y. June 13—(AP). SING SING Prison, where huge barriers are erected to keep guests from straying, is contemplating adding travelogues as part of its curriculum — hoping, perhaps the inmates will not take the lesson literally. Plans for travel lectures were made known today, with Richard Whitney, whose pay has been trebled—to 15 cents a day— as one of the lecturers. Illustrated slides will be used to depict the beauties of other climes.

Godbout Again Leads Quebec Liberals

QUEBEC, June 13.—(CP).— His mandate of party leadership renewed, Adelard Godbout, former premier and head of Quebec Liberals for two years, started to-day direction of a campaign to "raise the head of the Liberal party of the province."

The 45-year-old agriculturist who called himself a "humble but faithful Liberal soldier" was unanimously confirmed in the Liberal leadership by the party's provincial convention which concluded here Saturday.

Godbout first took over the reins of leadership in 1936 after the resignation of Premier L. A. Taschereau. Agriculture Minister in the Taschereau government, the one-time farm-school teacher led the last Liberal government of the province and fell with it in the 1936 general election two months after he became premier.

Before the convention selected Godbout to lead the party again it outlined a program whose direction he was given: It included approval of a vote for Quebec women in provincial elections, and abolition of the Legislative Council, the province's Upper House.

Edouard Lacroix, Liberal member of parliament for Beauce county, who had announced more than a week ago he was to be a candidate for the provincial party's leadership, did not file a nomination at the convention.

He declared in a statement to newspapermen, "I could not commit myself to support the successful candidate, as the convention would have had me do."

Windsor Youth Held For Attacking Girls

WINDSOR, Ont., June 13—(CP)—Melvin Powell, 20, Windsor, arrested Sunday in connection with an assault on two nine-year-old Windsor girls on a secluded Detroit River beach late Saturday, was remanded eight days in county court today on two charges of assault occasioning bodily harm. He was not asked to enter a plea.

Both children, Frances Super who is confined to hospital, and Ellen Mekkonen, told police they were struck on the dead with a stick by a man who enticed them along the beach. He did not molest them otherwise, they said.

Following his arrest, Powell, native of St. Thomas and married, was reported to have told police he lost his balance, rolled down the bank and knocked down one of the girls. He said he then became frightened and fled.

Blood flowing from two deep gashes in her head, Frances was found stumbling along the edge of the road and taken to hospital. X-rays revealed her injuries were confined to two lacerations and she was reported as "resting comfortably" today. Ellen suffered a scalp wound. She was found floundering in shallow water on the suburban Riverside Beach, just a few yards beyond the Windsor limits.

The youngsters told police they were playing on the beach when a man approached them on a bicycle. He asked them to help him pick stones for a fishbowl, they said, and when they bent down to do so, he struck them. Police found three cans on the beach, each partially filled with stones.

Ellen told police the attacker had a tattooed figure on his arm. Powell had such a distinguishing mark. Neither girl could say how many times she had been struck.

Hyrdo Auditor

tee before its adjournment Premier Hepburn had ordered the special report be taken from Hydro files, replied "Yes."

"Why did you take nearly a year to make up your mind that these clauses in the auditor's report were so unsound and unfair they had to be taken out quickly?" Mr. Macaulay asked the witness.

"Because when Mr. Flynn from my office went in to examine the books again in view that the charges made were unfair I cautioned him to be sure he was right, and if he found serious statements not warranted to have been made, we'd withdraw them."

"Did you ever get an official request from Hydro or the Government to withdraw the sections of the report?" Mr. Macaulay pressed.

"Yes," Mr. Pettit answered. "Dr. Hogg (Hydro Chairman Dr. T. H. Hogg) asked me to review the report. It was either on November 27 or December 16. I remember he was in my office with the board of directors of a company that uses my office occasionally."

Asked where "the idea" originated about recalling his "former reports and taking them out of circulation," Mr. Pettit said "It was mine, after long and serious consideration."

Dr. Hogg was 'quite agreeable" to recalling the report, witness said. The auditors' report was addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council and "that's the reason I sent a letter to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council asking permission to withdraw parts of the report."

"Do you think you did right taking these documents off the files of Hydro?" Mr. Macaulay asked.

Says Move Justified.

"I was justified under the circumstances," Mr. Pettit replied. "An attack had been made on one individual, and it was not justified. I found after an investigation of five months by a qualified person. Nothing was lost or destroyed."

Mr. Macaulay: "Would you call it an attack on one individual when you said that 68 adjusting entries for the main Hydro and 27 for the Northern Ontario properties showed a gross total of $71,517,943 wrong?"

Mr. Pettit: "There was a personal element in that statement which didn't come to me till later. I'd be very glad to go into that $71,000,000."

Mr. Macaulay: "There's nothing personal in $710,00,000 being missing over five months in the books of Hydro, is there?"

Mr. Pettit: "It couldn't be pointed at anyone else than the individual in charge. When I am through with the $71,000,000 explanation all the bosh and all the inferences in the newspapers about it will be largely taken out."

There had been some suggestion in the newspapers, Mr. Pettit continued "that by some sort of white magic the sections had been taken out and I had destroyed the report."

Of the report's deletions, given to the committee today, Mr. Macaulay asked: "At the time you took the axe to these reports, you had already been subpoenaed as a witness before this committee, had you not?"

"Yes, I expected to come before this committee and yet I deleted these paragraphs."

Says Trist has Left.

Mr. Pettit admitted under questioning that a Mr. Twist, who prepared the auditor's report in which deletions later were made, had left his employ since the committee inquiry opened. He "did not know" if Mr. Trist had admitted he was wrong.

At the suggestion of Mr. Macaulay, an order was issued and Mr. Trist will be subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

In 1935 and 1936, Mr. Pettit said, he had favored a change in Hydro's system of sending municipalities a "13th bill" to adjust power cost for the year but the commission had preferred the old system.

Questioned by W. A. Baird, conservative member for Toronto High Park, Mr. Pettit said Dr. Hogg and Mr. Pierdon knew about the report being changed and Murray McCrimmon, former hydro comptroller, "had found out about it in some manner."

Six copies of the report had been made and all of them had been amended, he said. If the change had not been made the report would have stood in the hydro records "for all time" and probably never would have been corrected. He said that was the reason it was decided to withdraw the report and amend it.

Mr. Baird suggested that removal and correction of the reports was more than "mere coincidence" after the committee was formed.

"I knew the matter would come up," Mr. Pettit replied.

Dr. Hogg had suggested the report be reviewed and if found untrue be amended or withdrawn. "It was a request as man to man," Mr. Pettit said in reply to a question by Mr. Baird.

Investigated All Phases

A number of statements made had turned out not to be fact, witness continued. He had not investigated all phases but had relied on the report of his accountant when he approved the original report.

Attorney-General Conant questioned Mr. Pettit on the evidence of Mr. McCrimmon that the accounts showed a difference of $71,000,000.

Sixty per cent. of the amount was composed of one transfer from the prepaid account to the regular account by reason of the new system agreed upon, Mr. Pettit said.

One item of $100,175 concerned bond interest on Nov. 1, he emphasized. "Mr. Trist found it was actually received on Oct. 31 and that caused a recalculation."

"Nearly $40,000,000 of them."

Asked "how the balance arises," Mr. Pettit said "they are in the category of removing items from the repayments account as arranged in the plan of rehandling them."

"Because the government had taken $40,000,000 from Hydro?" interjected Mr. Macaulay.

"No. They had already paid."

"In other words," George H. Challies, (Cons.-Grenville Dundas), asked "the assets of Hydro are down just that much?"

"I can't say as to that" Mr. Pettit replied.

Over objections from Mr. Macaulay, Major Clark read a statement from Mr. Pierdon, already entered as an exhibit, which explained, Major Clark said, how the "missing $71,000,000 was accounted for."

Just Bookkeeping.

The statement purported to show the matter of $71,000,000 alleged to have been an error merely was a question of bookkeeping.

Provincial repayments took $41,-922,000, it said. Bookkeeping between the Northern Ontario system and Hydro took another $1,080,000; Northern Ontario properties $1,833,000; bond interest $7,734,000; adjusting entries $13,000,000; internal charges $3,066,000; re-allocation of bond interest $1,069,000; 56 minor items ranging from one cent to a total of $263,000.

"Its all a matter of bookkeeping," Major Clark said. "There was no loss or profit to the Hydro involved. It was simply a matter of properly setting up the books to get a clear picture of the Hydro set-up."

"The $41,000,000 was a loss when it was paid to the province," Mr. Macaulay protested.

"It was money owed by the Hydro to the province," Mr. Pettit said.

Some Till Tapping?

"In 1935 and 1936 the Hydro till was tapped——" Mr. Macaulay began when he was interrupted by Mr. Clark.

"The Hydro till was not tapped," Mr. Clark shouted. "It wasn't tapping any Hydro till at all. You're making statements like that for the newspapers."

Heated interchanges developed over refunding to the province of some $38,000,000 by the Hydro Commission to the government when Mr. Macaulay questioned Mr. Pettit on this phase of the commission's activities.

The Conservative House leader asked what bonds or other liabilities of Hydro the commission was obligated to pay the government during the years 1934 to 1936. Mr. Pettit answered there were no repayments due in 1934 and 1936, but that $8,000,-000 was due in 1935.

"Then it boils down to this," Mr. Macaulay said. "The government had $8,000,000 coming for that period but that they tapped the Hydro for $40,000,000. What have you say about that statement?"

"They did not pay $40,000,000 in the period of 1935-36," said Mr. Pettit, who could not say how much was paid until he saw the commission ledgers."

Means Drop In Reserves.

Questioned by L. M. Frost (Cons., Victoria), Mr. Pettit said he was not sure whether the repayment had come out of sinking fund or reserve accounts. He admitted it would reduce the commission's reserves.

Later Mr. Pettit recalled the repayment had been made by refinancing. The money had been borrowed, at a lower rate of interest.

Mr. Clark read a statement which set out that of repayment of $38,-000,000 by the commission to the government, $8,000,000 had been taken from the sinking fund; $20,000,000 had come from two bond issues, and $10,000,000 from a short-term bank loan.

Mr. Macaulay described as "window dressing" a refunding loan floated by Hydro which reduced interest rates from five to 3½ per cent. The province could borrow the money at the same rate, he said, "but this made the gross debt of the province look better."

Britain Wants Canada's Wheat

LONDON, June 13.—(CP Cable) Great Britain was reported today to be angling for considerable wheat purchases from Canada while the Central European and Mediterranean countries appeared faced with disastrous crop failures.

Good rains, following the early summer drought, have caused a revival of British crop prospects but Canada's granaries are held to be the likeliest source of imports.

Hardest hit by the drought were the Mediterranean countries, particularly Italy, where the government banned flour exports and decreed 20 per cent. adulteration of bread with maize-rize, or leguminous flour.

An official statement published in Berlin said the Reich's crop would be a little below normal and that the different between domestic production and needs had been covered by imports.

Serious effects of drought have been felt also in Greece and Portugal. France expect a surplus of about 10,250,000 bushels and the prospects of Russia's crop are considered fair.

Auto Impounded By Magistrate For Three Months

For the first time the new law in regard to the impounding of automobiles involved in drunken driving convictions was invoked in Peterboough on Saturday when Magistrate E. A. Gee, after finding James Heffernan guilty of having been drunk in charge of a car on Lock Street on the night of June 8, ordered the motor vehicle to be impounded for three months.

Heffernan, a 45-year-old farmer, living five miles from the city, was sentenced to ten days' imprisonment.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge, but Magistrate Gee accepted the evidence of two police officers that he had been drunk on the night in question.

Police Constable Leo Murphy testified to arresting Heffernan. He said thet man was endeavoring to start his car when he arrived and he was in a "highly intoxicated condition." Heffernan's speech was thick and he staggered badly when walking from his own to the police car.

"Was that the man's condition, or is that something you have learned by heart," interrupted Magistrate Gee.

"It's nothing I have learned by heart, Your Worship," replied the officer. "This is the first time I have ever given evidence against a prisoner.

Police Sergeant John Thompson said that Heffernan was very drunk when he was brought into the station.

Drunkest in Months.

"There is no doubt in your mind?" asked the Magistrate.

"None whatever. With the exception of those who had to be carried in, he was the drunkest man that has been brought into the police station in months," the witness replied.

Heffernan, giving evidence in his behalf, said that he had had two glasses of beer in the morning and three more in the beverage room of the Montreal House in the evening. He had had no supper and the only dinner he had had that day was a lunch consisting of a few cakes.

"I was as sober as I am now," he told the court, adding that he had a stiff leg which interfered with his walking at times. He said he had stalled his car on the way home by flooding the engine.

Magistrate Gee registered a conviction, accepting the testimony of the officers as to Heffernan's condition. He inflicted a jail sentence of ten days, and ordered the car impounded. At the same time he informed Heffernan that if he could secure a bond satisfactory to the authorities that he would not drive the machine himself, it might be arranged that it be turned over to the man's family.

Heffernan was not represented by counsel. The prosecution was conducted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

With The Boy Scouts

The first cub jamboree in the Peterborough district will be held on Saturday next in the exhibition grounds. Every mother, father, aunt, uncle, grandmother and grandfather is cordially invited to attend. Every Cub mother and dad should make it his or her business to attend.

No Cub will be allowed to leave the grounds after entering, in order to eliminate any possibility of accidents while crossing the highway. Senior Scouts and Rovers are asked to be on hand to assist controlling the groups. The ladies of the mothers' auxiliaries are having ice cream, soft drinks, hot dogs, on the grounds so that people will be able to get refreshments without travelling away. The St. John Ambulance Brigade will be ready for any emergency. The game starts at 2 p.m. sharp, supper at 5 p.m., Red Flower at 6.30. Let us all go and see what these youngsters can do.

We are pleased to report that officers from the Salvation Army have been attached to the St. John's Scout group for supplementary training. We wish them happy hunting and good scouting.

Attention all officers: All Scout and Cub officers are invited to attend the meeting of the local association executive on Wednesday next, when Field Secretary Edgar Jones and Jack Blow of the Dominion Training Staff will be present to give short talks on campings. This should be of interest to all officers.

For the past few weeks the troop at St. George's have been practicing Bridge Building and have constructed a monkey bridge practically the full length of the church. All boys are asked to bring a notebook and pencil with them next week.

Many boys passed tests at the council rock last week when the pack met at All Saints. Bob Adams told the time; Ray Kearns did skipping; Stan Alexander, Norman Harris, Jim Webb, and Ray Kearns, all passed hopping; Walter wheeler came through with his first aid. Allan Lacy did the book balancing stunt.

Mr. Frost, who is training as A.C.M. for the Salvation Army, was a visitor to the pack.

All members o fthe White Six are asked to meet at Okela Brooks' home at 7 p.m. tonight. New games were introduced last Friday and all Cubs are asked to turn out next week for complete instruction for Saturday.

During Red Flower at St. John's, the Sixers' council put on a stunt in preperation for parents' night and the Cub jamboree. A good turnout was present. On Sunday the Cubs joined the Scouts and Rovers for a group church parade.

It is hoped all parents will be able to let their boy attend. Letters have been sent out.

Splendid Recital By Piano Pupils

A splendid and appreciative appreciative audience gathered in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. on Friday evening to hear a Recital by the piano pupils of Agnes Logan Green.

The softly shaded lights and the baskets of iris and peonies around the room made a very fine setting for the youthful artists as they appeared on the program.

The Recital was a splendid exhibition of memory work, technical skill, and good, solid foundation in the art of music; the result of painstaking teaching and diligent practise.

It was a varied and well chosen program from the works of Handel and Bach, Mozart and Beethoven to present day composers such as Palmgren and Godowsky. Every composition was played with an interpretation of the moods of the composer, making each number a very individual presentation which reflected the artistic talent of the teacher.

It would be hard to discriminate in such a well prepared program but the brilliant playing of "German Dance" (Mozart) and "Valse in in E Minor" (Chopin) by Mildred McIntyre; the very fine interpretation of the "Adagio" from "Moonlight Sonata" (Beethoven) and "Polonaise in A Major" (Chopin) by Paddy Lampman, and "Theme and Variations" (Mozart) by Eleanor Taylor, perhaps might be especially mentioned, as might also the very fine team work in the duetts played by Paddy and Cubby Lampman.

The program was as follows: (a) Soldiers' March (Schumann) (B) Minuet (Bach), Shirley Fiske; (a) Courtly Dance (Bernard Johnston) Marjorie Fisk; (a) Sarabande (Bach) (b) To A Wild Rose (MacDowell) (c) Waltz (Schumann), Catherine Turner; (a) The Irish Boy (Dunhill) (b) Sarabande (Handel) (c) Anitra's Dance (Grieg), Cubby Lampman; (a) Gavotte (Martini) (b) Berceuse (Grieg) (c) Theme and Variations (Mozart) Eleanor Taylor; (a) Bourree (Bach) (b) Valse (Kirchner), Thelma Zavitz; (a) German Dance (Mozart) (b) The Moon of Omar (Lucas) (c) Valse in E minor (Chopin), Mildred McIntyre; (a) Minuet from Sonata in D major (Beethoven) (b) Spring Song (Mendelssohn), Evelyne Martin; (a) Wand'ring (Schubert) (b) The First Primrose (Grieg) (c) Pastheen Fionn (Irish Air) (d) Polka (Cxerny), Cubby and Paddy Lampman; Waltz in A flat (Brahms) (b) Govatte (Gluck-Brahms), Frances MacPherson; (a) May Night (Palmgren) (b) Alt Wien (Godowsky), Joan Ottewell; (a) Cordova (from "Nights in Spain") (Albeniz), Thelma Harris; (a) Adagio from "Pathetique" Sonata (Beethoven) (b) Mortify us by Thy grace (Bach-Rummel), Tom Allen; (a) Adagio from "Moonlight Sonata" (Beethoven) (b) Polonaise in A major (Chopin), Paddy Lampman.

Brtiain To Ignore Jap Naval Orders

SHANGHAI, June 13 (CP-Havas). —British quarters today said Great Britain would disregard Japanese demands that British naval vessels be withdrawn from the Upper Yangtse River in view of the hostilities now underway in the zone.

These sources said no British gunboats had received orders to change their positions on the Yangtse between Wuhu and Hukow. On the contrary, gunboats now at Wuhu and Kiukiang have been ordered to remain at these points, it was added.

Rear-Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, is reported to have rejected the Japanese demands and announced United States gunboats would maintain their patrol in this region of the river.

OBITUARY

MRS. ERNEST GERMYN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOWNEYVILLE, June 13.—The community here of North Emily was shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Ernest Germyn, at the age of 45, in Toronto on Tuesday. She had not been in the best of health for some time, and for the last five weeks has been in Toronto under the doctor's care. Deceased seemed to be gaining in health, and was about to return to her home when her death occurred.

Deceased was born at Burys Green, and received her education there. She was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sheehy, and was highly respected and loved by all who knew her, and her death came as a shock at so early an age. She was an Anglican in religion, and was confirmed in St. John's Anglican Church, Dunsford. On December 17, 1913, she was married to Ernest Germyn, and resided in North Emily ever since.

The funeral was held from the family residence on Thursday, and was largely attended. A service was held at the house, and later proceeded to St. John's Church, where Rev. Howard, rector, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. H. Wilkinson, pastor of the United Church, who delivered the sermon.

The pall-bearers were six nephews: Ted, Cyril and Ralph Sheehy of Burnt River, Cecil, George and Austin Sheehy of Dunsford.

Left to mourn the loss are her sorrowing husband; one daughter, Dorothy, and one son, Norman; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sheehy of Burnt River; four sisters: Mrs. Walter Breau (Vida) of Coboconk, Mrs. Wallace Jones (Teennie), Mrs. Alex. Wood (Alma) and Miss Nora Sheehy, all of Burnt River; three brothers: Archie of Dunsford, Elsie and Tugh of Burnt River. Interment was in the Dunsford Cemetery.

The regiment is at full strength with quite a number of enquiries from other young men. The annual camp will be held during the week of Sunday, June 26, and the regiment will leave Peterborough early Sunday.

Vancouver Papers Up

VANCOUVER, June 13.—(CP).—Effective this month, the subscription rates of Vancouver evening newspapers will be raised 15 cents to 75 cents a month.

Front page announcements in both the Daily Province and the Vancouver Sun attributed the increase to heavier operating costs both in newsprint and wages.

The papers said they were following a course already adopted by other North American papers.

A Great Speech

In a really great speech by the Minister of Justice when receiving an honorary degree at McGill University recently, he said: "Why should Canadians turn to those expedients adopted in other countries because of economic depression and moral bankruptcy?" That is the very reason why the Canadian people are getting restless and are beginning to look for a tightening up of democracy in Canada and for more power for the Central Government. The present loose, laissey-far manner of conducting things is not a success in these strenuous times. What we need is for democracy to itself appoint a head who will be given power to regulate and control and to make all things go right for all instead of being reduced as we are to a sort of whirlpool which casts into outer darkness the less fortunate and the less capable. Either that or the seizure of all property, all money, all power and all liberty by a few and the total abolition of democracy, as in Russia. PERTINAX.

Dismiss Charge Against Youth

A charge against an eighteen-year-old North Monaghan youth of making or causing to be circulated obscene pictures, intended to corrupt morals, was dismissed by Magistrate Campbell in a private session of the police court this morning, on the ground that there was no evidence to show that the accused had caused the pictures to be circulated.

The pencil sketches had however got into the hands of a fifteen-year-old girl and then into possession of the girl's mother and as a result the charge was laid.

A sixteen-year-old boy friend of the accused, called by the crown, said that he himself had drawn one of the pictures and the accused the other and he, the witness, had taken them over to the girl's home where the girl had asked to see them.

In the box the accused admitted drawing one of the pictures but said that he had had nothing to do with sending it over to the girl.

Magistrate Campbell said the evidence failed to justify a conviction, particularly as regards the circulation of the pictures. He however gave the accused a severe verbal dressing down for drawing such a disgusting picture and warned him to be careful in the future. "You were lucky this time," he told the youth.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for the accused while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted.

Hungarian Girl Travelled To City To Wed

A romance that began more than ten years ago in far away Hungary, reached its climax in Peterborough on Saturday when Rose Kovacs of Satraljauihey married Gabriel Bertok Sherbrooke street shoemaker.

It was nine years ago that Gabriel left Budapest to come to Canada, land of golden opportunity. He left behind him a little girl, Rose Kovacs, whose last name is pronounced Ko-vatch. For more than seven years they did not correspond with each other, and in those seven years Rose gre wup. A year and a half ago the two began to write and just a few months ago she promised to come to Canada and marry Gabriel.

Gabriel had to post a bond of $250 with the government that Rose might enter the country. If they were married within thirty days after her entry the money would be returned to him. The couple broadcast messages to each other by short wave nearly every week until she left Budapest for Peterborough.

On Saturday they were married at All Saints' Anglican church by Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson. A large number of guests and of the curious saw the ceremony.

They provide my family with $10,000 if I should die, and will pay me an income of $100 a month if I should become totally disabled through sickness or accident. I am going to put on additional insurance, so that if I live to retirement age, as I hope to do, my wife and I will be able to live in reasonable comfort and independence."

Started Out As a Juror

A farmer who lives near Ildertown in Middlesex county will have something about which to talk when he gets home; that is if he cares to do any talking.

When he drove off toward London he was bent on a serious errand for he was to sit on the jury and see that justice was done to those who appeared at the Middlesex session of the peace. When it came time to call the roll of jurors he was absent and a little while later it was announced he was in the cells himself as he had been taken in for driving while drunk.

Instead of sitting in judgment on others this Ilderton man appeared in court and heard the magistrate announce he would have to spend the next seven days in jail.

Then he heard more because the magistrate kept on talking. The "more" he heard was to the effect that his car would be impounded for a period of three months. That is, it would be seized and the owner would be deprived of its use for that period. That law had just come into effect and the would-be juror was the first to come under its ruling in London. At the end of seven days he will be able to go home, but he cannot use his car until the 10th of September.

Turn On The Light

It is not often that the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition at Ottawa personally participate in a debate where each charges the other with political corruption in the ranks. Mr. Bennett has within recent days persistently challenged Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, regarding conditions in his constituency at Kingston, and Mr. Rogers in turn has presented what appeared to be adequate and reasonable explanation of all matters which have been under question.

Then there came Mr. Bennett's charge that relief expenditures were being made with political reasons and the Prime Minister then read into the proceedings a letter written in 1935 by the Conservative organizer in Manitoba, Ralph Webb, to Hon. R. B. Bennett, Hon. J. E. Lawson, Hon. R. J. Manion and Hon. Wesley Gordon, dealing with the election outlook and suggesting how certain appropriations for road building purposes would have a beneficial effect on the outlook for the party. As far as reading the material indicates there is nothing to show that the expenditure was actually made, although there will undoubtedly be more information on that point before the session of the House is concluded.

The Examiner believes the people of this Dominion would much prefer to believe that we have a standard of honesty in the transaction of public business which does not lend itself to the furthering of the schemes and plans of those who like to win votes for a party by spending money which does not belong to the party but to all the people of the Dominion.

It would be comforting indeed if it were possible to dismiss all this talk as something which reflected only the ambitions of some junior politicians in certain ridings, but that is not so readily done when we find the basis of argument between our Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition to be nothing short of that miserable thing—political corruption. And that word "corruption" was the one which was used in the Ottawa debate.

This country has been passing through serious enough times for several years; going through a period when a good many of our folk have been driven to the point where they have had to rely on the public purse for aid. It has been a season when one section of that community has had to help the other, and an experience of that sort should have the effect of impressing those who spend public money with the fact that their responsibility is indeed great.

As things stand at the moment the leaders at Ottawa have either said too much or too little. The charges which they make should be either proved beyond question or withdrawn. The issue at stake is actually our national honesty. Now that the thing has been brought so prominently to the front there is only one thing to do, and that is see it through.

Will Make No Change

The Special Committee on Electoral Matters at Ottawa plans to have this broad Dominion on one time on one day of the year, and that one day is the date of the general. There is no indication of a desire to change clocks, but the feeling is that people in Western Canada should not go ahead with their voting in the later hours of the day knowing how the vote had gone in the Eastern section of the Dominion. They argue it is likely to have an effect on the vote. So election returns will not be released until all the voting has been done.

That comes about this way: There are five time zones in the Dominion and there is a difference of four hours between the time in the Maritimes and in British Columbia. That is, when it is noon in Vancouver it is four o'clock in the afternoon at Halifax.

We doubt whether there is much in the argument that people in the West hearing how the voting has been going in the East would swing their vote to the with the party which was leading in the East. The average indiyidual knows how he is going to vote, and that decision is not likely to be changed should a few incomplete returns arrive showing how the voting has been going elsewhere. If a Conservative in Vancouver heard his party was not doing any too well in the voting in the East he would not be inclined to desert in such an hour; He would be more likely to make certain he went out and registered his vote as he had intended to in the first place. And a voter of any particular political faith would feel much the same about it. The changed regulations may result in slowing up the giving out of election returns, but we do not believe they will have the least effect on the general vote.

Spending More Money

In the year 1918 Toronto paid $342,635 for the maintenance of its parks, while in 1937 the expenditure was $983,740, and that is not far removed from being a million dollars. The explanation is the addition of 45 new playgrounds. Comparing those two years shows plainly the trend of the times. Between 1918 and 1937 Toronto has been committed to the following increased equipment:

45 more equipped playgrounds.
41 more baseball fields.
5 more cricket fields.
16 more football fields.
1 more lacrosse field.
7 more horseshoe pitches.
219 more tennis courts.
30 more bowling greens.
42 more skating rinks.
32 more hockey rinks.
10 more toboggan slides.
4 more bathing stations.
43 more field houses.
104 more picnic areas.

It is likely that the change from horse to auto travel has its place in the background of these changes. Keeping the children off the streets is one reason why they provide more playgrounds and more picnic places and more of everything. And there is a good deal of this expenditure which provides recreational facilities for the grown and adult population. The increase in cost may be large, but for the most part we believe it is a wise expenditure of money.

Where Interest Lies

It seems that each time there is a meeting of the Toronto Board of Education there is more reference made to a bill of $6.50 submitted by a young man who had his trousers torn in one of the schools by brushing against a radiator. Some of the trustees are growing weary of it. E. E. Woollon for instance said the papers were starting to poke fun at the thing and he was of the belief it was too bad the papers could not "give publicity to the constructive things which the Board does."

It might be better if there were more of that done, but it is not always possible. One can understand that a member of the Board of Education in Toronto would like to be pictured as delving into heavy matters and waging a constant warfare in the interests of good and sound education. That would indeed be much better than having to talk about a rip in a pair of trousers.

But it works that way in other places. The other evening there was not a quorum in the House of Commons at Ottawa. There were just 17 members present and 20 should have attended, so the session closed. It is possible something quite useful would have engaged the attention of the members had they been present. It might even have come under the general classification of constructive to which Mr. Wollon referred. A day later there was a clash between the political leaders on the floor of the House on the old issue of patronage. Strong words were used and feeling ran deep. At once the copy started coming from Ottawa, and the editors and printers in newspaper offices searched about for large type for headings.

A flare-up like that was news, and Toronto Board of Education and its torn trousers come under about the same classification.

He Discusses a Great Issue

In the weekly Magazine Section of the Christian Science Monitor, published in Boston, the first article is by Alfred Edwards, M.P., an Englishman who has been travelling and lecturing in United States. The heading of this is "Why Not a London-Washington Axis?" In developing his idea and answering his own question Mr. Edwards makes it plain that neither United States nor Britain wants any more territory, neither do they want to be kept in the position of having to constantly add to their armaments just because some other nation is doing so. He is also of the opinion that the making of armaments is something where the profiteers continually get in their fine work regardless of all the patriotic givings on the part of the people who assume tremendous financial burdens in the belief that there is no other way in which they can successfully defend their country. He quotes from the London Economist that 40 per cent. of national expenditure actually goes into armaments and 60 per cent. into the pockets of those interested in building and selling such equipment.

Proceeding with his idea of an understanding between United States and Britain on world policy Mr. Edwards says the English-speaking people are more wealthy than the rest of the world combined. In spite of unemployment United States is now taking her gold and burying it in the hills of the south and forgetting that she has it.

The naval strength of United States and Britain is greater than that of the world combined. The writer argues that any of the dictators of the world today would pay a great ransom if it were possible to separate the English-speaking people; that is, if he were able to find some issue which would set Britain and United States against each other.

The safety of the world would be made greater by having these nations drawn together, because together they would have the greatest accumulated producing power in the world. There are 22 varieties of raw material without which war cannot be waged, and of these Britain has an adequate supply of 18 and United States has 12. Japan has only 4 and no other country has more than 4. It is doubtful if Italy has an adequate supply of any of them. Mr. Edwards says unless Italy gets supplies from the outside world "she is no more a menace to peace than a Boy Scout patrol."

Mr. Edwards does not advocate that United States and Britain combined go forth to conquer the world. Far from it. He would have any combination of forces produce military and naval strength for the purpose of making it known that no bully nation would dare rise to the attack. He would go farther and utilize this strength to guarantee the safety and security of smaller nations.

Nor is that all. Mr. Edwards is certain if the world wants peace the thing can be had by paying for it, and Britain and United States should be prepared to pay the price for peace as they have to pay it for war. This way: He claims Japan could not possibly carry on a war in China if United States and Britain were selling to Japan the materials she needs for war. Italy would not have been able to make a move toward invading Ethiopia if the outside world had not provided the materials needed for that invasion. Both nations, Britain and United States, would lose money by refusing to sell war material and they should be prepared to accept that loss as their contribution to world peace and their own security. Mr. Edwards has dealt with one of the great questions of the world today— the practical unity of the English-speaking people.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A book week may be observed in Toronto in the fall. The bookies of course have their weeks when the race tracks are open.

The folk interested in the rebuilding of the Falls View bridge at Niagara Falls are acting as if they had never heard of Premier Hepburn.

Prembier Aberhart admits that the vote in Saskatchewan was disappointing. Not to a great many folk, Mr. Premier.

According to Mr. Bennett the game of politics is played in Kingston with all the old-time fervor despite the restraining influence of a university in the place.

Patronage according to Mr. Bennett, is laying the foundation for anarchy. If that be true the corner stone of anarchy should be well and truly laid by this time.

According to a Toronto paper living costs in the Queen City zoos have doubled for the taxpayers. But then the taxpayers do not have to live in the zoos unless they want too, surely.

One Liberal member says he was overlooked in the count the night the House adjourned for lack of a quorum. The excuse cannot very well be advanced that he was lost in the crowd.

With no Conservatives in the Saskatchewan Legislature the Federal party will at least not have to carry the burden of any mistakes made by that body.

HAPPY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Daniel owns his home, nor is it built of brick and stone, in fact it's very plain; it's not a show place for the town, and planners at the thing might frown, for it is one of frame.

¶ The carpets in this humble place, would hardly stand to win the race, if they were in a show; but every one belongs to Dan, and never can there come a man, to ask for what he'll owe.

¶ The furniture is far from new, but there's an easy chair or two, and cushions blue and pink; and when I settle in his chair, I find it very pleasant there, a happy place to sink.

¶ And Daniel never makes complaint, the kitchen range is old; but no one will come round his way, and start to take the stuff away, and say it must be sold.

¶ And Daniel's really not afraid, because he has his taxes paid, a humble happy gent; he says that he is glad each day, if needed he can rise and say—he doesn't own a cent.

Finding Where The Money Goes

THERE NOW

Mr. BENNETT: Exactly. I point that out to my hon. friend from I cannot think of his constituency.

Mr. BERTRAND (Laurier): It is Laurier a very nice name.

Mr. BENNETT: I assure my learned and hon. friend that he does great credit to it.

THE RIGHT WORD

Mr. BENNETT: I am sure the minister did not draft that. It is the first time I have ever seen salvation provided for by Act of Parliament. Had not the minister better say: "preserved"? "Extended and preserved" would be better than "extended and saved".

Mr. HOWE: If the chairman will make that change, it is all right with me.

The CHAIRMAN: The amendment is: that the word "saved" be deleted and the word "preserved" substituted therefore.

Mr. HOWE: "Preserved" as in strawberry jam.

Mr. BENNETT: Well, that is what it is intended for in some quarters.

COMPLIMENT!

Mr. BLAIR: Has this any connection with the dumping duty on oil?

Mr. KINLEY: Novia Scotia is still sane.

Mr. BENNETT: Now, I have been diverted from my theme. I was pointing out that the tariff board was considering this question.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver): Pour some oil on the troubled waters.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, but remember that the products of oil are highly inflammable. A spark sometimes ignites them, and even the vapour is a source of large quantities of power.

Mr. McIVOR: Louder.

Mr. BENNETT: Oh well, it is unimportant that my hon. friend should hear me.

Mr. McIVOR: I always like to hear the leader of the opposition because mostly he speaks sound common sense.

Louisburg—public guilding, $23,000.

Mr. CARDIN: In this case, at Louisburg, the population is 971.

Mr. BENNETT: How far along is that work?

Mr. CARDIN: The sum of $300 would be saved in rent in one case, and $200 in the other.

Mr. HEAPS: Do I understand that we are paying $500 per annum in rentals now in the town of Louisburg?

Mr. CARDIN: Yes.

Mr. HEAPS And to make that saving the Government is going to spend $23,000.

Mr. CARDIN: Yes.

◇ ◇ ◇

A TINY PLACE

North Hatley — pubilic building, $13,000

Mr. CARDIN: The contract has been awarded to Mr. J. A. Verret, of Sherbrooke, for the sum of $8,348.

Mr. BENNETT: Hatley has at least 25 residents.

An hon. MEMBER: With Summer visiters.

Item agreed to.

◇ ◇ ◇

PAY FOR THE MOVING

Rigaud — moving public building $20,000.

Mr. CARDIN: This amount is required for the expense of moving the post office building. The provincial government is building a bridge of Rigaud, and the bridge comes just to the point where the post office was standing.

Mr. BENNETT: The province would pay for moving, would it not?

Mr. CARDIN: We pay for moving our post office.

Mr. BENNETT: If their bridge takes away your post office, by expropriation, surely you are not going to pay for moving it, are you?

Mr. CARDIN: Well, it may not be a sound undertaking, but we have made it.

Mr. BENNETT: I understand you did that prior to the last provincial election.

Mr. CARDIN: Oh, it was done last year.

GUESTS OF THE QUEEN.

(London Observer)

EIGHTY unemployed in the Clyde Valley, each accompanied by a relative, are to have a day at the Empire Exhibition as the guests of Queen Elizabeth.

This is the happy sequel to the visit paid on May 3 to 4 by the King and Queen to community centres in Paisley and Lanarkshire.

Queen Elizabeth has written to Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton, the commissioner for the special areas in Scotland, enclosing her gift of £40, and expressing admiration for the work she saw being carried on in each district, and it is her wish that 20 unemployed members from each of the four centres should, along with their friends, be her guests.

A FORLORN HOPE.

(Oshawa Times)

QUESTIONED by a newspaperman just recently a spokesman for the girl members of the Toronto Flying Club is reported to have said that they would not join combatant forces in the case of war. "We want nothing of war" is how the girls are reported to have defined their position.

We suppose that the women of Belgium just prior to August 1914 would have answered the same way if they had been questioned regarding their willingness to participate in war. The trouble is that Italy's invading army did not stop to ask questions of the Ethiopians, the Japanese did not consider the comfort or mental attitude of the Chinese, and neither will a fleet of bombing planes over Toronto ask the girl members of the Toronto Flying Club as to their willingness to accept a few bombs.

• Senate Cannot Settle Railways

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR.—WITH ALL due respect to the Senate Committee who are at present inquiring into our railway situation, I, personally, am of the opinion that they will be as far ahead when they have finished as the day they started, for two reasons. First, the Senate can only suggest, and secondly, the members are just as divided in their opinion as the poles are far apart.

As one who has studied the question over a period of years, even before the days of the iniquitous take-over of the Canadian Northern, etc., I find myself asking the question, why all this ballyhoo, when nothing can possibly come out of it?

When I was a child I thought as a child, and spoke as a child, but, when I became a man I put away childish things, and in accordance, I discount the present Senate committee inquiry entirely, as I have done many of the addresses and other forms of propaganda which have been inflicted. How much longer will we allow our intelligence to be insulted?

Co-operation was supposed to be the panacea. Was it? You might as well imagine the fox and hound co-operating, as ask these two competing railways to co-operate. They both have their juicy plums, which they are anxious to hold on to, and the human element being as it is, neither will give way. Can you blame them?

Unification is now talked of as the road to glory. Is it? Would it not be better for us to admit, once for all, that there is not enough room in Canada at the present time, with its stinted population, for two railway systems that would do justice to a country three times the size from a population point of view? Members of the Senate committee know it as well as the man in the street, but inasmuch as some of them are responsible for the present crushing load of railway debt that we are carrying, they are endeavoring, apparently, to ease their own consciences, but are by no means pulling the wool over the eyes of those that have to pay the bill, and, in the final analysis, will have to say as to what will be done—the general public.

In my opinion we have fooled ourselves, and have been fooled long enough, by those who in the first case saddled us with debt and now purport to be the judges as to what is best to be done with the railways and attendant problems which they themselves were entirely responsible for creating.

The Canadian Pacific has served the country more or less faithfully for fifty years, and the Canadian National has become a most serious competitor for business. The latter was loaded far below the line of safety with debt from its inception, which fact Canada knows to its sorrow, and from which we can never escape, and the former is responsible to shareholders in all parts of the world. What are we to do?

Without doubt we are on the horns of a dilemma, faced with either of the following: One, reduce the capitalization of the Canadian National to a sane and reasonable figure commensurate with its true value, and let the ruinous competition go on. Two, absorb the Canadian Pacific, or vice-versa. Three, put into effect the unification plan as suggested by Sir Edward Beatty. Which will you accept, Mr. Canadian?

The Senate can only suggest a solution to Parliament. They have no power as regards putting one into effect, and so long as Parliaments are dependent upon votes to retain power they are going to take the line of least resistance and more or less cater to the voting mass, regardless of the consequences.

It needs something greater than Senate or other inquiries if this vital question is to be settled. It needs public opinion of the highest order—a public opinion that will be felt from one end of Canada to the other, a public opinion based on the true facts of the case, many of which remain hidden. Then and only then, will our railway problem become a thing of the past.

T. H. CARVETH.

• Sitting Down In Our Post Office

(From Debate in Senate)

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: . . . However, the unemployment situation is indeed grave. The Minister uses the least shocking language that he can; he says, "There is unemployment still with us." Yes, it is with us with a vengeance. It is with us everywhere. For example, it is with us in Vancouver — very closely with us. The unemployed have taken forcible possession of Federal property there. And the Government is bending its neck and yielding to a sitdown strike at the hands of the unemployed, and has been for days, if not weeks. I suppose that if unemployment took possesion of this building the Government would take the stand it is taking in Vancouver — that it is for the municipal authority to clear the Government's property. That, I suppose, would be the measure of its masculinity and of its fidelity to its sacred trust of administration.

Hon. Mr. DANDURAND: I think my right honorable friend, is exaggerating.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: Not when I say property is being occupied by force, against our will. Is that an exaggeration?

Hon. Mr. DANDURAND: I do not know exactly what is occurring in Vancouver, but it is some distance from this Chamber.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: But it is our property. I do not know that we can ignore the City of Vancouver because it is thousands of miles away. British Columbia is just as much a part of Canada as Ontario. The post office at Vancouver is a post office of the people of Canada, and the Government is the trustee of that building—

Some Hon. SENATORS: Hear, hear.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: — yet it sits outside while the post office is occupied by the unemployed, whom the leader of the Government tells us are still with us. They are with us, and amongst us, and they are ejecting us while we have a supine Government in office. The situation is humiliating. We have sympathy with the unemployed, but if there is one thing we cannot tolerate it is sit-down practices anywhere in Canada.

Some Hon. SENATORS: Hear, hear.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: Such a thing as defiance of the Government of Canada in the property of the Government of Canada is something awful for Canadians to contemplate.

• Eskimos Have Good Teeth

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

AT A CONFERENCE of dentists in Montreal the other day a professor of that science at Columbus University who had worked for 15 years in the Labrador and Alaska regions, stated that the Eskimos have the most perfect teeth in the world. It is a rare thing to find an Eskimo who has not the full number of 32, and their dental condition is due to the fact that they chiefly subsist on hard meats. If an Eskimo develops teeth trouble it is invariably due to associating too much with white men and acquiring a liking for the white men's soft foods, including bread and sugar.

Eskimos do not need tooth pastes. And according to observation by explorers and hunters they do not need Baths. Some say: the Eskimos never go in the water unless chance tips over their kyaks. Mr. Steffanson, who knows the Eskimos better than anyone else, asserts they go in the water for a swim. Be that as it may, they never go in the water for the avowed purpose of having a bath. The water where they live is invariably too cold. They are a very healthy race, however, so long as they adhere to their own ways of living, and in these two respects — no teeth cleaning and no bathing — they go contrary to cherished principles of white men's hygiene. The only Eskimos with poor teeth are found among old women whose molars have been worn down by many years of chewing leather to make it pliable.

There is a lesson in this for parents. Give your children plenty of hard, chewy foods and discourage them from taking too much food that can be swallowed easily and from eating too much starchy and sugary articles of diet.

JARGON FOR LAW.

(Winnipeg Tribe)

HON. ERNEST LAPOINTE, Minister of Justice, loves his mother tongue, which is French. He guards its niceties, he is jealous of its supple grace. For good English he has an equally fine taste if not a passionate adoration. Therefore he must have winced when, in his own bill to amend the Criminal Code, he came upon this jargon:

For wilfully setting fire to any crop, wood, forest, coppice, plantation, heath, gorse, furze or fern . . .

It may be taken for granted that Mr. Lapointe did not himself pen this attempted catalogue of vegetation in the style which Francois Rabelais succeeded in making ridiculous four hunrded years ago.

DOING A KINDLY DEED.

(Vancouver Province)

AN ELDERLY woman, her humble home threatened with forfeiture in an impending civic tax sale, was hurrying to the city hall with the treasured sum to save her home. It was only $62.24, but it represented skimpings and savings and denials.

Outside the city hall a thug in waiting snatched her purse and ran. It meant the loss of her home unless the money could be quickly replaced.

Against the pitilessness of the ruffian who did this heartless deed place the compassionate act of the city hall employes. Learning of the contemptible act and of its dire possibilities, they took up a collection to meet the amount, and sent the surprised woman a civic tax receipt for her overdue taxes.

STORY OF DROWNING.

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

THE STORY of a drowning in Little Long Lac is that one man, unable to swim, clung to an overturned boat and was able to reach shore while his companion, a good swimmer, set out to swim to shore and failed to reach it. There have been many similar instances. A knowledge of how to swim is valuable and, no doubt, has enabled many to save themselves but, quite frequently, it has prompted people to take chances which have in the end proved fatal. Difficulty would be in setting any rule for guidance as between holding to an overturned craft and attempting to swim. Circumstances, which are different, govern in each case.

TASTE OF THEIR OWN.

(Brantford Expositor)

NOT LONG ago two young society men of London were convicted of brutally assaulting and robbing a jeweller who had come to a hotel room to show them some valuable gems. Flogging was included in their sentences and certain people raised a hubbub over that fact. Now a well-known paper, as the result of a poll, announces that the verdict was two to one in favor of the "cat" on the basis of giving the pair a taste of their medicine.

Experts Puzzled By Salmon Runs

NANAIMO, B.C., June 13 (CP) A mystery of the Pacific—the fact that large runs of pink salmon occur in a given district only every second year—engrossed British Columbia biologists to-day as another salmon-fishing season approached.

To make matters more complicated, the pink salmon spawns in northern British Columbia streams in even-numbered years such as 1936, and selects southern streams in odd-numbered years like 1935.

As an example of the hardship the intermittent runs work on fishermen, A. L. Pritchard of the Pacific Biological Station here instances Masset Inlet in the Queen Charlotte Islands, where at least 4,000,000 pinks were taken in 1930 and not one in the previous year.

All attempts of biologists to establish runs in "off" years have met with failure.

In two separate experiments nearly 2,000,000 marked pink fry were released in Queen Charlotte Island streams. As far as is known only one fish returned the first year, and six when the next batch was due.

The first year 40 were taken in other areas, but none in the following period.

Travelled 3,000 Miles For Her Wedding

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"O thriftlessness of dreams and guess!
O wisdom which is foolishness!
Why idly seek from outward things
The answer inward silence brings?"
—Whittier.

Dear Friends:

This is for "Lonely," who is crippled with sickness, and suffers loneliness into the bargain. Now it is bad enough to be sick, but a sort of half sickness, when you cannot get around as well as you used to do, that is depressing, for you are more or less confined within four walls.

And to be lonely into the bargain, not to be able to go and mingle with our kind, and when they are too busy to see more of us, it does get us down somehow or other. One gets tired of reading, tired of sitting or lying around, tired of everything, so that we really need the stimulation which friends coming in alone will give.

Just as we use up all the other things in life, so also do we use up our thoughts. We need new ones to replace the old, we need to know what the other fellow is doing, either good or bad, to change the current.

Is there nothing you would like to study, "Lonely"? Maybe this is your chance, and instead of being rebellious, as we all get at times when we are laid aside, examine your thoughts and see if there is no one thing you have been longing to find out about, and if there is, then your loneliness is over.

You will be so busy, so interested, that the time will fly. And while you are doing this, your mind will be taken away from your sickness also, so that without the resentment you naturally feel, they will get a better chance to heal.

Oh, yes, I really do think resentment holds us back from being healed, for many times in my life it has held me back. We cannot help comparing our lot with the lot of others. We cannot help but feel that the cards are in a measure stacked against us, and our minds are wondering why.

Why do we have to suffer so much while so and so goes free. We are as good as they, in some ways we can show that we are better. Then why do they go scot free while we must suffer so much. Then we get to brooding, and are no fit company for anyone, so we are left alone.

I told you recently that I had visited the "San". Well, I was struck most forcibly at the brightness and courage of those who were there. No complaining, no fretting, just a calm acceptance of what life had to be until they were better.

So, get yourself a hobby, read up on it until you understand it. When visitors come to you, you will have something besides your illness to talk about. It isn't that people are really unsympathetic, it is because they feel they can do so little for you many times, and this depresses them, so that they stay away.

Let your resentment die, stop comparing yourself with others. You have a certain amount of pain, but it is endurable, so be thankful for that. You see, all your resentment breeds a poison, and poison goes naturally to an affected part keeping it from mending and holding back your recovery.

No doctor can help a patient without their co-operation. Neither can God do much for you unless you co-operate with Him, in belief that you will be better. Don't be impatient, wait on Him. And most likely the time of waiting will be the time of healing.

I know this is hard, but look back and remember all the good times you have had, and let your thoughts rise to heaven in thankfulness for those, be glad you had them, for now no one can take them from you. It is amazing how soon a thankful heart will mend a sick body. And don't forget, I talk from experience.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

New Treasure Hunt

NORFOLK, Va., June 13—(AP)—Jewels and silver, value unknown, lured a new salvaging expedition today toward the 27-year-old grave of the Ward Line steamer Merida, 62 miles off the Virginia capes. The Italian salvage steamer Falco, which successfully sought the sunken treasure of the British vessel Egypt several years ago, will take aboard supplies here this week for the attempt to recover whatever valuables there may be in the hulk of the Merida which lies in some 250 feet of water.

YOUR BANKER CANNOT PERFORM MIRACLES

There would be more banks than grocery stores all over Canada if banks could perform the miracle of "creating" the means of payment out of nothing.

It is easy to confuse these two things:
(a) The business of commercial banking, and
(b) Control of a nation's monetary system.

Commercial banking has to do with the safe-keeping and lending of money and credit.

Control of a monetary system is a matter of national, governmental policy.

Chartered banks finance production and commerce.

Monetary policy in any country is a matter for the national government itself, either directly, or through a central bank.

The Dominion Parliament established Canada's central bank in 1934 — the Bank of Canada. Its purpose was declared by Parliament in the very first paragraph of the Act of Incorporation, as follows:

"To regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

It is for governments alone to determine a nation's monetary policy. Differing conditions of debt and trade may make what is wise for one country unwise for another.

Printing "tickets" — as currency has been called in some sections — entirely out of step with production would make everything you buy cost you more. A Canadian woman living in Germany during that country's inflation in 1923 had to pay 65,000,000 marks for an overcoat, and later 1,000,000,000 marks for a postage stamp!

The business of commercial banking is something to be considered by itself, apart from central banking.

A commercial bank takes deposits. There are two kinds of them. For convenience, call them "savings" and "current". Say you are a workman, or a farmer. After you've paid your living costs out of your wage, or out of the proceeds of your crop, you have some dollars left over. Because you do not want to spend them at once you deposit them in a savings account.

That is a savings deposit.

As distinguished from this is the "current" account. Say you are a merchant. You have expenses to meet day by day and therefore always carry a balance in an account against which you issue cheques for your business needs.

That is a current account.

Let us say you have $100 in that account and you need $1,000 to meet some bills. You borrow it from the bank.

You give the manager your note and he places $1,000 to your credit as a deposit in your current account. Immediately your balance goes up to $1,100 —$1,000 of it being derived directly from a loan.

It is unlike a savings deposit in this respect: You intend to spend it at once. You immediately issue cheques against it. You borrowed the money for business purposes, prepared to pay interest because the transaction was a profitable one to you. Soon most of the thousand has been paid out.

For most of the rest of the term of the loan your deposit is at its lowest. Then, before your note is due, you gather money to repay. Up goes your deposit to its peak again.

Then you repay. Your deposit abruptly drops back to say your original $100—plus the profit you have made, by the use of the borrowed money.

No matter whether bank deposits are savings or current, your bank must keep on hand cash reserves adequate to meet any demands from day to day.

When its loans are increased, not only is more cash paid out—as was the case with your $1,000 loan; but your bank's cash reserves also become lower in proportion to total deposits.

A bank must not unduly expand its lending operations, for then its cash will fall below the proportion which experience has shown to be necessary to meet the day-to-day demands of depositors. This very fact serves as an automatic check against excessive lending.

Your bank cannot know just when you will walk in to withdraw your deposit—but it must be ready to pay you, in full, in cash, when you do turn up.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

BENSFORT, June 13.—On Tuesday afternoon the Bensfort W.A. and M.A. entertained the Ladies' Aid and W.M.S. of Centreville Presbyterian Church. About thirty guests were present and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. The program opened with the Bensfort president, Mrs. Charles Barnard, in the chair. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Edmund Dawson. After welcoming the visiting society, the president called on Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, president of Centreville W.M.S. Mrs. Harold Tate and Mrs. Thomas Skitch gave two very interesting readings. Misses Gwen Hutcheson and Grace Johnston played a pretty piano duet. A quartette by Misses Allie Berry, Gwen Hutcheson, Grace Johnston was very much enjoyed. At the conclusion of the program supper was served. Mrs. John Gainer, president of the Ladies' Aid of Centreville, thanked the Bensfort ladies for their hospitality. This was seconded by Mrs. Thomas Skitch.

Robber In Tweed Gets Car And Pants

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, June 13.—After stealing an automobile from a nearby neighbor's garage, a pants burglar cut the telephone wires leading into the home of John Weese, ex-member of parliament, Ameliasburg, and stole Mr. Weese's trousers early Saturday morning.

Awakening shortly before sun-up to find a man in his bedroom, Mr. Weese endeavored to hold the night prowler, who proved too elusive, however, and escaped by running downstairs and out through the front door, where he entered a motor car with the engine running and sped away.

Mr. Weese made haste to telephone the police, but was surprised to find his house telephone out of commission. Later Provincial Police discovered the telephone wires leading into Mr. Weese's home had been cut.

Mr. Weese was forced to run to a neighbor's home, from where he summoned the aid of police, but the robber had had plenty of time to put considerable distance between himself and the authorities by that time.

It was while investigating the Weese break-in and robbery that the theft of Mr. George Wilson's sedan was discovered. Mr. Wilson, a neighbor, did not discover his motor car was missing until following the report of the robbery. Police theory was that the robber had first stolen Mr. Wilson's car and later used it to effect escape from the neighborhood after being discovered in Mr. Weese's home. The doors at Mr. Weese's home were left unlocked, making entrance rather easy.

Taxes, Artificial High Costs Killing Building Revival

TORONTO, June 13—(CP)—The "artificially high cast of construction" and the "crushing burden of land taxation" are the main reasons for "the high cost of housing and the failure of the building trades to enjoy a revival," the Ontario Property Owners Association has reported.

Robert Forsyth, K.C., Toronto, president of the Association, gave the group's views in a letter to Finance Minister C. A. Dunning protesting financing proposals announced recently by the finance minister in the House of Commons. The association seeks an interview with the minister to explain their stand more fully.

Mr. Dunning's proposal, advanced June 8, was for a new Housing Act with loans up to 90 per cent. of the lending value of the new house with the Dominion Government absorbing 25 per cent. of that value and the lending institution 75 per cent.

Executive members of the association met here Saturday and approved the letter. The association claims to represent 5,000 property owners in Ontario.

No Shortage at Cost.

"Canada is not able to enjoy the luxury of providing houses at less than cost any more than it can provide railways at less than cost," said Mr. Forysth, in his letter. "There is no shortage of houses at cost. There is and always had been a shortage of things at less than cost."

Mr. Forsyth said that "provision of houses at less than cost can only make private enterprise more reluctant to undertake building."

He then went on to say that the association did not believe "any permanent solution can flow from an attempt to evade the plain consequences of spending more than we can ever hope to receive."

"Is not the solution of the problem to be found rather in a restoration of conditions which make possible the private ownership and development of land?" the letter asked.

GULDAHL WINS U.S. OPEN GOLF TITLE FOR THE SECOND TIME

Champ Stages Late Rally To Hold Title

DENVER, June 13—(AP—Golf's "rugged individualist," this year as last, is big stoop-shouldered Ralph Guldahl who learned the game in Texas as a caddy, once gave it up in disgust and came back to spread-eagle the United States open championship field in two successive years.

First two-year title holder since Bobby Jones' reign in 1929-30, Guldahl finished with a brilliant stretch run that saw him post a 69, two under par for the tough Cherry Hills course, on the final round. His 284 was good enough nevertheless to set the pace by six strokes.

When the survivors, 60 low scorers of the first two rounds, left the halfway post Saturday in the last 36 holes, Guldahl was four strokes off the leader, Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa.

At 54 holes Dick Metz of Chicago was front running the pack at 211. Jimmy Hines of New York was second with 214, and Guldahl, at 215, was still four shots back of the lead.

Metz and Hines, like Picard in the preceding round, wilted under pressure as they moved into the last 18, to finish second and third.

Guldahl pocketed $1,000 and retained possession of the trophy emblematic of golfing supremacy of the United States.

When he won the National Open last year at Oakland Hills, Detroit, Guldahl realized only sparse financial returns. He figures to reap a harvest of close to $25,000.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP).—The Reds have a double chuckle in Johnny (No-Hitter) Vander Meer... Because the Dodgers "discovered" him pitching for a Jersey church league back in '33...And then, after farming him to Dayton, mixed up his transfer papers, so Judge Landis had to make him a free agent...The Reds picked him up, and now he's worth 25 G's of anybody's dough... Jack Dempsey is burned up over a story he was "hopped up" for the big seventh round of the second Tunney fight..."Never took any dope, hop or drug in any fight," says Jack.

Seems about time for the folks to stop kidding themselves about Dizzy Dean...If he isn't through, he's giving a swell imitation of it...For which credit Branch Rickey with the year's neatest trick...Jimmy Foxx's slugging comeback is partly due to a shorter swing at the plate...Some coast papers have taken to comparing Sammy Chapman of the A's with Joe DiMaggio day by day...And the way Joe's been going, he doesn't look any too good by the comparison.

You hear new rumors of a three-way deal with Van Mungo going to the Cubs, Ernie Lombardi being shipped from the Reds to Brooklyn, and Buddy Hassett winding up in Cincinnati...Then there's the one about Red Sox putting Fritz Ostermueller and Johnny Marcum on the block for anything they can get in the way of workable pitchers.

Looks like Helen Wills is the gal to beat in the Nationals this year... Chappie Blackburn says one reason Louis will win is because Max'll be fighting "a man" this time..."Joe's grown up now, and Maxie won't have a boy to punch around," he tells you.

$185,000 Arm Will Undergo Special Care

CHICAGO, June 13—(AP)—Baseball fans today started another chapter in that absorbing diamond mystery "the case of the $185,000 arm."

The puzzle which had all baseball guessing was Dizzy Dean's failure to recover from a muscle ailment in a salary arm which cost the Chicago Cubs $185,000 and three players and which many persons expected to make the team a pennant winner. Not even the central figure in the stickler, Ol' Diz himself, knew the answer.

Up to a few days ago it appeared the Dean case was near a happy solution. Diz expected to pitch at any moment. Then his arm grew sore once more. After a short workout yesterday, a few hours before the Cubs, without Dean, left for a road trip, Grimm announced "We're putting him in charge of a specialist," said the one-time St. Louis Cardinal star, somewhat disconsolately:

"They just told me I was gonna stay in Chicago and I don't know a thing else. My arm feels pretty good but it's a funny thing. Sometimes it feels all right and sometimes it doesn't."

U.S. Retains Wightman Cup

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 13 — (AP)—The United States exerted its monopoly on the Wightman Cup for the eighth consecutive year Saturday when Helen Wills Moody defeated Kay Stammers of Great Britain in the deciding match of the two-day international tennis series, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The final score as 5 to 2. But after Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, United States, defeated Margot Lumb, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, and Mrs. Moody had beaten Miss Stammers, the last two matches were exhibitions.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

IT COMES UP fights and rassles tonight. With the Riverview A.C. mitt-mat card at the lacrosse arena, startin gat 8.30. And a mighty throng — they hope — will be wending its way toward the ringside to see the pugs pummel each other and the rasslers do their worst. Police will stand by for a riot call when Red (Killer) Garner and Bert Crothall, Toronto middles, resume their mat feud of two weeks ago here. They are no doubt nice gents away from the ring and possibly even love their mothers, small children, dogs and thick Steaks — but in the ring they do not even like themselves! As rough as a country detour, as tough as Popeye's old man, and as nasty as a cloud of grasshoppers dropping in on a wheat field for dinner! Two other mat tumblers on this card, too, in the semi-final. And five rousing boxing bouts.

* * * * * *

THE CARD IS listed elsewhere this eve, and we won't go into detail again here. But it ought to be a fine fistic and grapple show. This club hasn't given local fans a bum steer yet, and promises to serve up another tasty dish tonight. With Peterborough, Toronto and Ottawa gees on the card. Show should last at least two hours and fill the night air with grunts and groans and thuds and bumps of the gladiators, and roars of excitement or approval by the fans and fannettes.

OSHAWA FANS have yet to see their twice-loop champs win a ball game at home this year. Ponies spoiled their opener, and Saturday the Petes took a 3-2 win in the Motor City. And a nice tidy tilt it was, with good twirling, timely hitting, dandy fielding and a few lapses here and there by both sides. The issue in doubt till the final out. Big Russ Kitchen pitched a smart game, bearing down hard and effectively in the pinches. Scattered eight hits and fanned seven. With runners on second and third in the second, he struck out the next two to end that. He ended the third with a strikeout and a runner left. Fanned Matthews, a pinch hitter, to end the eighth with two on base. And had 'em popping up or rolling out many other heats. A dandy showing on the slab and he also led the locals at bat, with two safe blows.

* * * * * *

JACK TURNER agai ntwirled a good game against Eddie Murphy's boys but his support wobbled like a baby learning to walk. Errors figured in our three markers. Biddle took over in the ninth, Turner going out for a pinch hitter. Jake did fair, though Calladine clouted a double off him. Miller, a pinch hitter, doubled in the ninth and Wills went in to run for him, but died miserably on the keystone cushion. Foley and Wallace had two hits each for the GM-men. Lot of nice fielding seen in spots, Deadey, Hurst and Dalton getting circus catches to draw applause. The win is the second in four for our gang, leaving 'em but half a game back of Kingston, who have won two and lost one. Oshawa has lost two in three starts.

* * * * * *

CAN'T SAY the Petes are pasting that apple at a terrific clip yet nope, some of 'em aren't hitting so hot. But they are getting the pitching and fielding, and are really battling lately. One play Saturday caused a lot of excitment and argument. Showed Deadley as a tough gee to trap i na rundown and showed Calladine as heady as ever. Deadey was on third and Bill was hit by a pitch. He promptly stole second and drew a throw. Figuring to delay the out and give Deadey a chance to score, Bill slowed up and made a monkey out of young McGarry. Bill ran two yards off the line with McGarry chasing him, but Deadey started for home too late. He was trapped and finally tagged out after six or seven GM-men ran themselves ragged. Bill, meantime, pilfered third. With Deadey out, the GM-men and fans went after Ump Colling to call Calladine out, but ye umps must have missed that one. He ruled the runner safe. To tell the truth Bill hasn't touched second yet. But both umpires were good most of the fray.

LOCAL LACROSSE club isn't protesting the Brampton win here last Friday but may benefit from a protest Long Branch has made to the O. L. A. The latter senior "B" club claims that Bill Anthony (who starred here Friday) has played two senior "A" games with Brampton this year and has now dropped back to "B" And they say Bramtpon used several players from Cheltenham who belong to the Inglewood team and who have not been released by the latter. The O. L. A. will have to sit in judgment on this case. By the way, the Petes' officers have decided against charging a dime for the grandstand this year and will leave the admission two bits for adults and a dime for kids during scheduled games as in the past. Will jump it a little for the tilt with Orillia Terriers, charging 35 cents as last year, and may boost the price if they get into playoffs —on account of the O. L. A. gets a 15 p.c. cut. The Petes are at Inglewood tomorrow and play that team here Friday.

THINGS ARE moving right along in the Church Softball League, which winds up in a couple of more weeks. Games tonight are: All Saints vs. George St. Majors at the Oval, umps from Knox and Murray; George St. vs. Park St. Juveniles at King Edward school, umps from St. James and All Saints; All Saints Bantams vs. Knox at King Edward Park. The postponed juvenile tilt betwixt George St. and St. James will be run off Tuesday at King Edward school, and the junior joust between All Saints and St. John's will be Wednesday at Central. Games are called for 6.30, daylight time, but will still be seven innings till the playoffs. Some of the senior church clubs object to our definition on leaving the base too soon, saying they do it in the City Loop all the time. We can't help that — we just quoted the O. S. A. ruling on it.

AS THERE IS A men's softball game tonight (between Westclox and Motorists at seven p.m.) at the Bowl the gals are idle till Tuesday in the twilight when Keene lasses and Westclox clash at 7.15 at the Ashburnham diamond. That is daylight saving time. Lindsay meets C. G. E. here Wednesday. As Keene couldn't come up Saturday, Westclox and C. G. E. staged two tussles ala exhibish, the Clockmakers copping bith. At Riverside, at the C. G. E. Picnic, Ab Delahaye's gang nosed out a 8-8 verdict; and at the Bowl in connection with the Rotary Carnival, the Electrics dropped a 15-3 count. By the way, the C. G. E. team appears to have a find in H. Cameron, a good outfielder, smart baserunner and fair hitter. She was with the Rexalls' team of Toronto four years.

Seymour Meets First Setback Of Season

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 13. — Seymour West lost their first game in the Township League this season when they met the Petherick's team on the school lot Saturday and were defeated by an 8-6 score. The team from the Corners stepped into the lead in the second.

For the winners Reddick had the best record, counting three times with one home run in four times at bat. Barnum, Ingram and Watson scored in the third and though the second, fourth and fifth were scoreless the Petherick's team settled down in the final inning and overcame the one-run lead and put themselves out on top with two more. It was in this inning that Reddick knocked a homer which brought in Barnum and placed the final score at 8-6.

Westclox Girls Win Two Tilts

Westclox girls defeated C. G. E. lassies twice on Saturday in exhibition softball games. The first, played in Riverside in connection with the C.G.E. picnic, saw the Armour Hill damesls nose out a 9-8 verdict in a neat encounter. The second tilt, played at the Bowl for the Rotary Carnival, was taken by the Westclox 15-3. Keene couldn't make it on Saturday, so the Electrics and Clockmakers doubled up. The games were witnessed by a large crowd of fans.

H. Bradley pitched for the winners in the initial tussle, giving five hits and six walks as she fanned two. A. Clarke twirled for the other side, allowing 10 hits and one walk. A. Doughty had a double and two singles for C.G.E.; while for Westclox, M. Hawthorne hit a two-bagger and single, M. Ferguson two singles, and A. Sturgeon and D. Merrett a triple each. Nice fielding was shown by A. Sturgeon, M. Hawthorne, H. Cameron and M. McCarthy.

Second Game.

M. Snowden was the winning heaver in the second struggle, giving up seven hits and three walks while striking out five. A. Doughty and I. Hopkins divided mound duties for the Electrics, being nicked for 13 hits between them as they fanned two and walked one. Their support was shaky in spots. A. Doughty got a double and single for the losers; with B. Blade of the visitors belting out a homer, double and single, as D. Merrett hit a homer and single, and L. Chartren a four-base bow. Best fiellers were H. Cameron, A. Clarke, M. Allison and D. Merrett. The players were:

Good Ring Card On Here Tonight

The Riverview A.C. presents a fistic and wrestling show this evening, weather permitting, at 8.30 So'clock in the George St. lacrosse arena. It will be the fourth amateur card put on here by this club, and it promises to be as entertaining as the others and to pack in as big a crowd of fans. There will be five boxing and two wrestling bouts, featuring local, Toronto and Ottawa athletes. Norm Bowler is promoter, with Jim Simpson of Toronto the referee, and Archie Menzies and Wilf Jones the judges. Jack Withers is timer and Fred Scates the announcer. The rematch Garner-Crothall main wrestling event (which should be another peach) sees these Toronto welters go two in three falls, with an hour limit. The semi-final mat bout sees Pete Pernokie, Ottawa middle, and Spiker Shakelton of Toronto, go one fall or 30 minutes.

Main boxing bout is a five-rounder between lightweights, Nick Orlando from here and Ernie Hicks of Toronto. Joe Hobbins, local welter, is in the semi-final against Joe Scott of Toronto. Joe Tumblin, Ottawa lightweight, meets Wallie Hicks of Toronto. Two local lightweights, Red Riel and Hal Jones, have a prelim; and Buddy Redmond and Bobby Quirt, 80 pounds, are in the curtain-raiser. Plenty of action is assured the fans.

ACE NO FAVORITE

MELBOURNE—(CP). — The totalizator paid nothing for a win when Ace of Blades won the Trial Handicap at Warrnabool. Not one backer had taken out a "nose" ticket, although the tote paid more than $12 for place.

Hot Corner Star

Called by many the best third baseman in the American league is John (Buddy) Lewis (above), who guards the hot corner for Washington Senators. Buddy is in his third full season in the big time and has been leading the league in the matter of manufacturing hits most of the year. Last year he batted .314.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

On Friday of this week (June 17) the tournament committee is staging the first open mixed twilight tournament. There will be no restrictions in this contest—you may select your own rink and when you please. The draw will be made at 7 p.m.—3 8-end games will be played. The fee is $3.00 per rink. We are informed that the prizes will be a little above the average.

On Wednesday evening at 7.30 p.m. we intend holding a mixed tournament — 15 cent fee will be charged and good prizes will be offered. It is also expected that the pair of bowls will be drawn for at this tournament . . . We will announce in tomorrow night's paper (Tuesday) two very important changes in the rules regarding our schedule games. Be sure and read them. . . . Although we were not up to the greens on Saturday night we understand that 12 mixed rings enjoyed the evening pastime—and by comparison that was as many rinks as the men had out on Friday.

Australians Fail In Early Play

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 13 (CP Cable). — Australia failed to make an adequate reply to England's first-innings total of 658 runs for eight wickets declared in the third day's play of the first cricket Test match. At lunch six wickets had fallen for 261, and all indications pointed to the Aussies' returning to the wickets a second time later in the day.

Stanley McCabe alone stood up to the strong English bowling. The Aussie vice-captain batted throughout the morning for 105 not out at the interval, and reached the half-century mark by driving one of Kenneth Farnes' fast deliveries over the ropes for six.

Perfect weather prevailed as the teams started the last half of the international encounter scheduled to conclude tomorrow.

Science Made Corbett Road To Victories

A trim San Francisco bank clerk, attacking with rapier and hammer, altered the course of boxing one September day in 1892 as he dethroned the rough - and - tumble champion, John L. Sullivan, and lifted the game out of the saloon.

A despised challenger, sneeringly called a dancing master, James J. Corbett startled the boxing world by outclassing the aging, dissipated Boston Strong Boy. He stood off the old lion's rushes with sharp left jabs and wore him down until Sullivan collapsed in the 21st round at New Orleans.

Sullivan's drinking and carousing during his 10 years as heavyweight ruler finally took its toll. Sullivan was hog fat and slow as a cart horse. He weighed 230 pounds. He wouldn't train seriously for Corbett. "One wallop is enough. The first time I hit this young guy on the head he'll go down like all the others," Sullivan said.

"Corbett rushed at Sullivan and was upon John L. like a flash, raining on him a shower of lefts and rights," said a ringside description of the fatal 21st round.

"Under the panther-like assaults of Corbett the old lion was backed to the ropes. Then Jim curled up a nicely-timed right smash to the jaw. The mighty John L. pitched forward on his face. John came up. He led with a weak left. John sparred for Jim but Jim jabbed him as he pleased.

"Fiercely Corbett fought the almost helpless champion to the ropes and banged him with right and left at will.

"Sully fell three times. He tried to get up, and fell supinely back again, clearly knocked out. The time was one hour and 23 minutes."

First With Gloves

This was the first Marquess of Queensbury fight—the first of the gloved-fisters of today.

After Corbett had disposed of Charley Mitchell, the British challenger, in three rounds in 1896, he fought freckled, spindle-legged Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson, Nev., March 17, 1897.

It was a vicious battle. From the ninth on, Fitz got better. In the 14th he caught Corbett with a left-hander just below the juncture of the ribs in the chest. Jim went down, his face puckered with pain and breath knocked from his lungs.

Although he claimed foul, he was counted out after the first recorded solar plexus punch in ring history.

Upset Finish in 70th Renewal of Belmont Stakes

The three-year-old situation on the American racing front was made a little more complicated after the running of the 70th renewal of the Belmont Stakes at the famous New York track. The picture shows Pasteurized, an 8 to 1 shot, coming down in front of the highly-favored Dauber, winner of the Preakness and second in the Kentucky Derby. The winner covered the mile and half in 2:29.4, just 4-5 of a second off the record hung up by War Admiral in winning last year.

Schmeling Fears the Hot Weather Lost To Baer On That Account

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—If Max Schmeling gets his features splattered by Joe Louis a week from Wednesday evening, it might well be that his alibi will be hot weather.

Not that anyone around his training camp expects Max to lose, but it is as well to be prepared with a swift explanation in the event he forgets to duck, as on another June night when he ran into a young and fresh Max Baer at Yankee Stadium.

That was an exceptionally hot night and Schmeling fought as though he were in a daze. Baer brought up ponderous rights, preceded by every form of advance warning except a fire siren, and they all landed right on the Schmeling button.

It must have been as great a surprise to Baer as it was to the crowd, because up to that time the Livermore Lothario hadn't been able to hit anybody with a right except Kingfish Levinsky.

Schmeling always has said the extreme heat got him that night; that his brain was so cooked he could see Baer's punches coming but couldn't get out of the way. And the point is that the night of June 22 might be a hot one, too. This city, in fact, is overdue for a spell of scorching weather.

PETES MOVE UP IN C.O.B.L. WITH A 3-2 VICTORY OVER OSHAWA

Senior Petes Cop Second Nod To Push Oshawa GM-Men Down Into Central League Cellar

Russ Kitchen Hurls Nifty Ball To Beat Turner Before 700

Pulling out a 3-2 win in Oshawa Saturday over the 1937 C.O.B.L. champions, the Petes moved up to within half a game of the leading Ponies before about 700 fans. It was the locals' second straight win, the first Central Loop game this season which has not been a shutout, and pushed the GM-men into the cellar.

Manager Eddie Murphy's crew played good ball behind the excellent pitching of Russ Kitchen to cop the nod. Again it was something of a hurlers' battle with Kitchen and Jack Turner both throwing fine ball. Turner retired for a pinch-hitter after the eighth, and Jake Biddle finished for Oshawa. The homesters had an 8-6 edge in hitting but kicked in with several costly errors.

Big Russ Kitchen scattered eight hits, walked four and struck out seven, going best in the pinches. Several times he struck out one or two to end the side with runners in scoring position. He helped his own cause considerably with two hits in four, driving in one run. Despite three errors, the Petes played good ball in the field to aid their twirler. Turner allowed five hits in eight frames, fanning two and walking one. Biddle struck out one and gave one hit in the ninth.

Leads Hitters

The two safeties by Kitchen made him the leading hitter of the day for the winners, Burton, Cadd, Doll and Calladine having one each, the latter pulling out a two-bagger. Wallace and Foley got two each for the GM-men, and Miller (as a pinch-hitter) belted out a double. There was some superb fielding shown in spots by both teams, Hurst, Dalton and Deadey especially drawing hands for grand grabs. Dalton turned in a stellar showing on third for Oshawa. Doll had a busy day and tough luck on third for the Petes, fumbling one grounder and making two high throws to first.

Both sides went out in order in the first frame. Burton got a hit in the second but nothing came of it. In the homesters' half, Rowden walked and Jubenville was safe on an error. McGarry forced the latter and then stole, but Kitchen fanned Wallace and Bennett. Deadey reached second on McGarry's miscue in the third and went to third on Turner's bad throw. After Kitchen flied out to Turner, Calladine was hit by the pitcher. He stole second, running off the line but Deadey was trapped off third and finally tagged out, Calladine stealing third. An argument followed but Umpire Colling refused to call Calladine out. Clark fanned to end it, Dalton's hit for the GM-men was wasted in their half.

Get First Run

Neither team did a thing in the fourth. The Petes scored one in the fifth when Burton was safe on Dalton's error, stole second and raced home on Kitchen's single to left with two out. Oshawa got two in their half. With one out, Bennett walked and stole second. Turner walked, also. Foley singled to score Bennett but Turner was nipped at third, Foley advancing on the throw. The latter tallied on Doll's error, but Hurst flied out. A hit by Doll for the Petes in the sixth, and singles by Jubenville and Wallace for the homesters came to naught.

The game was won in the Petes' seventh when they got two runs. With one away, Whatley walked and Deadey was hit by the pitcher. The bases were filled on Kitchen's infield hit. Calladine grounded to Turner but his throw to the plate was missed by Bennett and all were safe. The second run scored as Clark was thrown out, shortstop to first, and Murphy fanned. Foley scratched a single and Hurst, after two were out was safe on an error in the Oshawa inning but Rowden flied to second. Cadd's hit in the eighth, and singles by Wallace and Bennett did no damage, Kitchen fanning Pinch-hitter Mathews. Calladine doubled with two out in the ninth but died on second, and Miller's double and a deliberate walk to Rowden with two out did Oshawa no good when Jubenville rolled out.

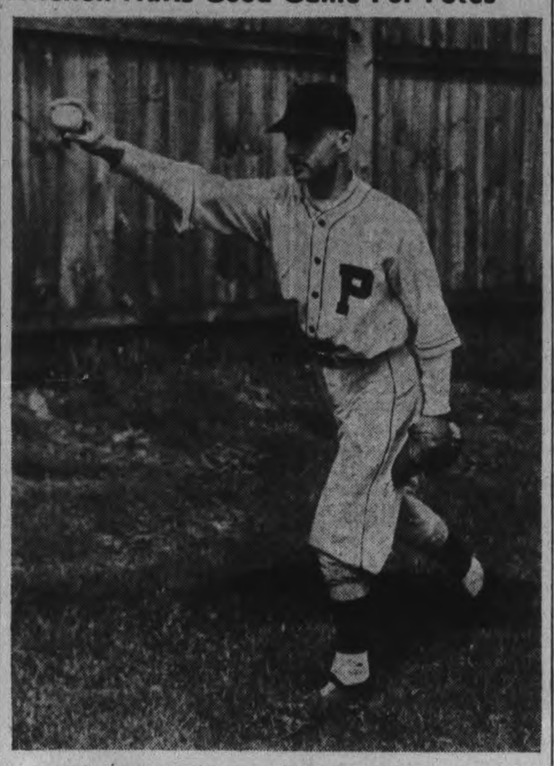
Kitchen Hurls Good Game For Petes



Lanky righthand hurler for the Petes who pitched the locals to a 3-2 win over the champion GM-men of Oshawa on Saturday, scattering eight hits and fanning seven in a neat performance. "Kitch" also helped his own cause considerably by singling twice and driving in one run, the victory putting the Petes in a virtual tie for first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League. Toronto Drops Double Games To The Bears

TORONTO, June 13.— (CP).— There's a new way of deciding just how good a ball club is in the International League these days. It is first to try out its all-round power against the league-leading Newark Bears and then to go to the mat with Jersey City Giants, who are getting along very well on nothing but good pitching. Any rival that can come through against both apparently has the goods.

Buffalo Bisons, a persistent second to Newark in the standings, are facing the second stage of the test now, and the first indications are that Ray Schalk's men aren't likely to go much higher than they are now.

The Bisons did very well by themselves in Newark last week. They won three out of four games, piled up a lot of runs and let only one rival pitcher last the full distance. But there's a suspicion now that their success was due largely to the erratic work of Newark's mound staff.

Get An Even Break.

At Jersey City yesterday, the Herd got only an even break and didn't show anything like the slugging of the previous days. The Jerseys won the opener, 4-3, when Long Tom Winsett socked a homer in the 10th for the 12th hit off Ken Ash. Bob Carpenter blanked the Bisons with one hit in the last three frames.

It was the hurling of Fred Archer that gave Buffalo a 6-2 victory in the nightcap rather than any clouting feats. He gave up only five blows.

Newark, meanwhile, cut loose against Toronto Maple Leafs and won two games, 11-4 and 4-1. Charley Keller and Bob Seeds opened the first game with successive first-inning homers and repeated in the nightcap to produce all Newark's runs in the third frame. Atley Donald and Marius Russo tamed the Toronto batsmen without much trouble although Donald was nicked for a pair of circuit bows.

Real Clouting.

The day's real clouting feat, however, came from the ranks of Baltimore Orioles, who moved up to tie Toronto for seventh place by routing Rochester Red Wings 10-0. Fred Tauby, who had clouted three homers and driven in seven runs against Montreal Saturday, hit for the circuit twice more and singled once in the seven innings the game lasted. He batted in four more tallies. Bill Cissell and Pooch Puccinelli also contributed homers.

The game was halted by rain in the seventh and the second half of the twin bill washed out. The Montreal - Syracuse double-header also was postponed.

Cleveland Holds League Lead By A Miracle Over Yankees

Yanks Hit Hard To Beat Indians For 7-6 Victory

NEW YORK, June 13.—(CP)— Babe Ruth, the supreme authority on heavy hitting, recently remarked that some time the Yankees would all start hitting at once and would murder the opposition. Cleveland Indians must be about ready to admit today that the Babe was right.

The Tribe still holds the American League lead, but there is cause to believe they're lucky that one game in New York was rained out. As it was, they wound up their eastern tour by dropping two straight to the Yanks and are only 2½ games ahead as they return home ot face the eastern clubs again.

The Yanks got going as a team for a 7-6 victory over the Indians and Bob Feller yesterday before 43,702 customers. The Tribe got off to a four-run lead against Charlie Ruffing in the second, but Rufus the Red nullified that himself by belting a homer in the same inning. Then he went on in a duel with Johnny Allen until Johnny was lifted for Feller as the Yanks threatened his one-run lead.

A Winning Homer

Going into the eighth, Bill Dickey drew a pass and Joe (Flash) Gordon, the rookie second-sacker who has been one of the "hitless" Yanks most of the season, smacked one into the stands for a game-winning home run.

The only western club in the American League to come out ahead was Detroit, which walloped Washington 18-12 in yesterday's "freak" game to sweep the series and finish with a 7-6 record.

In the National League New York Giants, who dropped to second place and then regained the lead, split yesterday's twin bill at St. Louis. The season's biggest crowd at Sportsman's Park, 29,141 saw the Giants sail through to an 8-5 victory then go down 4-1 as Bob Weiland pitched a six-hitter to beat Carl Hubbell.

Meanwhile Brooklyn broke even with Chicago and thus compiled the best record of any touring eastern club, seven victories and three defeats. A nine-run rally that blasted Van Mungo in the eighth gave the Cubs a 9-3 opening victory, but Fred Fitzsimmons replied with a four-hitter and Dolph Camilli's homer with the bases full helped him win 6-0.

A four-run homer started the Athletics off to a double triumph over St. Louis Browns 8-3 and 1-0. Bob Johnson hit it in the first inning, then produced another to drive in seven runs. In the five-inning nightcap Bud Thomas gave the Browns only one hit. Rain washed out the first half of the sixth after St. Louis scored twice.

Earns Eighth Victory

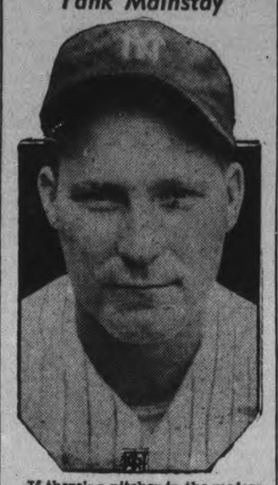
Mace Brown of the Pirates earned his eighth victory of the year in a relief role as the Bucs rallied to beat the Phillies 11-5 aided by Johnny Rizzo's homer with the corners crammed. The Sunday "curfew" law stopped their second game in the second inning.

Adding to the home-run roll of honor, Rudy ork and Charley Gehringer contributed to Detroit's 10-run rally against Washington that just tied the score; Gee Walker's ninth-inning four-bagger enabled the Chicago White Sox to beat Boston Red Sox 4-3 after losing the first game 3-2; and Ival Goodman's 14th of the season helped the Cincinnati Reds take a 7-4 nightcap from Boston Bees after going down 6-5 in the 10-inning opener.

Hurls No-Hit, No-Run

Johnny Vander Meer, 23-year-old Cincinnati Red southpaw was Saturday's hero, as he pitched a no-hit, no-run 3-0 victory over Boston Bees in a National League game. Bill Swift pitched Pitsburg to a 4-3 victory over the Phillies and helped his own cause with a three-run homer.

Yank Mainstay



If there's a pitcher in the majors who is just plain good without frills, it's Red Ruffing (above) of the New York Yankees. Red pitches and pinch hits, and it doesn't seem to make much difference whether he trains in the spring or is taken ill, he just comes right back and hurls winning ball games. He has notched seven wins so far.

Errors Costly Sailors Lose To Falls 5-3

TORONTO, June 13 — (CP) — When it comes to odd baseball games, don't forget the one in which Niagara Falls Brights defeated Port Colborne Sailors to consolidate their hold on first place in the senior division of the Niagara District League.

The Brights took the measure of the Ports 5-3 at Niagara Falls Saturday to run their count to seven victories against two defeats for the season. They were outhit by a wide margain, the Ports getting eight blows as the Brights were limited to four. But the Sailors booted the ball six times, compared to two errors for the Brights.

Three of the four Niagara Falls hits were doubles, as the Brights concentrated their scoring power in the first three innings when they got four runs. Stevenson, Whitehead and Pitcher Wasser hit two-baggers for the Brights, while Forde knocked out a single for their only other hit.

In another Niagara District game, St. Catharines Saints trounced Thorold Mountaineers Saturday. The Saints swept through for six runs in the seventh inning. In senior Intercounty Baseball League games, Stratford Nationals defeated Strathroy Royals 5-2 and London seniors topped Brantford Alerts 4-2. Second game between Alerts and the London nine was halted by rain in the second inning.

In a Hamilton and District Senior league contest, Dominion Foundries and Steel defeated Caledonia 4-3 while in a Central Ontario Baseball League game Peterborough Petes won 3-2 against Oshawa G-Men.

Rain washed out the Brooklyn-Chicago game and halted the Giants-St. Louis tilt in the eighth inning with the score tied 2-2.

Detroit Tigers plastered a 7-2 licking on Washington Senators in the American League Saturday while the Athletics knocked over St. Louis Browns 5-4 in the day's only other game.

Mrs. M. J. Brown Wins Car Rotary Carnival

Mrs. Melville J. Brown, 15 Conger street, wife of a Bell Telephone Company employee is the winner of the Chevrolet coach, the major prize in the Rotary carnival draw.

Ticket No. 23023 bought by Mrs. Brown about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, was the one the groping fingers of Mayor James Hamilton seized among many thousands of others from the ballot box at Riverside Park at 11.15 o'clock Saturday night while hundreds of carnival patrons stood in breathless silence to learn the result.

Mayor Hamilton turned the ticket over to Carnival Manager J. H. Seels as he pulled it from the box.

"This ticket is blank", Mr. Seels said but a second glance showed the name of Mrs. Brown written faintly on the stub and the result was announced to the crowd.

The winner had gone home without waiting for the draw but her young daughter received the news jubilantly and in a few seconds, Mrs. Brown was made aware of her good fortune by President James Dutton of the Rotary Club who telephoned to her house.

"Hurrah", came back over the wire in answer to the president's message.

A Lucky Girl.

Almost as delighted was Gweneth Reed, young daughter of J. Fred Reed, one of Rotary's past presidents, who had the good luck to sell Mrs. Brown her winning ticket and as a result earned herself $25 donated by the Rotary Club. The smiling little miss was introduced to the crowd and said that so far as she remembered the lucky ticket had been sold at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

There was another side of the picture a few moments after the draw when a small boy approached the enclosure in which the car was on view and said his name was Brown and that he had heard he had won the draw. His face perceptibly lengthened as it was explained to him that the winner was Mrs. Brown of Conger street.

The terrier puppy, which after being raffled at the Penny Fair in aid of Nicholls Hospital Auxiliary was presented to the Rotary club to be drawn for again has a new master today in the person of a very happy small boy, Ronald Naish, son of William A. Naish, 557 Lock street, who had ticket No. 242, the number pulled out of the box by Mayor Hamilton. When the winning number was given out, Ronald announced he had that number but that his mother had gone home with the ticket. Later the ticket was produced and J. H. Seels turned the thoroughbred terrier puppy over to a very delighted young master.

Most Successful Yet.

Saturday night's carnival was the most successful in the history of Rotary, marked by the largest crowd and it is thought to be the heaviest financial patronage since the event was organized. Despite the early shower people assembled quickly and the carnival section of the park was crowded all evening with all the booth, games and rides doing splendid business. Many of the crowd seemed reluctant to go home and even after the draw had been made hundreds lingered around the games and the carnival was still going merrily on as Old Man John B. Daylight Saving waited in the wings for his cue to step onto the Peterborough stage for the first time this summer.

Before Mayor Hamilton was introduced, President Dutton expressed the heartfelt thanks of Rotarians to the citizens for the patronage they had given the carnival and to those who had so ably assisted in making the event an outstanding success.

Pointing out that Rotary's chief work was to aid crippled children, President Dutton said that the club depended upon the support of the public for any measure of success it had achieved and it was in the spirit of service that he appealed to the citizens to continue their support in future. "You have the assurance" he said "that every dollar obtained from this carnival will go to help crippled children."

ROSTHERN, Sask., June 13—(CP)—Agricultural prospects in Saskatchewan are brighter now than for many years, Dr. Seager Wheeler, five times world champion wheat grower, believes.

"There is far more sub-surface and surface moisture and March was the mildest I remember it for 40 years. Snow melted quickly into the ground and we are greatly encouraged," he told reporters.

Dr. Wheeler, after whom Rosthern Wheat Kings hockey team was named, is now 70 years old, and farms 490 acres of land. Part of his acreage is devoted to plant culture with fruit trees a specialty.

Critics Acclaim Canadian On London Stage

LONDON, June 13 (CP) — The London showing of "Idiot's Delight" seems to have won much esteem for Raymond Massey, Canadian-born actor who took the role that Alfred Lunt made famous in New York. Robert E. Sherwood's thoughtful piece about war was well received by the public although one or two critics suggested London has too close a speaking acquaintance with war to make it a welcome topic for a play just at this time.

Tamara Geva took the lead against Massey and while not gaining the plaudits given Lynn Fontanne in the same role in New York she interpreted this difficult but mysterious part to the liking of London's critics.

But it was to the Canadian, Raymond Massey, that most of the play's honors fell. And it is a good thing as Massey's London appearances have been few and far between lately. He has not been on the legitimate stage since 1936 as Ethan in the New York production of Ethan Frome. Since that time he has made several films with British companies and two in Hollywood.

"Idiot's Delight" is going well—and the Sherwood-Massey combination is therefore booked for a good while as if and when it is through here Massey goes to New York to take the lead in Sherwood's new play, "Abraham Lincoln."

Critics Applaud.

The Times referred to Massey's work in "Idiot's Delight" as brilliantly accurate, with rich humor and a genuine spring of vitality. The Star said he showed a new versatility in "a magnificently vital piece of acting" in which his "grip on the part was sure and superb." The Telegraph said to this role he was "the perfect actor," while The Evening Standard declared he gave the performance of his life—or anyone else's. "He is as supple and flexible as a rapier, as vivid as lightning, as dynamic as gunpowder."

Massey had a good time of the Oxford-Cambridge race. His nephew, Hart Massey, son of the high commissioner for Canada, was coxswain of the Iris crew last year. The Oxford crew were given a theatre party at the Apollo Theatre, where "Idiot's Delight" is playing, and the oarsmen went backstage at the intermission to be photographed with the cast. Massey was then their guest at a dinner.

He is very keen about the Abraham Lincoln play. It opens with Lincoln as a young lawyer of 20 and ends as he leaves to take up office in the White House for the first time. Massey says it is one of the most moving character studies he has ever read.

Coward Joins Navy.

Noel Coward has left for the Mediterranean as member of the Royal Naval Film Corporation, set up two months ago by the First Lord of the Admiralty to provide films for the navy. On his return he will report for the corporation who will then try to give the navy the films it thinks suitable.

London looks forward to return after four years of Lynn Fontanne. The popular New York star made her debut 30 years ago touring with Ellen Terry, and is greatly admired here as being the only English actress to have gained perpetual success in America. With her husband, Alfred Lunt, she will appear in May in "Amphytrion 38," the burlesque of the old Greek legend which they have put on to such good houses in New York.

John Gielgud's last play of the season, "The Merchant of Venice," opened at the Queen's April 21. "The Three Sisters" is to be withdrawn April 16, not because the public has had enough but because Gielud determined to put on four plays this season regardless of how well each was received, and it is now time for his last.

Is 79 Years Old Still Sets Type

OUTLOOK, Sask., June 13—(CP)—J. J. Partridge, partner with J. J. White of the Weekly Outlook, at the age of 79 is still "sticking" type and is about as spry as any printer in Canada. His fine deep bass singing voice is as true as ever. For many years he conducted the choir in St. Mark's Anglican Church here.

Mr. Partridge set the first stick of type for the London Evening News, one of the Northcliffe string of papers. He came to this country in 1902, worked in a Brandon, Man., print shop for a time and then took up a homestead near Outlook.

When he had "proved up" he moved with his wife and family into Outlook and obtained work in the Weekly Outlook printing office. At the death of the proprietor he went into partnership with J. J. White and took over the paper.

While on the staff of the London Evening News he was conductor of the staff orchestra and presented programs at the Crystal Palace and other places of entertainment. He treasures a silver-plated baton presented to him by the News on the eve of his departure for Canada.

Sydney Has Group Hospital Scheme

SYDNEY, N.S.W., June 13—(CP)—A voluntary group hospitalization scheme which costs contributors 25 cents a week today removed the burden of expensive surgical operations and hospital care from Sydney wage-earners' shoulders.

Benefits amount to $20 a week towards cost of treatment in intermediate wards of public hospitals and corresponding benefits in private hospitals.

"People who formerly scorned the idea of a public ward and demanded private hospital treatment which they could not afford are now thinking in terms of the intermediate sections," an organizer of the fund said.

"We are bringing hospitalization down to a business basis, and by so doing are striking at the roots of that ridiculous snobbery that once made it bad form to discuss money in cases of illness—a snobbery that saddled people with a burden of debt."

Long Session

penditures bill introduced by Pensions Minister Power in April and since before the electoral affairs committee. The general belief has been that it would not form the basis of legislation this session.

Now that political corruption has been so widely charged, the committee will have to consider what the reaction would be in the country if a measure designed to do something about it was shelved. The bill would curb corruption in elections to an attempt not previously attempted by parliament.

A companion measure may also serve to delay prorogation of parliament. It would rewrite the Elections Act and authorities are convinced no general election could be held without the measure being passed.

The 1935 Act, still in force, provided permanent voters' lists should be built up. But the present government took the view this had not worked out satisfactorily and decided to return to the system of having new lists made before each election. Because the permanent lists were discontinued, it is contended an election could not be held under the present Act.

The Senate Railway Committee is expected to finish soon its investigation of Canadian Pacific Railway unification proposals. On Tuesday Canadian National Railways officials will start their reply to unification suggestion from C.P.R. executives. The hearings may be completed this week. While it is not known what action the committee will take, legislation growing from the probe is not anticipated this session.

Havelock Firm To Make Plugs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 13.—S. W. Ellis and Sons, fishing tackle makers of Havelock, are entering a new branch of that industry now, introducing the manufacture of wooden plugs in their factory.

Mr. Ellis has been in business for himself since 1934, having had 23 years' experience in fishing tackle previous to that. He started out with the William Croft Co. at Trent River, later moving to Havelock, where a factory was built in 1923. This was later sold to the Canada Needle and Fishing Tackle Co., in which Mr. Ellis was local manager till 1934.

His own business started in a small workshop at his home, moving in 1935 to the Brennan building, where he remained for two years. Increase in business, despite difficult times, demanded more space, and last summer the factory was moved to the Masonic building, where it is now situated.

Mr. Ellis has been the originator of several famous lures, among them being the "Lucky Pal," while with Canada Needle, and the "Trent Valley" spinner for himself.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 13.—(CP). — John Kellar, of Thurlow, charged with reckless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident, was remanded for one week when he appeared in police court today. Japs Will Build Huge Iron Plant

PERTH, Western Australia, June 13—(CP)—Japanese interests are reported to be behind a project to produce 1,000,000,000 tons of iron ore at Koolan Island, on Yampi Sound.

The plant will embody the most modern methods in Australia, according to H. E. Vail, managing director.

In designing a jetty and loading device to handle 2,000 tons an hour, engineers have to contend with a variation in tide levels of 28 feet. The entire output will be shipped to Japan.

Had Many Boils On His Neck and Body

While the skin seems to be the cause of the irritating and painful boils the real trouble is rooted in the blood, and when you think you are rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your agony.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do does not, as a rule, get rid of them. What is most essential is to give the blood a thorough cleansing.

When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitalized by Burdock Blood Bitters the boils disappear, your misery is at an end, your health and strength renewed, and the skin clean and smooth.

MR. ALFRED A. FERRIER, Falkenburg, Ont., writes:—"Several years ago I suffered greatly from numerous boils on my neck and body, and had three blind ones on my knee.

Our druggist advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, so I took two bottles, and in a short time I was completely rid of the boils."

—and here's the ANSWER!

Increasingly difficult for the average man today is the problem of saving money. Many a man with a family to provide for on a salary that seems scarcely adequate to meet present needs alone, knows well that his old age must be provided for too, and wonders how.

Even regular savings over a long term of years will not, he figures, produce sufficient income to bring him a moderate livelihood in later life. $30,000, for example, at 3% produces only $900 a year. $40,000 produces only $25 a week. Yet how can he hope to save anything like these large sums?

A happy answer to this worrisome dilemma is a policy in The Imperial Life. Let an Imperial Life representative explain to you how moderate-sized deposits placed with this company will produce for you in later life an income far in excess of the interest such sums could earn for you if saved and invested in the ordinary way.

In addition, with the Imperial Life Plan, you have the advantage that your family is protected from the day you make your first deposit. And you have the comforting assurance that in this investment your capital is absolutely safe, always.

Stop worrying about finances. When you have Imperial Life protection you can spend the balance of your income with a carefree mind.

"FINANCIAL SECURITY THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE", by Paul Speicher, an international authority, is an interesting book which should be read by everyone who plans to provide financial security for himself and family. Your local Imperial Life representative will make a copy available to you without cost. 406

C.G.E. Picnic Is Attended By 4,000 People

More than four thousand people thronged Riverside Park and the Ashburnham Bowl Saturday afternoon as the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club held its 12th annual outing for the 1850 employees in the plant and their families. Weather conditions were ideal and a diversified sports program which started at one thirty kept the huge crowd entertained until nightfall.

Twelve hundred children were given strips of tickets, each having a cash surrender value of 25 cents and these were used for rides on the ferris wheel, merry-go-round and the auto car ride, or else were exchanged for ice cream, hot dogs, pop, or candy at the canteen set up under an arch of the bridge where 12 men worked at top speed catering to the thirty youngsters.

Mundy Brothers of Toronto, a clown and acrobatic act staged on a platform in front of Riverside grandstand was a highlight of the afternoons program. The ever popular Punch and Judy show followed the clown act and was run off twice for the benefit of the huge crowd which packed the grandstand to overflowing.

Among the novelty events of the track and field program was an obstacle race that brought howls of laughter as Mick Magee and Frank Spencely battled to win and finished in that order. The 880 relay race was closely contested for two laps, but bunching of runners caused several fouls with resultant falls, putting several good sprinters out of the race. A team consisting of Grant Cameron, Don Crowe, Ford Loucks and Fred Williams took top honors.

Units Win Title.

Seven teams competed for the prizes in the inter department softball for men, with the games being played on the Ashburnham Bowl, and Refrigerator Cabinet and Unit teams met in the finals. The Units took the verdict 7 to 5, and the line-up was Hunter, McDougall, MacGregor, Barnes, Robertson, Jay, Ross, Walker, Giardino.

The location with the exception perhaps of the parking problem was much superior to Nicholls Oval. The older people found the grassy lawn of the tourist camp grounds restful, and there was plenty of shade. Rest rooms were adequate and there was an abundant supply of drinking water. Hot water was supplied free of charge, and milk was available at the canteen.

The ground was thoroughly policed by members of St. Johns' Ambulance Brigade under the direction of L. Tomkins, Divisional Superintendent, and Miss Ivy Watkins, ambulance officer. During the afternoon they dressed several minor wounds, attended an athlete who collapsed after the relay race, and administered to several women and children who suffered from the effects of the hot sun.

The picnic was an outstanding success and the entire program with a smoothness and despatch that has featured every affair of the same kind held by the C.G.E. Association.

In the evening Westclox Girls playing the C.G.E. team at Riverside Park squeezed out a 9 to 8 victory to take the picnic prizes and later in the evening in another exhibition tilt at the Bowl, the Clockmakers repeated winning 15 to 3.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SUNDAY MORNING

One gentleman who always attends church service on Sunday morning did so on June 12. As a rule he arrives at three minutes to 11, and has time to get settled in the family pew and watch the choir coming in. Sunday morning he was there at the usual time, but he found all the usual parking spaces had been taken. There must be an unusual number of people at church...not a sign of any person going in now...the organ ought to be playing at this time...but there was no sound of the organ. The church-going man stood with a foot on the stone steps and at that moment a car pulled up near him. He turned and a friend addressed him saying: "I did exactly the same thing you have done. I forgot to put my watch ahead an hour last night. You better move on before the people come out of church and see you standing there."—K.

Spectator Hurt While Viewing Accident Scene

A few moments after a motorcyclist and his passenger had emerged unhurt from a spectacular accident on Highway No. 7 late on Saturday night, the motorcycle was accidentally upset and struck a bystander with such force that a deep gash was inflicted in his leg and he had to be brought into St. Joseph's Hospital for medical attenion.

The unlucky victim of his srange twist of fate was Alfred Field, 526 Romaine Street, who had stopped at the scene of the accident and was watching the proceedings when he was hurt.

The motorcyclist involved was H. S. Choate, 38 Hunter Street East, who with Fred Burns of Marmora riding as a passenger behind him, was travelling east on No. 7 Highway. A mile east of the end of the pavement, Gerald Hogan of Indian River, driving an automobile, turned into a laneway and Choate, close behind at the time, was unable to avoid a collision. His machine crashed into Hogan's car and he landed up underneath the automobile, while Burns was tossed through the air a distance of some 20 feet.

Neither the rider nor the passenger was hurt and the only victim of the crash was Field, who drove along just after and stopped to see what happened.

Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton investigated the accident.

Pleaded Guilty Attempted Robbery

Pleading guilty to an attempt to break and enter the Davis Service station at the corner of Dublin and Reid streets in the early hours of Saturday morning, Stanley Bebee was remanded by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Saturday for a week for sentence.

"I drink all I can get," Bebee told the court when questioned as to his habits.

"You think more of drink than you do of your kiddies, apparently" said Magistrate Gee.

"Well, that's all there is to do", accused replied.

Glass in the door of the service station was broken early on Saturday morning and the police were informed by some one who had heard the sound of breaking glass. Later Bebee was arrested at his home by Officers John Naples and W. A. Clark.

Old Circus Hand Tames Snake

An old circus hand, Cecil Hully, proved to holidaying members of the C. C. Y. M. on Sunday that he had forgotten none of the lessons his trouping days had taught him.

Travelling to Crowe's Landing by automobile, fifty members of the local club crossed to one of the islands on Stoney Lake in seven canoes fastened end to end behind a motor boat. While there Hully captured a huge snake, 27 inches long and as thick as a child's wrist and tamed it to the point of docility, according to members of the party. He invited others to try the trick, but none volunteered. Hully has had years of experience with snakes, being an old circus employee.

The afternoon was devoted to swimming, canoeing, sailing, and water games. Many sought the warm flat rocks for an afternoon's relaxation. The lake offered excellent swimming and the slightly humid air made ideal sleeping conditions. Music and songs were supplied by the Glee Club, led by Cecil Hully and Mel Leal, and two meals were looked after by the Social Committee, under the supervision of Miss Margaret Royea.

SOCCER MEETING.

The executive meeting of the local soccer association will be held at 7.30 to-night in the Chamber of Commerce, to permit officers later to see the boxing show.

1,850 Employes Of C.G.E. and Their Families Enjoy Picnic

Peterboro's largest annual picnic, for the staff of the Canadian General Electric Company and their families was a spectacular success on Saturday afternoon. 1,850 employees brought 1,200 children to Riverside park and adjoining Ashburnham bowl for ice cream, pop, foot races, baseball games, vaudeville entertainment, and rides on a midway.

At TOP LEFT 18-months-old Ronnie Amyotte, one of the youngest children at the picnic, and one of the most handsome, is seen with his aunt, pretty Bertha Amyotte. The merry-go-round frightened Ronnie. At TOP and LOWER CENTRE are pictures of children on the ferris wheel, which was one of the midway's greatest attractions for the young. Foot races for the children were popular, too. The one at TOP RIGHT was for boys six and seven years old. Hugh Dibben won it, Louis Gaskell was second, Calvin Martin was third.

Given Ten Days For Assault

Reducing the charge to common assault, Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning found Thomas McClellan guilty and sentenced him to ten days' imprisonment.

McClellan was charged with assaulting his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary McClellan, occasioning serious bodily harm.

A feature of the case was the evidence that Mrs. McClellan had been shoved against a hot stove with so much force that the word "Ontario" had been burned on her skin.

Mrs. McClellan testified that she lived in the same house as her father-in-law, occupying an upstair room. On the day in question she testified that he had broken into her room, grabbed her and pushed her against the stove with the result she sustained a number of burns on her legs, her dress was torn and her arm bruised.

In answer to a question from the accused she denied that she had struck McClellan's six year old adopted son. She said she had merely tapped the youngster.

Police Matron Mrs. Maguire said that she had seen the burns on Mrs. McClellan's legs and the word "Ontario" could be clearly read in the burns.

The accused said that when the boy had come into the house after he had been hit by Mrs. McClellan, he, the accused, had gone upstairs and his daughter-in-law had hit at him with a broom, whereupon he had shoved her away. He had not meant to push her against the stove, he said, but admitted that he had lost his temper.

Magistrate Campbell thought that while the results might have been serious, Mrs. McClellan had not been badly hurt and he was justified in reducing the charge to common assault.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life" was the way Evelyn Dall, ABOVE, 20-year-old New York singer, expressed herself after "swinging for the King." Miss Dall, vocalist with a famous English orchestra, sang in the modern manner at a ball held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace.

HIT-RUN MOTORIST.

Mrs. Eric Howe, 327 Downie street, reported to police Sunday that her car had been damaged by a hit-and-run motorist on Saturday night. It was parked outside of that address and another machine struck the rear end, crumpling the fender.

A MINOR CRASH.

Nobody was hurt Sunday night when cars owned by W. C. Inkster, R.R. Havelock, and A. Bruce, 626 George street, the latter machine driven by James Gates, collided on George street, just below Brock. Both automobiles were damaged to some extent and a crowd collected after the crash.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Clifford Woodcock pleaded not guilty when charged before Magistrate Gee in police court on Saturday with breaking into the boathouse of Fred Goodfellow for the purpose of committing theft. The alleged offense was said to have taken place on June 2 and Woodcock said he was out of town on that date. He was remanded until Thursday.

W. J. HANCOCK BEREAVED

The funeral of George T. Hancock who died in Toronto last Thursday night was held from his residence in Port Hope Sunday afternoon to the Union Cemetery in that town. He was a brother of W. J. Hancock of Peterborough. He was a former reeve of Port Hope and member of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. George Hancock carried on a hardware business in Port Hope for thirty-five years, was a Past District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order, and was widely known in the united counties.

MAKES COMPLAINT

A resident of Douro complains that a woman who has been his housekeeper for a period of thirty years has been sent to the county home at Lakefield following release from hospital in this city. The contention of the Douro man is that this woman had a home to which she could go and to which she desired to return. The woman in question is 74 years of age and is in receipt of a pension.

Reeve Martin Coughlin informed the Examiner this woman was ordered to be taken from her home to the hospital by a woman who is inspector for the old age pensions department; and then from the hospital to the County Home for the same reasons.

BROTHERHOOD MEETS.

The Brotherhood of St. James' United Church on Sunday discussed the lesson: Facing the Supreme Test of service. Their leader, Rev. F. W. Craik, drew a vivid picture of the three-hour conflict of weary body and unfaltering spirit of Jesus as he prayed alone in dark Gethsemene while his inner and outer guard of disciples slumbered among the olive trees, exhausted from the Passion Week's ecstasy and danger. It was cold after sundown in the Garden, yet Jesus sweated blood to reach that state of complete obedience to God for the morrow's dreadful crucifixion. Yet thrice he could gently awaken his sentries and pity their need of rest as they failed him in his hour of need. The Brotherhood plans to continue the regular Sunday sessions throughout the summer, instead of disbanding as in other years.

A THEFT CHARGE.

Charged with stealing a lady's coat William Brick pleaded not guilty befgore Magistrate Langley in police court to-day and the case was adjourned for a week at the request of the Crown.

JUVENILE CASES.

Charges against two juveniles of stealing a camera, stop watch and other articles from Gordon C. Minty, swimming instructor at the Y.M.C.A., which were to have been heard to-day, were enlarged until Tuesday morning.

HAVE IT READY.

When a man charged with being drunk asked Magistrate Campbell for a week's adjournment this morning the request was granted, but the court added, "You fellows who are going to get drunk had better put the money to pay your fine in your back pocket before you start out."

TWO DEER SEEN.

Two deer were reported seen near Vincent Whittington's service station on Highway 28 about five miles out of the city on Sunday. Two deer were reported in the same vicinity last fall and apparetnly they spent the winter in the Cavan swamp.

FRANK ROSZEL'S SALES

Frank Roszel's contribution to the welfare work of Rotary was the sale of something like 365 books of tickets on the automobile. And each book represented one dollar. His last count Thursday or Friday was 357 books and he was still going strong. Frank seems to make a special effort for the two service clubs, Rotary and Kiwanis, in their appeals for public co-operation in their community services.

TAX BILLS ON THE WAY

Probably there will be no elation and tossing of ratepayers' hats into the air at the news that A. S. Couper, tax collector, has begun the distribution of the 1938 tax bills, the first instalment of which are payable on July 7. At any rate they are on the wing, marking the second stage of the municipality's financing for 1938. The first phase is the council's determing the rate on the assessment prepared in 1937 by W. J. Henry, city assessor, and the last stage will probably be prolonged by some delays in the final payments due in November.

PET SQUIRREL KILLED.

Water street's pet squirrel is dead, the victim of a Sunday evening hit-and-run motorist. Last year there were half a dozen or more of these lively animals in the district around McDonnel and London street on Water street, but most of them were killed by cars during the summer and this spring only two or three have been noticed. Sunday night's victim was a favorite with the whole street and the tamest of all his tribe. He would climb on to the lap of folks sitting on the verandahs to be fed and had no fear whatever of human beings. However, his faith has been violated because one of the people he trusted has slain him with an automobile.

NEARLY SAID TOO MUCH.

Illegal consumption cost one young man $10 and costs in police court to-day and it nearly cost him more. Magistrate Campbell usually makes the fine heavier when wine has been the motive power of the jag and in this case when the accused was asked what he had been drinking he replied "beer and wine." Magistrate Campbell looked at him and remarked, "young man, you said just two words too many"—but finally set the fine at $10.

CASES ENLARGED.

Two cases involving charges of illegal sale of liquor were to have been heard in police court this morning but both were enlarged until Thursday. In one case the Crown was not ready to go on; in the other the defense wanted a delay in the proceedings. T. J. Carley, K.C., was present to act for Chris McGrath, charged with illegal sale but Crown Attorney McElderry, K. C., said he was not prepared to take the case today. "A material witness is absent" he told the court.

Mrs. Minerva Chew, also charged with illegal sale, was likewise remanded until Thursday, in her case because her counsel W. J. Arthur

Father Advised To Spank Son

Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning told the father of Howard Woodcock, 21, that if he ever caught him drinking wine against he should take him across his knee and chastise him. "I'll do it, Your Worship if he ever touches lunatic soup again", the father replied.

Woodcock had previously pleaded not guilty to creating a disturbance on Reid street, an offence for which his brother and another youth had been sentenced to a month in jail.

Today he changed his plea to guilty and Magistrate Campbell fined him $15 and $3 costs or 30 days in jail to date from June 2.

"Can I have time to get my fine" asked the accused.

"No, my boy. I think a little time in jail will do you good", replied the magistrate.

Bill Guerin Hurt In Car Crash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, June 13.—Bill Guerin, of 190 Charlotte street, Peterborough, had a miraculous escape from death early Sunday morning, when driving with Murray Stephens, of 89 Indian Road, Toronto. The driver was rounding thecurve on No. 7 highway, at Reaboro, on the way to Peterborough, when it is stated, he lighted a match for his cigarette. In the instant of the flare of match light he was blinded and the car plunged off the road, careened off a tree and ploughed along a wire fence.

Three were riding in the front seat with Guerin in the middle. His head and shoulders plunged through the windshield, leaving patches of his hair on the shattered glass. He was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital. Stephens suffered a bruised knee, lacerations about the head and lost three or four teeth.

The car was badly wrecked. Provincial Traffic Officer Kennedy investigated.

Officer Surprises Party Of Six

The arrival of Provincial Traffic officer Gordon Broughton on the South Beach Road, Saturday night, was unfortunate for a party of six persons who came along in a car about the same time for it resulted in all six of them facing Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning.

George Perrin was charged with drunken driving and also with reckless driving, and three men and two women with being drunk in a public place.

Perrin pleaded not guilty on both charges and was remanded for a week, bail being fixed at $500.

The two women pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and were each fined $10 and $3 costs while the three men all said "not guilty" and got a week's adjournment.

Constable Broughton told the court he found wine and beer in the car but one of the women said she had not had a drink in the automobile. She had been drinking before leaving Peterborough and in the South Beach hotel, she said.

Rev. F. Marrocco Is Ordained At St. Peter's

With the solemn and prescribed rites of the Catholic Church, Rev. Francis Marrocco was received into its priesthood by Bishop O'Connor before a large congregation at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning. His Excellency was assisted by Rev. Dr. Masterson and Rev. V. J. Corkery. At the conclusion of the ceremony and before the last gospel of the high Mass, Bishop O'Connor addressed the young priest in words of impressive simplicity, only a few sentences of congratulation, retrospect and of good wishes for the future.

Bishop O'Connor said he wished to be the first to congratulate the young priest, Rev. Father Marrocco. "Your father and mother, the members of your family, have dreamed they could see this day. They see it and they are glad, and I associate myself with the happiness that is theirs. In your boyhood you dreamed of some day becoming a priest of God. Today that dream has come true, and on this day there begins to unfold itself before your vision a vista of the years that are to come. Your dream is of souls to be saved, of the sacrifice of Christ to be perpetuated on the altar, of the sacraments to be brought to God's children the world over. You dream that the world will be better because you have lived and labored in it. May we hope that this dream, too, will come true."

A reception and dinner was held on Sunday evening at the home of the young priest's parents. Those present were Rev. J. W. Walsh, Rev. P. J. Kelly and Dr. C. V. BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, set out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after their long ride, Bill and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, they soon are subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians. Convinced Bill and Panola have been seized by Indians, Ellen offers to go after them with the aid of two Yaqui Felix has taken prisoner and whom she had befriended. Senora Montoya decide to accompany Ellen and the Yaqui. Ellen ponders over her feeling for Bill as she and the lod Mexican woman and two Indians trail the Texan and Panola. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 12

Bill Baron, Panola and their Indian captors had ridden on to a Yaqui village, arriving about midnight. The white pair were kept tied and under guard in a shack. At dawn their hands and feet were freed and they were given food and water, but they were kept under guard. Bill learned that the alcalde or village chief was away.

This particular village of the Yaqui Indians—one of four or five thought to be in the mountain fastnesses of Sonora—was in a small high hidden valley made rich by a constant water supply. Two springs served the place, and the great rocks tumbled there by nature made several caves and shelters. These were utilized, and a few other rude dwellings had been constructed.

"It's a good fort," Bill had told Panola when they rode in. "No wonder the Mexican soldiers haven't routed the Yaquis. Ten men concealed along the trail could stand off a thousand."

Coming of the white captives was big news to the village folk this morning. About 200 men, women and children gathered near the hut, with much talking and pointing. Most of them clung to a Spanish dialect, some of which Bill and Panola could understand.

Nothing happened all day, but at nightfall the alcade returned to his village, and after supper he had the captives brought out. Bil lat once tried to question him, but this head man had more pressing demands first. He was in earnest and voluble conference with the Indians who had made the capture. And the results were not by any means as tragic as they might have been, Bill and Panola were forced to admit. The argument was simply about the division of the captives' clothes.

Presently Bill was taken away by some of the men and stripped naked. One dark fellow took his jacket, another his shirt, another his boots and another his socks. Then the man whom Bill cracked in the jaw took the white man's union suit and promptly put it on, with evident pride. In spite of his predicament, Bill couldn't be angry. Without even asking permission, he picked up the Indian's discarded ragged trousers and put them on; they at least afforded him some privacy.

Panola Montoya had been led off by the Indian women, and when she reappeared she was a sorry looking sight to. Clad now in a single old garment, she was indignant and embarrassed, too.

"Why do you let them?" she demanded of Bill. "Why do you not fight?"

Bill grinned good-naturedly.

"I tried that against eight of them," he explained. "I dont think I'd have any more luck against a town full."

"What weel they do with us?"

"I'll try to find out again. Keep your eyes open. And your chin up."

The alcalde was willing to talk business now. He had acquired Bill's hat, jacket, saddle and saddle blanket, and probablys Bill's horse as well. The conversation wasn't very smooth but he and Bill managed to understand each other.

"It will take a stack of pesos to get us free from here," Bill reported to Panola.

"Mo-nee? You mean—?"

"Right, money. We're held for ransom. The village is poor. They'll take some horses and food, but they demand a hatful of silver also."

"Nothing, yet. The idea is to send a messenger out. But don't you imagine your father is sending men in?"

"Oh, yes. There will be fight!" Panola was fearful at the mere though of it. "These Indians—they hate us!"

"If we have to, we'll try to fight our way out, when the showdown comes. Don't antagonize them now. If they get careless, we may have a chance to escape."

Bill didn't believe what he told her, but he wanted to be a comfort if he could. He admitted to himself that they really were in a spot. Old Don Julio would come with armed men. That probably would be fatal to all of them. But it was night now. He would stay awake all night, maybe catching the guards dozing, and—

He realized that even if he could slip out and slug a Yaqui or two, he'd still have to rescue Panola. For two of them thus to escape would be too much like a story book or a sensational movie. Bill didn't feel like that kind of hero, he admitted, wryly.

Toward dawn Bill saw he would not get the chance he had envisioned anyway, so he wisely lay down to sleep. Probably they would have considerable time to wait. The alcalde had said he would send a messenger out to the Montoya ranch, demanding the ransom. The chief had made it clear that he had no love for the Montoyas or any other Mexicans, and that the Montoyas themselves took Yaquis captives whenever they could. Panola said they were caught only when stealing cattle or other things.

The white captives were given breakfast—some kind of boiled meat—and allowed limited freedom outside on that second morning. The Indians knew the pair couldn't hope to escape, for even if they made a run outside the village compound and reached the trail, Indians could follow and shoot them down in a few hundred yards. Isolation was the best prison in this high mountain settlement. Bill and Panola agreed that they could do nothing but wait.

The two were sitting on rocks in the sunshine, some time before midday, when a runner dashed into the compound showing evident concern. He spoke to several men, and hastened to the alcalde.

"Don Julio's coming. I'll bet!" Bill decided. "That man probably was a sentinel down the trail, and saw our men riding."

Panola blanched at that. She realized it would mean a gun fight, in which she and Bill were almost sure to bekilled by vindictive Yaquis.

The village did become a stir of excitement as the news spread, and yet the alarm was an odd one. Bill didn't know what to make of it. From what snatches of excited conversation he could overhear, white women, not soldiers or armed men, were coming to the Yaqui town. It didn't make sense.

He waited impatiently an hour or so, and then abruptly the new arrivals rode around the great boulder that guarded the entrance to the town. Bill and Panola jumped to their feet.

"ELLEN!" Bill yelled, incredulous.

"Madre—madre mia!" Panola had glimpsed her mother and started running.

Bill Baron could not believe his eyes. He stood transfixed, until Ellen looked above and beyond the confusion of savages and saw him.

Even then she could not speak. Something swelled within her, tightened her throat. She guided her horse through the throng, and Bill hastened forward.

Without a word she was off her saddle and in his arms. He held her almost painfully, squeezing her, patting her, staring down at her.

"You came—you!" he murmured.

"Bill! Bill!" It was all she could say, whispering it.

He kissed her, on top of her blonde head, holding her tight.

"Why did you come—you two? It was mad, Ellen, mad! Who is with you? Where are the men? Have you been captured? Was there a fight? Are you hurt? Where was—?"

He showered questions, realizing suddenly that she must have been taken captive also.

She said nothing, but all at once Bill noted that she had slumped in his arms. Fear gripped him, but he could see no wound. She had simply fainted away, from combined exhaustion and mental strain.

As he had done once before, big Bill Baron tenderly picked up and carried the limp, lovely girl who had, of late, seemed somehow destined to be the dominant thing in his very existence.

Well-Written Letters Bring You Success

Write as You'd Talk

"Gosh, I'm sunk if this letter doesn't get the job for me," moans Jim. "What shall I say?"

Laura realizes that an application must be clear, definite, confident, but not boastful. But the proper form stumps her, too.

First, Jim should tell why he's writing (he learned of the position through an advertisement or a friend). Second comes experience. Third, education. Fourth, personal qualifications, including age, if asked for. Fifth, references, or the fact that they are available. Sixth, request for interview. Address and telephone number go at top of first page.

Brushing up on letter forms—beginnings, endings, signatures, addresses, helps you write correct business and social letters. Our 32-page booklet, with its treasury of sample letters for all occasions, is a priceless aid. Tips on effective sentences, shining vocabulary, too.

3 Die In Car Races

SYDNEY, Australia, June 13 — (CP Cable)—Three persons were killed and 12 injured today as a result of two crashes in a 10-mile dirt track race here.

A car driven by F. G. Foss somersaulted five times, injuring the driver and mechanic, and killing three spectators — Mrs. Jones and two grand children, Walter and her two grand children, Walter and Pamela Oaker.

A few minutes later another speedster, W. James, lost control of his car. It skidded into the crowd, injuring 10 spectators, but James escaped.

Mothers Should Start Early by Placing Red Lanterns at the Hairpin Curves on Life's Pathway So Her Daughter Will Be Less Likely to Skid

A MOTHER asks: "How should I talk to a 16-year-old daughter? What counsel shall I give her? How can I teach a pleasure-loving, high-spirited girl who is utterly ignorant of life, yet who thinks she knows all the answers, to avoid the temptations and dangers that lie all about her?"

Well, I am sadly afraid that if a mother has waited until her daughter is 16 years old before she has had any heart-to-heart talks with her, that what she says won't register much with the girl. She is 16 years too late with her instructive conversation. The time to begin preparing a girl for life is in the cradle.

It is the modesty, it is a love of decency, it is the refinement that is repulsed by grossness; it is the self-control, it is the rock-bottom principles that nothing can shake which a girl learns at her mother's knee that enables her to walk safely through the pitfalls of the world. In our moments of temptation we don't split hairs over an ethical problem. We instinctively act according to the code in which we have been brought up.

The thing that too many mothers fail to realize is that in these times of emancipated youth every girl has to be her own chaperon. Her mother cannot follow her into the places of business in which she works, or protect her against the men she meets. She must be taught how to defend herself, for she will stand or fall according to the wisdom and strength that is in her.

So, then, I think that if I had a 16-year-old daughter to deal with I would begin by lighting a few red lanterns of warning at the hairpin turns of life where the young are likely to skid and go over the brink. I should indulge in any maudlin sentimentality about not brushing the dew from the rosebud and keeping the young girl from knowing any of the sordid facts of life so that she would retain her innocent, childhood belief in fairy stories.

On the contrary, I would tell her all that is to be told. I'd make her read the scandals in the daily papers so she would know what happened to girls who let handsome young men in fine cars pick them up for joyrides; or who let their married bosses tell them how their wives misunderstood them; or who let some boy persuade them into setting up a love nest with him. I would know that ignorance isn't innocence, and what the surest way to make a girl watch her step is for her to know where the danger spots lie.

Then I think I would say to my 16-year-old girl: Take it easy, daughter. Don't be in too much of a hurry to swallow life down at one gulp. You probably have forty or fifty years more to live. Save something of interest and enjoyment to spread over them.

Enjoy yourself, but don't overdo it. Have plenty of fun, but don't wreck your health by dancing all night when you have work all day and going without lunch to buy finery for your dates. Play around with the boys, but don't imagine yourself in love with every good-looking youth with a permanent wave in his hair. Just remember that your tastes and your emotions haven't had time to jell yet, and that the things and the people you are crazy about one day you wouldn't have on a bet the next.

Then I would say to my sweet 16: Hold yourself, dear. Don't make yourself cheap. Realize that every man is going to take you at your own valuation and treat you accordingly. If you have dignity and self-respect, independence and reverence for your own body, men will not tell you dirty stories, or make improper proposals to you. They will put on their best manners as well as their best clothes when they come to take you out, and you will be the kind of girl that the men who are worth marrying want as a wife. But if you are riff-raff yourself, you will attract riff-raff boys who will think you good enough for blind dates and cheap shows, and who will treat you with the contempt you have earned.

And, finally, my dear, I would say to my 16-year-old: Go slow on the petting. Don't make your lips a free lunch counter for every Tom, Dick and Harry who takes you out to the movies. Maybe there is no harm in a casual goodnight kiss, particularly if it has been iced down with custom until it has no more thrill in it than a handshake, but all the same kissing is a dangerous pastime for girls.

You can get as drunk on kissing as you can on cocktails, and be just as irresponsible for your conduct. Put parked automobiles on your taboo list and avoid wild parties, for they set a girl's feet on the road to destruction. These are some of the things I would say to a 16-year-old girl and maybe she would listen, but probably she wouldn't.

New Indian Retreat

WARREN, Pa., June 13 (AP).—Seneca Indians, the proud, unconquerred tribe of the once mighty Six Nations, surveyed with misgiving today the white squares of cloth fluttering from poles along the hillsides of their river valley reservations.

For the white flags symbolize the inexorable advance of white man's civilization, once again threatening to push the Indian from his stronghold. Posted by United States engineers the flags outline the boundaries of the largest of a series of proposed Allegheny River reservoirs designed to save the palefaces' cities from floods.

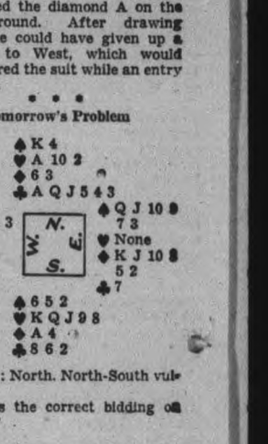
"The Authority on Authorities"

TIMING MISUNDERSTOOD

NO PHASE of play is more misunderstood by average players than timing. Sometimes you see a defender help set up a suit for declarer before knocking at a side entry. And right on top of it the declarer will fail to recognize the opportunity presented to him, but will try a futile finesse and thus give the other defender a chance to remove the invaluable entry.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

After a club bid by East, South overcalled with 1-Spade, West bid 2-Clubs, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades and North 3-Spades.

The heart Q was led by West and won by South with the A. The finesse of the spade J lost to the K. East after cashing a club trick switched to the diamond Q. South allowed this to hold and when the diamond 3 followed, made the mistake of finessing the diamond 10 to West. The heart K was now knocked out of the dummy and when the two outstanding spades were drawn there was no entry to set up the diamonds, as the A blocked the hand.

East should not have returned a diamond while the dummy held the dangerous entry of the heart K, but since he did South could have taken advantage of the mistake and played the diamond A on the second round. After drawing trumps he could have given up a diamond to West, which would have cleared the suit while an entry remained.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

The two children were walking home from school. The sun was shining very pleasantly and a little breeze was blowing. Right in the children's footsteps walked Hanid and Knarf, the shadows of the two children. Shadows always walk in the footsteps of the children they belong to.

All at once, Hanid and Knarf heard a little voice saying: "Oh, I know we shouldn't have come up yet. I hope no one notices us. I do hope we won't be seen."

"Don't tell anyone you saw us."

Then a second little voice answered the first one, saying: "There are some children passing now. Let's get as close to this tree trunk as we can. Thank goodness they're not looking this way."

The two children didn't hear the voices at all. But Hanid and Knarf, the shadows, heard them very plainly. They instantly looked at each other. Who could be talking?

"I'm going over to that tree trunk and see," said Knarf.

"I'll go with you," said Hanid.

So they ran over to the tree trunk. And what do you suppose they found? Two little violets.

Very Modest.

You see, violets are very modest. They don't ever like to be seen. They are always trying to hide themselves.

"We didn't mean to put our heads above the ground yet," the the first violet said.

"We hope we're not being rude," said the second. "We're trying our best to take up as little room as possible."

"But you're not being rude at all, you silly little things," Hanid said, smiling. "You're very pretty."

"It's very nice of you to put your heads above the ground," said Knarf.

"Oh, thank you," the two flowers murmured. "You're very kind to tell us that. You see," the first violet went on, "it's still very early. We just thought we'd take a little look. We're not going to stay very long. Please don't tell anyone you saw us."

The two shadows promised not to tell anyone. But they were sorry they had to promise because they knew the children and lots of other folks would like to see the two little violets. And they were sorry, too, that the violets couldn't stay very long.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By R. J. Scott

Looking Back On This Date

Forty years ago (June 13, 1898) Yukon District was created a territory, and William Ogilvie was named commissioner. At that time we were all very much in the dar' as to just what Canada had in the far north. We knew it had large deposits of gold, which had attracted hundreds of adventurous spirits from all parts of the world. But we did not know whether it was going to be a permanent gold mine, or just an area which would soon be worked out and then left to the silent north. As it turned out many of us were disappointed.

It is true that for a number of years Yukon gave wealth to many, but finally the days for the individual passed and the gold industry became largely a matter of hydraulic dredging by companies with large capital. Yet even now we hear of new strikes being made, and while there is no bonanza there are many who believe the alluvial deposits have been by no means exhausted and that the boom days of the '90's may come back again.

Meanwhile the Yukon Territory has settled down to a quiet and peaceful life, provided now with mail and passenger service by air to supply the small population who remain and are as proud of Yukon as any "Bluenose" is of Nova Scotia. The old romance has gone with the years; if you want Yukon romance now you have to talk to old-timers like Hon. George Black, former M.P. forthe Territory, or his gifted wife, the present M.P., and they will tell you that even if the old "wild and woolly days" have gone there is still adventure and romance to be found in the land of the midnight sun, and perfect short summer.

Perhaps Yukon will be much in the limelight this year, what with Premier Pattullo's idea of grabbing the Territory for British Columbia and with the proposed international highway, apart altogether from the possibilities of the north in international affairs and in world encircling by air. Yukon is not asleep. Perhaps its final destiny is yet unborn.

June 13, 1898, also saw the death of Sir Joseph Adolphe Chapleau, lieutenant-governor of Quebec. One of the most gifted orators of his province in both languages he played many parts in politics. In his prime he was premier of Quebec and a power in federal politics. But there are those who claim that in his later years he played both ends, failing Sir Charles Tupper in his hour of need, to aid Wilfrid Laurier; but there I am getting on dangerous ground. An unprejudiced narrative of the career and work of this gifted son of Quebec would throw light upon many mysteries of politics.

Production of many industries in Greece is near the 1937 record highs.

Interesting Talk Given on Scotland

The monthly meeting of Knox Church Women's Association was held in the church parlors with a large attendance.

Mrs. J. Allen presided, and Mrs. H. Clegg was in charge of the devotional period and led in prayer. The roll call was answered by a verse on flowers, which was very interesting. A motion was passed that a pickle shower for the church be held in the early fall, and arrangements were made for a strawberry social to be held, under the auspices of the Missionary Society and Women's Association.

The special speaker was Mrs. Lewis, who gave an interesting illustrated talk on her recent visit to her home in Scotland. Among the historical places visited was the church where Rev. Toplady, who wrote the familiar hymn "Rock of Ages," preached. Mrs. Lewis' talk will be continued next Wednesday afternoon, June 15, when the Association's annual picnic will be held at the home of Mrs. Spicer, River Road. All members and friends are invited.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The wedding music was played by Miss Lillie Race, A.T.C.M., and during the signing of the register Mr. Howard Vaughan, brother of the bride, sang "Calm as the Night."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in a gown of white suede lace over satin, made on long princess lines, with a Queen Anne collar, and rows of satin buttons from neckline to waistline, the skirt falling into a lengthy train at the back. Her veil of silk net was arranged in cap effect, and caught with triple strands of seed pearls interwoven with orange blossoms. Fowlds—Wright

MARMORA, June 13.—A wedding of much local interest took place in the picturesque Anglican Church of St. Paul at Marmora on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 D.S.T., when Barbara Evelyn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bristow Wright of Deloro, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Henry Martyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Fowlds of Hastings.

The interior of the church was an exquisite picture of the combined glory of summer blooms. Furnishings and windows were bedecked with flowers, plants and ferns to make an artistic setting for the nuptials. Purple and cream iris, white peony and garden roses predominated. The decoration was the work of members of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild, who received deserved praise for the success of their efforts.

The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. Mrs. H. Rennie was at the organ, playing Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," as the bridal party entered the church, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as they left the church.

Miss Peggy Moreland of Toronto, friend of the bride, played a violin solo, Wagner's "Preislied," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore ivory faille, Redingate style, trimmed with narrow pleating, and carried Sweetheart roses, Bouvardia and lily of the valley, her tulle veil falling from coronet of pearls. Miss Betty Wright, sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miss Mary Fowlds, bridesmaid, wore coral point d'esprit with matching veils and mittens. Miss Isabel Fowlds and Miss Kathleen Boyd, the other bridesmaids, wore similar gowns in torquoise; the bouquets were Talisman roses and purple monkshood.

Mr. Forrest Dennis of Campbellford was groomsman. The ushers were: Messrs. Archibald Olmsted (of Hamilton), Bennet Morton and Stuart Anderson.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with about two hundred guests present. Mrs. Wright received in a gown of delphinium blue chiffon with large fuschia hat and corsage of orchids. Mrs. Fowlds received in navy chiffon with matching large hat and corsage of valley lilies. The catering was in the hands of Robert Simpson, Limited, Toronto.

At the arranged moment, Rural Dean Caldwell proposed the toast to the bride on whose behalf the groom made reply, and also called for a toast to the maid of honor and bridesmaids, with Forrest Dennis, groomsman, replying. Congratulatory telegrams were then read by W. L. Rigg.

Until the introduction of the toast list, although no rain had fallen, skies had been threatening. They now cleared and lovely sunshine favored the happy gathering and permitted the taking of desired snapshots.

The bride's travelling costume was a British tan and white ensemble.

Guests from a distance included Mrs. Stafford F. Kirkpatrick of Ottawa, Mrs. G. N. J. Shaw and Miss Nancy Wright of Vancouver, B.C., Mrs. A. Olmsted of Hamilton, Misses Grace and Louise Fowlds and Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Drury of Toronto.

Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Fowlds will reside in their new home in Campbellford. They were the recipients of many costly and useful presents.

Bride And Her Party At Fowlds–Wright Wedding

Here's Schnitzel As Emperor Liked

MONTREAL, June 13—(CP)—"The other day I noticed a recipe for Vienna schnitzel on your page," writes Ruth Harrig to The Star. "I am a Viennese myself and the late Emperor Franz Josef has eaten several times at my mother's table. This is how she prepared the famous dish:

"From leg of veal cut slices ½ inch thinck about the size of your hand. Beat on both sides well. Beat one egg with one tablespoon milk or olive oil in a soup-plate and in separate plate have breadcroumbs mixed with salt. Hvae a pan with butter an dolive oil heating on the fire and dipping the veal slices into the breadcrumbs fry two or three minutes on both sides until they are a light brown. Put on a hot platter and surround with small potatoes sprinkled with hot butter and chopped parsley or dill. On each slice of meat put a slice of lemon and two sardines or anchovies together with some capers. We never serve sour cream with Vienna scnitzel."

Quick Use Of Resuscitation Could Save Many Victims From Drowning Every Year

To live one must breathe, yet because breathing stops, life is not necessarily extinct.

This apparent contradiction needs some explanation. The fact that the explanation is not universally understood, costs Canada dozens of lives each year which, with a little attention to simple instructions, could be saved.

The death toll across the Dominion inevitably rises each summer, when the lure of Canada's lakes and rivers draw the swimmer. This toll could be appreciably lessened, if every person who goes near the water, or even a good percentage of them, knew the simple rules of resuscitation, according to authorities. Moreover a simple and effective system has been worked out, and adopted by many civic and commercial organizations, which can be memorized in a very few minutes. The most generally favored artificial respiration method among life-saving groups, and the most widely endorsed by physicions, is the Schaffer method.

There are three major causes of death as the result of cessation of breathing; immersion in water causing drowning, electrical shock, and gas poisoning. Each has a different effect on the human body, but in each case breathing stops and must be artificially induced at once, if the victim is to live.

Method The Same

Drowning is undoubtedly the most general of the three causes of death, but in either emergency, artificial respiration is urgent and the method devised by Sir Edward Schaffer is suitable in each case. There are slight differences in the initial steps, but in the efforts to induce renewed breathing the routine is the same.

It is imperative to remember that though the victim appears dead, artificial respiration should not be discarded as a treatment, nor should the treatment be abandoned if no sign of life appears for some time. Continue for at least four hours, or until the body shows signs of rigor mortis. Many lives are lost each year because resuscitation efforts are abandoned too quickly, according to medical experts. It is on record that one victim of electrical shock was restored to life after eight hours of resuscitation treatment by experts.

Speed in beginning the treatment, plus uninterrupted continuation, wil lsave many a life. Here are the simple rules:

For Gas Asphyxiation:

Remove the victim to fresh air at once; then begin respiration efforts.

For Electrical Shock:

Remove the victim from contact with cause of the shock using a dry stick, rope, or anything that is a non-conductor of electricity, before beginning resuscitation treatment. Do not use your bare hands or anything wet; otherwise you may yourself receive a similar shock.

For Drowning:

Quickly take the victim from the water and place him on a board or other flat surface. Do not wait to reach a house or hospital, for haste is absolutely imperative. Make sure the victim's mouth is clear, then start artificial respiration without delay.

1. Lay patient on his stomach (see picture 1), one arm extended directly overhead, the other bent at the elbow. Turn the face outward and rest it on the crooked forearm in such a way that the mouth and nose are clear for breathing.

2. Kneel straddling the victim's thighs with knees placed at the proper distance to permit you to assume the position shown in picture No. 1. Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back, with fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, with fingers and thumb in a normal position and the tips of fingers just out of sight.

3. With arms held straight, slowly swing forward so that weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the patient (see picture 2). The shoulder should be directly above the heel of the hand at top of the movement. The elbows must not bend. The swing should take about two seconds.

4. Now slowly swing backward so as to completely remove the pressure from the victim (see picture 3).

5. After two seconds, slowly swing forward again. Continue this deliberate swing forward and backward twelve to fifteen times a minute, thus producing a complete respiration each four or five seconds.

6. Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored, if necessary for four hours or longer, or until a physician declares the victim is dead.

7. As soon as artificial respiration has been started, an assistant should loosen the clothing of the victim around neck, waist and chest. The patient should be kept warm, and no liquids should be given through the mouth until complete consciousness has returned.

8. To avoid strain on the heart, when the patient has been revived, he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand or sit up. If a doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, some stimulant should be given, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water, or a hot drink of tea of coffee.

9. Resuscitation should be carried on at the nearest possible point to where the emergency occurs. The patient should not be moved until he is breathing normally once more and then should be moved only in a lying position. If it is imperative due to weather conditions, to move the patient before normal breathing is resumed, resuscitation sholud be carried on while the moving is taking place.

10. A brief return of natural breathing is not a certain indication that artificial respiration can be halted with safety. Not infrequently the patient, after a brief period of normal respiration, stops breathing once more. The patient should be watched, and if the breathing stops again, resuscitation must be resumed at once.

11. In carrying out artificial respiration, it may be necessary to change the operator. It is necessary to make the change without interrupting the treatment or losing the rythm of the movement.

Ordinary tests for death sholud not be accepted as evidence that hope is gone, for though the heart action and breathing has stopped, it may still be possible to restore breathing and bring some victim back from the shadow of the grave. To meet any emergency this summer, every reader should learn the above simple procedure by heart and should practise it on a living subject. The knowledge may save a life.

Whistling Baby Amazes Press

SASKATOON, June 13 (CP) — Ability of Carol Ann Singer, 14-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Singer of this city, to whistle like a man has aroused a great deal of interest here.

A demonstration was given to a reporter who visited the Singer home. As the young mother danced with the baby in her arms, Carol began to whistle. It was not just a mild little tweet, but a loud whistle.

The baby made an attempt to follow a tune as her mother sang, but to Carol it was evidently just whistling for the mere joy of accomplishment and not to form any particular pattern.

It was startling to hear an infant whistling so blithely, Mrs. Singer said no effort had been made to teach her, and Carol Ann one day in New York when 10 months old startled them all by clearly trying to imitate a man who had walked down the hall of the apartment in which they lived.

The same man used to pass the apartment two or three times a day whistling popular tunes and the baby continued her efforts to imitate the sounds.

She whistled more at 10 months than she does now, Mr. Singer said.

Carol was born in February, 1937. Advanced in other ways, she says "hello" with perfect articulation, and pronounces her own name, that of her mother, the maid and other familiar persons easily. She dances to the radio when her mother holds her by the hand, and is obviously delighted with music.

FRANKLIN, Neb, June 13 (AP)— Rains have been so plentiful recently in this region, ravaged by drought last year, that even the telephone poles are growing. A number of green poles were used as replacements this spring and small leafy branches now are sprouting on them. The moisture also caused trouble for R. B. The Stars Say . . .

For Tuesday, June 14.

According to the lunar transits on this day, much may arise that may prove disturbing and aggravating. There are omens of contention, strife, enmity and vexation, if not downright bursts of passion, violence and consequent disaster. Safeguard all property, use prudence and forethought in all business relationships and be sure to keep a firm check on tongue and temper, lest loss and regret ensue.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may not enjoy a year of "plain sailing" and happy situations unless they take particular care not to run counter to some circumstances which may incite to quarrels, passionate exhibitions or ungovernable violence.

A child born on this day may have an unruly if not ungovernable temper, being quick and ready to "fly off the handle." But it may be enterpising, hard working, and constructive.

Beaten In Guelph

GUELPH, Ont., June 13 (CP)— Attacked by an unknown assailant, and beaten about the head at an early hour today, Albert Wakefield, 39 Toronto Street, Guelph, is in Guelph General Hospital.

Wakefield has severe head lacerations and scalp wounds received when he was beaten on Huskisson St. He came to police station this morning, covered with blood and told officers on duty he had been attacked on the street.

Condition Improved

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 13. — (CP)—Condition of Betty Smith, Brighton, injured when she struck an automobile while riding her bicycle is considerably improved. Dr. G. H. Stobie reported today. It is proposed to do considerable skin grafting immediately upon the healing of her lacerated nose which was nearly cut from her face by flying glass. An X-ray revealed no internal injuries.

Although the whale and hippopotamus have large mouths, they devour only small objects. The whale eats small crustaceans, while the huge hippo feeds mainly on reeds and river grasses.

Bug Eats Bug For Canada's Pest Ridding

OTTAWA, June 13 (CP) — Unknown quantities of larva yearly take orm to produce microscopic to 10-inch destroyers of food, plant life, forests, household materials and human life. The total determined annual loss from these dangerous insect pests is equal to the cost of a Dominion-wide educational system according to reports of the entomological branch of the agriculture department. Yearly losses are in the region of $15,000,000.

Competitors with man for the necessities of life, these pests, 600,000 kinds of which have been studied in the laboratories, are causing greater hardship to the country now than in any period in past history.

Grasshoppers, cutworms and wire worms destroy from five to 20 per cent. of the crops sown by farmers in the middle west. Insect damage to forests equals that done by fire. Millions of dollars worth of furs, cottons and silks are eaten by elusive silver moths. Numerous human lives are lost through dread illnesses caused by disease-carriers.

Latest damaging insect to demand the concentration of entomologists is the European spruce sawfly. Its increased outbreak in eastern Canada and the northeastern parts of the United States is causing vast areas of spruce forests to become infested and die, hindering greatly production of pulp and paper.

Came From Without

Most of the destructive insect pests in Canada are of foreign origin and are controlled by parasites in their native countries.

The idea of introducing parasites into Canada is to effect the so-called balance of nature—to establish the parasite in sections of Canada in the hope it will ultimately control the destructive species.

These parasites have proved a boon to entomologists in their campaign to rid the country of annoying pests. More than 40,000,000 parasites are reared yearly in the laboratories at Belleville, Ont., and distributed to various sections of Canada. Extensions are being added to the laboratories and it is reported that 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 parasites will be available to carry on the nation-wide fight this year.

Deceptive in size, the tiniest pin head beetles cause the most damage to the massive trees in the forests. The flamboyant moth or butterfly redeems the smal lamount of damage done to plants by its beauty to the countryside.

Just Enough Truth To Force Church Take Notice

HAMILTON, June 14 (CP)—Qualified approval of the criticism Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn directed upon United Church ministers at a luncheon meeting here yesterday came today from Rev. Norman Rawson, minister of Centenary United Church, who sat among the head table guests when the Premier spoke.

The terms in which the Premier expressed himself "should not be taken too literally," was Mr. Rawson's comment this morning in prefacing the statement—"There is just enough truth in what the Premier says that the church ought to take notice."

"The statement that the United Church is passing too many resolutions is one that I have made to my own congregation and have been pressing at both presbytery and conference.

"As far as I am concerned I realize that the Prime Minister was speaking ex tempore—he told us he had made no preparation.

"Very frequently under the impact of the crowd and the stimulus it gives one will give utterance to things he feels deeply upon and he must not be taken too literally.

"Listening to the Premier I felt he was smarting under a sense of injustice and while I do not agree fully on his strictures there is just enough truth in what he says that the church ought to take notice."

The Premier's Charges.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 14.—(CP)—The United Church of Canada faced charges today it had "lost touch with public sentiment," Premier Mitchell Hepburn lashed out yesterday at what he termed "sanctimonious, psalm-singing preachers" and "parlor socialists" in the United Church.

The Premier's unexpected attack came during an address to a convention meeting of the Ontario Retail Druggists Association. "A lot of people will think I will go straight to hell for making this statement," said the Premier.

Referring to the protest of United Church ministers in Toronto against the arrest of Lakeview relief strikers Premier Hepburn charged the United Church was losing its hold on the people because many of its ministers "won't grapple with realities."

Finds Little Backing

"I belong to the United Church myself," he continued. "I view with general alarm the attitude of those who feel that society owes them a living, but I view with greater alarm the attitude of those people who would not support the government in trying to remove that belief."

(At Brampton, Ont., Saturday seven residents of Lakeview, Ont., were found guilty of unlawful assembly in connection with a relief strike. Sentence has not yet been pronounced. Four of the demonstrators were arrested in Premier Hepburn's office when they appeared with a deputation at the Toronto Provincial Parliament Buildings.)

"We strive to do right and we will not be drawn aside, not even by the sob sisters such as we have in Toronto," he added.

United Counties To Cut Rate Mill And Half

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, June 14.—With a reduction of at least 1½ mills in this year's tax rate, the council of the united counties of Durham and Northumberland hopes to afford further evidence of the steadily improving financial condition of the twin muncipalities as a result of their deliberations at the June sessions which opened here Monday afternoon.

"The council will probably be able to cut the rate to nine mills," Major E. N. MacNachtan, counties clerk and treasurer, informed the Examiner at the close of yesterday's preliminaries, by way of suggesting an outcome of an estimated budget curtailment of $50,000. I hesitate to predict what the council will do," he added, "but I feel sure they can get the rate down to the even nine mills, and avoid a deficit for the year even on that basis."

$322,910 Budget

Major MacNachtan submitted to the finance committee last night a schedule of estimates for 1938 expenditures as a chart and guide in deciding the amount of money that will have to be collected from the taxpayers this year. The estimates in 1937 totalled $372,589.35 and for this year the corresponding sum is $322,910.77, a decline of $50,000 in the aggregate the people will have to provide for the administration of the municipal affairs of the united counties.

The taxpayers are now feeling the full benefit of the assistance they have received from the provincial government by its assumption of the cost of mothers allowances and old age pensions. It is also significant that the estimates for high and continuation schools this year are down from $100,000 to $67,400, reflecting further timely shifting of part of the tax burden from the counties to the province. In fact the united counties sky has cleared to such a broad extent that they are increas-

Widen Scope Of Inquiry Into Police

Citizens Be Asked To File Complaints With Affidavits

A proposed enquiry into two specific allegations relating to supervision of the police department will be extended to include any other complaints that may be filed with affidavits on or before June 27, the Police Commission decided this morning after hearing a deputation from the city council.

Judge Smoke informed the meeting that he had received several anonymous letters which intimated that the writers would appear before a public court of investigation if the opportunity was provided for them to be heard. In the possibility that some other complaints might be adduced, the Commission took the attitude that the public should be afforded to present any complaints which must be supported by sworn declarations as to their truth.

Request To Citizens

On Police Magistrate Gee's motion, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, S. R. Armstrong, clerk of the Commission, was authorized to have published in the Examiner an advertisement announcing that any grievances against the department should be filed at the city hall not later than Monday, June 27.

"In effect, the Commission's action this morning was to determine the scope of the proposed investigation which is already directed toward charges made by Harold L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner, relating to an incident involving Chief Newhall and Keith Copping, a former reporter, and by Joseph Wheeler, a member of the police force until several months ago.

After June 27 the Commission will know the number and nature of any charges to be heard, will so inform the council who in turn shall decide whether or not the enquiry is to be proceeded with. At that stage it will become a matter of paying the costs.

Judge Smoke informed the deputation today that the remuneration of a Judge who may be engaged should not be more than $25 a day.

Canadian Ace Bared As Homing Pigeon

DETROIT, June 14 (CP).—Herbert Stephen, news editor of the Printer's Ink, here for the convention of the Advertising Federation of America, told the story of an unusual rescue while on a tour of Henry Ford's blockhouse in Greenfield village.

In the blockhouse is the plane in which Col. James Fitzmaurice, then chief of the Irish Free State Air Force; Capt. Herman Koehl, and Baron Huenfeld had to make a forced landing on Greenly Island off the Canadian Atlantic coast in 1928, after a flight from Ireland.

Stephen told how Duke Schiller, Canadian flying ace, was sent by the New York World to take the stranded fliers back to the mainland, 200 miles distant. On the flight from the island, after the rescue, Fitzmaurice asked Schiller where they were.

"Don't know," Schiller replied laconically.

"Where's your map?"

"Haven't got any."

"Where's your compass?"

"Doesn't work."

At that point the airplane ran into a snowstorm. Fitzmaurice began to worry.

"Where are we going?" he asked once more.

"To meet some people," Duke assured him, plunging farther into the storm.

After some anxious moments, they dived out of the snow and landed on the ice, a difficult feat that Duke negotiated perfectly. Newsmen rushed to greet them as they stepped out of the plane.

Asked about the trip from Greenly, Fitzmaurice replied with emphasis, "That man Schiller is no pilot. He's a —homing pigeon."

Eight Killed

The eight members of the crew of a United States Army bombing airplane, were killed when the huge airplane burst into flames, during a severe electrical storm, and crashed in a field near Delevan, Ill. One of the members of the crew, Second-Lieut. Thomas Langben, INSET, was born in Toronto. Wreckage of the airplane, shown here, was scattered for 300 yards. It is thought that the airplane may have been hit by lightening.

Compulsory Cooperation Seen Railway Cure

Hungerford Opposes C.P.R. Merger Idea Sees Loss Of 30 Years In Closing Lines

OTTAWA, June 14 (CP).—Compulsory co-operation enforced by an arbitral tribunal, was proposed as a remedy for Canada's railway ills by president S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National Railways today. He advanced the suggestion as he presented to the Senate railways committee his case against unifications proposals of the Canadian Pacific Railways.

Co-operation would be developed under the Hungerford plan through a three-man board, the members nominees of railways and the chairman representing the "public interest." The board would endeavor to obtain agreement of the railways on co-operative projects "feasible, productive of economy and in the public interest."

If either railway refused to agree compulsion would be invoked through the arbitral tribunal which could be set up under the 1933 statute enabling co-operation.

Economies of $75,000,000 yearly, estimated in the C.P.R. plan, are largely unrealizable, president Hungerford declared in a 5,000-word brief attacking the unified management proposals of Sir Edward Beatty, C.P.R. president, laid the committee May 24. Those realizable could be obtained through co-operation without risking "the unknown perils of unification."

It was feasible to accomplish under co-operation everything in the public interest contained in the unification plan. Abandonment of 5,000 miles of lines, proposed in the Beatty brief, would set the transportation clock of Canada back 30 years. "The public interest is too much involved," he added.

Union Impractical

Mr. Hungerford told the committee the unification plan "has neither the merits of public or of private ownership and, in my opinion, is impractical and would conceivably lead to serious involvement of the state."

"Railway savings purchased at the expense of the development of Canada and of a wide disturbance in the already disturbed Labor and Material markets of the country would be too dearly obtained," he said. "The country instead of being better off would be worse off.

"Yet it is only to the extent that

R. A. Henry Says He Met Hogg First Nov. 4, '37

TORONTO, June 14.—(CP-.—R. A. Henry, general manager of Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company, told a special committee of the Ontario Legislature today that his first conference with Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in regard to renewal of power-purchase contracts cancelled in 1935 was on Nov. 4, 1937.

That was a "round-table conference" for the purpose of seeing what arrangements, if any, could be made, Mr. Henry said. Nothing of a definite nature materialized but the meeting was followed by another five days later at which both sides just felt each other out." A final agreement was reached Dec. 3.

The committee, inquiring into Hydro affairs, was set up after Leopold Macaulay, Conservative leader in the Legislature, charged that while Premier Hepburn last September publicly favored a "back-to-Niagar" power policy, he secretly negotiated with Beauharnois for renewal of the cancelled contracts.

Revised purchase agreement with Beauharnois and other Quebec power companies were put into force last December. A lower purchase price than that provided for in the original contracts was agreed upon. Certain controversial clauses in the old agreements were deleted.

Vast Bush Areas To Be Given Indian Trappers

Coast M.P. Demands Potlash Orgies Better Controlled

OTTAWA, June 14—(CP)—Vast areas of forestland in northern parts of the provinces from Quebec to British Columbia are to be set aside as restricted areas for fur-trapping mainly in the interests of Canada's increasing indian population. Work on these projects have already been undertaken.

These and other measures designed to make the Indian wards of the dominion self-supporting in the environment to which they are adapted were outlined in the House of Commons last night by resources Minister Crerar. The house was considering the $5,000,000 vote required to administer the Indian affairs branch.

In recent years the Indian population has been increasing by 1½ per cent a year and is now approximately 118,000. They are wards of the government which took from them their heritage in the lands they held before white men came to this continent.

Consideration of the Indian vote was featured by an appeal, accompanied by details of Indian orgies of earlier days, for strict enforcement of the law against the "Potlatch."

This ancient ceremony of Indians gathering for gift exchanging was declared by J. S. Taylor (Ind, Nanaimo) to still bear some of the most objectionable features of the old days and he wanted it stopped.

Potlatches Harmless Now

A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) who successfully opposed a move two years ago to tighten the penalties for potlatching, declared Mr. Taylor was delving deep into the past for his "horrors" and that present day potlatches were harmless affairs.

Mr. Taylor claimed the Potlatch as practiced on Vancouver Island had as late as 1935 involved two educated Indian girls returning to their reserve to be possessed by their "biological mortgagees" as the result of potlatch activities. They were mortgaged by their parents so they could take part in the potlatch.

Yesterday was comparatively calm in the House of Comomns when compared with the fiery debate on patronage which wound up last week's sessions, but there were two minor exceptions.

Find Prison Superintendent Has Whole System Thrown Into Confusion

Drastic Charges Include Riot Blame, Propose Commission Of 3 Run New Federal Centralized Set-Up

OTTAWA, June 14 (CP).—The report of the Royal Commission that investigated Canadian penitentiaries was tabled in the House of Commons today by Justice Minister LaPointe.

The royal commission was headed by Justice Joseph Archambault of Montreal and had as members R. W. Craig of Montreal and J. C. McRuer of Toronto. Altogether, it visited 113 institutions in nine counties, heard evidence from 1,840 inmates and 200 officers. Its report, running 400 pages, was accompanied by an official summary.

Relating to General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, the official summary stated:

"The commission reports against the present superintendent, Major-General D. M. Ormond, and recommends his immediate retirement from the service. The findings of the commission with respect to this officer are that he has failed to grasp the fundamental principles of penal administration, that he has intensified a militaristic control of the penitentiary service, that he has unreasonably curtailed the authority of the wardens and minimized the usefulness of the inspectors, and that he has failed to confer with the wardens or inspectors or to obtain information adequate personal investigation, but that he has devoted his time to small matters of administrative detail, and that, by his voluminous correspondence and mulitude of circular letters, he has thrown the service into confusion.

"Regulations drafted by him, when he was inexperienced and new to the service, were composed without consulting the wardens, suggestions being rebuffed, and the regulations were arbitrarily put into effect. He has summarily dismissed a large number of officers from the service without specific cause or opportunity for hearing.

Encouragement Needed.

"Under a proper system of classification, a grades and merit system, such as is in effect in England, could be put into effect with a view to encouraging good conduct and reformation. Extension of privileges, such as smoking and indoor recreation should be granted as privileges and not as rights.

"There is no object in severity as such. In Canadian penitentiaries the effect of the present treatment of inmates is to break down their morale and diminish any chances they may have to reform and rehabilitation. To combat this destructive effect, recreation, education, medical care, religious instruction, employment, and the incentive of prison pay, are recommended as valuable influences."

Regarding recreation, the Commission found there were insufficient concerts and lectures in penitentiaries. News of the outside world was too restricted and it recommended distribution of a weekly newspaper.

Britain Studies Safety Zone Port In Spain

LONDON, June 14 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Great Britain planned no retaliatory action because of the bombings of British shipping in the Mediterranean, but was trying to work out a system of safety zones to end the attacks.

In his eagerly-awaited statement at the first session following parliament's Whitsuntide recess, Mr. Chamberlain said two proposals had been made which "might go some way toward cessation of these attacks."

The first provides for the establishment of safety zones in certain harbors, which "although it presents considerable difficulties is being actively investigated," the Prime Minister said.

The second plan, he continued, was proposed Saturday by the Spanish insurgent government: That "a port in Spanish government territory should be selected outside the zone of military operations for the use of British ships, which could enter or leave it unhindered."

22 British Ships Raided.

Mr. Chamberlain spoke to a tense House, for during the four days ending June 10—while parliament was in recess—five British ships were sent to the bottom.

(All the bombings occurred in Spanish government ports and the attacking planes were believed to be insurgent craft).

Mr. Chamberlain reported that since April 11, 22 British ships had been attacked.

"Eleven of these ships have been sunk or seriously damaged, and in several cases the attack appears to have been deliberate," the Prime Minister said.

"His Majesty's Government has considered retaliatory action of various kinds, but they are not prepared to embark on such measures, which, apart from their inherent disadvantages, cannot be relied upon to achieve their object."

Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, announced at conclusion of the Prime Minister's statement, that "in view of the grave issues" involved, Labor would press for an early debate on the subject.

Heenan Is Given Labor Post No Cabinet Shuffle Now

TORONTO, June 14—(CP)—Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests will assume the portfolio of Labor left vacant by the death of Hon. M. M. MacBride, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced today.

Mr. Heenan will be sworn in as Labor Minister late today since urgent departmental business requires the attention of a minister. However, the Premier indicated the appointment could be regarded as "a temporary expedient." It is understood Mr. Hepburn was unwilling to re-shuffle his cabinet at the present. When asked, "will there be a cabinet organization before the next session?" the Premier answered: "I would not say that there would not be one."

Mr. Hepburn announced writs will be issued late today for a by-election in Brantford which seat Mr. MacBride held in the Legislature. The final date had not been selected up to noon but the Premier said it would be "some time late in July."

Kicks In Door To Stop Burglar Alarm Disturbing Drink

New York, June 14 (AP).

THE PHILOSOPHY that a man needs peace and quiet to enjoy a glass of beer won a suspended sentence yesterday for Martin Lyons, 35, of Dublin, on charge of disorderly conduct.

Lyons explained he kicked in the glass door of a delicatessen at 4 a.m. today to shut off the clamor of a burglar alarm.

"There was no peace as I'm entitled to by the Constitution," he said, "and I couldn't enjoy my suds next door. So I gently lifted my foot and the window fell in, more from the breeze than the blow."

Bears Too Tame

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 14 (AP) — The State Game Commission hunted a new home to-day for two bears recently released in the Toadaghton Forest. Fishermen complained the bears, accustomed to wardens feeding them, frequently would come splashing along a trout stream, scaring more than the fish.

There was no one aboard. The vessel's registry number was missing. But Henry Michiels, harbor master, learned that the boat belonged to Sheffer.

Mrs. Sheffer and their son, Eric, three months old, were at her parents' home in Dubuque, Ia.

Cleric Balks At Marrying Heiress, Butter-Egg Man

NEW YORK, June 14.—(AP). — An Episcopal clergyman who said, "I don't care to marry two people of varying social and financial standing," to-day upset the wedding plans of 18-year-old Andrea Luckenbach, shipping heiress, and William Dobbs, 22, butter and egg salesman and amateur rider.

The minister was the Rev. William Grimes, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, at Great Neck, Long Island, who was to have officiated at the wedding this afternoon.

The Rev. Grimes denied that either disapproval on the part of Andrea's father, Commodore Edgar F. Luckenbach, multi-millionaire shipping magnate, or fear of a reprimand from his ecclesiastical superiors had led him to decline to perform the ceremony.

"I have a principle," he explained.

The groom-to-be's mother, Mrs. Henry Reston of Forest Hills, Long Island, said the wedding would "go on as scheduled," though she did not know where it would be held.

Commodore Luckenbach, head of the shipping line which bears his name, has frowned on the match, declaring Andrea is still "too young."

Miss Luckenbach will inherit $1,000,000 three years hence from the estate of her mother, the late Andrea Maria Fenwick Luckenbach, of Toronto.

Woman Is Victim Of Scarlet Fever

Scarlet fever claimed its second victim in Peterborough on Monday night when Mrs. Charles Anderson, 253 Park street, died in the Queen Mary Isolation hospital.

She had been admitted to the hospital on Friday evening and died of complications that set in. Scarlet fever alone was not the cause of death, according to health officials. The body was removed immediately to Millbrook for burial, which by health regulations, must take place within twenty-four hours of death. The first death from scarlet fever occurred early this spring.

Duff-Howe Tiff Bares Details Of A Boat Deal

OTTAWA, June 14—(CP)—How the former government ice-breaker Mikula, was apparently sold by captain Wallace Ogilvy, Liverpool, N. S., to a Clydesside shipbroking firm for $70,000 some months before Ogilvy himself bought the vessel from the Canadian Government at a price of $50,000, was told to the Senate last night by government leader Dandurand, in a statement prepared for him by Transport Minister Howe.

In Mr. Howe's story of the transaction Senator William Duff (Lib. Lunenburg) appeared as calling several times on the minister "to press the claims of Captain Ogilvy."

The matter was disclosed when, on a question of privilege, Mr. Dandurand told the house he had felt obliged to direct Mr. Howe's attention to some disparaging remarks made about the minister last Wednesday by Senator Duff.

Mr. Duff had stated Mr. Howe introduced the transport bill to protect "certain interests on the great lakes in which he was interested." Mr. Dandurand read a letter from Mr. Howe that he never had a financial interest in any shipping company.

The "animus" between the Senator and himself had developed out of the sale of the Mikula more than a year ago, Mr. Howe's communication on the Mikula incident said. He traced how he had sought to sell the boat for icebreaking purposes in England, and how Captain Ogilvy, president of the Maritime Navigation Co., Ltd., had offered the government $10,000. $15,000 and $17,000 for the ship. All offers had been rejected.

Worth $30,000 for Scrap.

During that period, Mr. Howe's letter said, Senator Duff had asked what the scrap value of the Mikula was and was given the figure of $30,000. Some days later Ogilvy offered that amount, but was told to communicate with the salvage officer of the Government Contracts Supervision Committee.

"A day or so later Senator Duff called on me and stated in most abusive language that I had double-crossed him by having suggested a price of $30,000 and then refusing to accept a bid for that amount," Mr. Howe's communication said.

Eventually tenders were invited in Canada for sale of the Mikula and offers ranging from $6.00 to $41,000 were received. A final offer of $50,000 from Ogilvy's Company was accepted some time after March 31 of last year.

Replying to the Government Leader, Senator Duff denied having been discourteous to Mr. Howe, but said the minister had, in the corridors of the Parliament Buildings, where "every policeman could hear" called him a "d——d big windbag."

The ship had been sold to Ogilvy only when the latter "threatened to expose the thing in the newspapers," Mr. Duff said.

Crops Look Good

SARNIA, Ont., June 14 (C.P.).—The Employment Office here reports crops in the district are so promising the demand for farm help has been the heaviest in years. As a result, the list of experienced farmers listed as unemployed here has been about exhausted. Wages are reported slightly higher than usual.

Haying Under Way In Hastings Area

TORONTO, June 14 (CP)—Crops in most parts of Ontario are in excellent condition, although growth in the northern part of the province has been retarded by cold weather, the Ontario Department of Agriculture announced today in its weekly crop report.

A plentiful supply of moisture has helped the outlook of farmers in Sudbury district, despite the cool weather there. In Temiskaming district, several warm showers during the past few days have allowed for progress and prospects are good for an abundant harvest.

Hay has advanced rapidly and new seedings are good in western Ontario, where fall wheat is showing head in some places. Lincoln, in southern Ontario, reported fall wheat nearly fully headed in some fields with rye also in head. In Wentworth district much corn was planted during the week while earlier corn is growing well.

In Hastings county some sweet clover hay has been cut and alfalfa is coming in fast. Muskoka and Parry Sound reported plenty of rain and most spring grain fields "looking very promising."

The report says that warm weather is needed in Dundas county, while Frontenac has a "very light" hay crop. Prospects are good for hay and grain in Grenville county, where there will be "considerably more red clover than has been for years."

ed to the cells, be transferred to the recreational periods. The commission disapproved of installation of radios with loud speakers. There could be no objection to radio if ear phones were supplied, but it opposed the present method of purchasing equipment by contributions from inmates.

The Commission found that education was being neglected in penitentiaries.

Turning to medical services, the Commission recommended the services of psychologists and psychiatrists. Hospitals should have wards instead of cells and facilities should be provided for segregation of mental, contagious and infectious cases. Special wards should be reserved for tubercular prisoners. Another recommendation was for safety razors, metal mirrors, and more frequent opportunities for bathing and shaving.

Misled Public in Reports

"He has interpreted the regulations with undue severity, and, in the punishment of prisoners, he has violated their provisions. He has failed adequately to investigate the misuse of firearms and the ill-treatment of prisoners. He has issued misleading reports to the public and for presentation to parliament by the minister.

"His arbitrary manner has antagonized the personnel of the service and been a major contributing cause of the riots and disturbances that have taken place in the penitentiaries since his appointment. His evidence before the commission was unsatisfactory, and he has completely lost the confidence of the staffs in all the penitentiaries."

Want Inspector Ousted

There are three inspectors in the present penitentiary setup and the commission recommends that one of them, inspector J. D. Dawson be transferred out of that service.

The official summary stated: "In the cases of inspector Dawson and inspector Craig (now warden of Collin's Bay penitentiary, Kingston, Ont.), inspections made in particular instances, namely, the shooting into the cell of a prisoner at Kingston penitentiary and coal shortages at that institution, were highly unsatisfactory, and their findings were unjustified erroneous, and misleading.

"The commission finds that inspector Dawson failed to perform his duties in a creditable manner in making important inquiries and that he has little knowledge of penitentiary management, and recommends that he should be transferred out of the penitentiary service."

Urge 3 Man Rule

On the commission's major recommendation of a prison commission, the summary read:

"The commission recommends that the positions of superintendent and inspectors be abolished and that a prison commission of three members, removable only for cause, should immediately be established to administer the prison service of Canada, that such commission should have power to appoint staff and act as a central parole board, and that it should be responsible directly to the minister of justice and parliament.

"The success of the prison commission of England has impressed the commission with the advisability of establishing a similar set-up in Canada. It is recommended that an outstanding English authority be invited to visit Canada to advise the Canadian prison commission in its reorganization of the Canadian penal system.

A Centralized System

"The commission also recommends that the entire penal system of Canada be centralized under the Federal Government and that the provinces retain only sufficient institutions to accommodate those convicted under provincial statutes, or for short sentences, or on remand.

"Canada and the United States are the only countries that do not possess a centralized penal system.

"There is no constitutional basis for the present division of jurisdiction by two-year sentences in Canada. The difficulties of centralization, largely geographical, could be overcome by Federal-Provincial co-operation. An immediate conference between the Dominion and Provincial Governments is recommended.

"It is impossible to reduce crime appreciably or satisfactorily to reorganize the penal system of Canada under divided jurisdiction with the consequent lack of proper classification and segregation, lack of uniformity of treatment, and without continuity of policy. Wasteful duplication of penal establishments is the cause of unnecessary expense. The lack of uniform classification and treatment under divided jurisdiction is the cause of increased recidivism.

At present comparatively few criminals are placed in Federal institutions and recommended reforms cannot be made effective if the majority of criminals are first to be treated in municipal, county, or provincial institutions under varying methods of penal management. Pending centralization of control and uniformity of treatment, closer co-operation should be established with the provinces."

One Handicap.

The commission found that penitentiary discipline was handicapped by lack of classification and segregation and by application of one set of rules to all prisoners.

The summary went on: "There are too many regulations, too many trivial offences punishable in a drastic manner. This produces a bad effect on the morale of the prisoners and interferes with the possibility of their reform.

"Segregation of agitators without trial should only be used in exceptional cases and in strict compliance with the rules.

Too Much Strap

"Corporal punishment is too frequently awarded, and for to many offences. Straps used in Canadian penitentiaries are condemned because of the holes punched in them.

"The method of dealing with prison offences is unsatisfactory. The Commissions recommends that prison offences should be tried before a prison court composed of three officers, that the rules governing prison offences should be simplified and that there should be a right of appeal.

"Corporal punishment should be abolished except for mutiny, incitement of mutiny, and assaulting officers or other prisoners.

"No prsvision has been made for appeals from sentences of the prison court and there is no outlet for grievances. Prisoners have rioted to attract attention to their grievances. In England this situation has been met by the appointment of a board of visitors. A similar board is recommended for Canada. It should be composed of a judge, a social welfare worker, and a medical doctor, and be appointed by the Prison Commission.

"The duties of such a board would be to visit and inspect the penitentiaries, hear complaints and appeals, and report to the Prison Commission."

Grievance Outlet Needed

The lack of an outlet for grievances and lack of vigilance in discovering and correcting injustices have disturbed penitentiary discipline for years, the report continued. During the past 11 years, there were 20 disturbances, 16 under the administration of General Ormond. They resulted in two prisoners being killed, several prisoners and officers injured and property damage of $123,350.

"Injustices should be corrected before prisoners are driven to rioting," the summary said. "If privileges are sought by rioting they should not be granted.

"At the trial of prisoners who participated in the riots at Kingston penitentiary in October, 1932, it was disclosed that there had been a grave misuse of firearms by officers.

An Inadequate Probe

"The Commission finds that the investigation conducted by the superintendent in this regard was entirely inadequate. There was brutal and inhuman treatment of prisoners which called for searching inquiry and the finding of responsibility. Reports made by the inspectors were inadequate and misleading. The memorandum of the superintendent to the minister, based on these reports, was misleading, and was prepared in an attempt to justify what had taken place.'"

The Commission dealt exhaustively with classification and segregation of prisoners. It found that, although provision had been made for classification boards at each penitentiary, the regulation was not being observed.

"Classification and segregation cannot be made entirely effective under divided jurisdiction," the summary continued. Young prisoners are often contaminated by association with confirmed criminals in municipal, county, and provincial institutions where there are no facilities for segregation.

"Before penal treatment can fulfill its function of curbing crime there must be unified control and specific classification and segregation involving special treatment of youths and first offenders, the removal of insane and habitual offenders to separate institutions, the segregation of the mentally deficient, and the classification of the remaining prisoners by previous record, social habits, physical condition, education, aptitudes, etc.

Too Little Church Interest

Touching on chaplain services, the commission said the churches had taken too little interest in discharged prisoners. Religious literature should be provided. Chaplains should not wear uniforms or be regarded as penitentiary officers. Compulsory attendance at religious services should not be enforced.

Major Chinese Catastrophe Looms In Yellow River

Bombing Of Dykes Boomerangs On Japs Forcing Retreat Before Boiling Floods

SHANGHAI, June 14 (AP).—Flood waters cascading through breached dikes of the mighty Yellow river blocked the Japanese before Chengchow today, while engineers familiar with the ways of the meandering stream feared one of the greatest catastrophes of the century would result.

Chinese reports from the front said the Japanese had been forced to withdraw as far as Kaifeng, 43 miles east of Chengchow on the Lunghai railway.

These reports said the boiling yellow water was 10 feet deep north of Chungmow, about 25 miles east of Chengchow, that numerous villages were inundated, and that the flood was two and three feet deep at several points where it crossed the Lunghai railway.

Deliberate destruction of the dikes, which in many places confine the river to a course above the level of the surrounding country, by Japanese artillery fire and airplane bombing, and by the Chinese themselves to impede the invader, was said by these experts to be largely responsible for the present overflow. However, there have been heavy rains, too.

John Earl Baker, at present head of the International Red Cross relief work here and formerly investigating engineer for the Yellow River Commission, said the course of the flood might strike anywhere on a rough line between Chengchow and Suchow, then into the Grand canal and along the old bed of the river through North Kiangsu province to the sea.

The old river bed entered the sea 200 miles south of the present outlet on the other side of the Shantung peninsula.

This course would sweep across much of the area now occupied by Japanese troops and lines of communications established in their Shantung campaign to cut the east-west Lunghai railway for an advance upon Hankow, China's provisional capital, 300 miles south of Chengchow.

The river, besides cutting off the Japanese advance and hindering its communications, was sending a stream of Chinese peasant refugees toward the west, driven from their homes by the rising waters.

Ancient Tragedy Revealed In Pile Of Bones

TORONTO, June 14. — A pile of human bones, a metal box of ancient workmanship and a chisel-shaped steel rod are clues from which it may be possible to piece together the dramatic story of an unknown prospector of more than half a century ago, who was probably the first of his kind to penetrate into the mystery of the great Cobalt field of Northern Ontario.

Who he was, where he came from and where he was headed when the wilderness conquered him and left his bones to whiten in the sun is not known. The mystery belongs to the vast north country, but the bones, the box, and the steel rod may be the means of wresting the secret of the intrepid adventurer's identity from the grasp of the bushland.

First Northern Prospector.

Certain it is that one man prospected in Northern Ontario's pre-Cambrian shield long before the arrival of geologists at the turn of the century. They believed their expedition was the first. But the unknown who gambled and lost in the search for gold, left behind the proof that he was the pioneer.

In a letter to John Work, Head Clerk of the Ontario Department of Mines, J. A. Claremont, Master of Titles at Cochrane, reports that a trapper recently discovered a pile of human bones, a bag of decomposed, broken rocks, and a strange wrought iron box of ancient craftsmanship.

A trapper, whose name is not known, found the relics thirty miles south-west of Smooth Rock Falls, on the shore of Oke Lake, Oke Township. He brought in from the bush a human ankle bone, forty-five pounds of rock, the iron box, and a chisel-shaped steel rod, 14 inches long.

Most interesting of the find was the metal box. It is six inches long, four inches wide, and one inch deep. In its cover is set a strong magnifying glass, and the box is equipped with silver or pewter handles.

Box Is Clue.

"I believe it will be possible to trace the dead man's identity through this box," said Mr. Work, "from its description it sounds like equipment used by Hudson's Bay Company geologists of more than fifty years ago."

In his letter, Mr. Claremont said nothing like the box had been seen by him before. "It was evidently used for carrying acids to test rocks,

(ANCIENT TRAGEDY)

The commission found that employment was "sadly deficient in Canadian penitentiaries. Little opportunity exists for learning a useful trade. A great deal of the prisoner's time is spent in demoralizing idleness."

The commission recommended a survey to determine what goods needed by the government could be manufactured in the penitentiaries. Workshops should be equipped properly and instructors should be competent. There was no official of the penitentiaries branch competent to supervise work on the prison farms, with the result they were operated at a loss.

Regarding prison pay, the summary read:

"Pay given to prisoners in Canadian penitentiaries is merely a negative check on idleness and not the positive stimulus to industry which is provided in other countries.

"The commission recommends prison pay be based on application as well as production. In Canada there is an atmosphere of idle indifference in the workshops which contrasts with that in other countries."

The Women's Side.

Turning to women prisoners, it read: "Few women are placed in federal penitentiaries and all of these are confined in a central prison at Kingston. There is no need for this expensive central institution. The women could better be cared for in reformatories nearer their homes. Girls should never be committed to institutions except in extreme cases.

"The construction of the women's prison was highly unsatisfactory and demonstrated the usual incompetence. The capital cost per inmate is $11,000 and the cost of upkeep is $750 per inmate. In addition there is a high cost of transportation."

The commission recommended that insane prisoners be removed to provincial institutions. Drug addicts should be segregated.

Revision of the criminal code also was urged. The definition of "vagrancy" should be rewritten, there should be provision for payment of fines in installments and the sale of firearms drastically restricted.

The summary then went on: "The commission recommends that individual cases should be investigated after conviction, but before sentence, so that discrepancies in sentences for similar offences should be minimized.

5 Held In Shooting Of Ex-Convict

NEW YORK, June 14 —(AP) — Five witnesses were questioned today by police investigating the slaying last night of Edward Kenny, 32, a former convict once accused of killing Mrs. Jack (Legs) Diamond, widow of the gangster.

Kenny, a longshoreman, was shot four times as he sat alone drinking beer in a lower west side bar. His killer, a dapper young gunman, escaped in a waiting car.

During a hectic, crime-crowded career, Kenny was arrested for petty larceny, burglary, unlawful entry, robbery, assault with a revolver, murder, vagrancy and rape.

In 1933 he and Mrs. Flo Palmer Flynn, known as "Three Fingers Flo,' were charged with killing her husband, Silas Flynn, to collect $1,400 in insurance.

Five days later Mrs. Diamond, a confident of Mrs. Flynn, was shot to death in her brooklyn apartment. Police, convinced Kenny had slain Mrs. Diamond to keep her from "squealing," charged him with homicide, but he was never convicted.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, June 14. — The western section of the W.M.S. Cobourg Presbyterial convened in Baltimore United church on Thursday. Mrs. J. B. Reynolds, Port Hope, first vice-president of the Presbyterial, presided. Mrs. D. M. Smith, of Baltimore, extended a gracious welcome to the delegates, and Mrs. J. G. Findlay, of Colborne, responded.

The Courtesy committee was named as follows: Mrs. Johnson, Grafton, Mrs. L. Turner, Roseneath, and Mrs. E. Lean of Camborne. Mrs. A. Neill, Roseneath, acted as recording secretary.

The worship service was in charge of Camborne Auxiliary, Mrs. J. May presiding. The topic was taken by Mrs. Palmateer.

Brief reports from department secretaries gave valuable insight into the activities of each department.

Mrs. W. J. Jibb, secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance reported the work up to the present, as a year of progress. She threw out a challenge to the members to enroll new members, as at present two-thirds of the women of the church are not W.M.S. members. Mrs. Jibb also explained the new financial policy launched for the allocation, by membership, as formerly.

Mrs. William Calder, Community Friendship secretary, illustrated by poster how the work of this department proceeds. Mrs. W. S. Gillespie summed up the duties of the press secretary thus, to make her community missionary conscious.

World Peace.

Mrs. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, read a paper on 'World Peace.' It spoke of the horror and wastage of war, of present day conditions in Europe and pointed to the unfortified international boundary line between Canada and the United States. Concluding with the statement that true and lasting peace can only come when we truly seek peace by outlawing world war thus peace might be attained.

One of the most interesting features was a discussion of problems in open forum, led by Mrs. Mears and Mrs. A. J. Moore of Port Hope, Mrs. W. E. Mellson of Welcome and Mrs. S. J. Gray of Garden Hill. In all, sixteen problems were discussed during the day. The discussion was rapid, interesting and brought to light much information and many helpful suggestions.

At 12.30 the gathering adjourned for lunch served by members of the Baltimore auxiliary. The tables presented an attractive appearance spread with white, crosed with blue and yellow crepe bands, decorated with spring flowers and loaded with delicious viands.

The Centreton Auxiliary had charge of the quiet half hour, following the opening exercises. Mrs. J. McKenzie presided. The scripture lesson, the parable of the good shepherd, was read by Mrs. F. Birney. Mrs. R. Stewart and Mrs. A. Nichol sang a duet, "I Need My Father's Care." The topic, "The More Abundant Life," was taken by Mrs. Mabel Waywell. Mrs. Maywell has been dedicated to work at Moose Mountain, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. S. McBride led in prayer, concluding the worship period.

Mrs. J. G. Findlay and Mrs. W. J. Jibb spoke feelingly of the loss sustained by the presbyterial through the recent tragic death of Mrs. H. Flindall of Smithfield.

Mrs. C. B. Kelly of Port Hope, who spent fourteen years in China, during the time her husband served as a medical missionary, was an interesting speaker as she spoke from two standpoints, the life of the Cinese woman and the life of the missionary, how they touch at some points and diverge at others. Mrs. Kelly had on exhibit many curios and articles of wearing apparel.

Interesting Playlet.

A playlet staged by the Cobourg Evening Auxiliary, illustrated how the diligence of one woman in Christian stewardship, waked up the membership of a society to the real meaning of stewardship.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill, president of Cobourg presbyterial, brought a message from the Dominion Board meeting she attended just recently. Mrs. Terrill remarked on the optimistic outlook of the delegates attending from the dried out area in Western Canada.

Gores Landing Auxiliary extended an invitation for the 1939 sectional meeting, which was accepted.

Mrs. L. Turner reported for the Courtesy committee and Mrs. Terrill of Grafton, closed the session with prayer.

The church was filled for both sessions. Baskets of spring flowers adorned the chancel and the Sunday school room. This sectional was counted one of the best meetings yet held.

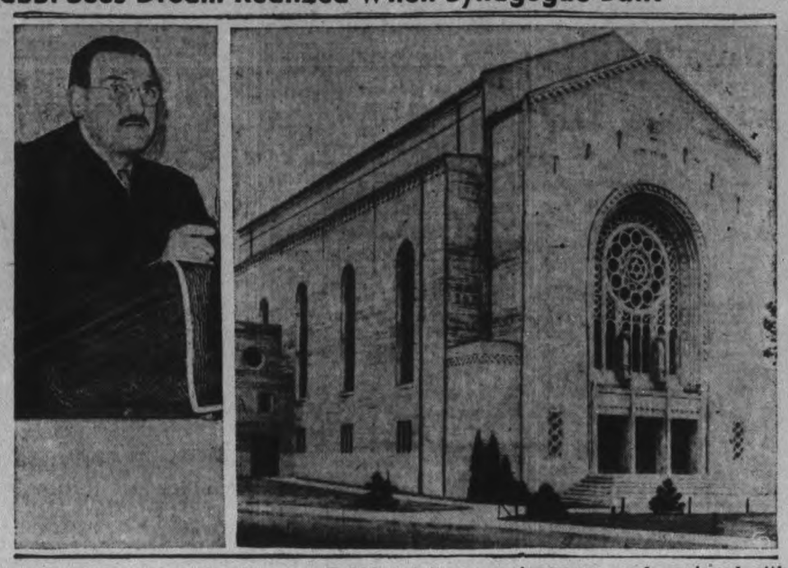
Rabbi Sees Dream Realized When Synagogue Built



Climaxing a dream of many years, Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath, of Toronto, LEFT, saw the realization of his dreams when the recently completed Holy Blossom synagogue was officially opened. The imposing edifice, RIGHT, is built of monolithic concrete and houses one of the most modern religious schools in the Dominion. It is divided into many classrooms, each equipped with air conditioning and special lighting. The temple itself is lofty and of simple design. It will seat 1,200 people. Administrative offices, small chapels, a library and a spacious auditorium for social events are also housed in the building.

Masonic Temple Is Dedicated At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 14.—Over four hundred and fifty Masons from all parts of Ontario attended the dedicatory services of the new Masonic Temple in Campbellford on Monday evening, when Most Rev. Brother Derwyn T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of All Canada, gave the address of the evening. It was the occasion to which members of the Golden Rule Lodge had been looking forward for nearly twenty-five years, and the temple was itself the culmination of a task which had begun nearly a year ago.

F. C. Bonnycastle introduced the speaker, who began by saying that Masonry was one of the strongest bulwarks against subversive doctrines in life. He paid a tribute to the builders of the new Temple and drew a fitting parallel between its building and the building of lives. "We build the house in which we live by the way we think and by the dreams we have." "Adversity is the strongest kind of building material, but it is hard to handle and makes the strongest kind of foundation."

Leisure time is also an important builder of character. Most men think they are busy and it has been said that what a man does with his working time he puts in his pockets and what he does with his leisure he adds or substracts from his character. You cannot build character unless you are able "to take it" and to bear responsibility.

W. J. Dunlop, of Toronto, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, headed the list of visiting dignitaries and referred to the purpose of the lodge meetings as a means of enjoyment in a way of gaining pleasure from helping others. Other visitors included J. A. Dobbie, Deputy Grand Master, Ottawa; Ewart G. Dickson, Grand Secretary; H. W. Roche, District Deputy Grand Master of the Peterborough District, Havelock.

A welcome to the visitors was extended by Frank Menzies on behalf of the lodge and by His Worship Mayor F. F. Long. Among those assisting on the program were Messrs. Mac Gordon, Cecil Searles and Clifford Hall, all of Peterborough, while Charles Allan and A. Hazel led in community singing. An interesting portion of the program was the presentation made on behalf of the members of the Golden Rule Lodge by H. T. Scott to A. J. Meyers, who headed the building committee and drew up the plans and supervised the construction of the Temple. Dr. O. C. Watson was the toastmaster of the evening.

Lakefield Bride Guest Of Friends

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 14.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker, Regent Street, Lakefield, was the scene of much merriment on Friday evening last when about twenty friends of Mrs. Walker (nee Beatrice Charlton) gathered to present the popular bride with a shower of kitchenware, and to spend a delightful social evening in the bride's new home. Shortly after eight o'clock the party arrived en masse and were received by Mrs. S. J. Charlton, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Walker. When all were seated Miss Marian Payne delivered a humorous and friendly address on behalf of those present.

At this point, Misses Grace Yonge and Grace Watson carried in a large and gaily decorated basket which they presented to the bride. On inspection the basket was found to contain a complete selection of kitchenware in ivory and red to match the bride's kitchen, which is finished in the same shades. Miss Payne, amidst much merriment, assisted the bride in unwrapping her gifts.

Mrs. Walker thanked her friends sincerely for their gifts and their good wishes. A delightful evening was spent in novel games. Everyone contributed to the general air of jollity by joining in the games and a variety of unusual contests. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Mrs. W. E. Gillman, Misses Marian Payne, Grace Yonge, Grace Watson, and Willene Payne served delicious refreshments.

The W.A. of St. John's Church held a picnic at McCracken's Landing at the summer home of Rev. and Mrs. Creighton last week. The day was cool and dull, but Mrs. Creighton had a cheery fire blazing in the large stone fireplace. Soon all had made themselves comfortable, and two long tables were set with all manner of good foods. After a very hearty dinner, the party broke into groups, some knitting or chatting by the fire, others playing bridge or euchre, while others walked along the shore, the weather being clear and bright by this time. After an early supper, all left for home after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Creighton for their hospitality.

Smith Township Farmer Has Lost Two Horses

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YOUNG'S POINT, June 14. — Farmers about Young's Point joined today in a search for the poison that has already killed two of Josiah Bullock's horses and is now threatening a third.

Early Monday one of the horses became ill and a Peterborough veterinary was notified. While he was present at the Bullock farm, just above Young's Point on the 15th Concession of Smith, another horse took sick. The same afternoon the first horse died, Monday night the second one died, and another became ill. This morning the third horse was in a critical condition.

The veterinary pronounced the cause of death poison, was unable to name it, but suggested it might be a weed. The horses had been grazing in pasture.

Concerned about the loss of their neighbor's valuable animals, farmers in the entire district began a search across the Bullock farm for the poison.

Thieves Grab $2,000 From Windsor Store

WINDSOR, Ont., June 14 (CP) —A thief snatched a black leather bag containing $2,000 in cash and several cheques from Mrs. L. C. Richards, secretary of Phillips Meat Markets, Ltd., Windsor, on Monday as she was getting in her car preparatory to taking the money to a downtown bank. The "snatcher" then jumped on the running board of a tan colored sedan driven by another man and the car disappeared around a corner.

The robbery occurred in the south-eastern section of the city, seven blocks from Central Windsor. Police traced the car to the south-eastern limits, then lost the trail. Descriptions obtained of the two robbers were meagre. They were said to have been unarmed.

We Live Sensibly

There is a small section of the state of Maine sticking into Quebec something like a wedge or a large sliver. The people who live there are somewhat shut off from dealing with their own people, and in consequence have to do their shopping in Canada and pay duty on the supplies they need.

Jean-Francois Pouliot, M.P. for Temiscouata, proposed in the House of Commons that something be done about it. He would merely take over that little strip of territory from Maine and attach it to the Dominion of Canada.

Word from Washington says nothing of the sort will be done, and the suggestion is made that if the people in that corner of the republic must get their supplies in Canada then arrangements will be made so they can do so without having to pay duty. So that's that. We are not going to have a chance to get that little sliver of the state of Maine.

Of course the incident never did amount to much—if anything at all—and that fact in itself is worth considering. On this continent the suggestion can be openly made that we take a bit of Maine from United States, and United States can reply that the matter will be fixed up some other way and no person gets excited. Not a soldier was sent there to see what was going on, and no rush plans were made to build a fortification or erect a placement for artillery. But that is what would have happened in Europe if France or Germany had made the claim that the line fence should be altered to the extent of a foot of ground. As between nations on this continent we live rather sensibly.

They Are In Agreement

In the fourth column of this page today the Examiner publishes the official report of a debate in the House of Commons. It does this almost every day. It shows in an unbiased and accurate way the manner in which debates are conducted. The one published today was between Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, and Hon. R. B. Bennett leader of the Opposition, and it deals with the desirability of having the employment service of the country operated in such a way that it might be beyond political control.

The debate published today is worth reading because it shows Mr. Rogers and Mr. Bennett to be in entire agreement. When Mr. Bennett was in office he found conditions similar to those which have come to the attention of Mr. Rogers. The Dominion government pays a portion of the costs of operating employment offices in the various provinces, but the provincial governments have the making of the appointments, so in that way control of the situation is in the hands of provincial governments. Both these gentlemen agree that situation lends itself to political favoritism in the making of appointments and the giving out of employment, and they agree also that there should be nothing of the kind done.

In this case it is not a newspaper or any individual expressing an opinion, nor is it the recital of a rumor or a theory. It is the plain admission of two capable men, a Liberal and a Conservative, each of whom has had opportunity to see the thing in actual operation. We merely call attention to the debate and leave it at that. Comment in such a case is not necessary.

How Hazards Increase

Leaving out of consideration the fatal car accidents of a week-end it is worth while considering two cases where there were no fatal injuries. The unusual feature is that in two car accidents 17 persons were injured.

In Toronto two cars crashed at the corner of Carlton and Jarvis streets, and the list of those injured included a pedestrian and a cyclist, both of whom might have been regarded as having nothing whatever to do with the cars or their operation.

A short distance north of Newmarket one car going north and another south collided and 11 persons were injured. The report indicates that none of the injuries was serious, but all had to be taken to the hospital for the treatment of cuts and bruises.

Perhaps drivers do not often think of the added responsibility which is theirs because of others riding in the car. This multiplicity of people increases the accident hazard in this way—in these two cases there were four responsible people behind the wheels of cars but there were 17 injurd people. And that is more than four to one. The figures are worth remembering particularly if you are inclined to take a chance.

Costs $1 To Attend

There is an auction sale advertised at Chorley Park, Toronto, former home of our Lieutenant-Governors. It is not one of those sales like they used to advertise with the announcement ending "and other articles too numerous to mention."

Not a bit of it. They have printed catalogues telling the life history and pedigree of beds and rugs and chairs, and it is necessary to part with a dollar in order to come into possession of a catalogue. Then at the time of the sale if you buy anything you get your dollar back. Nor can one attend the sale without presenting a catalogue.

The explanation for that system being used is that if the sale were thrown wide open the place would be swamped. People like to go to auction sales whether they have any intention of buying anything or not; they like to see what the people have had in the house and what it's going for. An auction sale in Toronto and at Chorley Park would draw a movement of folk which would be nothing less than an exodus so the dollar barrier has been placed in the way. At least that is what the officials in charge of the proceedings say. The residents of Toronto, particularly the ladies, who would dearly love to attend an auction sale at Chorley Park will say "Shucks" or something like that. It should have been their one chance to go wandering through the big house to which they probably were never bidden during the days of its occupancy. And now they find it is as exclusive in the days of its clearing auction sale as it was when it was in full operation. No chance to bid and take home a tin pan or a kitchen chair and then tell the neighbors it used to do service in the home of the Lieutenant-Governor. Shucks!

Two People In The News

Stories which point in opposite directions continue to be interesting, and they always will be. One comes from Kitchener and another from Kingston.

In Kitchener there is a 64-year-old man of forign extraction, referred to in despatches as John. He has been a chronic relief case for years. At a recent meeting of the relief board he was taken off the list, the explanation being that he was a single man and able-bodied and should be able to look after himself for the summer season. At the last meeting of the same board John presented himself once more and he had with him a certificate showing that he had been married to a widow of 74 years, and had spent the honeymoon period waiting for the day when he could again apply to the relief board on the ground that he was a married man. He had done nothing to find a day's work but had moved deliberately to secure the standing of a married man so he would be sure of relief.

The story from Kingston is different. Likewise it is better. It tells of a woman whose husband died in the public ward of the Kingston General Hospital four years ago. She is in receipt of the old-age pension which would be $20 per month, and out of that small amount she had saved during the four years the sum of $65 which she had always considered she owed the hospital. As a matter of record the hospital knowing the man was without funds had long since written off the amount as something which could not and should not be collected.

The woman in Kingston was told she owed the hospital nothing at all, but she was persistent and a compromise was arranged whereby the amount will be used to provide special service to some other public ward patients. When that arrangement was made the woman went away satisfied.

Two cases—one where a man is reaching for all he can get. The other a woman who out of her meagre resources is asking for no favors and is desirous of giving all she can give. If the world were peopled with folk like that woman in Kingston what a world we would have!

He Might Find Out

In the columns of the Globe and Mail there have been several stories telling how much greater the civic expenditure is now than it used to be; also a couple of articles telling how slow some of the civic employees seem to be working. One report told of a couple of men who were removing benches from a park, and another had to do with the length of time it took to pitch some grass or hay on a truck.

According to the Toronto reporter these men were moving slowly and they appeared to be inclined to hold conferences or rest periods in between movements. Reading the matter left the impression that had the reporter been handling the benches or the pitchfork he would have done much better and would have finished the chores in very little time indeed. Undoubtedly he would have been a good investment for the ratepayers.

This morning we were looking out the office window where men were working on Water street. There are repairs being made and it is necessary to take out patches of the surfacing in order to put in the new material. The work is being done with the pick-axe. We dare say if the Toronto reporter had been here he would have said the men should have been making the pick axes fly a great deal faster. He would come to that conclusion because he never worked for a day with a pick-axe. Those who have tried this form of labor when being unaccustomed to it have found the thing seems to increase in weight as the day progresses; toward the end of the day it would seem to have doubled in weight.

The man who is not engaged in manual labor always knows how fast the manual worker should be moving. If such an individual were to work with the pitchfork, move benches or work with a pick-axe for a full day he might see the thing from a different angle.

Sets Type And Sings

J. J. Partridge had his name in the papers for several reasons. He is 79 years of age and working at the case as a printer in the office of the Weekly Outlook in Outlook, Sask., a town which is some 75 miles from Saskatoon. Population about 700. That's one reason for paying heed to him.

Another is that he has a good bass voice and conducts one of the village choirs. Probably when Mr. Partridge was a young fellow he had no idea he would land in Outlook, Sask. He started out to learn his trade in London and then worked on the Evening News, one of the Northcliffe papers. He decided to to try Canada, worked in Brandon, then took up a homestead and finally went back to the print shop and is now part owner of the paper in Outlook, and while closing in on the four score mark he sets type and does a full day's work. And in between times and on Sundays he sings. He used to sing and lead an orchestra when he was starting his trade in Old London. So in Outlook, Sask., he is doing just about the same as he was years ago at home in London. When a chap starts out working in a printing office and singing bass he is apt to keep on doing that, and it is a rather happy combination.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Baltic entente intends to keep out of Europe's ideological blocs if possible. It's nice work, if you can get it.

It is said there are 20,000 Communists in Toronto. That does not include all the folk who see red as they read the reports from the Toronto ball club.

Woman from London, Ont., driving her car in Windsor ran into a street car. The driver of the street car saw her coming but couldn't dodge.

United States will use flat cars to carry artillery in case the country is attacked. Sounds all right unless the engineer forgets how to make his train back up.

The car of a New York state driver turned over three times on the road near Hamilton, but no one was injured. That is rather a compliment to the way in which they build cars at present.

Ontario government will cut down interest rates in the Provincial savings banks to 1½ per cent. Money is hard to get but after you get it the stuff does not seem to be worth much.

A tourist has been arrested for drinking in an automobile. Our friends from the south should be told something of Ontario's liquor laws as they come into the province.

It is said that the Conservative parley at Ottawa demonstrated a high pitch of enthusiasm. This was doubtless supplied by the comrades from Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island.

A reward is to be given two Toronto men who chased and caught a hit-and-run driver. If there were a few more citizens like that the offence would not be so frequently complained of.

It will be difficult, in view of the cricket score piled up against Australia, to prove that England is slipping. Other nations will perhaps recall where the Duke of Wellington said Waterloo was won.

A story about heavy fines for gambling in the Hull district would have more effect if it did not appear in the same issue that carried streamer lines on the amount won by three people in the daily double at Long Branch.

Experts are seeking a cure to relieve tobacco crops in Ontario from attacks of the tobacco flea, a little insect no larger than the head of a pin. Apparently it is the old question again of trying to make the little fellows stay away from tobacco.

COMMITTEE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ One big committee so they said, will have to shove this work ahead, we'll wait for their report; there is no time to waste at all, it must be finished by the fall, and time between is short.

¶ And then they started naming men, decided they would put on ten, the biggest men in town; one humble little chap was there, to leave him off was not quite fair, at last they put him down.

¶ Three of the big men went away, they had to have a holiday, their health was none too good; they would be gone a month or two, until the heated spell was through, to rest like what they should.

¶ The day the big committee met, the members were all hard to get, for business pinned them down; the humble little man was there, alone he waited in his chair, and didn't even frown.

¶ Next day he started out alone, learned all the facts which should be known, committee just of one; he figured everything at night, and got his details all made right, knew just what should be done.

¶ The work was finished on the dot, the humble man was on the spot, he paid the men and banks; the people gathered and approved, and to the big committee moved—a hearty vote of thanks.

Two Men Find The Same Thing

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. ROGERS: I may say without hesitation whatever that I would prefer to see the employment service of Canada, or employment services, conducted from offices absolutely beyond partisan control.

Mr. BENNETT: I believe that.

Mr. ROGERS: I say that without hesitation.

Mr. BENNETT: And I believe it.

Mr. ROGERS: As a matter of fact, under the Unemployment Insurance Act, which was declared ultra vires, provision was made whereby the employment services would ultimately be under the control of a commission.

Mr. BENNETT: Quite.

Mr. ROGERS And certainly it has been my view, as expressed on various occasions, that if we were able to establish an unemployment service which could be truly national it would be preferable to have it, as allied with a scheme of unemployment insurance, under the control of a commission.

I will not say for a moment that complaints have not reached me with respect to employment services—not in one province, but in various provinces.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, quite; I said that.

Mr. ROGERS: And on the basis of those complaints I am inclined to agree that from time to time employment services have been used for political purposes.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, there is no doubt about it.

Mr. ROGERS: How that can be controlled I am not prepared to say. As my hon. friend is aware, the dominion government does not control any appointments.

Mr. BENNETT: But we pay the money.

Mr. ROGERS: Yes, but—

Mr. BENNETT: Not the whole of it.

Mr. ROGERS: A rather small proportion of it, as a matter of fact. I believe it is about one-third. We pay one-third of the total in the province, under the provisions of the—

Mr. BENNETT: I think it is between a third and a half.

Mr. ROGERS: Yes; as expenses have gone up our proportion has tended to decrease. In the beginning I think it was more.

Mr. BENNETT: Yes, as the expenses not under our control made by the provinces have increased, our amount has proportionately decreased.

Mr. ROGERS: Exactly. I can recall some time ago receiving protests with respect to the dismissal of the head of an employment office in one of the provinces. I believe there is no reason why I should mention the name here. There was nothing which we as a dominion government could effectively do in the matter.

Mr. BENNETT: I said that, yes.

Mr. ROGERS: The appointment was made by the province, and it rests entirely in the discretion of provincial governments to make dismissals as they see fit. The matter has given me, I may say, some concern because of the various complaints that I have received. Obviously, whether or not there is justification for them, they should go to the provincial governments concerned, and be dealt with accordingly. I realize also that with respect to relief work it is very important that the employment service act in a nonpartisan way. There again the problem is not as easy of solution as appears at first glance.

Mr. BENNETT: Not as long as the province exercises the control which now it has over these offices. That is clear.

Mr. ROGERS: That is true. It is simply a matter of where the responsibility lies. But I certainly will not go so far as to say that in all provinces there has been a failure to recognize that obligation.

Mr. BENNETT: Neither would I.

Mr. ROGERS: I would also suggest that in all provinces there are employment offices which are conducted on an efficient and satisfactory basis.

Mr. BENNETT: That is true.

Mr. ROGERS: I know that in certain instances attempts have been made to set, for example, a quota of those who should be employed through the employment service,—

Mr. BENNETT: —of a political character.

Mr. ROGERS: —which I do not like.

Mr. BENNETT: I discovered that myself.

Mr. ROGERS: I do not think it is at all a satisfactory way of dealing with the situation.

Mr. BENNETT: It certainly is not. It is a wrong standard.

Mr. ROGERS: It is a wrong standard to apply. I am not prepared to say just what method should be adopted to correct the situation, short of the dominion taking over the responsibility; and even that does not solve the problem in every case. You do not as we have discovered on several occasions, solve a problem by transferring it from one jurisdiction to another..

HELP FOR THE FARMERS

• Hard Work Building A Good Herd

(By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald)

MORE AND MORE the month of June is becoming a period of field days and picnics for farmers—particularly those who go to the extra trouble of keeping pedigreed stock of one kind or another. Of course, all farmers are welcome at these breed field days. It is always the hope of the sponsors that someone may become interested in better livestock and, of course, create a market for the surplus pure-breds.

Usually these field days are held on the farm of some especially progressive farmer; and we sometimes wonder if we really realize what patience, knowledge and skill are required in the blending of blood lines to produce a superior animal and develop it properly.

The merchant may think he has a difficult task in keeping his shelves stocked with the goods his costumers want, and keeping clear of those they do not want. The manufacturer may think his task is very complicated, but that same fanufacturer knows very well that when he saws a piece of wood into a certain shape, and fastens it to certain other pieces of wood he is going to have a chair, let us say, and if he keeps on doing that he is going to have a lot of chairs of the very same kind. If he has been keen enough to learn what kind of chairs the public wants and the public has the money to buy, then he can sell his chairs.

The farmer's problem is not so easy. He may blend his bloodlines but it will take him years of time to fully measure the results. Unfortunately they are quite often disappointing. For instance, he may mate two animals in the hope of producing a really good producing cow. In time he may find that he has done just that, but he may find, too, that the animal is rough and not at all the type he desired. Thus, when a breeder attains the objective of a herd of uniform type and reasonably high production in dairy cattle, it is well that a group of his fellow-breeders should forget their own farms for a few hours and visit that farm, both to inspect the cattle, and enjoy the sports that are part of most breeders' field days—and it is well that we should pay tribute to some of these men who have at least partly attained their objective in the breeding of livestock.

THE OTHER day the breeders of those beautiful little cattle that originated on the Island of Jersey, and are noted round the world as producers of milk of unusual richness, and for the production of butterfat of superior quality, met at the farm of J. F. Skinner, a few miles south of Stratford. We know full well that this farmer doesn't expect us to give his farm and herd a write up, but that is one of the things a writer from the farm, who at times is hard pressed for something to write about, is very likely to do.

There are several things about that farm we could write about—but we have been on that farm on several occasions, and one thing that has always impressed us was the absolute cleanlines of the place, particularly the tables. We refer to this because of the interest that was aroused in pasteurization of milk during the past winter. If all premises were kept in order as they are on this farm, and if all breeders were as particular about the health of their cattle as is Mr. Skinner, then those who favor pasteurization would not have an argument left.

Here we find no cows with diseased udders, no T. B. and no Bang's disease. There is no guess work about it. The herd is T. B. and blood tested, and it certainly does not seem fair to the farmer who goes to the trouble of producing a really superior and wholesome product, nor yet to his customers, to force him to pasteurize his milk. Even though we were inclined to admit that milk is not harmed by pasteurization, and we certainly are not, we would still insist that no benefit could ensue from the pasteurization of that product.

• When Men Remain On Relief

(Niagara Falls Review)

SOME TIME AGO we paid tribute to the Mormon church for its stand on the relief and its attempt to clear all relief rolls and provide work for all in need of it. Much was done, but the effort has failed, says the eighty-one year old head of the Mormon church Heber J. Grant. The plan failed because of "the fact that getting something for nothing has proved too great a temptation for some of the less frugal members. Mr. Grant goes on:

"The very thing which the church feared and sought to forestall, had come to pass, an undermining of the initiative and spirit of selfreliance that characterized Brigham Young's band of pioneers.

"Because it has proved impossible to persuade many of the members to resist the temptation to lean on the Government we now have to be content with urging those who go to work on WPA jobs to try to give on honest day's work for their money.

"I have watched men at work on these Government jobs. I have counted slowly to four between shovelfuls. In some cases I have counted to as high as forty between shovelfuls—and they were mighty skimpy shovelfuls at that."

One would be blind indeed to attempt to demonstrate we have nothing like that in Canada. We also have men like that who are satisfied to remain on relief rolls, making no particular effort to secure work. In other days there was no relief and even lazy men had to hustle to get enough to live but, in some cases, that incentive has disappeared.

And probably the worst effect is felt on the children who see the man who should be the breadwinner failing to exert himself. It should not be forgotten, however, that there are many men anxious and willing for work, who are continually seeking jobs. These are the men who get first preference when jobs are available—as it should be. Often have we said it, and it can be repeated—the worst effect of unemployment is impairment of morale.

PRESBYTERIAN PROGRESS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As a commissioner to the General Assembly, I was naturally interested in the editorial remarks concerning the drop in Sunday School attendance, which appeared in Thursday's issue. Naturally, this condition is one to give cause for alarm, for it not only is characteristic of our denomination but to a greater or lesser degree in all denominations. In the churches of the British Isles, the condition is even worse, and one reason given is that the large families of a quarter of a century ago have disappeared, so that not only Sunday Schools but also the public schools are affected. The seriousness of it all is accentuated when taken alongside of the conditions affecting children and youth today. The statistics just to hand from our Ontario Department of Welfare reveal increased juvenile delinquency, and even more disturbing an alarming increase in cases under the Unmarried Parents' Act. In Toronto, the former shows the following figures: 1933, 383 juveniles arrested; 1934, 471; 1935, 603; more startling still, 1936, 2,055 between ages 10 to 16, and 5,954 from ages 17 to 20. For last year, the increase numbered 220. Taking into consideration the situation re Unmarried Parents, we find a steady increase from 672 in 1923 to the startling total of 2,203 in the year just past. Possibly there is some connection between the Sunday School falling off and the conditions revealed in these reports?

A few sidelights on our recent convocation would not be out of place. It was possibly one of the best Assemblies in recent times. The story of expansion along mission lines both at the home base and in our overseas missions was most interesting. Our most encouraging work is in Montreal among the French-Canadians, and in the mining communities of Northern Ontario and Quebec. We only enter such by invitation from the mine operators, and practically the whole country has thus been opened up to us. From far west, the calls that have come to our Board for supply of ordinances have been so numerous that we cannot find either the men or the money to cope with the task. Incidentally, not a single field has been left without ordinances since 1925, and many new fields are now being supplied.

The problem facing all our churches these days is that of finance. Every denomination has been in the habit of reporting deficits, some more, some less; and we are not out of the ordinary in that respect. But it can truthfully be asserted that whatever deficit we have we still remain the most soundly financed Christian organization in Canada. In fact our debt is an internal one, and could be wiped out at any moment; the sum is small, only $203,000, and the actual deficit on last year was a little more than $9,000. Our Pension Fund has increased, despite the depression years, from $463,000 in 1925, to a total of $841,654 this last year. This is not adequate enough to provide the full retiring allowance, but at least it indicates progress.

Membership in the church is hard to gauge, especially with us, for we do not include non-resident members, and the rolls are purged yearly. Last year, we received 5,353 on confession of faith, and 3,939 by certificate, a total of 9,292, which represents an increase over the previous year. The number of families increased by 396. The total number of congregations was added to by twelve more. We had the pleasure of welcoming a new congregation in St. John's, Newfoundland, formerly known as Queen's Road Congregational Church. The membership submitted a petition, in which every member signed his belief in the Westminister Confession. They have assets valued at $65,000., and one of our recent graduates who has been in Peterborough at St. Paul's is being called at the minimum stipend. We shall thus have two churches in St. John's, where we had only one before.

Time and space do not permit of going further into the progress of the church; the main thing to know is that we are going ahead, and that there is a growing feeling that this fair land of Canada still needs the gospel as presented by our Presbyterian faith. At another time, I shall give more interesting information. Meanwhile, at this time, let me congratulate the Examiner on the splendid Vacation edition, just published. It is a fine example of the journalistic art, and is certainly very complimentary to the community. There is no doubt that it will be a means of attracting many tourists during the coming summer.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THEN COMETH he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son, Joseph. . . .

There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink. . . .

Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, asked drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria- for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans.

Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water? . . .

Jesus answered and said unto her, whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give them shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.— John iv, 5, 7, 9-11 13, 14.

Great Dane Dog Plays Part In Auto Charge

A 150-pound Great Dane dog played a silent but not unimportant part in registering a conviction against Fergus Mongraw in County Judge's Criminal Court before Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, Monday afternoon, in a charge involving the theft of an automobile on the night of Good Friday from Hugh Davis, proprietor of the Capitol Taxi.

Reducing the charge from stealing a car to theft of the use of car and bringing it under Section 285 of the criminal code, commonly known as the "joy-rider's section," Judge Smoke found Mongraw guilty and sentenced him to three months in the Ontario Reformatory.

The prisoner was brought in from his jail cell to stand trial as during the period in which he was out on bail in regard to the theft of the Davis car he had been convicted of the theft of the use of an automobile belonging to Walter Belleghem and on that charge he had been given a month in jail.

Mongraw is a problem to the authorities. Monday's was only one of a number of convictions for the same offence that have been registered against him and Judge Smoke announced that he would call his case to the attention of the proper authorities so that the youth's mental condition might be ascertained.

Mongraw who was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney C. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution.

Hugh Davis, owner of the car and Eric Frizzelle, a taxi-driver in his employ, testified to the car being left behind the taxi office at 7.40 or 7.45 on the night of Good Friday and of it being found gone a few minutes later. Davis said that he had seen Mongraw in the vicinity of the taxi office on several occasions before the automobile was stolen but in cross-examination admitted that he had not seen him on the day of the theft.

Invited For Ride

Gordon B. Smith, 18, of 32 Lafayette Avenue, a Collegiate Institute student, told of he and his brother being picked up on George Street near the Ackerman factory between 8 and 8.30 o'clock on Good Friday evening and given a ride as far as Lake Street in a car of the type stolen from Davis. Smith said they had a Great Dane dog with them and did not want to get into the car on that account but the driver, whom Smith said was Fergus Mongraw, said that it would be all right so they climbed into the machine. The dog, he said, was a big one and had a habit of slobbering at the mouth.

To Mr. Carley Smith said he had been brought to the police station on the morning after the theft and asked to identify Mongraw.

"There was nobody there but himself, no lineup," queried defence counsel.

"No, he was alone," the witness replied.

In re-examination by Mr. McElderry Smith repeated that Fergus Mongraw had been the driver of the car who had given them a ride.

"Do you see him there in the dock?"

"Yes, sir," replied Smith.

John Charles Smith, elder brother of the previous witness corroborated his evidence as to Mongraw giving them a ride in a Plymouth De Luxe sedan. He had known Mongraw for several weeks before the theft, he said, and recognized him on the night in question.

Asked as to the dog that accompanied the two boys, witness said that he was a thoroughbred Great Dane weighing 150 pounds and standing 30 inches high at the shoulder. He had a habit of slobbering, especially when his jaws came in contact with anything, and on this occasion the animal had sat on the back seat with his head resting on the back of the front seat and when the boys got out of the car, witness noticed that the dog had slobbered on the front seat and he had wiped it off as best he could.

Identifies Accused

Cross-examined by Mr. Carley witness said that when he had seen Mongraw at the police station on the day after the theft he had said nothing either way as to whether he could identify the accused. He said he had had a chance to see the driver of the car before he and his brother got in and he was positive that it was Fergus Mongraw. He had not told the police that he did not know Mongraw.

Sergeant John Thompson who arrested Mongraw, told of examining the car belonging to Davis after it had been brought to the police station and of seeing a patch of saliva as if from the mouth of a dog on the back of the front seat and of finding a number of hairs there which were introduced as an exhibit. A coat worn by Mongraw when he was arrested was also produced and Sergt. Thompson pointed out what he said were similar hairs adhering to the fabric of the garment.

In cross-examination the witness repeated that he thought the hairs found on the seat and on Mongraw's coat were alike. He admitted that he was not an expert in the matter of hairs. As to the dog's foot marks he had seen in the car he was sure they were those of a large dog, of the type that had been mentioned.

Detective W. R. Piercey gave similar evidence as to what he had seen after examining Davis' car after it had been brought to the police station. To Mr. Carley he said that his information was that the stolen machine had been found on Hunter Street near the Bell apartments by Constable Sexsmith at 10 o'clock on the night of Good Friday.

No Defense Evidence

That concluded the case for the crown and Mr. Carley announced that he would present no evidence in behalf of the accused.

Mr. McEldery argued that the case had been amply proven and in his address Mr. Carley said that identification such as had been sworn to by two of the witnesses who only saw a prisoner alone and not in a lineup had often been rejected by the courts, submitted that if Judge Smoke was convinced that Mongraw had been the man who took the car that he should be dealt with under the "joy-rider's" section of the code rather than under the more serious section.

Judge Smoke, after reviewing the evidence, said that he had concluded that Mongraw was the driver of the car in which the Smith boys were given a ride and that he was guilty of the offence. He however intended to deal with it under section 285 instead of under the section concerning the actual theft of a car.

Mr. Carley pointed out that Mongraw had already been convicted on a number of occasions and had been even sent to the penitentiary but punishment had not succeeded in curing him of the habit of taking cars and joy-riding in them. He had been different ever since he had an attack of sleeping sickness in his boyhood.

"Apparently he is more able to control himself from taking automobiles that dogs can control themselves from running out at cars, said defense counsel, who asked that before Judge Smoke passed sentence he should order Mongraw's mental condition to be examined.

"I doubt if I have the power to make such an order," said Judge Smoke and the Crown Attorney agreed.

Judge Smoke said that he had decided that the best thing to do was to sentence the prisoner and then refer his case to the proper authorities. To Mongraw he said that his history was unknown to him.

"I have heard some of it from a gentleman whom you know well," he remarked to the prisoner, "a gentleman who befriended you and told you that you might drive his car at any time and whom you have let down."

He then sentenced Mongraw to three months in the Ontario Reformatory, pointing out that if an examination showed him to be normal mentally, the accused should mend his ways. "You should remember that you nearly always get caught," he added in conclusion.

Fire Destroyed Rogers' Home On Big Island

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed Claude Rogers' summer home on Big Island in Clear Lake, seventeen miles from Peterborough, late Monday afternoon. It was the Kawarthas' second fire this season, the first one on Stoney Lake causing the death of Rev. Canon Hedley early in the month.

David Charlton, Kawartha Park storekeeper, first heard the roar of flames from the cottage, largest of two owned by Mr. Rogers on the Island. He telephoned to the Peterborough Fire Department. Charlton's store is about a quarter of a mile across the lake from the island and another quarter of a mile further on is the spot where Canon Hedley met his death.

The cottage was worth in the neighborhood of $5,000, Mr. Rogers said. He had been on the island over the weekend, cleaning up the ground in preparation for the coming season, but said he had lit no outside fires at the big cottage. Some people noticed brush fires in the vicinity on Monday morning, he said, and they were allowed to continue unchecked, probably spreading to the cottage.

A Johnson pumper and two members of the Peterborough Fire Department were despatched to the fire but the brick fire place was remaining erect when they arrived. They played water on the ground for more than an hour, preventing all possibility of the flames spreading to other cottages on the island.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Scott puts in the mouth of Jeannie "The words which Sir Walter Deans in her memorable address to the queen, are true as they are beautiful:

"When the hour of trouble comes, and seldom may it visit your leddyship—and when the hour of death comes, that comes to high or low—lang and late may it be yours, O my leddy!—it isna what we have done for oorsels, but what we have done for ithers, that we think on most pleasantly."

Dear Friends:

Every day of our lives we are doing something for others, and it is according to how much of ourselves we put into this, that the ones use what we make get pleasure or pain, disgust or joy, so we should see to it that we are never ashamed of what we do.

We are accustomed to thinking that the occassional kindness, the little generosities, the understanding word is all we do for each other. But, we are all working for the comfort of others as well as for ourselves.

Farmers work for us as well as themselves, so do gardeners, bakers, Editors and Newspapermen and Women, every last one of us do things that will make others comfortable and happy.

If you slouch on your work, the one who buys it or uses it will not bless you, be sure of that. They are more likely to cure you for shoddy workmanship, so put a little of your heart into the work you are doing, a little of yourself so that the one who gets it will be pleased and satisfied.

Haven't you ever bought some garment which had been badly sewn so that the seams split at the least provocation, and how annoyed you were when you saw your dress or coat go like that? Their heart had not been in it, they had not been working and doing this to be proud of it, but just for the wages they got for doing it.

You might say," why should I work my fingers to the bone just to please some other?" Well, why should others do that for you, for, believe me, there is not one of us who can do all things for ourselves.

We need the work and the brains of thousands of people before we can live in any kind of comfort. We need the ploughers, and the sowers and the reapers, the ones who make the implements, the stump-pullers so that the land will be fertile and those who make growing things grow.

And we do not like poor flour, nor spindly vegetables, nor shoddy material, nor bad workmanship in any form. So that when we do not like these things coming to us, we should see to it that we do not send them to others.

As you are going down the hill, as you feel at times close to the edge of things, you are more and more concerned with doing things for others and doing them well. And curiously enough, you get far more pleasure yourself, far more satisfaction, when your mind is at ease in regard to this.

We do a lot of un-necessary things, but I have learned to let them go, and spend more time on the worthwhile things. I do not like to be ashamed of what I do, yet no one could call me a fussy person.

Just think of all the people who must work so that you get your early bottle of milk. The cows must be kept fed, they must be milked, the milk must be strained, then carried to the creamery. Then it must be pasteurized, bottles must be sterilized, the milk bottled and capped, and delivered, and so you have your bottle of milk.

And so it goes with al lthe things we use. If all of us are careless, we have disease, discomfort, displeasure, and sometimes disaster. And if it is our work, our doing for others which causes this, then we get no pleasure nor comfort in what we have done for others. "Your own will come back to you" so see to it that you get gladness instead of sorrow when it comes.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

WHEN PROF. QUIZ IS "STUMPED"—IT'S NEWS!
Radio's famous "Never-wrong" Man compares 1938 car values . . . frankly admits "How you can price a Nash so low is a mystery to me!"

"PICKING a new car is like competing in our weekly Battle of Wits," explains Prof. Quiz. You have to know the FACTS to win!
"Make this comparison. Almost no difference in delivered prices, but LOOK at the difference in value!
NASH VS. "ALL 3" CARS

"Or, put it this way: to match this Nash value in 5 other cars means paying an average of over a hundred dollars more!
"And that's just the 'starter'. Nash alone offers the 12% gasoline savings of the new simplified 'superthrift' engine.
"No car anywhere near Nash's low price offers you the famous Nash Conditioned Air System* . . the Automatic Cruising Gear* . . Vacuum Gear Shifting* . . 'Dancing Sand' sound-proofing . . . or the 'bed-in-a-car' feature.
"Such finer features as complete full-pressure lubrication, and 7- and 9-bearing crankshafts, are exclusive with Nash and America's most expensive cars.
"I tell you, I don't see how Nash can put such low prices on such outstandingly superior cars!"
OUR ANSWER: Nash knows the only way to win against long-established rivals is to build SO MUCH MORE VALUE into its cars that the public can immediately SEE it!

ST. JOHN'S JUNIORS TIE UP CHURCH SERIES WITH A 13-10 WIN

Park St. Gains Playoff Post In Juveniles

St. John's evened up the Church Softball League junior play-off series last night at a game apiece when he copped a 13-10 triumph over All Saints at Central. Park St. Juveniles earned themselves a berth in the sectional playoffs by nosing out a 17-16 verdict over George St. down at King Edward school. In a bantam fixture at King Edward Park, All Saints earned a spot in the playoffs by grabbing a 16-4 win from Knox.

The junior joust was a good one with St. John's pounding Bus McDougall hard at the finish. Craig drove in their last two runs with a lengthy triple. All Saints had two on base and none out in the last frame, but a double play, Craig to Dyer, stopped them. McDougall, Hotrum and Gibson hit well for the losers. All Saints collected four runs off Copperthwaite and the rest off R. Clark. The teams:

St. John's—L. Clark, ss; R. Clark, 3b, p; Copperthwaite, p. 3b; Vollans, lf; C. Clark, lf; Lomax, c; Lalonde, c; Coleman, cf; Dyer, 1b; Craig, 2b; Hogg, rf.

All Saints—McDougall, p; Lacey, rf; Hill, lf; Abraham, ss; Leether, 2b; Hotrum, 1b; Stinson, cf; Smith, 3b; Gibson, c.

Score by innings:

St. John's .....003 005 5—13
All Saints' .....010 351 x—10

Umpires—D. Charlton and Millen.

Free-Hitting Affair.

The juvenile number was a free-hitting affair. It was the second loss in seven starts for George St. Drury, Martin and Anderson led the hitters for Park St. Roberts, Saunders and Parnall did most of the bingling for the losing squad. The Park St. boys showed up better defensively on their home grounds, but it was a tight tilt all the way with each side scoring one run in the last inning. Fair pitching was seen during the melee in spots, despite the hard clouting. The teams:

Park St.—B. Ainslie, 1b; Weaver, 2b; Drury, c; Campbell, p; J. Ainslie, lf; Briscoe, cf; House, ss; Anderson, rf; Martin, 3b.

George St.—Roberts, lf; Routley, lf; Saunders, ss; Bedford, 3b; R. Routley, cf; Richardson, rf; Hamilton, 1b; Duncan, c; Parnall, 2b.

Score by innings:

Park St. ....500 632 1—17
George St. ..... 301 623 1—16

Saints Get Victory.

The bantam contest saw the All Saints' crew turn in a good all-round performance to earn the decision. Their infield worked smoothly on forceouts, getting four outs at each of the sacks. Lacheur and Miller banged the apple hard for the winners. The loss almost eliminated Knox, as they showed weakness at bat with runners on, leaving 18 stranded. Knox players got on base but only four could counter. Kemp pitched good ball in the pinches. The teams:

All Saints—Miller, 2b; Hotrum, 3b; Edgard, 1b; Lacheur, c; Reid, ss; Kemp, p; Dyer, rf; Burns, cf; Clapham, lf.

Knox—Braund, 3b; Darling, ss; Gardner, p; Gertley, 1b; Alcock, 2b; Doughty, c; Hamlin, cf; Elliott, rf; Gourley, lf.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

UNLIKE SOME OF those sports scribes down in the Niagara district who run a fever over a guy whose sports' broadcasting inaccuracies have been humorous and numerous, Central Ontario scriveners hold nothing sacred. No officer or athletic luminary is too big for the boys who report their doings to rap — if they figure a rap is earned. Nor do any of us gees pounding keys hesitate to crack down on other columnists — big or little near or far — when we catch 'em where the facts are short. We all make mistakes and we're all told about 'em — so we ups and point out other folks' errors too. Just the other day we saw a lacrosse item in theTo ronto Star which had a few miscues mixed up in it. "Fibber" McGee is really Mick Magee Jerry Creighton is not redheaded but has a black thatch and our grouping is senior "B", not intermediate.

* * * * * *

BUT HERE 'TIS: "Peterborough's squad seems stronger than in 1937. They have added Norm Worthy of Brampton and he is fitting in nicely with the home talent. The Petes' roster tends to the blond variety with no less than three redheads of the Creighton clan, whose fiery thatches are emblematic of their rugged style of play. 'Fibber' McGee is also of the blond type, Crowe, who left Toronto some seasons back for Peterborough, continues to play his usual brilliant game. Mileage records are going to be hung up by intermediate clubs this season, with Peterborough and Owen Sound placed in groups one and two. The lads are therefore going to see plenty of countryside in the coming weeks with competition as keen as mustard and some great games in the offing." The Petes are at Inglewood tonight, and entertain the Combines here Friday.

* * * * * *

FOLKS IN Toronto must figure this is a hick town, and here we have been on daylight saving time since Sunday a.m.! Anyway, the Toronto contingent of boxers and rasslers didn't get down to the Riverview A. C. show here last eve till nearly an hour after they were due. But the crowd (somewhere around 800 fans many of 'em ladies) was in good humor and the show got under way 40 minutes late, And another good card it was. Two lively rasslin' matches and five fine fights. One was a good no-decision curtain-raiser, but the the next three ended in technical knockouts. And the main eeeevent of the eeeeevening saw Nick Orlando do everything but knock out his Toronto opponent. Had him all over the floor like a piece of linoleum, but his game rival wouldn't stay down. A dandy scrap.

* * * * * *

HAL JONES local lightweight polished off Red Riel in two heats, the latter's second tossing in the towel to save his charge from further punishment. Red ripped Hal hard in the first with looping right smashes to the head but didn't have the sting to sink Jones, and r tired fast. In the second, Jones battered him hard about the upper story with two hands and had his face a gory mess. He was staggering and ready to hit the deck when the towel came floating through the ropes before the second round ended. Wallie Hicks of Toronto was conceded his bout over Joe Tumblin of Ottawa as the second round finished after punishing him a lot through the second stanza and having him down twice — the bell saving him once. A good bout. Jack O'Neil, subbing for Scott of Toronto beat Joe (Sonny) Hobbins in a neat one, winning in the second on a technical kayo. The local southpaw couldn't box so well but had a hard punch and an unorthodox attack which didn't do Joe much good. He paralyzed Joe's right arm early and then had him out on his feet as he ripped home rights and lefts in the second — the referee finally stopping it.

* * * * * *

YEAH, IT WAS a good card with plenty of action, the main bout being the best. Between two good boxers, with Orlando's chopping right exploding from time to time on Hick's jaw and flooring him, though Hicks was as game as a fighting cock. Semi-final rasslin' match was pretty fair, and the main one good again. But doggone it, they shouldn't have the hero humbled all the time and the villian the victor — they can't do that to us! Bert (Roughhouse) Crothall received more warnings than a prospective bridegroom, but he pinned Red (Killer) Garner two out of three times, despite roars of approval for the killer and hearty boos for Bertram. The roars from the lacrosse arena rise over the fence bounce off Little Lake and with the added volume of aquatic acoustics — boyoboyoboy, is he good! — rattle around about our city to disturb the slumbers of the early-to-bed gents. Well, it was quite a card anyway.

CHURCH SOFTBALL League jamborees this Tuesday twilight: Mark St. vs. Knox Seniors at the Oval, umps from Majors and All Saints ;George St. Juveniles vs. St. James at iKng Edward school, umps from Park St. and Mark; George St. Bantams vs. St. John's at Central. A senior schedule change has been made, the two George St. squads playing a postponed fray tomorrow eve at the Oval, replacing the Buzzers-Murray St. tilt. On account of the George St. Sunday School picnic and also the pre-scheduled game will have no bearing on the standing unless Murray St. wins from Knox Friday. If it is necessary, the Buzzers and Murray St. will play Monday. A couple of the teams in other sections have assured themselves of playoff berths already and it won't be long till the money series begin in all church loop divisions. Scores are in tonight on three tussles.

SHORTY BARRETT'S boys, the Motorists, took the tick out of the Westclox men softballers at the Bowl last p.m. with a 5-1 City League win, the first reverse of the season for the Armour Hill bill — er we mean men! Fleming's fine flinging, timely hitting and good fielding earned the decision for Motorists and gives 'em a firm grip on second place. Weir and O'Leary had to travel 42½ miles an hour, fahrenheit, to rope in circus catches but they did a Cole Bros. act to earn applause. Starr hit a homer whilst doubles were conked by Playford, Curry and Mrs. O'Leary's lad. The Motorists motor Omemee-ward Wednesday for another engagement, while Westclox play the Little Harlemites an exhibition game at the Bowl Thursday.

AFTER SLIPPING a semi-wilted orchid in the general direction of the Petes and Russ Kitchen for their 3-2 win Saturday, ye Oshawa slanguage clinger slaps the ears of some of the GM-men for striking out without swinging. Well, it's true that you'll never wing a wild duck with the gun on your shoulder. Nicely warmed up, the scribe pans Umpire Ken Colling from here to Havre de Grace and back for missing an out on Bill Calladine. Says the Petes' player missed second so far that he nearly shook hands with Hurst in left field and continued merrily to third, without being called out. Bill did run off the line and he did miss second. But we disagree with the scribe when he claims Calladine wasn't hit by a pitch in the first place. We couldn't tell from the press box whether the ball ticked his hand or not — so we later asked the player himself and he said yes it touched him.

DESE, DEME and dose: Looks like Lefty McNally to pitch for the Petes today in Kingston with either Poller or Paczkogski for the Ponies . . . Though 'tis Yammy Jamieson's turn to throw . . . Keene girls have a softball setto with Westclox tonight at 7.15 in the Bowl whilst Lindsay lasses and C. G. E. tangle here tomorrow . . . Reg. Lesurf expects to return to the ring wars and is training now with Bill Horrock's club . . Bun Morgansen, O. L. A. scorer, claims Bill Anthony — who played for Brampton here Friday — isn't eligible in this group . . . Herb Ralph states he notified Moose Mathews of the Oshawa junior ball club in plenty of time that last Saturday's game was off — but Matty failed to tel lthe team and they made thetrip . . . A guy who signs himself "Seven Fans" writes in protesting against use of Toronto referees in mitt shows here, and asks that home talent be given a chance . . . Al Clark is likely to go to Clarkson Tech in N'Yawk State this autumn to take a course . . . Lot of folks got fooled on theweather last eve and went to the fight show in shirt sleeves — and they shook like a nigguh with the bones before the finish . . . Days off from work see some of the Westclox gal softballers practising . . . That's all.

Hurdle Races For Dufferin Course

Dufferin Park, the only half-mile running track in the province, opens on Saturday for a seven day meeting in which the outstanding feature will be the inaugural running of the Hare Memorial Handicap, $2,000 added. The latter is the largest purse ever offered the thoroughbreds in Eastern Canada and probably in the Dominion, although statistics are not available as to the purses of Western Canada.

The Hare Memorial is named in memory of the late Thomas (Ching) Hare, a friend of the horsemen, who passed away suddenly last winter in Miami. He was a great friend of the trotting-horse fraternity and before leaving on his ill-fated journey he gave orders that the owners of the trotters and pacers wintering at Dufferin Park were to be allowed to remain at Dufferin as long as they wished.

Dufferin Park has been called all kinds of names from Little Saratoga on down the line but the fact remains that it is in a class by itself when it comes to packing 'em in. For instance they have been known to sell more than 16,000 programs in one afternoon. This to many has been unbelievable, but the books show it and figures don't lie.

A new innovation this coming meeting will be hurdle races. They'll be run on the two Saturdays and the Wednesday during the week's racing thus making eight races on the days in question. Hurdle racing went over with a bang at Long Branch and it should prove even more thrilling at Dufferin with its short stretches and sharp turns. Truly the jockeys in the hurdle races will have to be in rare condition to ride in these racess.

In the meantime the slogan is, "See you at Dufferin."

Plenty Of Thrills In Mitt Show

Above are shown two action shots of the Riverview A.C. boxing and wrestling show staged here last night. Over 800 fans saw a lively mitt-mat program, featured by three technical knockouts and a main bout victory for the Peterborough fighter, Nick Orlando, over his Toronto opponent. BELOW, Spider Shakleton of Hamilton and Joe Pernokis of Ottawa writhe and grunt in the semi-final wrestling event, which the latter won. ABOVE, Joe Tumblin, Ottawa lightweight, is seen sprawled on the floor in the second round of his bout with Wallie Hicks of Toronto, which Hicks won on a technical kayo.

Mauler Jack Dempsey On Top Of Fight Game For 7 Years

Became Big Money Winner After Beating Willard

NEW YORK, June 14 (CP) — When the giant Jess Willard fell in a sun-scored ring at Toledo July 4, 1919, there was born perhaps the most popular fighter in the game's history, definitely one of the greatest punchers and easily the biggest money-winner.

Jack Dempsey, burned black by training-camp exposure to the sun, was a lean, dynamic, terribly destructive, 187-pound savage as he demolished the massive Wilard.

Willard, smiling and confident, landed the first two blows before Dempsey tore into him. Dempsey drove home a powerful right hook to Willard's side just over the heart. Willard moved in to jab lightly and to swing with a short right but Dempsey threw a left, overhand punch that landed on Willard's right eye. The eyebrow was gashed and the eye and whole side of Willard's face was puffed out of shape. That blow all but won the fight.

Sensing the kill, Dempsey moved in with all the fury of his devastating attack, no longer trying to avoid Jess' punches but swinging at the huge target with both fists. He threw all his power into a crashing right. It landed squarely on the chin and Willard fell with a thud.

Jess arose at seven, bent over, crouching, reeling back. Dempsey tore into him and slugged him time and again without a return. Down went Willard. Again, again. Seven times he topped to the canvas in that first round.

Counted Out

The last count had reached seven when the bell rang, but almost no one heard it. Willard was counted out and the ring swarmed with those acclaiming Dempsey as the new champion.

Dempsey left the ring and had to be called back to everyone's attention by the frantic timer. Willard made a fine comeback in the second round as Dempsey, tired from his exertions, slowed up.

But when the third round came Dempsey was once more the tigerish attacker. He banged blows against the giant, blasting him from one side of the ring to another and Willard, who barely lasted the round, couldn't get off his stool at the start of the fourth. He became the first heavyweight champion to relinquish the title sitting in his corner.

And Dempsey began a rule as champion that lasted seven years, brought him more than $2,000,000 in purses and made him the greatest drawing card in boxing history.

Singapore, Malaya, police have banned the blowing of tin whistles.

Gentleman Jim Corbett Gave Jeffries A Boxing Lesson For Twenty-Three Rounds

"Corbett's got him!"

"Jeff can't hit old Jim!"

Shouts rang at the Coney Island ringside on a spring night 38 years ago as Jeffries and Corbett battled round after round. Gentleman Jim, the boxing master, the genius of dodging, side-stepping, rolling, was giving the bull-like boilermaker a licking.

It Almost Happened.

The world that night came close to seeing what never has happened —a champion come back. Through the years since Sullivan's gory day the illusion has persisted that some day a former heavyweight champion will recover the ring's most prized bauble. But no man has.

Corbett, conqueror of John L., stormed vainly at the juggernaut Jeffries. Wide - shouldered Bob Fitzsimmons, who felled Corbett with his famous solar plexus punch to win the crown, found big Jeff an invulnerable fortress in his campaign to win back the championship.

Jeffries himself was to know the same bitter disillusionment years later when he tried to come back against the black king, Jack Johnson, only to find that his youth, his splendid stamina, his bone-crunching punch, had slipped away.

Dempsey Came Close.

And in our own day one of the greatest hitters of all time toiled along the same painful path to defeat. Dempsey and Tunney! The dream that came so close to being real ended forever for the Mauler when the ex-marine lifted his tired body from the resined floor in Chicago and slashed the man from Manassa into a mangled wreck.

Now Max Schmeling hurls a fist into the face of tradition when he meets Joe Louis June 22 in Yankee stadium, seeking the title that Jack Sharkey snatched away on a sultry night six years ago in Long Island bowl.

Schmeling is 32 years old, Corbett was 35 when he met Jeffries on that May night 38 years ago at the old Seaside Athletic club at Coney Island. It was eight years after Corbett had performed the magic at New Orleans by knocking out the one and only John L. Sullivan.

The days of Jeffries were another golden age of prize fighting in America. Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey, Peter Maher, Gus Ruhlin and Kid McCoy were stars of the roped arena. But Jeffries was the ace of them all. A 215-pound giant with a terrific punch in either hand, with endless endurance, Jeff was ready to defend his title at any time.

Jeff a Heavy Favorite.

Corbett had been out of the ring for five years before he met Jeff but he staged one of the greatest fights of his career. Betting was 2 to 1 on Jeff when the bout began. But before it had gone five rounds the wagering was even. Corbett seemed absolute master of the big fellow. Corbett simply could not be hit. He leaped in and out with jabs and hooks, tipping the big bear off balance, making him miss ridiculously.

After they had gone for 15 rounds Corbett seemed to be tiring, but he still found it easy to avoid Jeff's fierce rushes. Though one of Jeff's punches glanced off his chin in the nineteenth round, flooring him for an instant, Corbett still was far ahead on points through the first 20 rounds of the 25-round bout. Corbett had hit the champion a half dozen blows for every return.

Then, in the twenty-third it happened. The desperate Jeffries, seeing his title slipping away, rushed out with everything he had. He crowded his tormentor into a corner. Corbett, unaware of his nearness to the ropes, backed into the strands, and in trying to duck his way out, stepped into one of Jeff's lefts. The blow landed squarely on the chin. Corbett regained consciousness five minutes later in his corner.

Thus, the first ex-champion who tried to come back found failure with his goal only a few minutes away.

No Trouble At All

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—This is election year — so Rep. George H. Tinkham (Rep.-Massachusetts) is going to Africa as soon as United States congress adjourns. Tinkham, only boarded member of the House of Representatives, hasn't bothered for several years to campaign for himself. In 1936 he toured Europe while other congressmen were trying to win votes, he got back just before election day and won by his biggest majority.

Old Customers
Not Enough to Keep A Business Alive

While old customers—steady customers—are the backbone of any well-established retail business, they alone cannot be relied upon to make the business grow.

The farsighted merchant realizes the necessity of winning new customers, and uses space in his local newspaper to tell the public the latest news about his goods and his store. Experience has shown that bright, newsy, truthful advertising in the newspapers is the most economical way to make new customers.

THREE TECHNICAL KNOCKOUTS ON LIVELY LOCAL BOXING CARD

Nick Orlando Is The Winner In Main Boxing Match Over Visiting Queen City Pug

800 Fans See Neat Ring-Grapple Show By Riverview A.C.

Three technical knockouts studded a lively Riverview A.C. boxing and wrestling show staged before 800 fans last night at the local lacrosse arena. Following a good curtain-raiser, two prelims and the semi-final bout ended in the econd round when the losers were unable to continue. The main bout saw Nick Orlando decisively defeat Ernie Hicks of Torotno, having him on the floor repeatedly but unable to kayo his game opponent. Pete Pernokis of Ottawa won the semi-final mat event, and Bert Crothall of Toronto took the main wrestling bout.

Norm Bowler was promoter of the show for the Riverview Club. Judges were Harry Hance and Wilf Jones, with Hance refereeing the first bout and Jim Simpson of Toronto third man in the ring for the rest. Jack Withers was timer and Fred Scates the announcer.

Buddy Redmond and Bob Quirt, local 80-pounders, put on a fine curtain - raiser, giving the fans plenty to cheer about in their three rounds. Both kids showed good lefts and a knowledge of the game. It was a no-decision affair. The first of the prelims was between Red Riel and Hal Jones, Riverview A. C. lightweights, and it ended after two minutes of the second round in a technical kayo for Hal over Red. The latter tore in fast in a lively first round to crowd his rival half the inning with hard rights upstairs. But his nose was bleeding before the end as Hal finished strong. Jones had Riel reeling in the second with a hard two-fisted attack to the head as Red tired, the latter's nose bleeding badly. He was staggering and taking a beating when his second tossed in the towel.

Technical K.O.

Next prelim saw Wallie Hicks of Toronto cop a technical knockout over Joe Tumblin, Ottawa lightweight, as the second round ended, the bout being conceded. Joe was fast and landed more blows in the first in a redhot stanza as Hicks hung on and looked for openings. Tumblin tired some in the second and Hicks began getting in hard swishing smashes to the chin. He floored his Ottawa opponent with a right uppercut and Joe took nine seconds to get up. They squared off and Hicks hit him three dandies and Joe was down when the bell rang. He looked wobbly and decided to call it a night.

In the semi-final, Jack O'Neil, local 153-pounder, filled in when Scott of Toronto did not appear, and he won over Joe (Sonny) Hobbins, Riverview A.C. welter, by a technical kayo early in the second round. Jack was a southpaw with a peculiar style and a damaging right hook. He paralyzed Joe's right arm early with a wicked smash and, after dropping the first round on points to the better boxer, O'Neil got to Hobbins in the second. He ripped in rights and lefts as Joe staggered helplessly about the ring, out on his feet but refusing to drop to the floor. He was getting a bad beating when the referee stepped in and awarded the bout to O'Neil.

Nick the Winner.

Nick Orlando held Ernie Hicks of Toronto, 135 pounds, even in the first of their five-round main bout, and then took the next four handily. Ernie was a smart boxer and quite game, looking good in the careful first round. They slugged it out in the second, with Ernie landing plenty of light raps to the stomach and head, but Nick occasionally blasting him with a damaging right chopping blow to the jaw. He had him down once and staggering and clinching in the second. Nick downed him again in the third, but couldn't keep him there. Ernie fought hard to open the fourth, but was tagged twice with that wicked right chop and he took a 9-count twice. The final round saw Orlando trying hard for a knockout as Ernie hit the deck four times from those rights to the chin, but Hicks was game and still fighting back at the bell. Both drew a good hand, the local lightweight getting plenty of applause for his good showing.

Good Grappling.

The first wrestling match was between Spider Shakelton of Hamilton, weighing 145, and Pete Pernokis of Ottawa, going 143. It was a good show, with the villainous Pete roughing Spider up considerably and taking the one fall in the 30-minute bout after 14 minutes of mat mayhem with a combined crotch hold and body slam. The main wrestling event between Red Garner and Bert Crothall, Toronto, middles, was another hot number. Red was the hero, but he lost the first and third falls, while winning the second. It saw Crothall pull every type of illegal hold and stunt tried by the pro grapplers, with his rival fighting back furiously in spots but taking something of a beating over most of the route. The first fall came in 12 minutes after lively wide-open grappling. Second one took just 8.30 after a lot of straight wrestling on the mat, not as interesting to fans as the other style. They opened up at the last with some seven minutes of merry mat antics shown before the final fall.

Yankees After Buck Newsom From St. Louis

NEW YORK, June 14 (CP).—Barring a sudden switch from speech to action on the part of American League moguls, the 16 major league baseball clubs will have to go through the hardest part of the pennant fight with whatever material they have on hand now.

About the time the Dodgers are expected to wind up their first adventure under the floodlights—midnight tomorrow—the ban on inter-club trading goes into effect. The National Leaguers have completed a good many deals in the past few days and appear to have finished the job, but the American Leaguers have only talked a lot of deals.

There still are plenty of weak spots that might be strengthened by a bit of ivory bartering, but for the most part, the prospective pennant contenders are in pretty good shape. There's talk that New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians both are after Buck Newsom, the winning pitcher down at St. Louis, but the chances are neither will get him. The Browns want players this time while the offers are in cash. Cleveland also has a chance to pick up Elden Auker, the submarine flinger, from Detroit, but apparently doesn't want to give up what it takes.

Giants In Fair Shape.

The deal that sent Alex. Kampouris from Cincinnati to do the second-basing for New York Giants, seems to have put the National League champions in shape to make their big pennant bid in the home stand against the west which starts today. Alex. helped out a lot during the recent western tour and the Giants returned home on top.

The Reds got a regular outfielder, Wally Berger, in that deal but have been having some trouble replacing Kampouris. Linus Frey hasn't done especially well and on Sunday was replaced by young Justin Stein, obtained from the Phillies for Buck Jordan.

In addition, the Reds have recalled Don Lang from Albany and bolstered their mound staff by their latest deal which sent Pitcher Al Hollingsworth and the veteran catcher, Virgil (Spud) Davis to the Phillies. If they can plug the hole around second, they ought to stick right up there in the first division.

The Phillies, with Jordan on first, Phil Weintraub, who came back up from Baltimore recently when Manager Jimmy Wilson decided Gene Corbett wouldn't do, shifted to the outfield; Davis working behind the plate with Bill Atwood and giving Wilson a chance to stay on the bench and with two new flingers, may move a little faster than before, but they aren't likely to be bidding for the first division.

Have Day Off.

The Walters-Hollingsworth trade was the only action in the ivory market yesterday as both leagues took the day off for travelling.

Today the western clubs of the National open in the east, with Pittsburg taking on the league-leading Giants and the Cubs facing the third-place Boston Bees in the headline encounters. Safely home from the east, but with their American League lead cut to 1½ games over New York, the Indians open today against Washington, while the Yanks play in Chicago.

Trotting Champ Well Matched

An example of vigilance is Jimmy Wingfield, caretaker, of Greyhound, world's champion trotter, stabled at Indianapolis, awaiting the opening of the Grand Circuit season later this month. Jimmy takes no chances on anything happening to his charge and every night sleeps in his cot outside the stable door. A constant third party is Spot, the stable mascot.

Leafs Suffer Ninth Defeat

NEWARK, N.J., June 14. — The Maple Leaf losing streak reached nine straight Monday as the champion Newark Bears staged another home-run outburst that completely dwarfed the Toronto batters' ten-hit attack on Lee Stine, the Newark right-hander.

The score was 11 to 3, with the Leafs scoring all their runs in a first-inning attack that threatened to drive the home twirler to cover until Schulte made a fine third-out stop on Bill Urbanski, the eighth batter of the inning.

The Canadians did not do much more with Stine until the eighth, when a heavy thundershower ruined what small hope the men of Howley held for overtaking Newark's gigantic lead. Singles by Gantenbein, Reiber, and Porter had loaded the bases with none out when the rain came and made it necessary to call the game.

Motorists Win Over Westclox

Motorists defeated Westclox, 5 to 1, last evening at the Bowl before a good crowd of fans in a Men's Softball League struggle. It was the first loss in five starts this season for Pat Hayden's gang and gives Shorty Barrett's boys a firm grip on second place in the standing. The game was a pitchers' battle between Fleming and Parsons, and turned out to be one of the best tilts seen to date in this circuit. Both twirlers allowed seven hits, Fleming fanning three and walking two as Parsons struck out two and issued no free tickets. The fielding was most good all through.

Starr hit a homer and Playford a double for the winners, while Curry and O'Leary each had a two-bagger for Westclox. Fielding of Starr, Weir, Playford, O'Leary, W. Calladine and Mowry was good, the victors pulling a double play, short to second to first. Features were a running grab by Weir in the seventh, a carom play off Fleming's foot to Crow, and a fast running catch by O'Leary in the fifth. The teams:

Westclox: Dormer, 3b; Ellis, 1b; O'Leary, cf; W. Calladine, ss; Curry, lf; Parsons, p; Foster, rf; Stanger, 2b; Mowry, c.

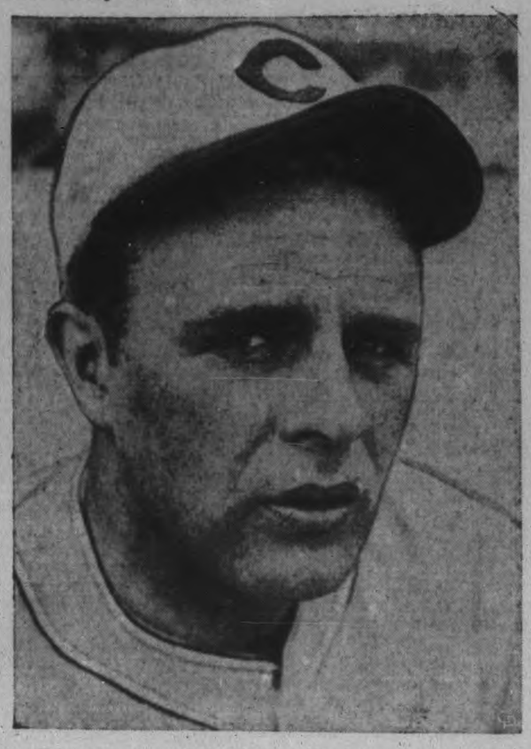
RUN OF HARD LUCK

BRAMSHOT, England — (CP). — Competing in the "Golf Illustrated" Gold Vase tournament, Cyril Gray's driver became loose at the fourth hole, and at the 14th he holded out with the wrong ball, being automatically disqualified.

No Hits, No Runs Roll



Set up a space in the hall of fame for another major league pitcher! Johnny Vandermeer of Cincinnati Reds crowded his way in on June 11 when he shut out Boston Bees, 3-0, the Bees being unable to get a hit off his deliveries. Vandermeer is in his first year in the majors and the perfect game was the first since Bill Dietrich turned the trick last year for the White Sox, and the first in the National league since Paul Dean set back the Dodgers three years ago.

Members Enjoy Summary Day At Warkworth

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Warkworth, June 14—East Northumberland Women's Institute hold successful summary day at Warkworth. One of the most interesting as well as educational Institute meetings was the summary day, in care of clothing project, for East Northumberland Women's Institutes was held on Friday in the council chamber.

Ideal weather large attendance and the great interest taken by the three branches, York Road, Colborne and Percy with their wonderful exhibits, demonstrations and papers on the work taken was an outstanding event in the history of the Women's Institute.

The first session opened at 10 o'clock, Mrs. James Black welcomed the guests and Miss Lulu Row of Toronto who has coached the leaders in this project took the chair. The first item on the program was a splendid paper on laundrying, given by Mrs. James Black. The speaker emphasized the importance of first sorting your clothes, soaking to remove stains, boiling and the proper soaps to be used for different materials and the best bleaches. Some very helpful information was received from this splendid paper. This closed the morning session. A picnic lunch was held at noon and a social time spent together.

Afternoon Session

Miss Row opened the afternoon session with a contest, naming correctly the different kinds of silk from the samples given. Community singing was enjoyed after which Mrs. Rob Bateson gave a demonstration on packing a suitcase. Mrs. George Palmateer gave a splendid paper on dyeing different materials. The Percy branch are indeed very grateful to Mrs. Lorne Evans, who has been their leader in this project.

Mrs. George, the leader for York Road was called on and she gave a paper on the Highlights of the Course. She spoke chiefly on the washing of woollens, mending, cleaning and pressing and dying and had some very fine exhibits. The demonstration given by Miss Helen Black and Miss Lillian McCleary on clothes closets up to date and the well equipped clothes closet was much enjoyed by all present.

Record Books: First, Mrs. Alex Merrills; second, Mrs. Percy Windover; third, Miss Blanche Baker. Darning on childs wool stocking: First, Miss Blanche Baker. Darning on silk hose: First, Mrs. Joe Greenly. Patching on garment: First, Mrs. George, of York Road. Patching on cotton: First, Mrs. Lorne Evans.

The exhibits of the home-made clothes closets, shoe rack, hat covers and stands, garment bag and other articles made by different members, were very fine. A vote of thanks was tendered to all who assisted in making this summary day such a wonderful success.

A number from Hastings branch attended this meeting but their leader was unable to be present so were unable to compete.

Czar's Aide Dies In Want

METZ, France, June 14 (AP)—General Michael Polzikoff, 71, former aide-de-camp to Czar Nicholas of Russia and commander of a Russian artillery division during the Great War, died Saturday in the small frontier village of Wasserbillig. ing rates at Quebec, challenged the ruling of Mr. Speaker Casgrain which supported Transport Minister Howe in his move to avoid tabling the document.

Mr. Casgrain's ruling was supported by a vote of 96 to 43, with the Conservative, C.C.F., and Social Credit members supporting Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Bennett moved to prevent the Government taking away the Wednesday evening recess when Prime Minister Mackenzie King presented a motion providing that beginning to-morrow night and until the end of the session, the House sit on those evenings.

The Prime Minister said he would leave the motion over another week, but he believed the majority of members would prefer to sit on Wednesday evenings.

Opposition For Housing Idea.

Finance Minister Dunning made some progress with the new Housing Act, but there were signs of some opposition to the proposal on general principles. The Act provides for enlargement of the Dominion Housing Act of 1935, $30,000,000 for loans to municipal or other low rental housing projects, and assistance in tax payments on individual low cost housing construction.

"You cannot build a house to-day and make money," T. A. Thompson (Con. Lanark) declared, "because there is a sales tax of eight per cent. on everything you buy. Even if a man does make a profit the Government takes it in the form of income tax."

G. B. Isnor (Lib. Halifax) told of an incident near Halifax where two groups of houses were constructed and found to be faulty. He suggested a waste of investors' money might have been prevented if supervision had been exercised.

Mr. Dunning said there was "a limit to which the Government can wet-nurse both the lending institutions and the man borrowing money." An investigation of the Halifax incident had revealed that reports were "very much exaggerated."

and the magnifying glass was for inspection," he wrote.

The steel chisel also helps to place the period of the prospector's trip. According to Mr. Claremont it was used to pry rocks apart, and took the place of the modern prospector's hammer.

It is believed that more implements belonging to the mysterious roamer are lying on the shores of Oke Lake, and a party may be sent out to search for more clues to the man's identity.

The Department of Mines will communicate with the head office of the Hudson's Bay Company at Winnipeg to determine if records show the disappearance of a company geologist in the Cochrane district during the past fifty years.

HALL'S BRIDGE

On Tuesday Buckhorn was visited by the Very Reverend the Archbishop Derwyn Owen. The Communion service was held in St. Matthew's Church, which the Archbishop officiated, assisted by the Rural Dean, the Rev. E. C. Moore. After the service His Grace inspected the mission hall and expressed himself as being highly pleased, both the hall and various other improvements which have been made since his last visit here.

Kansas Farmers Anticipate Record Wheat Crop

What promises to be one of the greatest wheat harvests in the history of Kansas is under way, two weeks before the usual cutting time. Expected yield for the state has been placed as high as 200,000,000 bushels by experts, a yield exceeded only once. One of the first farmers in the state to enter his wheat field with a binder is G. Graham, shown on the binder. His son, Clarence, is on the tractor. Graham says wheat on his 300-acre farm will average better than 30 bushels to the acre. The entire U. S. wheat harvest is expected to be one of the largest, if not the largest, on record.

A Goat's Dessert

Tail spins are not the only mishaps that can occur to automobiles. It was related today as one of the brighter stories along main streets that a goat got into a field on the farm of Smith Milburn in Smith township and made a meal of the tail of an airplane that was parked there. Some of the canvas and lighter wood parts made a fairly agreeable meal with resulting damage that had to be repaired during the week end.

Rebels Increase Wedge On Coast

HENDAYE, June 14—(AP)—The Spanish Insurgents' sweeping drive down the Mediterranean Coast today pushed government defences five miles south of captured Castellon de la Plana to the banks of the Mijares river.

Government troops dug in on the south bank of the river in a desperate effort to hold up the Insurgents' advance toward Valencia, 40 miles south of Castellon, until new fortifications can be completed in a mountain China barring the way to the former capital.

The ridges of the Sierra de Espadan and Sierra Del Cid form a natural defence parallel to the Sagunto-Teruel highway and about 10 miles north of the road, a vital government communications line.

The Insurgents' capture of Castellon and its port, Grao de Castellon, gave the Insurgents their first good port on the eastern Spanish Coast and widened to 40 miles the seaboard wedge they drove at Vinaroz, between Castellon and Barcelona, last April 15.

Streams of foot-sore refugees poured into Valencia, many bearing wounds suffered in Insurgent air raids. The migration emptied some villages in the path of the Insurgents.

U.S. Corn Growers Get European Call

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP).—Continued export demand for United States corn for at least a year appeared virtually certain today in view of an announcement that Argentine crop would approximate one-half of normal production.

Grain men professed to see in the announcement of a likelihood that United States farmers would be called upon to meet much of the European demand which normally is filled by Argentina. On the basis of present Argentine crop estimates, the potential market for American farmers was figured upward of 175,000,000 bushels. This would be more than the United States has ever exported to Europe.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics said advices from Buenos Aires reported the Argentine Government's official estimates of the crop at 179,000,000 bushels. Drought was held responsible for the smallest crop in 15 years, which compared with last year's production of 359,615,000 bushels. Normally, Argentina is the world's largest corn exporter.

European countries already have taken millions of bushels of last year's United States corn crop. L. C. West, Chicago Board of Trade statistician, estimated corn exports since last November at around 84,000,000 bushels, heaviest since 1922, when exports totalled 163,609,000 bushels.

Much of the corn going abroad now is being carried by lake freighter from Chicago to Canadian ports for reshipment to Europe, marking a revival of this phase of Great Lakes shipping.

Grain men estimated the export business had put around $38,000,000 in the pockets of American farmers.

G. G. Ommaney, development commissioner of the C.P.R., introduced by Tom McArthur, gave an interesting review of the railway enterprise in helping to promote the industrial and natural resources of the Dominion. Increase of railway business moved forward in pace with the general advancement of the country, and was assisted by scientific reseach as illustrated in the many uses to which nickel has been applied in the purpose of peace since 1918. Mr. Ommaney briefly sketched the special interests of the Maritimes, the Western Provinces, and Ontario on the basis of the proposition that the future of Canada depends upon the development of its natural resources by discovering new means of using them and new outlets and markets for their consumption.

Typical Example.

Peterboough was cited by Mr. Ommaney as a typical example of industrial Ontario, utilizing the products of its farms, forests and mines. Its cereal and dairy plants, its saw mills and canoe factories, its packing and canning plants, the new nepheline mines in eastern Peterborough, and gold mining enterprises in the neighboring district, together with its attractions for tourists were all forms of development of resources in which the people of this city could take justifiable pride. Mr. Ommaney intimated that the railway company can further such development in various ways, and especially in the case of the opening up of new resources, bringing them to the attention of interested authorities, and thereby adding new wealth to the country and additional materials and products for transportation.

Chief Newhall Is Called By The Defense

The unusual spectacle of Chief Constable Newhall being called as the only defense witness and of his being cross-examined by Crown-Attorney V. J. McElderry K.C. featured a charge against William Barrow before Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning of having assaulted Stephen Costello on March 26 with intent to do serious bodily harm.

A similar charge has been made against Hugh Given, former reeve of Harvey.

Barrow was defended by J. F. Strickland K.C. and elected summary trial and pleaded not guilty.

Costello, first witness for the crown swore that on the night of March 26 he was standing on Hunter Street near the Peterborough Lumber Company's office when Barrow and Hugh Given came along and Barrow had struck him on the face or head and knocked him down. He got up and sat on the fender of a car that was there and Barrow struck him again in the face and knocked him back against the car. When he got up the second time he brushed against Given and witness swore that the latter pushed him back against the car once more, accusing him of beating up two old cripples in the American hotel.

"I got away from them" said the witness "and telephoned for the police."

Had Fractured Skull

Afterward he said it developed that he had a fractured skull and he was 47 days in hospital.

To Mr. Strickland Costello said that he had two glasses of beer and a quart bottle of beer that evening. He had the bottle in Given's room in the American Hotel. He said that Given had invited him to go there and he found two other men who were "rather disagreeable" there. He denied that he had struck either of them however.

John Killen who was with Costello on the night in question corroborated complaintant's evidence as to being hit by Barrow.

Leo Scollard said he was walking west on Hunter Street and saw Costello struck and knocked down against the car. He could not say who hit him.

H. Hennessy gave similar evidence but identified Barrow as the man who had struck Costello although he admitted he could not have "picked him out of a crowd."

Dr. Robert Young testified that he had been called in by Dr. J. A. Morgan, jail physician, for a consultation in regard to Costello and it had been found that the man had a fracture of the skull three inches long. The skull was not depressed, he said.

Moved For Dismissal

Mr. Strickland at the conclusion of the crown's case moved for dismissal but Magistrate Campbell refused the request whereupon the defense counsel called Chief Constable Newhall.

The latter testified that all the parties involved in the case had been brought into the police station on the night in question and there had been much argument as to what had happened—so much in fact that it was impossible to make much out of it. Costello on Monday morning had pleaded guilty to being drunk and had gone to jail for 10 days because he could not pay his fine. On Monday morning he had said that he would not make a complaint against anybody in connection with the matter. Chief Newhall said Costello was drunk on the Saturday night. He had had his injuries dressed by Dr. Herbert Young who had said that he was in a fit condition to be locked up.

Costello was re-called by Crown Attorney McElderry in reply and said that his injuries had not been dressed at the police station but at Dr. Young's office and that Dr. Young was not in the police station at all on Saturday night but came the next day.

There was an adjournment until Dr. Young could be located and could reach the police court. He testified that he had attended to Costello's injury in his office and afterward saw him at the police station later the same night. There was a deep cut on the man's head that had to be stitched. Costello, he said, was highly excited but was not intoxicated although he might have had something to drink.

Magistrate Campbell announced he would reserve judgment until this afternoon's sessions of the court.

Dublin's Mayor Manhandled

DUBLIN, June 14 (CP-Havas)—Interest in Friday's general election increased today following disorder at a fine Gael (opposition party) meeting during which the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Alfred Byrne, was manhandled and a number of persons injured.

Mr. Byrne, Independent candidate in one of the Dublin divisions, was given a police escort back to the Mansion House.

James Dillon, vice president of Fine Gael, told the meeting his party, if elected to office, would wipe out Communism in Eire.

"We stand for the doctrine that every man has a right to speak his mind within the law," said Mr. Dillon, "but Communism isn't within the law, and let no man in this great multitude vote for us who thinks that Communism is within the law."

Mr. Dillon said Great Britain would protect Eire for reasons of her own safety.

William Norton, Labor leader, in a speech at Monestrevan, said Prime Minister Eamon De Valera was appealing for a "strong" government, but that "the unemployed man, the lowly agricultural worker or tenant of a mud cabin has nothing to gain from a strong government."

"Strong governments are invariably used to oppress people and the Irish people do not want a strong government of the type which could turn a deaf ear to demands for remedy of social ills."

No Action Taken Institute Course

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, June 14.—The June meeting of the Women's Institute held Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. M. Lindsay as hostess, proved an interesting one. There was an attendance of 23.

Discussion was taken up regarding the short course but no action was taken. Mrs. Melville Wight and Mrs. Harry Mann, canvassers for ratepayers signatures for those in favor of street lights, reported 83 had been secured, two third of the majority, so it is expected work will be soon commenced on the project so as the streets will be illuminated by the time the tourists arrive for the opening.

A box of candy with a suitable birthday card was ordered for an elderly member whose birthday occurs before the next meeting. Fruit was ordered for the sick. The members decided to present the retiring president, Mrs. Earl Greenly (who held the office for 3 years) with a suitable gift. The president and secretary were appointed to purchase the same.

Mrs. Thos. Sedgewick gave a most interesting paper on current events. Mrs. John Scott was appointed as convenor for education. Mrs. Thos. J. Brown gave a few of the outstanding features of the district annual recently held at Havelock.

Council's Committee

The council was represented by Aldermen Glover, Bradburn and Dutton, and Judge Smoke presided with Mayor Hamilton and Magistrate Gee of Lindsay present.

"We owe it to the police force and to the public to clear the air," Alderman Dutton commented.

The members supported Judge Smoke's statement that no attention would be paid to the several anonymous letters he had received relating to police affairs, but in view of the fact that they seemed to indicate certain things, it was felt that the persons who wrote them, or any other persons who might have grievances, should be given the opportunity of coming forward and presenting any statements which they are prepared to support in the regular way.

Alderman Bradburn said that he understood the procedure under consideration the enquiry would be advertised, if any complaints were received they would be listed with those already on file, the council would be so informed and it would be their duty of deciding the next step.

"The council is an anxious as this Commission that these matters should be cleared up," Ald. Dutton said, "and the only question with us is the best way to go about it."

Magistrate Gee said a week or ten days should be long enough to receive complaints which any persons might wish to make, and Alderman Glover suggested that the committee might meet the Commission again after June 27 and then make to the council any recommendation which the circumstances warranted.

Wood-Tick Is Hard To Kill

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Morris, 694 Aylmer Street, travelled over 4,000 miles in a recent motor trip through the state of Michigan and on into Minnesota. Mr. Morris was as usual interested in outdoor life, particularly plants, flowers, birds, etc. He secured some excellent photographs of a number of orchids which he found growing in the northern part of Michigan.

In the woods of Minnesota Mr. Morris had experience with wood-ticks. "The wood-tick." Mr. Morris explained to the Examiner, "is like a spider with eight legs. His habit is to climb trees or large shrubs and from there drop on people or animals passing below. That is so deftly done that one is not aware of its presence. The tick is no larger than half the siz of a ten-cent piece and is dark in color. They are hard to deal with because they have such a tough covering and are so thin. One of them emerged from my sleeve when I was in the bush and came down on my thumb. I took the other thumb and pressed hard to finish the thing but when the pressure was relieved the tick merely moved on. When he got on my nail I tried again using the other thumb nail to press and when I was certain I had finished him he started to crawl off once more. They are parasites and are said to destroy a number of such animals as rabbits. In other more tropical countries where they grow to larger size they are reported to be carriers of a number of forms of disease."

Mr. Morris and his local committee of Ontario Naturalists is now engaged in making arrangements for the regional gathering in this city on Saturday, June 25, particulars of which will be announced soon.

a program of drastic reduction in expenses could be achieved that the country would be warranted in inviting the perils of monopoly and of the great difficulties which I foresee in the type of management of the joint enterprise which is now proposed."

In unification there was the grave danger of "a slackening in the morale of the organization, of a lessening of initiative and enthusiasm a loss of sympathetic contact between the management and the men and between the management and the public."

The risks were so great they could be offset only by substantial economies he could not envisage.

In addition there were financial risks. The C. P. R. plan, while it contemplated technical preservation of the respective ownership of the properties, "really consisted of a permanent fusion of the physical properties and of the organizations into an indivisible unit." State and private ownership were to go into a partnership on "some terms as yet undisclosed."

C. N. R. Danger to Canada

Reduced to simple terms the case submitted by the Canadian Pacific to the committee was that an unwise venture of the state into the railway field had produced the greatest danger to the future of the nation by the creation of the Canadian National; that this danger could only be removed by unification.

He could not agree that creation of the C. N. R. was a danger to Canada. Those who held that view overlooked the great measure of public service performed by the system in furnishing transportation to communities to which, "as parts of this Dominion, they are entitled but which it is impossible to provide on a paying basis."

Looking to the future, he said the Canadian National has far greater potentialities than the C. P. R. because it is better located in relation to the natural resources of the north. If development took place without needless duplication of lines the broad outlook for the development of traffic on the C. N. R. was "decidedly encouraging."

Mr. Hungerford said there is a tendency to consider the income deficits of the Canadian National as deficits arising out of operation but this is not so.

For the 15-year period 1923-1937 inclusive its operating revenues exceeded its operating expenses by $361,346,000 or an average of $24,090,000 a year. In the five most prosperous years, 1925-1929 inclusive, the property earned $225,287,000 over its operating expenses. The deficits arose not from operations but from the heavy burden of interest charges.

English Publisher Asks For Picture Taken By Examiner

The name and face of Gerald Johnston, 11-year-old Indian boy whose leg had to be amputated a few months ago at Nicholls hospital, is going to be familiar to thousands of people soon.

When Grey Owl, famed Indian chief, was lecturing in Peterborough in March, the Examiner's photographer prevailed upon him to visit Gerald in hospital, and took a picture of the two of them. The picture was used in the Examiner and was later purchased by Central Press Canadian. "This picture, along with your story, was used quite extensively in Canada following our distribution," a letter from R. B. Collett, editor, stated.

And now Gerald's picture is to go abroad. Today the Examiner received a letter from the publishing firm of Lovat Dickson Limited, London England, requesting a copy of the picture. "We are producing a small memorial volume to Grey Owl and I would like to include this picture amongst the illustrations which will appear at the end of the book." the letter stated.

First Cricket Test Match Ends In Draw

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 14 (CP Cable).—England and Australia drew in the first cricket Test match of the five-game series today. Following England's record-breaking total of 658 runs for eight wickets declared, Australia compiled 411 and following on had made 427 for six when play closed.

NOTTINGHAM, England, June 14 (CP Cable).—Hopes for a decision in the first cricket Test between England and Australia were virtually shattered in the concluding day's play today. At the tea interval the Aussies' second-innings score was 361 for four wickets, giving them a two-innings total that exceeded by 114 runs England's first-innings score of 658 for eight declared.

Draw Likely.

Prospects of a draw increased today. At the lunch interval the Aussies had carried their second innings overnight score from 102 runs for one wicket to 199 without further loss.

When the overseas cricketers completed their first innings for 411 runs yesterday they were forced to follow on, and now are only 48 runs behind England's huge total of 658 for eight declared. The match concluded today.

W. A. Brown, Queensland veteran, became the second Australian to top the century-mark in the match being unbeaten with 101 at the interval. Don Bradman increased his total from three to 44. In yesterday's play Stanley McCabe made 232 in a slashing innings.

Only 5,000 spectators were at Trent Bridge when the match was resumed this morning in hot weather, the small attendance reflecting the possibility of a drawn encounter.

During the morning it was announced that Walter Hammond had been invited to captain England in the second Test opening at Lord's, famous London ground, June 24. The present match marked the noted Gloucestershire player's debut as leader

Brown and Bradman continued to play unattractive cricket today. Apart from punishing the few loose balls sent down, the wily pair concentrated on defending their wickets.

England's bowlers had a hard task on an unresponsive pitch which showed only slight signs of wear.

Federal Aid Call Is Stirred By Doctor

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (CP) —Official leaders of North American Medicine today broke the ice for possible convention discussion of a "socialized" system of treating persons unable to pay their doctor bills.

They conceded demands of indigent and low income groups for free treatment had become too great for the profession to bear alone. They acknowledged the problem had "forced collective thinking" toward a solution and it had given rise to proposals that the need be met in the United States by Federal funds.

In retiring from the presidency of the American Medical Association, Dr. J. H. J. Upham of Columbus, Ohio, said the collective thinking forced up the profession by the unending flow of "depression" patients had awakened the doctors to social and economic questions.

Assuming the presidency for 1938, Dr. Irvin Abell of Louisville, Ky., told the convention that the country's 130,000 physicians were donating probably $1,000,000 worth of services daily to indigent and low-income patients.

Results from a narrowing of the air passages leading to the lungs. These passages become narrowed when the circular muscle fibers of the bronchial tubes become excessively contracted. All muscle fibres contract and relax, dependent upon messages conveyed from the brain through the spinal cord and nerves. Any improper supply of nerve energy to these muscle fibres may cause them to tighten up and decrease the size of the air passages, thus reducing the amount of oxygen reaching the lungs.

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, has just been rescued from a band of Yaqui Indians, holding him for ransom, through bold move on the part of Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star. Ellen and Bill had been staying at the wealthy Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Also rescued with Bill was Panola Montoya, the ranch owner's daughter, whose invitation to ride with her led to their capture by the Yaqui.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 13

If he lived to be a hundred years old, Bill Baron told himself when the day was over, he would never experience greater surprises nor sit on a more extraordinary pow-wow. The setting and the transactions there were almost fantastic.

Here at an altitude of more than a mile—in a secluded, hemmed-in flat place as wild as it was when Columbus sailed—lived a band of fugitive Indians, families who were tenaciously fought for their very existence. Unwanted everywhere and who had unwanted everywhere and who had istence. Their mountain home was no utopia, no Shangri La in any sense. Poverty and hardships ruled there, but it was a retreat in which the proud Yaqui could still be defiant, and from which he could make frequent forays to steal cattle and horses and other meager goods essential to life.

Bill could not help admiring the strength of the individuals. The men showed, he felt, not the hang-dog squalor he had seen in some enfeebled remnants of American tribes, but some of the same fierceness and dignity that once characterized our Apaches, Comanches and Sioux. These were mountain red men who had never been conquered, and who would suffer themselves and their families to be wiped out before they would accept virtual slavery on some "reservation" farm. For this, Bill could only admire them, even as he realized now that the lives of four white prisoners were at stake.

The strange conference with the Yaqui chieftain, however, was very short. Probably, Bill reasoned later, it was simply a matter of striking contrast.

Ellen Dale, having rested a bit, recovered her spirit as well as her strength. When the group had assembled to hear the white people, Ellen shone among them like some sort of animate jewel. The delicacy of her clothing, her bearing, her color, even of her now faint perfume, was so strikingly different from the Yaqui women and men that she commanded respect because of it. A pretty white woman is generically the most powerful individual ever created anyway. History has long since proven it, and further evidence was given here in the mountain town. What 50 or 100 armed men could not have accomplished, Ellen Dale accomplished alone.

With Bill and Panola Montoya acting as interpreters, she explained the deal she had made with the two Yaqui men. These two Yaquis themselves verified her statements.

"The chief asks why he should live up to any such agreement," Bill explained, after some talk. "He wants to know why he should not now kill all four of us. He says he has never been able to trust white men. I ought to threaten him with soldiers, if he gets tough, I guess."

"No," said Ellen, quickly. "Tell him if he breaks the Yaquis' agreement, he will be as untrustworthy as the whites. Do you see, Bill? If his tribe is to break its word, it will be no better than white people!"

Bill stared at her for a moment. "Smart trick!" he murmured. "If I can make it clear to him!"

The diplomacy worked. Human gratitude is a powerful thing, and pride is even stronger when properly touched. Ellen had won the gratitude of the two Yaqui captives, and she had turned her political and personal charm on the Yaqui chieftain now. Before they quite realized it, the white people were free to return home.

The four whites immediately filed away, past the staring Yaquis, out onto the descending trail. They moved afoot. Their horses apparently had been confiscated after they arrived.

"Dont mention horses or anything else," Bill counseled, "but get out of here as promptly as possible. We can walk it, barefooted even. I'm telling you women, you don't know how lucky we are!"

He retained his skepticism even when they had moved out of sight of the village and were a mile or so away. They had paused here so that Mrs. Montoya could wrap cloths around Panola's feet to effect makeshift shoes. Both Panola's and Bill's feet had started bleeding, from the rough rocky trail, but Bill simply grinned at his, and made mock braggadocio as to his "full dress" suit.

With every hundred yards, it seemed, the moods of the various trekkers seem to change. Panola grew constantly angrier, and soon was talking rather stupidly about what she would like to do to the Yaquis. Her threats were echoed by her mother.

Ellen had said almost nothing on the down trail, after learning in detail of Bill's and Panola's experiences since they left the ranch. The party had moved painfully another mile or so, and had stopped for another rest, before any form of thanks was given Ellen. The American girl was sitting on a rock, and Bill was leaning against it, relaxed. Panola was lying on the grass where her mother was rubbing her aching legs.

"I still don't believe it," Bill drawled. "But I hope it's true. I don't see a sign of a Yaqui now."

No one answered, and Bill turned to Ellen.

"You are rather fine," he said, pausing briefly. "One of these days I intend to take up the matter of thanking you."

Ellen looked intently at him, disconcerned that he was quite serious.

"It will not be necessary, Bill. I am still indebted to you, remember. I still am."

"No. Never any more, anyway. But I'm kind of squelched, Miss Dale. I weigh 180. Big he-man—see? Western man. Dashing strong."

She smiled then. "Don't be silly."

"Ho hum, and I might have had my name in the headlines!"

"Bill Baron, I believe you are getting in a mood! And by the way, you called me Ellen back there. Why do you call me Miss Dale here?"

"Did I?"

"Didn't you?"

"All right; but Im not in love with you. You did the rescuing. I'll never live it down."

"Oh ,stop it! But Im glad to see you normal again. Your face showed strain a while ago."

Bill stood up straight then.

"Listen, lady, I was strained! We were in a ticklish spot, let me tell you! And for love nor money I couldn't see a way out. All kidding aside—Ellen—you were swell!"'

He took her hand, squeezed it. He was not smiling when she looked into his eyes.

"I think you mean it, Bill," she murmured. "It's all the thanks I need."

They hadn't moved more than a mile farther when the foot-weary women and man turned into a canyon and sighted a cavalcade.

"Es Julio!" shrieked Senora Montoya.

It was indeed Don Julio, and Felix, and some 30 other men, looking like a troop of cavalry so heavily were they armed. They had folloked into the mountains when Don Julio's patience had reached the breaking point. The old rancher had expected his loved ones to return—if ever before nightfall of that first day, but he had not known of the distance to the Yaque village, nor of the incredible roughness of the trail. He meant to raid the Indians, come what may. Now he was overcome with joy.

Ellen and Bill were left out of the melee of conversation for several minutes. All in Spanish, it could hardly be followed by one man anyway. Some of the men seemed anxious to go on after the Yaquis and Panola concurred, urging them to go and take revenge for the insult. But when Ellen understood the trend, she vetoed it.

"No! Tell them no, Bill! It is impossible. It would be foolish as well as dishonest to break our word now!" She was holding his arm, instinctively clinging near her own countryman.

When she heard Ellen, Panola came toward her, trembling with what surely was forgivable weariness as well as rage.

"I believe you would not care," she said, slowly, "if they had keel me! You theenk onlee of thees Beel!"

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By R. J. Scott

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl 20 years old. I have had a good upbringing by fine parents who have taught me to lead a clean moral life. Now here is my problem: I am in love with a handsome young man and we both work in a large office. In this office the girls get themselves engaged to a man and from then on lead a most enjoyable existence. They go to dinners, then to shows, have a few drinks and finally spend the evening at a hotel. This happens on an average of about once a week, generally on payday nights. These girls and boys figure that they are too poor to get married and that they might as well take life as it comes and enjoy themselves. My fiance wants me to do as the other girls do, but I just can't bring myself in line. The girls tell me that I am crazy not to. A circular letter sent around by the manager to the male employes about a week ago stated: "Any undo familiarity on the part of the employes will be the cause for instant dismissal." I like my job very much. And I like my boy friend very much better. I am aware that a thing like this would be wrong, but these office brides have plenty of good times while I have none.

PETRONIA.

Answer:

Did you ever think, my dear, that you can pay too high a price for pleasure, and that one, single, solitary good time may cost you the happiness of a lifetime? Yet that is one of the cruel truths of life. And it is exactly what will happen to you if you listen to the pleas of the man who is trying to lead you into the downward path and follow the example of the loose-living girls in your office.

Maybe they do have a "grand and glorious time" in getting drunk and prostituting themselves, but unless they are as hardened as any woman of the street, they must pay for it with the bitter knowledge that they have lost their own self respect, and with remorse and shame for what they have become. And they must go in continual fear of their orgies being discovered.

Do you think an hour or two of pleasure is a bargain at that price? When you call these girls "office brides," you have said it, because most of them will never be real brides. Their engagement rings will never turn into wedding rings because very few men ever marry their mistresses. Why should they? They have had their little romance and the flavor has worn out of it. The girls have lost their novelty and the men are ready to pass on to fresher faces and seek new adventures. Maybe the girl is jealous and makes scenes. Maybe she is too possessive and tries to enslave them. Anyway, the thing has worn itself out and they are tired of it and of her.

And besides, it is a distinct handicap to a man to marry a girl with whom it is known he had had an affair. Advancement in business depends so much on social contacts in these days and many a door that it would be profitable for him to enter is closed to the man whose wife is taboo and can't be invited.

Furthermore, most men when they marry want a wife with clean skirts, not one who has been spattered with the mud of scandal. And even when a man does marry the girl who has thrown her cap over the windmill for him, it is seldom a happy marriage. He doesn't trust her because he knows she has not the stamina and character to stand by her principles and do right for right's sake. He knows her to be weak and unable to resist temptation, and where faith and respect are lacking in a marriage there can be no abiding love.

So stand by your code. Petronia. Don't buy your pleasure at too great a price. Don't let the young man who is trying to lead you into wrong doing persuade you into selling your soul for a mess of pottage. If he really loved you, he would not want to smirch you. If he intended to marry you, he would not put you in the position these "office brides" are in. Any man who is fit to marry wants to protect the woman he loves even against himself.

You may be a little lonesome now and not have the "grand and glorious times" the girls have whom you envy, but you will have a lot more happiness in the end. And take this practical thought into consideration: From the letter that the manager has addressed to the office force it is evident that their carryings on have been discovered and it is just a matter of time until all the gay roisterers will find themselves without jobs.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am married to one of the best men on earth. He is devoted to me and does everything for my happiness, but I am thinking of committing suicide because we have no children and can never have any. My husband says he doesn't care, that I am enough for him and fill his life, but I know he loves children and he would make such a sweet father, as he is so good. Should I turn on the gas and get out of it all so that I would leave him free to marry some other woman who might have children.

DESPERATE.

Answer:

Of all the crazy letters that have ever come to this column, yours is about the most goofy. However, it has been my experience that the people who are always threatening suicide never commit it, so I will not telephone to the police to keep an eye on you.

At any rate, before you turn on the gas, try to find out if your husband's happiness really does depend on having a child in the house. Not every man is obsessed by the parental instinct. Plenty of men who are fond of children abstractly are perfectly satisfied to take their fatherhood vicariously, so to speak. They like to play with Mamie and Johnny when they are clean and all dressed up and on their best behavior and drop in for a half hour's call, but when the youngsters turn into brats instead of little angels it is grand to be able to send them home and let somebody else listen to their noise and be up with them at night when they have the tummy ache.

And, if you are so set on a baby and can have none of your own, why not go shopping for one? At the child-finding homes you have a wide selection and you can take your choice of a girl or boy with blue eyes or brown, and not have to take what nature sent you. At any rate, I should advise your taking a good dose of common sense instead of rough on rats.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am engaged to a girl who is very high-tempered and hard to get along with. If I can't get along with her while we are single, how can I do it after we are married?

A. R. C.

Answer:

You can't. Marriage is no cure for temper. It merely increases it and gives it scope and power. Better listen to your Guardian Angel, who is trying to save you a lot of trouble.

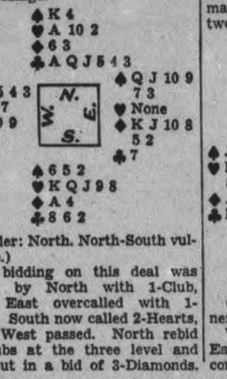
"The Authority on Authorities"

WEAKNESS ADVERTISED

REPEATED overcalls by your partner against vulnerable opponents who keep on to game despite them, do not necessarily proclaim any defensive strength in his hand. In fact they frequently advertise weakness more definitely than if he had not bid at all. With great length in his own suits and corresponding shortage in the hostile ones, he may be striving with might and main to find a sacrifice fit with you against probable powerful holdings.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

The bidding on this deal was started by North with 1-Club, which East overcalled with 1-Spade. South now called 2-Hearts, which West passed. North rebid his clubs at the three level and East put in a bid of 3-Diamonds. After 3-Hearts by South, North took the contract to 4-Hearts. East passed this but West decided to double in view of the fact that he held five hearts and his partner had been able to put in bids of two suits.

It should have been quite evident to West that East's hand was of very doubtful value if the vulnerable opponents were not deterred from bidding to game in spite of his bids.

The double cost East-West plenty of points, for South succeeded in making not only his contract but two overtricks.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Well," said Mr. Punch to Knarf and Hanid, the two shadows, the other evening after the children had gone off to bed, "I see that all the boys are spinning their tops and all the girls are playing jacks again. It's very pleasant. It makes me think of the days when I was young."

"Did you ever spin a top, Mr. Punch?" Knarf asked.

"I'm sure you never played jacks," Hanid broke in before Mr. Punch had time to answer. "Jacks is a girl's game."

Mr. Punch smiled. "My dears,"

"I felt something tugging my arm."

he said at last, "when I was young I used to spin tops and play jacks both at the same time."

"You did."

"Yes, indeed. Generally I spun the tops with one hand and threw out the jacks with the other. But when I used to feel that I really wanted lots of fun I used to play checkers and fly a kite at the same time—"

No Trick At All.

"Oh, that wasn't so hard," Knarf exclaimed. "All you had to do was hold the kite with one hand while you played checkers with the other."

Mr. Punch shook his head. "It was much, much harder. You'll soon see why. I only played it once. Judy was my partner in the checkers part of the game. The kite I flew by myself. I was playing in Judy's parlor—the kite was flying out of the window—when all at once I felt something tugging at my arm. It was the kite. It was trying to fly higher. But that didn't bother me at all. I simply tied the string around my foot and went on with the checker game. Then suddenly, just as I was about to win, I looked up to see my leg floating out of the window."

"Your leg, Mr. Punch?"

"Yes, dears—my leg. The rest of me followed right after the leg, of course. I mean, I went out of the window altogether. I took the checker game with me. And Judy, who was holding the checker board, went out, too. Then up, up we all went—Judy, the checker board, and I. Oh, it was wonderful. We went skimming up over the treetops, and the chimneys of houses, higher than the church steeple. And then—"

"Then what happened?"

"—Then the string broke and we all tumbled down, right into the pond. Oh, it was lots of fun. You all ought to try it sometime."

But Knarf and Hanid weren't at all sure that they would.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, June 15.

A day of great opportunity and adventure is presaged from the dominant planetary directions. There are indications of most unexpected possibly peculiar or intriguing developments that may have an important effect on all the departments of life. Upheaval, disruption, adventure, and romance may descendwith startling force, and may prove beneficial if sobriety, diligence, restraint, and common sense is exercised rather than hysteria and spectacular behavior.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of the most surprising and sudden developments, with radical change, romance, complete upheaval and exciting adventures in both business and private affiliations. These should be met with sound judgment, acumen and lack of pyrotechncs. It is possible that gifts, inheritance or a death may figure in such spectacular events. Keep self-possessed.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature. It may be subtle and serious, and at the same time, given to adventure, romance, travel, the strange quixotic and unorthodx. Its talents may be many.

Splendid Reports Given At Meeting

Mrs. S. J. Graham, president, presided. Mrs. J. J. Turner, recording secretary, read the minutes, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. Tinker. Mention was made by the president of the venetian blinds purchased by the auxiliary for the sun-room on the second floor of the hospital, and of the need for smoking stands in the first floor sunroom.

Paid-up life members numbering 34 was the encouraging report given by Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse. The visiting committee report by Mrs. J. Comstock revealed 60 members on the visiting list. Mrs. J. G. Wharry reported that two layettes had been given out from the Samaritan cupboard, and that four more had already been prepared. Mrs. R. Ross, convenor of the sewing committee, stated that approximately 600 articles for use in the hospital had been brought in.

A comprehensive and exceedingly interesting report was that of Mrs. E. M. Leeson, in which she lauded the incredible amount of work being accomplished by the auxiliary. Mrs. Leeson also spoke of the significance of Hospital Day, and of the splendid success it had been this year. She stressed the great need of more accommodation at the hospital, mentioning the fact that only 86 beds were available for an average of 82 patients.

In commenting on this report, the president spoke of the high rating Nicholls Hospital had attained in the province, saying that the need was not for a better hospital, but a bigger one, in order that every patient in the city and county of Peterborough might be accommodated.

A delightful account of the entertainment given for the second-year nurses at the home of Mrs. J. R. Marshall, Weller Street, was given by Mrs. Blackwell.

The report of the Penny Sale was indeed an encouraging one. Mrs. J. Lowe, who was in charge of the refreshment booth, reported the receipts as $100.48, with an expense account of but 90c. Total receipts for the day amounted to the fine total of $1,008.77, which included also $6 received later in donations.

The president here expressed her deep appreciation of the splendid co-operation the association had been accorded by merchants and friends who had exhibited a keen interest in the hospital work.

Members were then requested to list the names they would like to have appear on the board next fall. A nominating committee of six was elected, which is as follows: Mrs. Walter Blackwell, Mrs. E. V. Morphet, Mrs. I. T. Lillico, Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Mrs. R. Ross and Miss Evelyn Morrow.

United Counties Are Asked To Assume Drive Along South Shore Of Rice Lake

Permanent Committee On Schools Is Suggestion to Council

(By a Staff Reporter).

COBOURG, June 14.—"All we are asking is that the counties take over the road from Harwood to Alderville," Reeve Wesley Pacey of Alnwick Township told the Examiner at the conclusion of the opening session of the United Counties Council Monday afternoon.

"This road along the south shore of Rice Lake is one of the most beautiful in the whole district," he continued. "It connects the Peterborough-Port Hope highway at Bewdley with the Cobourg-Hastings highway at Roseneath or thereabouts. It has been assumed by the counties from Bewdley as far as Harwood; now we want the counties to take over the rest of it. If they don't—."

Well, Wes. Pacey is a mild-mannered man, and he hasn't asked a great deal of the Counties Council. Probably there wasn't much he really wanted, but he wants this Harwood-Alderville link taken off the hands of the Townships of Hamilton, Haldimand and Alnwick, through which it passes, or else—. Either in committee or council he is going to put up a fight for it, and he feels rather confident that the members of the council of Northumberland and Durham will realize that it is to their advantage to improve the eastern stretch. It is a long scenic route skirting in many places the shore of Rice Lake through Gore's Landing and Harwood and winding up at the Indian reserve of Alderville, a short distance southwest of Roseneath. Reeve Pacey asserts that it will increase the tourist traffic to Rice Lake, with benefits to Hastings and Bewdley at either end.

Permanent Committee.

Because of the involved arithmetic of computing school grants, Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township, chairman of the schools committee, proposed to the council, in a resolution from a special investigating committee, that the schools committee be made permanent, consisting of three members, one of whom shall be the chairman of the council's general schools committee.

The revision of schools grants has been for the most part a one-man job, recently by Reeve Mallory, before him former Reeve E. G. McKeel of Campbellford and others in succession. Usually the chairman of the schools committee has been selected for aptitude in computation. Former Reeve Percy Stinson of Millbrook passed through the experience. It calls for carful study of the regulations and the changing basis of grants from the Department. New members on the committee would be in a fog until they became familiar with the accounting, and for that reason Reeve Mallory suggested the advisability of appointing a permanent committee.

Mental Defectives.

"There are too many half wits in the Counties Home now," said Reeve Edmonstone of Bowmanville in the course of a discussion begun by a question from Reeve Carruthers of Darlington respecting his township's problem of a man about fifty years old who is somewhat subnormal mentally. Reeve Carruthers did not urge that the man should become an inmate of the Counties Home, but that possibility was mentioned.

"There were two transferred recently from Whitby to the Counties Home, and they should be sent back," Reeve Edmonstone said. "Like the Darlington man, they are not bad, not violent, but they are not mentally fit, and it is time this council went on record for having such people placed where they belong."

"The question arises as to what constitutes a mental defective," Reeve Carruthers remarked. "I understand that a man has to be declared deficient by two doctors, but a doctor at Whitby doesn't consider that this man should be sent to the Whitby institution. I feel that is where he should go. But, Whitby is filled up, and the question our township council is facing is what we are going to do with him. Personally, I don't know."

Reeve Arthur Wood of Cavan agreed that the Counties Home was not the proper place for any person who was mentally subnormal. Some of the older inmates were problem enough without adding to the work of the staff with patients who should be sent to a mental institution.

"The Counties Home shouldn't be made a half-way house for people of that kind," Warden J. Frank George commented. "We can't help feel sorry for such people, but after all it is a problem for the provincial government and not for this council."

Send Condolence.

On a motion by Reeve C. Devitt of Cartwright, the clerk was instructed to send a letter of condolence from the council to the family of the late A. A. Colwill, who was Warden of the united counties in 1915.

A letter signed by G. W. Armstrong, Ed. Thorndyke and Ben Olan of Cavan offering about 1,000 acres mostly of sandy land for reforestation purposes, was referred to the reforestation committee.

The Department of Highways notified the council of its approval of the county road budget of $90,000 for this year. The Department assumes half the amount.

A resolution from Cavan Township Council requested that the nine miles of road from Millbrook to Pontypool be assumed as a county road. It was referred to the roads committee.

Warden George welcomed the members at the opening of the session and urged the chairman to call their committees together as soon as possible in order that the work of the sessions could be completed promptly.

Screaming Gulls Demonstrate Bombing Ability

A typical scene at Three Sisters, a promontory near the tip of Quebec's Gaspe peninsula. Clouds of wheeling, screeching gulls and gannets are shown practicing an ancient art that the gods of war have improved upon with disastrous results for humanity. The birds dig shellfish in the sands, fly aloft with the prize and drop it on the rocks below to crack the shell. There are lazy birds, too, who prefer stealing from their fellows to digging their own food. These lazy ones frequently snatch the prizes in mid-air as they drop towards the rocks below.

MORE ABOUT—

United Counties

ing their appropriation for roads from $35,000 last year to $45,000, and the government contributed an equal amount. This loosening the belt a bit will provide $20,000 more than last year to be expended on the county road system in Northumberland and Durham.

Effects Of Economy

The council's persistent economies of the last four or five years, a steadfast refusal to spend any more money than was needed has already borne the expected fruit. No longer do the counties owe the Ontario Department of Highways any accumulated debt; and there has been no issuing of new debentures. In fact the council in authority during those recent years had swung to the extreme of parsimony, trimming road estimates, for instance, to less than was felt necessary for the upkeep of the counties road system. Even in the face of warnings that roads were going to be seriously damaged by disrepair and lack of maintenance, the council maintained its course, paid off its provincial highway account, and is now able to take the elastic off the bank roll again for both construction and maintenance.

Auditors' Compliment

The audit of the 1937 finances by Oscar Hudson & Company of Toronto was frankly complimentary. The council followed the auditors' advices in other years, and after absorbing the deficit of $17,120.37 from 1936 wound up the year 1937 wiht only $3,243.61 to be carried over.

"This deficit should be included in the 1938 tax rate," the auditors proposed. They found all the books in good order, and confirmed all payments and receipts. Interest charged on bank loans last year was 4½ per cent.

Quotations from the financial report for last year are quoted in the following paragraphs.

Matter Of Bookkeeping

The budget for roads was overexpended by $4,500.12. This, added to the accumulated deficit since January 1, 1932, gives a total overexpenditure on roads in the six years of $34,530.81. While this in no way effects the tax rate, it means that some other expense must be providing the surplus out of which these deficits are met and the budget information is unreliable to that extent. The road accounts were in the usual satisfactory condition for audit purposes.

Municipalities failing to make a report to the counties treasurer as required by the Municipal Act were: Alnwick, Clarke, Brighton township, Cramahe, Darlington, Haldimand, Hope, South Monaghan, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Campbellford, Cobourg, Colborne, Hastings, Millbrook, Newcastle.

Total income last year was $435,874.09 of which $372,590.25 was raised by the counties tax rate; administration of justice $7,449.30; provincial highways, $36,560.65; interest on counties rates ,$205.08; licenses, $218; miscellaneous, anti-corn borer grant, $256.05; social services, hospitalization, $14,180.87; counties home maintenance, $4,153.99; counties home farm sales, $18,592.76.

Expenditures Last Year

Expenditures in 1937 totalled $439,117.07 showing a deficit of $3,243.61 as compared with the deficit of $20,363.98 on January 1, 1937.

Items of the expenditure were: Administration of justice, $26,651.77; agriculture, $3,170; charity and welfare, $67,926.34; debenture debt charges, $87,629.08; education, $104,431.92; general administration, $22,741.74 highways, $104,043.53; anti-corn borer, $516.10; registry offices, $1,643.24; and deficit Jan. 1, 1937, $20,363.98.

Welfare Expenses

Charity and welfare items: Children Aid, $8,043.11; grants, $1,650; hospitalization, $28,502.90; industrial schools, $2,782; mothers' allowances, $6,930 old age pensions, $6,237.55; Counties Home, salaries and wages, $3,011; maintenance, $9,363.41; maintenance of buildings, $506.37.

Spent On Roads

Details of the road work were: County roads, general, $24,825.26; construction, $16,744.59; maintenance, $34,491.02; total, $76,060.87. Provincial highways, payment on 1935 assessment, principal, $25,885.13; interest, $2,097.53. Total, $27,982.66.

Road costs. County roads, principal, $30,463.16, interest, $23,676.76. Total, $54,139.92. King's Highway principal, $21,473.90, interest, $12,015.26. Total, $33,489.16. Aggregate, $87,629.08.

Education: Continuation and high schools, $93,036.45; public schools, $6,046.86; entrance examinations, expense, $348.61. Total, $104,431.92.

Chinese, Japs Fleeing Great Flood

Waters Cover Miles Of Honan, Troops Life Savers

SHANGHAI, June 15 (A.P.). — Both Chinese and Japanese armies were fleeing to-day before a Yellow River flood that could not be stopped either by guns or bombs.

Spilling through immense breaches in the river dikes between Chengchow and Kaifeng, the flood waters rolled for miles across the flat plains of Honan Province, recognizing no man-made barriers and carrying disaster to thousands of Chinese peasants as well as to armies.

Japanese war despatches said fully 300,000 Chinese civilians had been made homeless and estimated that 150,000 civilians had drowned.

Hundreds of floating corpses were declared to be visible, and Japanese troops were turning from war to life-saving, participating feverishly in building rafts in an effort to save Chinese peasants stranded on high ground and house-tops.

Eerie scenes were pictured as the refugees splashed through the water shrieking for aid.

Tragedy long familiar to China was being enacted as farmers, fleeing before the relentless current, were trapped and drowned in their homes and fields.

Father, Son Rescued After 2 Days In Mine

ASHLAND, Pa., June 15 (AP)—A father and son, trapped in a makeshift mine since early Monday, were brought out today by rescuers.

"Thank God, I'm out of there," were the father's first words. His son was too weary to speak.

A physician said both Peter Shinskowsky, 48, of Shenandoah, and Peter, Jr., 17, appeared to be in good condition.

Wrapped in blankets and with eyes closed, both walked about 25 feet to cars and were taken to a hospital.

The elder Shinskowsky's daughter, Mary, stood by, too tired to show emotion when the men were brought out. Her mother, who had kept an almost constant vigil for two days was resting at home.

Coffee and water, lowered down a pipe forced through the choked slope last night, cheered the pair.

The cavein was caused by failure of a makeshift device for lifting coal from the slope. It loosened the timbers and allowed the side to crumble.

New U.S Pay Law Takes 7 Years To Hit 40 Cents

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—Only President Roosevelt's signature was needed today to start an unprecedented federal program for nationwide regulation of industrial working hours and minimum pay in the United States.

Congress approved compromise legislation late yesterday after Senate debate that left little doubt the law soon will encounter a constitutional test in the courts.

The act is calculated to fix the minimum pay and maximum hours of 750,000 industrial workers, as well as the hours of another 1,500,000 unaffected by the wage provisions. It will go into effect 120 days after being signed by the president.

The president may appoint immediately an administrator who will have broad powers to interpret the act and to instruct committees of employers, workers and private citizens to be set up for each interstate industry.

Few Extra Employees.

Representative Ramspeck (Dem.-Georgia), who helped draft the final bill, said a large additional force of federal employees would not be necessary because the administrator will be in the Labor department. As one of the session's last acts, Congress took up a $500,000 appropriation to administer the new law.

The industrial committees will be established as quickly as possible in an effort to raise the minimum wage

Clean House Is Advice To Druggists

Association Scores Premium-Giving Popularity Contest

HAMILTON, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—An appeal to Ontario druggists to "clean house" was made to-day by W. H. Karn, newly chosen president of the Ontario Retail Druggists' Association, as he echoed the spirit of a conventiin resolution against unfair merchandising practices.

Citing coupon and premium giving, and popularity contests of all kinds, the resolution was unanimously endorsed at the final business session of the 20th annual convention of the association.

The action of the convention gave approval of a private meeting of druggists which was called especially yesterday to discuss the widespread problem of chiselling and unfair trading methods.

"We strongly urge," the resolution reads, "all pharmacists of the province to avoid, by firm refusal, associating themselves with any form of coupon or premium giving, popularity contests, or any other scheme that is readily recognizable as an effort to gain advantage over his fellow-pharmacists, and is equally unfair to those manufacturers whose distribution is mutually beneficial."

More regard for ethical and professional standards in window and store displays was also urged in a resolution. Other resolutions gave approval of the existing relief medicine dispensing scheme, endorsed pharmacy and first-aid weeks, and set up a committee to consider the druggists case in regard to minimum wage legislation.

No Decisions Taken On Canadian Planes

LONDON, June 15 (CP-Havas).—Proposals for the manufacture of aircraft in Canada are still "under consideration," but "no decision has yet been taken," Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary for Air, told the House of Commons today.

"No further purchases of foreign aircraft are at present in contemplation," he declared.

"Why is it not proposed to send a commission to Germany in view of the ease with which military aircraft may be produced there?" asked Geoffrey Mander, Liberal.

"No purchase of this kind is under consideration," Sir Kingsley replied.

Mr. Mander then asked: "Is Germany considered an enemy country then?"

There was no answer.

The placing in the United States of orders for 400 military planes did not indicate any doubt as to the quality of British aircraft, the Society of British Aircraft Constructors said today in its weekly bulletin.

"Placed as a temporary measure to help in meeting the early requirements of the new expansion program," the bulletin said, "the orders in the United States for 200 trainers and 200 general reconnaissance aircraft leave the main British constructions to that extent freer to concentrate on machines that matter —highly specialized performance fighters and bombers which constitute our military strength."

Terrorized Refugees Swarm To Valencia

VALENCIA, Spain, June 15 (AP)—Valencia was overwhelmed today by an ever-swelling stream of hungry, war-impoverished refugees from Castellon De La Plana and Castellon province.

The bull ring, many theatres and every building that could be evacuated to make room for them was packed with the 15,000 already arrived. They brought tragic stories of hours of terror spent in dodging bombs and machine-gun bullets from insurgent warplanes.

The road from Castellon to Valencia was a death's highway. Scores of families told of stopping to scoop out shallow graves for relatives or friends killed in flight.

Most of the refugees arrived afoot, carrying their few worldly possessions, but a few more fortunate came by mule cart. There was scarcely an able-bodied man among them. Adult males were left behind to dig government trenches or to take places in the lines.

Bank Runs Coal Mine

MEXICO CITY, June 15—(AP)—One of the largest coal factories in Mexico has been placed under control of the National Workers' Bank, which was set up last year to help cooperatives manage expropriated industrial properties. An official announcement said the plant's "former owners" had been unable to reach an agreement with the workers.

Speedy Action Is Indicated In Prison Remedies

Report Been Hands Of Cabinet For Weeks, Expect Commission Of 3 To Result

OTTAWA, June 15 (CP).—It is expected Justice Minister Lapointe will bring in a bill this session to transfer the management of the penitentiaries from a superintendent to a commission of three members. This would give speedy effect to a major recommendation of the penitentiary commission in a report tabled in the House Tuesday.

It was explained most of the recommendations can be put into effect by changes in the penitentiary regulations and therfore do not necessarily need an act of parliament. It would be at the discretion of the minister whether the proposed changes be made by statute or regulation.

It is emphasized here that if the government has decided to accept the recommendations of the report, its first step would be to appoint the new commissioners, and let them have a hand in the changes in the regulations and administration of which would be their responsibility.

No General Centralization?

Little hope was expressed in official circles much progress could be made at this time on the proposal that the entire penal system of Canada be centralized under the Federal government and that the provinces retain only sufficient institutions to accommodate those convicted under provincial statutes or for short sentences.

"With the provinces touchy about their rights it would not seem to be a good time to make such a proposal to them," one official said.

Although the report was only made public yesterday, it has been in the hands of the government for several weeks so the cabinet has doubtless made up its mind how far it will implement the recommendations.

Sudbury Taximan Found Murdered

SUDBURY, Ont., June 15 (CP).—Widespread search is being conducted today for the slayers of Nick Loncar, Yugoslavian taxi driver whose battered body was found near the lonely Long Lake road two miles outside Sudbury.

A posse of Loncar's compatriots found the body sprawled 30 yards from the roadway last night after a 36-hour hunt that started when his deserted cab was found on a city street. A bullet wound appeared directly between the eyes, leaving the face a clotted mass of blood, and the clothing had been torn to shreds, evidence of a terrific struggle.

Search is directed toward two men, believed to have hired Loncar early Monday morning. When last seen alive he was driving the mysterious pair away from his taxi stand at 2.30 a.m. Other reports indicated that a woman may have had some part in the case.

Heard Woman Scream

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Doughty, living in a tent by the Long Lake road, said they heard a woman scream early Monday. She was with three men and cried: "I want to go home," the Doughty's said. They watched the four flag a passing automobile that picked them up and drove toward Sudbury.

The search posse was organized by Mike Uteson who employed Loncar. Friends said that if robbery was the motive of the slaying it might have been Uteson who was the intended victim. He is said to usually carry a substantial amount, but Loncar had only about $5 and had just become a regular driver after being on the spare list.

Loncar came here three years ago from Hamilton where he was employed by the Dominion Glass Company.

Canada's Exports Drop 35 Million

OTTAWA, June 15 (CP).—Canada's exports in May were valued at $67,769,500, a drop of $35,755,053 compared with $103,524,553 in May, 1937, the Department of National Revenue reported today.

Principal items of exports with figures for May last year in brackets: Wheat, $3,713,697 ($10,529,311); wheat flour, $1,623,454 ($2,130,325); fish, $1,460,305 ($1,929,022); furs, $649,856 ($1,235,320).

Woman Spy Beheaded

BERLIN, June 15—(AP)—Anna Schwitzer was beheaded on the guillotine with her husband, George at Ploetzensee prison today for espionage. Royal Probe Started Line Closing

C.P. Railway Counsel Shifts Blame From His Company

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP).—"Initiative of the line abandonment proposals lay with the royal commission, which had already been acquainted with the Canadian National estimate of savings from unification, including the abandonment of 2,434 miles of line," it was disclosed to the Senate railways committee today in a letter from E. P. Flintoft, Canadian Pacific Railway counsel.

Col. O. M. Biggar, counsel for the committee read the letter to the committee. Evidence before the committee hitherto had been that proposals for abandoning many miles of railway line had emanated originally from C.P.R. officials.

With this letter Mr. Flintoft attached two joint statements made by officers of both roads. One, dated Dec. 30, 1931, a few weeks after the Duff royal commission of 1932 began its inquiry, covered territory east of Fort William, Ont., and included approximately 1,600 miles of main lines and 175 miles of branch lines.

"You will note that it recommends consideration of joint trackage in the territory Ottawa-Sudbury, Sudbury-Port Arthur and Toronto-Sudbury, and thus covers the eastern lines portion of the territory discussed by Mr. Kingsland," Mr. Flintoft wrote.

In last night's session W. A. Kingesnand, vice-president and general manager o fthe C.N.R. central region, had protested against abandoning the line from Beaverton, Ont., to Capreol, Ont., and from Nakina, Ont., on the transcontinental, to Transcona, Man.

Another 1,185 Miles

The second satement, undated, covered western lines, totalling 1,185 miles of proposed abandonments.

Today T. H. Cooper, comptroller of the C.N.R., told the committee declared C. P. R. estimates of savings from unified management were based on C. P. R. costs. He contended, however, that the costs of the C. N. R. compared favorably with that of the other system.

The C. P. R. Estimate of $9,864,226 saving on "superintendence" should be reduced to $5,600,000.

"With regard to the remainder of the estimated savings," Mr. Cooper said, "approximately $4,000,000, this depends entirely on what would be done in carrying out the unification plan."

Exhibits filed with the committee showed that since 1930 the C. P. R. had reduced its superintetndence costs of $792,304 a year, and the C. N. R. by $5,414,992.

This had been achieved without unification and Mr. Cooper challenged the position taken by Sir Edward Beatty, C. P. R. president, in asserting, Mr. Cooper claimed, that such economies were possible only under unification.

Railway revenues during the first four months of this year were down more than $14,000,000 from the corresponding period of 1932, Col. Biggar said.

Last year Canadian National Railways revenues totalled $62,000,000 and expenses were $57,400,000. This year revenues amounted to $55,100,000, while operating expenses were up $59,500,000. This represented a drop of 9,000,000.

For the Canadian Pacific Railway the 1937 revenues were $43,500,000 and expenses $38,000,000. This year revenues totalled $40,500,000 with expenses of $38,800,800 to which would have to be added tax accruals of approximately $1,400,000. The total decline was $5,800,000 said Col. Biggar.

Holt Declines Bid. To Power Probe

TORONTO, June 15—(CP)—Sir Herbert Holt, prominent Montreal financier, today advised a special committee of the Ontario legislature he did not intend to appear before it in connection with its investigation of the affairs of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission but would be glad of an opportunity to be of assistance if a commissioner saw him in Montreal.

The committee yesterday invited Sir Herbert to appear to give evidence about Heaubarnois Light, Heat and Power Company contracts with hydro. An agreement between Hydro and Beauharnois was put into force last december. It replaced a contract drawn up prior to 1934 and cancelled by the Ontario legislature in 1935.

A telegram from Sir Herbert was read to the committee today:

"I have never been a director or officer of the Beauharnois Company, and have had nothing to do at any time with the company's dealings with the Ontario Hydro. Consequently, I cannot see how my presence can help you. If I can otherwise be of any assistance to your committee, I shall be glad of the opportunity, if you send a commissioner here for the purpose."

Britishers Rush To Buy Gold For Hoarding

LONDON, June 15 (A.P.).—A rush to buy gold for hoarding in place of currencies continued to-day, spurred by wholly unconfirmed rumors of impending currency devaluation.

The morning offering of more than £1,773,000 ($8,814,026) was quickly absorbed by world-wide demand, chiefly emanating from France, although some American deposits in London have been converted into gold. Yesterday's turnover was £3,000,000, more than twice Monday's.

At one time, the premium on gold over the daily fixed price reached a shilling and halfpenny, highest since March 5.

The price to-day was fixed at 140s 9d an ounce, compared with yesterday's 140s 8d, and Monday's 140s 6½d. (The fixed price was equivalent to $34.99 an ounce, and later as dollar exchange sagged, to $35.03, or three cents above the official U. S. Treasury price of $35.00.)

Following the price fixing, sellers offered bar gold at a halfpenny over the fixed price. London banking and official sources denied impending devaluation rumors and despatches from the United States and Italy bore like denials.

Lyon Charges Hepburn Runs Hydro

Tells Of Friction, Once Refused Hogg's Resignation

TORONTO, June 15 (CP).—Dr. T. H. Hogg, present chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, once offered his resignation as chief engineer to T. Stewart Lyon and "I refused," the former hydro chairman told a special committee of the Ontario Legislature today.

Telling of friction between Hydro departmental officials, Mr. Lyon was asked whether he and Dr. Hogg got along harmoniously.

"I would not say that," he replied. "Toward the end we had differences of opinion on power matters. But we got along. He once offered his resignation and I refused. I told him I hoped he would spend his life at the Hydro."

Dr. Hogg succeeded Mr. Lyon as Commission chairman late last October. A few weeks later power-purchase contracts with Quebec companies were put in force, succeeding those cancelled by the Legislature in 1935. Mr. Lyon has told the committee he opposed renewing the contracts.

The contracts frequently have been mentioned before the committee, investigating Hydro affairs, Leopold Macaulay, Conservative house leader, has charged Premier Hepburn negotiated the contracts before last October's general election when the Premier publicly advocated a "back-to-Niagara" power policy.

Hepburn, Walter In Control

Premier Hepburn and Chester Walter, provincial controller of revenue, now are "running the whole show" as far the Hydro Commission are concerned, Mr. Lyon told the committee. His remark was made during an exchange with committee members on a report on internal management of Hydro submitted by H. C. Guilfoyle, auditor, in 1929. The report hitherto was secret.

Chairman of Hydro for three years, Mr. Lyon said he made the "chief correction" recommended in the Guilfoyle report. "I got rid of Gaby," he said. (F. A. Gaby was chief engineer of the commission before and for a short time after Mr. Lyon became chairman.)

The former chairman disclosed that Premier Hepburn once wanted to reduce the salaries "of these men on the Hydro." He opposed that, he said, "because they would have walked out."

The Guilfoyle report was the subject of considerable discussion at today's session. The report was critic-

Farmer Shakes Gun At Bards Then Stays To Communion

AYLMER, Que., June 15 (CP).—An irate farmer with a shotgun interrupted the solemn ceremony, attended by some of Canada's leading poets, held under the pines at "Brotherhood Wood," near here early this morning as a tribute to the late Archibald Lampman, one of their most brilliant fellow craftsmen.

The poets attending the Canadian Authors' Association meeting in Ottawa came shortly after midnight to the grove where Lampman found inspiration for some of his noted works.

The Canadian bards, including Wilson MacDonald, Lloyd Robert, Nathaniel Benson, Michael Casey, Eric Gaskell, Arthur Bourinot and James H. Stitt, raised their faces to the starlit sky and recited in turn selections from their own works.

Suddenly the solemn communion was shattered by an angry farmer with a shotgun bursting in on the gathering to demand the "trespassers" leave his property.

The purpose of the meeting was explained. The farmer's anger subsided and he remained, gun in hand, until the end of the ceremony.

U.S. Advertisers Advised To Make Study Of Canadian Example

Detroit, June 15 (CP).

W. J. CAMERON of the Ford Motor Company yesterday recommended to the Advertising Federation of America a study of the state of mind in Canada.

"Canada," he said, "knows it has a Canadian Government at Ottawa, not exiled Russians or men with collapsed ideas from overseas, and that it has a Premier who doesn't grab at new social systems overnight, or jam the Kingdom of Heaven through Parliament before adjournment."

Mulock Kills Cow Shakes Up Family

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 15 (CP).—W. P. Mulock, Liberal M.P., for North York, with Mrs. Mulock and young son, were shook up but not injured when their car struck a cow six miles east of Madoc on Highway No. 7. The animal, owned by William Kehoe, was killed and the car badly damaged.

Provincial Constable Arthur Dymond and Chief John Danford of Madoc investigated, bringing the party to Belleville, where they proceeded to their home by train.

Shinbone Grafting Dooms Backache Problem

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15 (A. P.). — Surgery that takes shinbone and makes it into a new backbone to stop backaches was reported to the American Medical Association here to-day.

The surgery is something new in bone grafting developed at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. It takes splints of a person's shin bones and uses them to lay a bridge six inches long lengthwise of the aching part of his back.

The bridge is two strips of shin, parallel, like the string pieces of an engineering bridge, chips of bone dropped upon the vertebrae alongside these "bridge bones" serve as "cement."

They cause the shin-bone bridge to grow fast to the vertebrae of the backbone. This natural bridge then induces further bone growth, so that in two or three years, the patient has enlarged vertebrae and a structure stronger than the original backbone.

The Cause of Aches.

It cures the ache. The cause of these backbone troubles, it was explained by Dr. H. W. Myerding, of Mayo Foundation, who developed the operation, is a slight displacement of vertebrae. Usually the lowest vertebra fails to rest in the right spot on the sacrum, the bone in which the backbone ends at the hip line.

This back weakness rates as a new ailment, because until recently it was not usually recognized. For a long time, Dr. Myerding said, the medical profession thought that back aches of this sort followed childbirth and were mostly peculiar to women.

Lately it has been found that twice as many men as women have the back weakness. It is a trouble mostly of those who do heavy work, particularly farmers, laborers and housewives.

In many cases, Dr. Myerding said, steel braced corsets can be used to avoid bridge-building operations.

Burglar Offers Teacher Job As Foghorn Following Her Screams

Toronto, June 15. (CP).

SCREAMS FROM Miss Mary Cook, A teacher, foiled a burglar who entered Branksome Hall School for girls here early today. She woke to find the intruder in her room. When she screamed, he rushed over and put a gloved hand over her mouth.

"I'll get you a job as a foghorn," he is said to have told Miss Cook. When he left through an open window and a fire escape, she rushed downstairs and telephoned police.

He obtained no loot, school authorities said.

Papers Are Doing Double Service

The Examiner sends a number of papers to Omemee each day of the week and from there they go on rural routes as well. The report from that centre is that fifty per cent. of the Mail-It-Away edition delivered to regular subscribers has again gone through the post office. The people who received them are now passing them along to friends at a distance.

If readers desire to make use of copies of this Vacation edition they should act quickly. The stock on hand is being depleted each day and the time is not far off when a request for a copy will be met by the statement, "Sorry, but the edition has been sold out."

In making this statement The Examiner is merely trying to help those of its readers who may want copies for mailing, as the available supply is going out now at the rate of about 250 copies per day. No more can be printed so early application is desirable.

Gen. Dawes Well Again, Finds World Better Place Than He Thought

New York, June 15 (CP).

GENERAL Charles G. Dawes, former United States vice-president, left a hospital where he had been seriously ill nearly two months and boarded a train late yesterday for Chicago.

Before he left, he wrote this statement for the Associated Press with pen and ink:

"When a man whose life has been saved by the quick decision and skill of a great surgeon, and after 51 days well again, steps out of the hospital, his first feeling is one of gratitude to his Maker and those who have cared for him, and his second, that this world is a damn site better place than he thought it was before he took sick, (signed) Charles G. Dawes."

Claim C.N. Used Politically In Prairie Vote

OTTAWA, June 15.—(CP).—A new note has been thrust into the charges of political patronage which have reverberated through the House of Commons for the past several weeks with a claim from M. J. Coldwell (CCF Rosetown Biggar) that the Canadian National Railway was used for political purposes in the recent Saskatchewan election.

Mr. Coldwell's charges, arising from circulation of Liberal propaganda among railway workers on railway forms and through railway mail channels, were made in the House yesterday but were not debated at any length. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, referred Mr. Coldwell to the railway management.

Mr. Bennett renewed his charges of patronage in the Kingston area where he said "the atmosphere is redolent of patronage of the worst possible kind."

Labor Minister Rogers and Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) joined in denouncing the tactics of the opposition leader who said he was getting further information and would complete his charges later.

For Mr. Bennett in his role as "a vindicative partisan" Mr. Rogers said he felt "a mixture of sorrow and contempt." None of his charges had been supported and his evidence was such that, as a barrister, he would not submit to a law court.

Divorce Bill Shelved

A feature of yesterday's proceedings in the House was the sudden death of the Senate's bill for broadening of divorce grounds. J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, sponsored the bill after it had lain on the order paper several days without a sponsor, and moved second reading last night.

Daniel McIvor (Lib. Fort William) moved an amendment that would give the bill a six month hoist and this carried on a non-party division of 102 to 53. All Liberals present except 11 and three Conservatives supported the amendment. The Social Credit and C.C.F. members voted solidly against the hoist, assisted by two Independents, the remainder of the Conservatives, including Mr. Bennett, and 11 Liberals including Revenue Minister Ilsley.

There was another brief discussion on the situation in Vancouver where for more than a month transient unemployed have held the postoffice and art gallery. No change in the government attitude was disclosed.

Mr. Bennett brought up the Vancouver situation on motion to resolve the House into committee of supply. "There appears to be a complete violation of any thought of law and order, or regard for it. Such a thing has never been heard of before in Canada, or so far as I know in any other British Dominion.

Serious Situation.

"And when one has regard to the statement made on a poster, stuck against a telephone pole in Vancouver, which came to me, and which has reference to the young Communists and their activity in connection with this matter, one realises that the matter is much more serious than would appear upon the face of it.

Despondency Blamed In Cadet's Suicide

KINGSTON, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—A report on circumstances concerning the graduation day death of Cadet H. G. Campbell of the Royal Military College is being prepared to-day for military authorities at Ottawa. Two inquiries were held yesterday.

Body of the Port Arthur student was found in his room on Monday, a bullet wound in his head. A coroner's jury found he took his own life in a fit of despondency. Evidence was introduced to show Campbell received an anonymous letter hinting he was partly to blame for the death of another cadet, R. D. Smith, some time ago.

Cadet Smith died suddenly a month ago of brain hemorrhage following a friendly scuffle with Campbell. Evidence showed his nerves were shattered by the fatality, however, and he was in hospital for a period after Smith's death.

Lieut.-Col. C. R. Stein, Adjutant-General of the College, told the coroner's jury last night of the anonymous letter Campbell received. It has been sent to the Minister of National Defence.

"It was a nasty letter to receive," said Col. Stein.

Campbell failed in his examinations, Col. Stein said, and would have been unable to return to the College.

Farmers Advised To Use Care Selecting Seed

GUELPH, Ont., June 15.—(CP)—If farmers were as particular in the selection of their seed grain as they are in the selection of herd sires, there would be an "immediate" improvement in crop production, Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said in an address here today. There had been "too much haphazard production of cereal crops in the past."

"The objective should be the best of crops and the highest quality livestock," Mr. Dewan told the 32nd annual meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. "A livestock man demands the best in herd foundation and should demand an equally high quality in the foundation stock of the grain he sows."

Farmers were demanding a higher standard of living. As a result of modern farm comforts and conveniences their expenses had been increased by from $400 to $600 a year. "This means they must increase their incomes to keep pace with the profits enjoyed by their ancestors," said the minister. "This can be done partially by improved production of which good seed is a basis."

Advantage Being Seen

In general, farmers were becoming "more alive" to the advantages of using registered seed. Agricultural societies were showing more interest in crop competitions and seed-cleaning plants report "greatly improved" business.

It was the duty of the department of agriculture to assist in getting "this good seed you produce" to the farmers, Mr. Dewan continued. "We believe this can be accomplished through the medium of county seed fairs and we hope eventually to have a seed fair in every county of Ontario."

While there had been a "healthy growth" in the number of seed-clean-cleaning plants in the past few years, a "great deal" of the value of the plants "will be wiped out if we are going to allow weeds to be as prevalent as they are in many parts of Ontario at the present time," the minister warned. "There are certain sections where weed loss is most appalling."

Paying tribute to the work of Ontario boys' grain clubs, Mr. Dewan said there were 44 clubs with 581 boys sowing at least one acre of grain last year. This year, 60 grain clubs had been organized.

al of the late J. W. Gilmour, treasurer of Hydro from 1918 until shortly after the Lyon Commission was appointed. The report said Mr. Gilmour was "fit for very little else but to sign cheques.'"

Clark Protests

Today Mr. Clark, government counsel to the committee, protested against admission of the report. He said previous reports on Hydro management filed with the committee "took up half our time—a lamentable waste of time so far as the public and the committee are concerned."

Mr. Clark added: "The committee was originally called to investigate the charge the premier of the province had deceived the people."

The committee, appointed by the Ontario Legislature, was set up after Mr. Macaulay charged Premier Hepburn "misled" the voters in last October's provincial election. Mr. Macaulay charged the premier, while publicly favoring a "back-to-Niagara" power policy, secretly was negotiating with Quebec power companies for renewal of Hydro contracts cancelled in 1935.

New purchase agreements with Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company and other Quebec companies went into force last December. They replaced contract drawn up prior to 1934 and cancelled by the Ontario Legislature in 1935. The revised agreements were negotiated by the Hydro Commission headed by Dr. T. H. Hogg after Mr. Lyon resigned.

Never Thought They'd Be Kept.

John Diblee, assitant chief Hydro engineer, told the committee the Guilfoyle report contained statements from eight or nine officials. He said that far from "displaying seething discontent in the Hydro," conversations between heads of departments and the auditor simply were suggestions for the benefit of the organization. "They were never expected to go beyond Mr. Guilfoyle's mind," said Mr. Diblee. "They never expected he would record them."

Mr. Lyon read an extract from the Guilfoiye report in which it was recorded that Dr. T. H. Hogg, then chief Hydro engineer and now Commission chairman, had said to Mr. Guilfoyle that beyond signing cheques and other mechanical work connected with the Treasury Department and handling money the treasurer, J. W. Gilmour, did nothing else.

Mr. Gilmour retired from the position of head of the Treasury Department "a week before we came in," said the former Hydro chairman. "But this report was five years before, in 1929. He continued as treasurer until 1934." The Guilfoyle report expressed the opinion Mr. Gilmour was "fit for very little else but to sign cheques."

To Mr. Clark's remark that Mr. Gilmour is dead "and can't come here to defend himself," Mr. Lyon said: "His intimate associates were saying these things about him when he was living."

"I think we've gone far enough," Mr. Clark protested. "The whole fiasco should stop right here. It's nonsensical bringing up inter-office arguments that date back as far as 1929."

Continuing his reading of the report, Mr. Lyon said: "Securities were brought up from the vault and clipped in the treasurer's office. There was no precaution taken—"

Mr. Clark interrupted. "Who made that last statement? I understand it is a lie—a false statement. Not that you are lying, but the statement itself is false. Who said it?"

"Mr. Jones (present head of the Treasury Department)," Mr. Lyon replied.

The former chairman said in answer to a question from Mr. Macaulay there would have been greater co-operation if there had not been friction among departmenal heads. "The Hydro was being hurt," he said.

He agreed, with Mr. Macaulay that the departmental chiefs mentioned in the Guilfoyle report still held their positions and that while they remained with the commission friction would continue.

Turning again to the Guilfoyle report, Mr. Lyon read its opinion Dr. Hogg's two-fold position as Hydro engineer and consulting engineer for private concerns, "would not work out." He said he agreed with the report, adding:

"I never knew till yesterday that Dr. Hogg had accepted the Algoma Steel job. It was taken behind my back."

(In evidence during yesterday's session it was disclosed Dr. Hogg was consulting engineer for Algoma Steel Corporation in connection with its Northern Ontario properties. Dr. Hogg resigned his position when appointed Hydro chairmna last October.)

Think Niagara Jam Has Changed The Fish Population

Niagara Falls, Ont. June 15.

THE UNUSUAL ice conditions which existed in the Niagara River last winter, causing the collapse of the Falls View bridge and flooding of the Ontario Power plant, are blamed for a change in the fish population of the international stream and other changes which are not visible on the surface.

Last year the river teemed with black bass. This year only few have been caught, but the sturgeon supply is the most plentiful in the history of the river.

The "monster" which apeared in the river last week, was noticed splashing in the "Big Eddy," and opinion is growing that it may be a huge sturgeon which has been stirred up from the bottom of the river.

of all industries to 40 cents an hour. For the first year the statutory minimum will be 25 cents, advancing to 30 cents for another year.

For the next five years the committees will fix the minima, which thereafter will increase to 40 cents in all industries where that scale will not create unemployment.

The act establishes a maximum work week of 44 hours for the first year, 42 hours for the second and 40 thereafter, with time and a half pay for overtime. Workers in seasonal industries, which do not operate more than 14 weeks a year, may be employed for 56 hours a week before being paid overtime.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 15 (CP)—Profit-taking, expected in view of Winnipeg wheat advances up to 23 cents in 17 days, cut prices down at the close today. Broad trading disappeared shortly after prices advanced more than a cent earlier with light offerings resulted in final values 1⅝-1¼ cents lower, July $1.09, October .86¾-⅞ and December .84⅝ cents.

Influence of Chicago virtually controlled operations at Winnipeg where brokers disregarded Liverpool's sharp advances and the continued stream of unfavorable reports from the United States southwest winter wheat belt.

Cash wheat demand continued slow. Spreads for Nos. 1, 2 and 4 Northern eased a cent. Odd-lot sales were made to mills, exporters and shippers.

Coarse grains followed wheat, making gains earlier and easing near the close.

Rogers Denies Firing Employment Heads

OTTAWA, June 15.—(CP)—During debate on labor department estimates last Thursday Opposition Leader Bennett, discussing employment offices to which the Dominion contributes, charged men employed in them were dismissed when a new provincial government took office.

In The Canadian Press report of that debate it was made to appear Mr. Bennett charged these men were dismissed when the Federal Minister of Labor took office.

Labor Minister Rogers called attention to the report today in the House of Commons and denied that the federal government had caused any dismissals of that nature.

The Canadian Press regrets this error.

Against Narcotics

GENEVA, June 15 (CP).—Colonel Clement Sharman, Canadian delegate to the meeting of the International Opium Committee, today supported criticism of Japan's narcotics policy voiced by the United States delegate, Stuart Fuller.

"Canada is in complete agreement with the United States' stand," Colonel Sharman said. "Canada has suffered intensely from the illicit narmotics traffic. She has been compelled to take counter measures and has the same information regarding the laxity of Japan as the United States. Canada is determined to stamp out the trade."

Painters Hurt Fall Off Roof

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — Tarring a roof from ladders which were hooked over the peak nearly cost the lives of two young men from Lang (near Keene) Tuesday afternoon. The two men, Charles Bishton and Roy Drimmie, were at work on a barn situated on the farm of Dan Petherick, Jr., about 6 miles from Campbellford, when the clamps which were holding the two ladders on which they were working slipped from the peak of the roof and started them sliding down over the hip to a sheer drop of thirty-five feet down the side of the barn to the ground. Though the two were working one above the other with a fresh pail of tar, neither had a chance to save himself, and there was nothing to break the fall as the ladders fell with them.

H. Edwards, by whom they were employed, was engaged on the other side of the building at the time, and although he did not see the fall, heard the crash as they were hustled to the ground in a mass of tar and after removing a portion of the tar-covered clothing of Drimmie, who was most seriously injured. He rushed both to town, where they were placed in the hospital, and examination revealed Drimmie was suffering from a broken leg as well as bruises and other undetermined injuries, while Bishton had received a fractured arm.

ENO PEPS UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

People who are half-well, half-sick most of the time only exist. To really live, you must be well. And to be well you should take steps at once to rid yourself of constipation, which causes most human ailments.

Drastic purgatives and harsh mineral salts, of which Eno has no trace, aggravate the condition. Eno's "Fruit Salt" regulates, gently, effectively—normally. It tastes good and forms no habit.

Life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt". If you want to feel like a million, take a dash of Eno in a glass of water morning and night for a few days. No griping, no nausea. Eno refreshes, sweetens the stomach, and there isn't an atom of harshness or harm in a carload.

Japs Employ Cold Steel and Bombs to Subdue Chinese

With not a single house intact, this street in Hsuchow, China, is typical of all the rest, reduced to wreckage by the terrific pounding of Japanese bombs and shells. Japanese air forces have now been concentrating on Canton. Since May 28, more than 8,000 persons have been killed by air raiders in the progressive cities of South China. In reply to protests by the United States and Great Britain, Japanese officials said the bombing must go on.

McCall Prefers Chair To Life Imprisonment

MIAMI, Fla., June 15 (AP) — Franklin Pierce McCall was reported to-day to have expressed hope he would be sent to the electric chair rather than be given life imprisonment for the kidnapping and death of James Bailey Cash, Jr.

Clyde Tolson, a special cell guard in the jail where McCall is being held said the 21-year-old truck driver is giving evidence of "cracking" under the strain of waiting for evidence against him to be presented before a grand jury now in session.

Several times recently McCall has "wondered why" he took the 5½-year-old child from his bed in Princeton the night of May 28, the guard said.

Special singing was well supplied by a children's choir under the capable leadership of Misses Lillie Race and Mary Faulkner. Following a very interesting sermon by the pastor, Rev. T. G. MacTavish called on little Miss June Parker to present a bouquet of roses to the oldest lady in the congregation which went to Mrs. R. Poast.

The world's first telephone conversation over any distance was in 1876 when contact was made between Brantford and Paris, Ontario. People wouldn't believe it. Even Alexander Graham Bell at first saw scant possibilities in his own discovery.

Twenty-nine years before this momentous event the Canada Life, then the only Canadian life insurance company, issued its first policy to a resident of Ontario.

The Report Submitted

The Royal Commission which investigated Canadian penitentiaries has been at work for so long a time that the public may well have forgotten that such a commission existed. In all it visited 119 institutions, heard evidence from 1,840 inmates and 200 officials. One can well believe it when it is stated that report runs to 400 pages.

General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, comes in for notice. Truth seems to be the commissioners could find nothing good to say about Mr. Ormond. Not a word. After offering their criticism the commissioners add that he should be removed from office at once.

How much reliance the Government will place in the report or how much house-cleaning it will be inclined to undertake as a result of the recommendations is something which one would hesitate to predict. We would be more inclined to place confidence in a document produced by faithful men who spent years in prison work because they would be more apt to know what was possible and desirable.

There will also be the feeling that the real problem remains. It is this—the man who serves his time and then comes out branded as an ex-convict. He has some new clothing, a little money and a railway ticket which takes him back to the place where he was convicted and leaves him among the associates of pre-prison days. Known as an ex-convict he faces out into a world where employment is hard enough for a good many men to secure who never have been in prison. The stage is all set for him to drift toward the path which again leads to prison.

He Makes More Copy

Premier Hepburn has made some more newspaper copy. During his time in office he has probably done more of that than any other occupant of the past. It came about this way: Some weeks ago there was a relief strike at Lakeview, near Toronto, and when a deputation finally made its way to the Premier's office some of the leaders were arrested. After that protest was raised in several pulpits saying such things ought not to be done.

When the pulpits of the United Church gave such utterance one could almost anticipate the reply which would be forthcoming from Mr. Hepburn. He waited until he was addressing the annual gathering of Ontario Retail Druggists Association in Hamilton, and then he turned upon the preachers and named them as "sanctimonious, psalm-singing preachers . . . parlor Socialists . . . who have lost touch with public sentiment."

As though seeking to emphasize the seriousness of the thing which he had said Mr. Hepburn added "And a lot of people will think I will go straight to hell for making this statement." Whether he has over-rated the size of the penalty or the enormity of his offence is something on which we hesitate to test or anchor our powers of appraisal.

As we see it the attack made by Mr. Hepburn came because some of the ministers stated openly and plainly that they did not agree with the course he had taken. It is quite evident our Premier likes only those who agree with what he does.

It Needs Explaining

Hamilton has adopted a new plan for dealing with people who occupy houses the rent for which is paid by the relief department. In case the property is wilfully damaged the relief voucher is reduced and the amount deducted is used to make the necessary repairs.

In Toronto it is explained no such method will be adopted, and one report from that city said: "Civic officials maintained the responsibility for collecting compensation from relief recipients rested entirely with the landlords who owned the property."

And that of course makes an interesting little problem for one to try and solve. The recipient of relief according to theory has no income, and it is on that account he is considered entitled to receive relief.

If he does damage to property which he is occupying and the landlord came in and asked that he pay for the damage done, the answer would be "I have no money." If the Toronto officials would explain just how a landlord can collect damages from one who has no money then the thing would be much easier of understanding.

An Outstanding Edition

Tweed is planning an old home week from June 30 to July 4, and Tweed is the right size to make a success of such an event because in a community of its population the people who used to live there would know all the people. In the larger places they never reach that wide range of acquaintance. When people return to Tweed they will do so knowing they are going to meet a great many folk they have not seen in years, and right there is the reason for a reunion.

The Tweed News has already started the celebration by issuing an anniversary edition. The News is 51 years old and it celebrated to the extent of 30 pages. And they are good pages; interesting in all the corners and down the centre. The Examiner has had its share of experience in turning out special editions and knows the work involved. That is why we are well nigh amazed at the size, excellence and extent of that special edition of the Tweed News. Samuel R. Curry, the editor and publisher of the paper, has done a remarkable service for his town and for his paper.

It is recalled that years ago such an edition would have been impossible, and that is a fact. Type was set by hand, one letter at a time. When it was ready for the press there was hard work ahead and it was slow. The type had to be inked by a hand roller before each sheet was printed, and the printing was done by a mighty heave on the handle of the old Washington press. The News says that printing 100 papers an hour was good work on that old press and probably it was.

One feature of the News special number is a page of advertising in which the council congratulates the paper and pays tribute to the way in which it has helped its community, and that is indeed high praise.

People Are Reading It

The Bible has recently been described as "the best seller but the least read" among books. The Gideons of Canada probably think otherwise. The Gideons got its start from the commercial travellers and last year placed in schools, hospitals, prisons and hotels 16,436 Bibles. The Gideons probably have as thorough a knowledge of the travelling public and its ways as it would be possible for any organization to possess. We do not believe they would keep on giving away Bibles if they had reason to believe no person was reading them.

A traveller who has been on the road for 32 years was telling the Examiner about it today. "My work takes me at times across the continent. How many of those trips I have made I do not know, although most of my time is spent in Ontario. I have picked up the Gideon Bible in many places indeed, and you might be surprised to know that in many of the books there are passages with marks around them; certain words are underlined. I recall one where there is written on the front page a little message advising people to read the marked verses on certain pages, and the writer of the note said he was in such trouble when he started to read himself he did not know which way to turn."

This traveller said he knew for a fact there were men who would sit around the hotel and read everything to be found but when they were getting ready to retire for the night the Bible in their room stood a fine chance of being the last thing read before going to bed. This man with 32 years to his credit on the road was certain it was a mistake to claim the Bible was one of the least read books.

May Print Their Names

The finance minister of the town of St. Marys in Perth County admits he is somewhat worried because some of the people are not paying their taxes as they should. Mr. White, for that is his name, has a list of 48 properties and he intends to have a sale of those where the taxes are three years or more in arrears.

Also he is inclined to have the names of those who have not paid their taxes published in the newspapers, and we dare say if such a list were published there would not be many readers of the paper who would miss taking a serious and interested look at the list of names. It may be the threat to publish the names will cause some of the delinquents to make haste toward the municipal office and come to terms with the gentleman who sits as the receipt of customs.

It might be better to think the matter over yet once more. Most of the people who live in St. Marys have been there for a number of years. It is one of those places where people do not come and go in a hurry, and it is quite possible that some of those who have not paid their taxes have not been able to do so. They may be what we at times refer to as hard up. When a person is in that condition then we can see no good reason at all for printing the name in the paper. The individual is probably having a rather tough road to travel now and publicity of that sort would merely make it a little harder. Also it would be an unkind thing to do and it would not touch the real issue—showing the property owner how to get the money for taxes.

Nor is it certain that holding a tax sale is going to solve the problem for the municipality. If property is put up for sale for back taxes and other charges there is always the possibility there will be no bid made on it, and experience shows it often enough works out that way. Then there is the deferred sale when the municipality bids the property in and pays the back taxes out of its general funds. The general fund is raised by taxes from those who are paying and in this way taxpayers are called upon to pay up the back taxes themselves.

When the municipality comes into possession of this property it generally ceases to produce revenue. If there is rentable property that may be different, but as things stand at the moment turning a family out through a tax sale might well create the new problem of where to house that family. Municipalities have to do a great deal more in that direction today than they ever did before.

So it is we are moved to doubt that the finance minister of St. Marys is going to solve his problem by publishing the names of those who have not paid their taxes or by having a tax sale of the properties which are now well in arrears.

It Started Long Ago

The language of statesmen or of political leaders—if there is any difference between them—runs somewhat the same from one generation to another. Recently the Ottawa Journal reprinted the following parliamentary outburst:

"You have now had four years of it. You have threatened every corporation and every endowment in the country. You have examined into everybody's affairs. You have criticized every profession and vexed every trade. No one is certain of his property and no one knows what duties he may have to perform tomorrow."

The Ottawa paper explained it was not a statement made by Mr. Bennett addressed to Mr. King, nor was it the attack of some speaker on Premier Aberhart of Alberta.

It might be taken as something which Mr. Macaulay said to Mr. Hepburn, but it was not. Neither was it Mr. Hoover addressing President Roosevelt. It happened away back in 1872 when Gladstone was assailing Disraeli.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A dentist in Russia was shot as a spy. Well he had previously drilled a number of other people.

This is Magna Carta week but it will probably be better remembered in England by the high scores made in the Test match.

While 900 folk danced a Toronto hall was robbed of $350. That is one disadvantage of swing music—it covers up every other sound.

Deputy Minister of Education in Ontario says he would hesitate to engage a teacher whom he had not seen. Does he favor taking 'em out to lunch?

It is now possible to have top and lower teeth extracted and be fitted with plates in 50 minutes. After which the experience really starts.

Evidently Scotland stands where she did. A brawny Toronto policeman named David Sutherland has just tossed the caber 40 feet.

We seem to detect in the report of the prison probe an indication that the commissioners are not altogether satisfied with superintendent Ormond.

Hon. Peter Heenan has taken over the labor portfolio and most people will be inclined to agree with the Premier that this is a "temporary expedient."

It is complained that one Toronto church is overcrowded every Sunday morning. A good many ministers will find it helpful to learn how the thing is done.

A man was arrested and taken to jail in London, Ont., the warrent having been made out three years ago. The law may have a long arm and its memory is built on the same lines.

This is about the season of the year when the little folk are apt to be somewhat late arriving home from school because the wild strawberry crop along the roadside is ready for picking. At least it used to work out that way and probably times have not changed.

The registrar of motor vehicles for Ontario has published an appeal for drivers to be careful in regard to children on the street. At the same time the department by retaining markers that cannot be read has made it easier for those who refuse to be careful to escape punishment for their negligence.

MONDAY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Aunt Lucile may have an ache, feel crippled so she cannot bake, and hardly get about; but when each Monday comes around, it's certain some way will be found, to get the washing out.

¶ Her rheumatiz may make her limp, on steps she'll have to save and skimp, and she may feel the pain; she may not feel like work at all, but if Lucile has got to crawl, she'll wash then just the same.

¶ Perhaps the rain has hardly ceased, and wind's still blowing from the east, she'll go ahead on time; she'll boil a while and then she'll rub, to get her washing from the tub, and hang it on the line.

¶ She may be aching in the feet, or suffering from the summer heat, not feeling none too strong; but like a shot she's out of bed, and gets her washing work ahead, when Monday comes along.

¶ Lucile took on a hacking cough, but all she did was snort and scoff, she wouldn't stay in bed; she'd have to get her washing through, and dabble in her starch and blue, if she coughed off her head.

¶ If fire came on a Monday there, I don't think Aunt Lucile would care, the others all might run; but Aunt Lucile I know would stick, mid falling beams and loosened brick—to get her washing done.

Delegates Get Paid $20 Per Day

(From Parliamentary Debates)
(From Parliamentary Reports)

GENEVA

Mr. ROGERS: The hon. member is incorrect when he states that this is a conference which has no value to this country. As a matter of fact, provision for the international labour conference was made in the treaty of Versailles, and this government has from time to time ratified conventions which have been adopted by the international labour conference for the amelioration of labour conditions throughout the world.

So far as appointments are concerned, as I explained a few minutes ago, we accept under the provisions of the act nominations of recognized organizations of employers and employees. The government has a selection only with respect to the choice of technical advisers and, for some time past these advisers have been taken from other labour organizations of the country.

Mr. HEAPS: Who were the delegates last year?

Mr. ROGERS: The delegates last year were: government delegates, Doctor W. A. Riddell, Mr. W. M. Dickson; advisers to government delegates, Mr. C. R. McIntosh, Mr. N. S. Dowd, Mr. Alfred Charpentier, Mr. Zenon David; employers' delegate, Mr. A. R. Goldie; adviser to employers' delegate, Mr. H. Macdonnell; employees' delegate, Mr. R. J. Talon; adviser to employees' delegate, Mr. D. W. Morrison.

Mr. HEAPS: Has this years' delegation been appointed?

Mr. ROGERS: I gave the names a moment ago.

Mr. MARTIN: How many conventions are there not ratified by Canada, and what is being done in respect to these?

Mr. ROGERS: I have not that information immediately available. A great many conventions have been accepted by the international labour conference and a number of them have been ratified by Canada. A considerable number of these conventions have been outstanding so far as Canada is concerned. Obviously the dominion government has a rather limited power in the implemation of these conventions because of the fact that the jurisdiction over industrial matters rests very largely with the provinces.

Mr. SPENCE: Will the minister give the expenses of each delegate that he has named?

Mr. ROGERS: If it would satisfy the hon. member, I have the individual expenses for the delegation of 1936. There is no material difference in the expenses from year to year.

Mr. SPENCE: I cannot see why the minister should not have the expenses for 1937; we are well into 1938 now.

Mr. ROGERS: It is a matter of securing the information from the auditor general's report. I have the report for the year I have mentioned.

Mr. BENNETT: It would not be in the report yet.

Mr. ROGERS: No. I have the total expenses but not the individual figures, inasmuch as the auditor general's report for the last year is not available.

Mr. CHURCH: When the minister is cutting down on the municipalities for food for those on relief, I fail to see what value there is in this item. What qualifications have these technical advisers? Are they diplomats, ministers extraordinary or ministers plenipotentiary. What qualifications have they? Some labour man in Montreal is appointed; will he and the others travel by Canadian routes to go to the conference? What are the allowances and expenses?

Mr. ROGERS: The remuneration to the members of that delegation is $20 a day and travelling expenses. That has been established for a great many years. I am entirely in disagreement with the hon. gentleman when he suggests that the technical advisors are not qualified. They are chosen because of their familiarity with industrial conditions in this country, and generally speaking they are chosen from labour organizations.

Mr. STEWART: When the minister gave the personnel of the delegation I thought I heard him mention the name C. R. McIntosh. Is that right.?

Mr. ROGERS: That was last year.

Mr. STEWART: Is that the member of this house who was chairman of the committee on industrial relations?

Mr. ROGERS: That is correct.

The CHAIRMAN: Shall the item carry?

Mr. BARBER: Stand.

PROTECTIVE INSTINCT.

(Windsor Star)

MATERNAL instinct and the love of a mother for her child, is not restricted to human species. In the Star recently there was a picture of a big Percheron mare, standing by the grave of her foal which died at birth. She remained there in silent sorrow for the most of two days, resisting the effort of the owner to lead her away.

. . . Nor is this protective urge limited to the animal mothers. We know of one gelding, quite unrelated to a colt, who spent all one summer in the pasture seeing that other horses did not disturb the little fellow. It was really none of his business, but the only one he would allow to approach the colt was its own mother. Other equines in the field had to kep a close watch for his heels if they ventured close to the young one.

NICKEL WORD NEEDED.

(New York Times)

WHAT THIS country needs is not a good five-cent cigar but a good five-cent word to replace such fifty-cent alien importations as "totalitarian," autarchy," "communist" and "fascist." Our forefathers had a word for it. They called it tyranny and let it go at that. But when the Cassandra of today warns us that we are threatened with a totalitarian form of government, or that if we don't watch our step we will become an autarchy, the man in the street doesn't know what she is talking about. He even remains a bit foggy over such a simplification as "State despotism." But some genius will come along and solve the problem in one syllable.

• When Life Hangs in the Balance

(Ottawa Journal)

HUNDREDS OF persons lose their lives each year in Canadian waters. That many of them might be saved by more diligent effort is the statement of the magazine Health, official organ of the Health League of Canada.

"Many of the victims of drowning accidents die" says Health, "because the necessary efforts are not made to revive them." The general impression that it is impossible for a person to be revived after three of four minutes under water is called false. The opinion that in the absence of signs of life it is useless to continue artificial respiration for more than a half-hour also is false.

As a matter of fact, declares this authority, "there are many stories of persons who have been under water for from 15 minutes to half an hour being revived by long-continued artificial respiration," and it gives the instance of a little girl brought back to life after two boys had dived 17 times into deep water to rescue her. On this point a bulletin on Swimming and Life Saving, issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company makes the statement that "a person may have been under water 30 minutes and still be revived."

The authorities agree that there is no reason for giving up artificial respiration in half an hour. It should be maintained without interruption for four hours or longer—"until the patient breathes", says Health, "or there are definite signs of the onset of rigor mortis . . . Many cases have recovered after the efficient application of artificial respiration for a number of hours."

The Metropolitan Life bulletin lays stress on the importance of setting to work the instant the person is taken from the water. "Don't waste time," it says, "carrying the victim to a quiet spot, but begin at once to the diaphragm and lungs into normal action".

Cases have been cited to The Journal in which, even on the orders of a doctor, victims have been taken to hospital and time thereby lost that was fatal.

• Why He Could Not Send A Cheque

"IN REPLY TO your request to send a cheque I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal law, corporation laws, liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws and outlaws.

"Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, water tax, sales tax, liquor tax, income tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. I am required to get a business license, car license, operator's license, truck license not to mention a marriage license and a dog license.

"I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing into life; to women's relief, the unemployed relief and the gold-digger's relief. Also to every charitable institution in the city, including the Salvation Army, Community Chest, Red Cross, Purple Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Y. M. C. A.

"For my own safety, I am required to carry health insurance, life insurance, fire insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployment insurance and old-age insurance.

"My business is so governed that it is no easy matter to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled until I provide the inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

"Simple because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined.

"I can tell you honestly that, except for a miracle that happened, I could not enclose this cheque. The wolf that comes to many doors nowadays, just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money."

• Paroled From One to Ten Times

INCREASE IN paroles is flooding United States with a corresponding increase in crime, and habitual criminals are receiving preferred treatment while first offenders are serving out their time, according to the results of a survey of the "parole racket" presented by The American Magazine, which reveals that with one exception every federal agent killed by gangsters has been shot down by a paroled convict.

"The fact is incontrovertable," the article stats, "that the increase in the number of paroles has brought a corresponding increase in crime. It is becoming more and more apparent that first offenders are as a rule, serving out their sentences with the usual time off for good behavior, while the habitual criminals, who know the ropes, are the ones who are getting the paroles.

"The result is that from our paroled convicts we get our gangsters and murderers, who get in and out of prison with startling rapidity. In the jails of one of our great industrial cities recently were 500 prisoners who had repeated 50 times or more.

"Parole is shot through with corruption. Politicians trade paroles for votes, pay off their obligations to those who put them in office by using their influence on parole boards. In many cases parole boards themselves are composed of politicians who must pass out favors. Paroles are 'fixed' with as little concern as one might go about fixing a parking ticket.

"In many instances the wrong men are set free by parole boards through the efforts of well-meaning clergymen and welfare organizations that permit sentimentality to run away with their better judgment."

To support the conclusion that the wrong men get parole, the article cites such notorious cases as those of John Dillinger, Clyde Barrows, Clyde Stevens and other convicts who have killed federal agents during the past decade and who have mowed down policemen in every large community in the United States.

"A Compilation of the records of 14,000 habitual and vicious criminals," the article states, showed that 5,000 of them had been paroled one to 10 times. Among these were men who had murdered. The public believes that murderers at least are kept behind for life, yet official figures show that the average term for murder, because of the existent parole system is three and a half years."

LOOKING AT BOTH SIDES.

(London Spectator)

IT MIGHT have been better if the League states had taken the risk and challenged Japan in 1931; it might have been better if the League had taken the risk and carried its sanctions against Italy to their full length in 1935; it might have been better if Britain and France had taken the risk and resisted Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland in 1936. Or it might have been worse; no living man has the title to pronounce dogmatically on that.

THE SAME DAY went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the multitude stood on the shore . . . . And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given. For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath. Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand. And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: for this people's heart is waxed gross, and their eyes they have closed: lest an dtheir eyes they have closed: lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them. Sale Of Papers By Children Is Criticized

Sale of newspapers on city streets by young children was attacked by Rachel M. Young, Children's Aid Society superintendent, in her report to the board of directors Tuesday afternoon.

"There are so many things happening which are contrary to the C.P.A. that your office can hope to touch only the surface," she said. "With the assistance of the Police Matron we have tried to enforce to some degree Section 14, Sub-section 1: 'No girl under 16 years of age and no boy under 12 years of age shall engage in or be licensed or permitted to engage in any street trade or occupation'."

Especially in relationship to the selling of newspapers on the street has this been true, Miss Young reported. "The newspaper companies themselves have not been a party to it, and we have not found the source of supply. One needs only to watch these youngsters as they go about on the streets, in and out of restaurants, to note the result of this on their whole attitude. Admittedly there are equally as serious things happening, but, as previously stated, lack of time will make it all a gradual process."

Only ten members of the entire board were present at Tuesday's meeting, including the chairman. They granted an afternoon a week off to employees of the Shelter and two weeks' vacation to each.

The board asked to be included in Superintendent Young's contract, a clause that will give her a month's holidays each year. The resolution was made by Ald. James Dutton, seconded by Ald. Walter Stocker. Other board members expressed approval. This year Miss Young will receive only two weeks' holidays, since she has been here less than six months. She asked for the additional two weeks' holidays each year because of overtime work she has to do and which she claimed will increase as time goes on. All other societies in the province give their superintendents four weeks' vacation, claimed Dr. Barr.

Deputations will wait upon the City and County Councils at their next meetings in an attempt to secure grants for emergency hospital use. Faced with a deficit of more than $300, the society would be unable to pay for hospital treatment should many cases be on hand at one time. The fund would be held in reserve and would be used in case of emergency. Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee said the County Council is concerned over mounting society costs, and that the grounds for any such grant would have to be good ones before the council would spend the money. Ald. Dutton and Ald. Stocker will place the matter before the City Council. E. B. Fowler and Miss Young will approach the County Council.

The need for children's clothing in some homes she visits is quite serious, according to Miss Young in her report. "In one family where there is a girl of ten and two boys of seven and twelve, everything is needed in summer wear," she reported. "This family presents a continual problem to keep them on a standard of living which could be in any way considered decent enough for children. Clothing is very important in children's lives, and when a child has to wear rubber boots or a woollen dress in June, something happens to that child's morals. As this family has no connection with an organization of any kind, I though some of you might be able to make suggestions in regard to getting them necessary clothing."

Mrs. P. Broughton, Fenwick, Ont., writes:—"I was so run down and tired out all the time I did not care whether my housework was done or not.

Cadi Dismisses Charge Of Reckless Driving

A traffic case that occupied Magistrate Campbell's attention for several hours in police court Tuesday afternoon had a distinctly Stevensonian flavor. The defendant, charged with reckless driving, was Carl Stevenson of Norwood. His counsel was J. Walton Stevenson. And to complete the Stevenson complex of the case one of the witnesses was Police Constable John Stevenson.

The charge arose out of an accident at the corner of Romaine and Aylmer streets in the early hours of Monday morning, May 30

Harold Forsythe, against whom a similar charge, arising from the same accident had been laid was the first witness called by Crown torney V. J. McElderry, K. C,

He said that he was driving east on Romain street and when he got half way across the Romaine street intersection he saw another car coming from the south about 150 yards away. He had tried to accelerate the speed of his car to get across safely but said that when his machine was nearly over the intersection it had been hit at the rear by the car driven by Stevenson and turned over. His sister, a passenger had her glasses broken and her face cut. Lillian Farthing had wrenched her back and he himself Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. had had his knee hurt.

Head Lights Off.

The cowl lights of his car were on but the driving lights were turned off.

To Mr. Stevenson witness said that he had not told the police that the other driver had been only going 30 miles an hour. He had said "at least 30 miles". He had not turned his headlights on because he thought the cowl lights were sufficient for city driving.

"Where do you get the authority for that?" asked Magistrate Campbell.

Witness said that he had always supposed that such was the case.

"I do not think you are right", returned the magistrate. "I am inclined to believe the cowl lights are not recognized as driving lights".

Miss Lillian Forsythe and Miss Farthing both gave evidence as to the crash. The latter placed the speed of Stevenson's car at 30 to 40 miles an hour but admitted that the only basis for that opinion was from seeing the lights of the approaching vehicle.

Constable John Stevenson testified to visiting the scene of the accident and making an examination of the marks there. He placed the point of impact at the middle of the intersection and said that the occupants of a car approaching from the east had a clear view down Aylmer street.

Sergt. Wm. Wigg gave similar evidence as to what he had seen at the scene of the accident and he too said the point of impact was the centre of the intersection and not over at the east side as Forsythe had testified.

Mr. Stevenson moved at this stage that the case should be dismissed but Magistrate Campbell said that while he rather favored that course he thought some defence should be put in.

Defendant's Story.

Accordingly Stevenson told his story. He said that while driving north on Aylmer street at 25 miles an hour he had got to about 150 feet of the Romaine street crossing when he noticed the lights of another car the same distance west on Romaine street. He thought there was a stop sign at the corner and that the other car would stop and he had not looked any more in that direction. When he got to the intersection he found Forsythe's car directly in front of his and all he could do then was to slam on his brakes.

Leslie McMillan a passenger in Stevenson's car corroborated his version of the accident.

Mr. Stevenson argued that his client had been guilty of no violation of the traffic rules. As his car was the one on the right he had the right-of-way and he submitted that Carl Stevenson had not even been guilty of an error in judgment.

Crown Attorney McElderry said that Stevenson's assumption that Romaine street was a stop street and his failure to look more than once at the Forsythe car had caused the accident.

Magistrate Campbell declared that he could not find there had been any breach of the traffic regulations on the part of Stevenson. He did not consider that he had driven recklessly or to the danger of the public and there was no other course than to dismiss the case.

A similar charge against Forsythe, for whom W. J. Arthur Fair had held a waiting brief during the hearing of the first case was also dismissed when no evidence was offered.

HIS BACK ACHED FOR 4 YEARS

For four years, this man's back ached almost continuously. Now, at 57, he starts the day fresh as a daisy, and his back aches no more. Read his story:

"I had continuous backache for four years. I looked on the black side of everything. Now, I write with exertme gratitude for what Kruschen Salts has done for me. The freshness with which I start my day's work is perfectly marvellous. After seven days of Kruschen, I felt better and could get up immediately, without any special effort. I am 57, and my early morning dose of Kruschen is my salvation."—J.T.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the blood-stream and produce troublesome symptoms — backache, rheumatism, and depression.

The numerous salts in Kruschen quickly coax your kidneys back to healthy normal action. As an immediate result, you experience relief from those old dragging pains. As you persevere, you lose your pains altogether.—(Advt.)

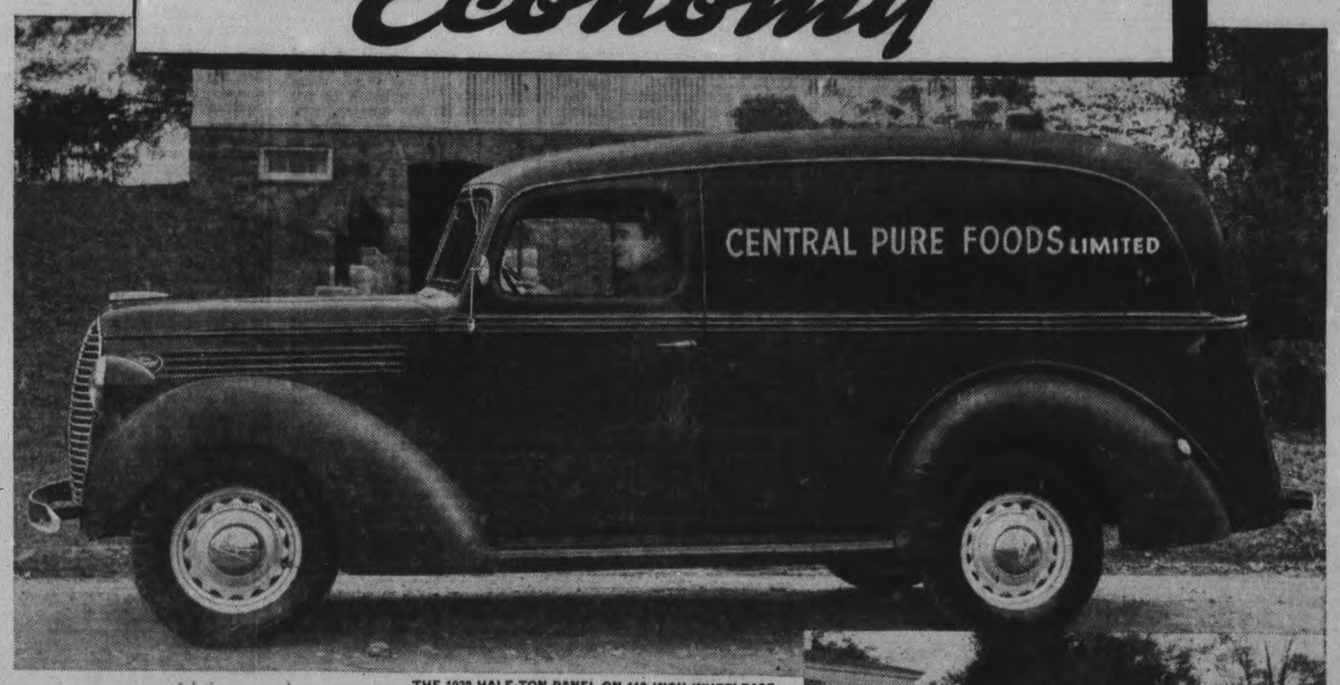
FORD HAS MADE V-8 MEAN ★Economy



THE 1938 HALF-TON PANEL ON 112-INCH WHEELBASE

Everybody knows that the V-8 engine will give more power and performance. But here's the amazing thing about the Ford V-8 engine: it gives more economy too! That is not just a claim, but an established fact—proved in actual service by many thousands of owners of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars.

All-inclusive cost records show that Ford has developed an entirely new economy for truck and commercial car operation. Ford V-8 units do more work in less time—which in turn reduces the entire cost of the job.

Ford units have very low fuel consumption; but fuel consumption alone is not a true measuring rod, for this does not take into consideration the time spent or work accomplished. Ford economy includes all three items — one reason that more Ford V-8 Trucks were sold in 1937 than any other 1937 make.

Every year for 21 years Ford economy has been increased. This year, give your business the advantages of a V-8 engine and save money as well. Get the truck that does more work, in less time, at lower cost. See the nearest Ford dealer—make your own "on-the-job" test and prove these facts yourself.

● The 1938 half-ton Ford V-8 Sedan Delivery is shown above. Front design has the smartness of the Standard Ford V-8 passenger car. It enjoys great popularity with retail merchants who need handsome equipment to advertise their business as well as make their deliveries. Other Ford V-8 commercial cars are the Panel, Light Delivery and Station Wagon. There is also a chassis and cab unit for mounting stake or special bodies. All are built on a generous 112-inch wheelbase.

LOCAL LACROSSERS HANG UP SECOND SENIOR 'B' VICTORY

Combines Fall To Petes By 15-14 Count

The Petes copped a 15-14 triumph over the Inglewood-Caledon Combines on the latter's floor last night in a scheduled O.L.A. senior "B" fixture. It was the second win for the Petes in three starts, not counting their exhibition fixtures. A fair-sized crowd of fans saw last night's encounter between two classy crews. The same teams play here this Friday.

At no time throughout the torrid tussle was there more than a couple of goals' difference between the Combines and Frank Randle's local aggregation. The score was 4-3 in the first quarter for the visitors, 8-6 for them at halftime and 12-11 for Peterborough going into the fourth. It was nip-and-tuck through the windup stanza with Magee's blazing drive on a fine solo effort 15 seconds before the final whistle giving the Petes the fine victory..

The whole outfit shone for the winners, with Meyette earning a four-star rating in the net. He stopped all kinds of bullet drives from all angles and every goal against him was earned. The other goalie was almost as good and repeatedly robbed the Petes as they sifted in close. The local defence played bangup lacrosse and the forwards checked well and passed and shot with accuracy. There were no individual stars. Chambers, Puckering and the Petterson brothers were probably the pick of the losers, but all went in fine fashion. Some rugged checking was seen but the only penalties drawn went to Dallin, Whitton and Worthy of the Petes; and Puckering, Jones and Walsh of the homesters.

The Scorers

Jones scored the first goal with King getting it right back. Chute tallied after Wilson counted, and Chute got another, aided by Crowe. Walsh counted, followed by Whitton. E. Nelson netted two in a row and then Crowe scored and passed to Magee for another. Walsh took Jones' pass to counter, and Crowe and Reid counted for the Petes. E. Nelson and Patterson put in a pair for the home crew in the hot going, but E. Creighton took a pass from Crowe to counter in close. Puckering and Wilson each netted the ball, followed by Magee from Chute and Dundas from Whitton. Walsh waded through for one, but King passed to Worthy to get it back. Patterson scored another but Magee got Whitton's pass to keep the Petes in there. Dundas added one on Whitton's assist, and after Wilson and Nelson scored, Magee ripped through for the winner.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Meyette; defence, J. Creighton and Miller; centre, Worthy; wings, King and Dallin; rover, Whitton; alternates, Crowe, Magee, Reid, E. Creighton, Chute and Dundas.

Combines: Goal, Chambers; defence, E. Wilson and Puckering; centre, Walsh; wings, Jones and E. Nelson; rover, A. Nelson; alternates, T. Patterson, J. Patterson, Raybourne, Smith, Petch and Erskine.

Referee, Jack Burrell of Brampton.

Outlaws Secure Second Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15.—The Outlaws won their second game in the Seymour softball schedule in a closely contested game with Petherick's Corners on Tuesday evening by a score of 13-12. It was probably the most interesting game of the season with Petherick's coming up from behind in the fifth to take a three-run lead which the Outlaws evened up and added one with some good hitting in the sixth inning. Garnet Kerr, pitcher for the winners, gave them a total of 34 hits and struck out Reddick in the first and Barnum in the sixth while Don Barnum who was on the mound for Petherick's gave 26 hits fanned G. Petherick and A. Petherick in the third, G. Irwin in the fourth and Fred Fry in the last inning. He had four walks scored against him.

The teams:

Outlaws: G. Petherick, 3b; A. Petherick, c; Fred Fry, 1b; G. Kerr, p; R. Fry, cf; D. Kerr, lf; G. Irwin, ss; D. Barnum, rf; Cliff Anderson, 2b.

Petherick's: B. Reddick, ss; D. Barnum, p; L. Watson, c; Ingram, 3b; J. Watson, 2b; H. Ewing, 1b; A. Reid, cf; Tinney, rf; J. Barnum, cf.

Mile Menace

Louis Predicts 4-Round K.O. For Schmeling

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP).—If you can take sleepy-eyed Joe Louis at his word—and Joe never was a fellow to talk just to hear his head rattle—the fight at Yankee Stadium a week from tonight may be a brannigan such as hasn't been seen since Jack Dempsey and Louis Firpo used everything but poison gas on each other back in the colossal '20's.

The one little doubt about the impending duel has been the possibility that Louis would be gun-shy and would try to play it cute, staying back of his left jab for 15 tedious rounds while Max Schmeling swore in German and waited in vain for a crack at the pliant Louis' jaw.

That could be a terrible thing to watch. It could be worse than the Louis-Tommy Farr affair, where the champion pursued the hunt-and-peck method to a successful conclusion. The Welshman climbed all over Joe, and at least made it look exciting to the radio commentators, whereas you may be sure Schmeling will run no risks not called for in the handbook.

Happily now, all such doubts of the approaching 19th battle of the century have been erased. It seems safe to pay $30 for a ringside chair, even though it might be out in the far territory roamed so long by the immortal Babe Ruth.

Louis has expressed the hope that Schmeling will "stand up and fight." If Schmeling will, Joe promises to dispose of him in not more than four rounds. A guy as filled with zeal and patriotic fervor as is Max Schmeling will fight anything. The one thing he has dreamed of for two years is another chance to hit Joe Louis. Joe need not worry about Max's willingness to whale it out.

Golf Notes

PETERBOROUGH GOLF CLUB.

Tuesday saw another C.L.G.U. day and a large field of golfers competed for the spoons. The best net went to Mrs. G. Maniece. This is her first spoon, and a nice birdie two on the sixth hole helped her score a net 79.

The other spoon went to Miss Marjorie Hatton, and this too is her first spoon, after many tries. Both were popular wins.

Mrs. Gerald A. Wood, a member of the club, is doing very well in the Ontario competition being played at St. Andrew's Club, Toronto. Mrs. Wood just missed qualifying for the championship flight by one stroke, which is a very good performance in a field including the best women golfers in the province.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

PREXY FRANK GRAY of the local Riverview A. C. tells us this guy Joe Taman (called Tumblin when he fought here night before last) is going to take up his abode here shortly. Wants to box around these parts and Frank figures he's one of the best at his weight in the Province. Scales only 126 and was out weighed in his bout with Wallie Hicks of Toronto. And wasn't in good condition. Fans will recall his flashy style in the first round when he was all over Hicks, but he faded in the second and suffered a technical kayo. The Riverview Club prexy is willing to wager half a century on Joe against any boxer his weight in Ontario, including LaSalle the champ, after the ex-Ottawa pugilist has trained for a month. Says he is also a good pitcher, though but 19 years of age, and has won three senior games so far this season for Smiths Falls in that Eastern Ontario loop.

QUITE A CROWD of folks at the Bowl last p.m. saw Westclox win their fifth straight Girl's Softball League game, taking Keene for a 15-7 ride. The Armour Hill maidens are perched 'way up atop the standing and sure of a playoff berth in this half, while it is a dogfight now between the other squads for the seconds playoff slot. Barb Blade pitched good ball last e'en and had lots of hitting to help the cause along from her buddies. Kids run around too much there and one guy got a shiner that is a pip as a result, stopping a thrown ball with the optic. Kids are often a problem around sports contests, not being content to sit still and watch proceedings; they've got to chase each other around. Our sainted Uncle Willie used to say: "Some kids ain't raised right, nor raised often enough, neither!" He meant us. At the Bowl tonight, Lindsay lasses play C. G. E. at 7.15 or so.

WORD FROM Brockville the other day was to the effect that the Cornwall franchise in the Can.-Am. pro ball loop would be transferred shortly to Carthage, N'Yawk. The latter town has promised to raise $1,500 and instal lights. Things haven't been going so well in Cornwall and, if they drop out, it'll leave Ottawa as the lone Canuck city in this circuit. Used to be three U. S. and three aCnadian teams in. And where would that have left Peterborough had this town decided to follow Knotty Lee's advice and join the pro setup? Nope, Knotty had the wrong slant there.

THREE STRAIGHT wins now for the Petes, and they hope to make it four in a row Saturday when Toronto Webbers come here for an exhibition game. At 3.30 in Riverside, probably pitching Lefty Lesurf, former local junior star. The Petes have started clicking now and they should get plenty of support from fans here from now on. They started the season by being blanked twice, once at home by the Oshawa gang and once in Kingston. The addition of Lefty McNally and an added hustle by the whole staff has changed the complexion of their play like nobody's biz. They have beaten Oshawa once and the Ponies twice and will be hard to head off henceforth, we imagine. Two wins for McNally makes him the leading C. O. B. L. hurler to date. Last night's score was 4-3 for the locals over Bob Elliott's boys.

MCNALLY left no doubt of his superiority over the imported Kingston tossers. He gave but six hits and three walks while fanning an even dozen! A dandy slab showing. Lefty Pollar of the Ponies hit a wild streak again in the sixth and gave way to Tony Paczkowski, and the latter proved no great mystery to Eddie Murphy's men. McNally got two hits, drove in a run and scored a run, also. Leo Deadey finally got his gunning eye and banged out two safe blows, while Burton, Doll and Clark got the others, Al getting a two bagger. He also had a big day at short with seven chances and no slips. The Petes played smart ball, working the pitchers for walks and laying down sacrifice bunts. Just one error apiece in this tidy tilt, seen by a big crowd of customers. The Ponies threatened twice, scoring two in the second and Bob Elliott hitting a mighty homer in the third. Aside from these heats, the local lefthander had 'em handcuffed.

DOWN IN Oshawa this Saturday after the game betwixt the GM-men and Ponies loop moguls will meet. To discuss entering O. B. A. playdowns, on account of the Petes and Ponies are using players not sanctioned by the Ontario body. We wouldn't be too surprised if the league decided to run more or less independently this year, with Oshawa entering the O. B. A. playdowns. And the Petes or Ponies — whoever ended up on top — trying to line up a playoff serial with the E. O. B. A. champs. The locals and Ponies are quite emphatic when they say they'll hang on to their imports this season regardless of the O. B. A., and the GM-men intend to string along with 'em — and try to retain the Johnston Cup. But Oshawa has no imports this year and might whether they win this loop or not, go into Ontario playdowns. Anyway it'll be decided Saturday and we'd again urge the loop to put a deadline on more imports or clubs will be bringing 'em in through July!

AFTER KNOCKING the Redmen of Belleville out of O. H. A. intermediate competition last winter — and really KNOCKING them! — the Owen Sound Trappers are now figuring on an artificial ice arena for next winter. This new arena will cost 60 G's, including the ice plant, and is being put over by the city council as a civic affair. Despite those swell junior squads of the past, the Owen Sound Greys — when Shrimp McDougall of this city sparked the attack — didn't have artificial ice for hime tilts. Well Peterborough hopes to have such an arena the winter of 1939-1940.

LACROSSE fans will see a swelegant scrap here this Friday in the gloaming when the Inglewood-Caledon Combines come here for a senior "B" loop fixture. Last night in Inglewood, the Petes pulled out a 15-14 victory and it was tighter than three in a rumble seat! And those classy Combines, who are practically the same crew who won the Ontario title a year ago, will be out for vengence like a coon-hunting Kentucky mob. It'll be a real battle. Last night's contest, we are told, was a nip-and-tucker throughout with the issue just a tossup till the timber regretfully blew a blast on the last trumpet to end it. Close and rugged checking, some dandy passing and no letup at anytime. The Petes earned the nod on their aggresive play and good combination. Still smarting from their first loss of the season a week ago to a bolstered Brampton blunch on local terrain, Coach Frank Frank Randle's boys weren't fooling yester twilight. The whole Peterborough team turned in a sparkling effort, checking well, passing in neat style and not messing many chances when they worked into scoring position. A goodish game.

HITHER AND YAWN: Jake Biddle is pitching his last season in Oshawa; he'll go into business in Stratford next winter . . . St. James Loses Juvenile Tilt

George St. Juveniles beat St. James, 25-21, last night in a Church League scrap at King Edward to give them a tie for first place with Mark St., shoving St. James out of the picture. Neither team did much in the field but they surely smacked the ball around. Parnall got two homers, with Bedford, L. Routley and Hamilton also getting a bunch of bingles for the winners. Stanley led the losers at bat, with Roberts and McMahon also contributing. The teams:

DeLaval Defeated By Harlem Squad

Little Harlem of the Southend Softball League retained top place last night by beating De Laval 10-8 at the Brinton Field. Both pitchers were hit hard and the Harlemites went better defensively. Abbott was wild at times on the losers' mound and got into several holes. Craig with two homers and Conroy with three hits in five, were the main clouters for the winners. Jamieson and Griffin led the De Laval binglers. The tying runs were on second and third in the ninth, but a quick Craig-to-F. Maloney play picked Wright off third to end it. The teams:

Deloro Defeats Politicians 2 Goals To Nil

Deloro took their first two points last night in a league engagement at the expense of C.C.F. at King Edward Park by the score of two goals to nothing, before a fair attendance of spectators. The losers have a young team and if they play them in the same positions allocated to them in future games, they should get results. The winners turned out in new equipment of yellow and blue sweaters, white pants, and black stockings, and made a real smart appearance.

Visitors Aggressive.

There was no choice in the spin of the coin. Deloro were the first to become settled down to business with their aggressive tactics that compelled the Politicians' full backs to tackle at the first opportunity, which aided the custodian considerably in clearing his charge. Within the first ten minutes Henwood, C. C.F. right winger, evaded the opposing defence repeatedly to centre the ball across the goalmouth where three players missed an open goal. He followed up this performance on the next visit by testing O'Neill with a fast drive that was slated for the far corner of the upright. Play ran from end to end with rapidity and the half-backs dominating the play. Dyer tricked three opponents on midfield efforts to leave Chamberlain-Henwood wing in a favorable position as they centered the ball in front of the uprights, but a C.C.F. player handled the ball inside the goal area to spoil the opening. Just before the interval, Percy Gray travelled down the wing to get the better of the argument as he shot the ball over to the other wing where Bradley connected with a smart drive. Denisin, C.C.F. goalie, stopped the shot high up in the air, but dropped the ball to the waiting boot of George Brooks, who opened the scoring. Half-time: Deloro 1, C.C.F. 0.

A Keen Tussle.

On resuming, Deloro altered their attack thereby strengthening their defensive positions because they realized that the losers were going right after the equalizer. Time and again they registered shots right on goal, but O'Neill was safe in clearing his charge. The visitors took advantage of the C.C.F. respite from attacking to keep the ball in the vicinity of the locals' goal to find Walter Denisin making spectacular saves. On one occasion, Bradley carried the attack all in a line to finally let Brown send a lightning drive to the far corner of the net, but the Politicians' goalkeeper ran out of goal to spoil the attacking forwards' effort. After twenty minutes' play, Brooks accepted a pass from Jack Hart, right up the centre, where he connected with a side shot to register the second counter. Thereafter, the local boys carried the attack right into the visitors' goal to bring out the superb qualities of Townson and Cousins at full back. They held the attacking forwards outside the shooting zone to end the game. Deloro 2, C.C.F. 0.

Goal scorer—George Brooks 2.

Louis No Longer An Overgrown Youngster, Says His Trainer

Joe Has Learned The Racket Since Gaining Title

POMPTON LAKES, N.J., June 14 (AP)—Of the thousands who have peered, prodded and poked at Joe Louis since he started knocking the daylights out of his fellow men, none is better qualified to talk about the heavyweight champion than his scarred and genial trainer, Jack Blackburn.

His song around Dr. Bier's sock sanitarium runs something like this:—

"There ain't no 'new Joe Louis.' Just a Joe Louis growed up, that's all. He hits harder, though not as often, than he used to and he's a way better fighter than he was the first time he fought that Smellin'.

"Stands to reason don't it. He's fought a couple of pretty smart guys since then, Jim Braddock and Tom my Farr, and he's been growin' and learnin'. And maybe we've taught him somethin' too."

While Julian Black and John Roxborough handled the business end of his career, Jack handled the business end of Louis' arms. He taught him the best left jab in the business—"there ain't no better punch to bother a guy white"—improved his hook — "shucks, didn't take much improvin', all kids are natural hookers."

Louis, has, as Jack says, "growed up." He still can't get out of the way of a fast right but he is a long way from the fat, over-confident boy who went on a man's errand against Schmeling before.

"He's ready for a tough one, and he knows it," Jack said.

If a rink plays with three men against a rink with four men, the short-handed rink will pay 5 points handicap in addition to any other penalties. This is done to protect the rink that is playing according to rules. Somebody asked us last night, what outsiders interfere with playing of two rinks? Off hand, we say there is no rule and you can't do anything about it. It comes under "courtesies" of the greens.

About this Friday open mixed twilight tournament. It would not surprise us if a record entry would play.... Our mixed to-night, starts at 7.30, and the bowls will be drawn for some time during the evening.

Newark Adds Leaf Losses With 5-2 Win

TORONTO, June 15 (CP)—Silas Johnson, 30 - year - old Rochester pitcher who was shipped to the International League club by St. Louis Cardinals over his protests, is showing the parent organization there's still plenty of life left in his arm.

The veteran righthander, who's been in and out of the big leagues for 10 years, created a stir in major league circles recently when he, along with little Roy Henshaw, protested to baseball's czar, Kenesaw M. Landis, against being sent to the minor league team.

Landis ordered the Cardinals to keep them both but Johnson was waived out of the National League shortly after. Henshaw stayed and has pitched some good ball for the Cardinals. Johnson is out to convince the Cardinals that they also made a mistake in letting him go.

His Second Shutout

He hurled his second straight shutout last night in blanking Baltimore Orioles 3-0 with five hits. Only one man got as far as third and eight fanned. Johnson was given some able support at the plate by Brusie Ogrodowski, who caught him for the Cards last season. Ogrodowski smashed out a homer and a single to drive in all of the Red Wings' runs.

The other games in the circuit also were featured by star-hurling as the league-leading Newark Bears downed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2, Jersey City Giants whipped Buffalo Bisons 4-2, and Montreal Royals trounced Syracuse 7-1.

Johnny Haley pitched a six-hitter as he increased the Bears' lead to 7½ games over the second place Bisons. Buddy Rosar provided the winners' punch with a three-run homer and a double and single.

Tight In Pinches

Hy Vandenberg was touched for nine hits by the Bisons but was tight in the pinches. The little Giants made 11 hits off Babe Kowalik, five of them for extra bases.

Bob Porter had a no-hitter for five innings against the Chiefs but Dee Moore's triple and Ash McDaniel's fly spoiled that and a shutout. He wound up with a four-hit game and fanned seven Chiefs.

Wise-Cracking Bill Due For Trouble

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP).—Bill Terry, the New York Giants' manager, who once got himself into a peck of trouble by asking, "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" apparently hasn't been cured of the habit of wise-cracking about the Dodgers.

Someone asked him if he intended to see Brooklyn's first night game tonight, and Bill replied:

"Yes, I've always wanted to see Jesse Owens run."

Owens is scheduled to give a few exhibitions preliminary to the game.

PETES DEFEAT PONIES 4-3 FOR THEIR THIRD STRAIGHT VICTORY

Lefty McNally Pitches Nifty Central Ontario Loop Game To Turn Back Kingston Ponies

Petes Climb To Top Of Circuit Race As Result Of Victory

KINGSTON, Ont., June 16. — Peterborough took undisputed lead in the Central Ontario Baseball triangle here on Tuesday with a 4 to 3 victory over Kingston Ponies. The Petes knocked two Kingston hurlers for their four runs, while Lefty McNally held the Ponies in check most of the time, except in the second when he was touched for two hits and two runs and in the third when Bob Elliott, catcher coach of the Kingston collection clouted a home run.

The game was the best of the season, a keen, close exhibition of ball that was not decided until the clever Peterborough southpaw fanned the last batter to face him with the tying run on the runways. The Petes were forced to come from behind for the win. Trailing at the end of the fifth the visitors got to Ed. Pollar, the Ponies' starting pitcher, in the sixth, and filled the bases with none out but Tony Paczkowski came to the rescue and retired the side without a run. The Petes kept up the pressure and solved Paczkowski's pegs for a score in the seventh and took the lead in the eighth.

Two Southpaws.

At the first it was a battle of southpaws and the struggle was about even until Pollar lost his control, walking the first man to face him in the sixth, hitting the next batter, and the third to face him got a single. None of them reached the scoring station. McNally had the Ponies handcuffed except for two innings.

In the second, Kingston collected two counters on two hits, a walk and a sacrifice; and in the fifth Elliott boosted his homer. In the last four innings only one Kingston player got as far as second.

It was too much McNally as far as the Ponies were concerned. He retired twelve of the Ponies with strike-outs, limited them to six hits, and only walked three. Only three of the losers got in the hit column, Bennett nicking him for three, Elliott getting two, and Webber the other. While the Kingston bats were rather quiet the Petes pecked away at the two local twirlers for eight blows, got six walks, five of them off Pollar, and were aided by a free trip to first when Deadey was struck by a pitched ball.

Large Crowd Out.

The largest crowd of the season attended the game, and although the Petes had a good margin on the play according to the box score figures, Kingston was in a position to win at any time, and in the last turn at bat had a good chance when Bennett bagged out a double. But his mates failed to follow through, one popping to the pitcher and the other fanning. Failure to hit in the pinches cost the Ponies their chance to win as in five of the innings the first man up got on Gatfield, Masters, Allen and Watson had two hits each for Knox. A. Wedlock hurled good ball and had Mark St. flying out regularly, the winners' outfield getting 12 flies. The teams:

The Petes scored for their first run in the second inning when Doll hit safely to centre field, was advanced to second on Burton's sacrifice. Whatley walked to put two on and Deadey nicked a tricky infield hit to pack the paths, and Cadd filed to centre field, Burton racing home after the catch. The Ponies picked up two runs in their half of the second. McIntyre was hit by a pitched ball, Scrutton walked, and Bennett lined to left field to fill the bases and Weober walloped out a double to drive in two runs.

Peterborough tied the count in the fourth when Whatley opened the inning with a walk, went to second on a wild pitch, and McNally's long single to right field sent him home. Bob Elliott gave Kingston the lead again when he clouted a home run that went beyond the score board in centre field, the longest hit in the park in at least two years.

The Petes tied the score again in the seventh after their threat was checked by Paczkowski in the sixth. Murphy drew his third walk of the game to start the session, Doll sacrificed him to second, Burton singled and Deadey singled Murphy home. The Petes' winning run came in the eighth when McNally helped win his own game with a single, advanced on Calladine's sacrifice, and Clark clouted a double to drive in the big score.

At the Race Track, Not a Circus

This looks like a good trick, which it probably would be if it were a trick. Unfortunately for both parties concerned, it was a mishap instead. The horse should be landing feet first after taking the jump, but somehow his front legs gave way and he tumbled over on his head, the camera clicking just as he struck the ground. Jockey Leonard slid neatly down his back to land feet first. The horse is Flying Falcon, and the scene, Aqueduct Park, N. Y.

Indians Depend On Bobby Feller To Hold Slim American Lead

Famous Salary Wing Not Up To Par In Late Starts

NEW YORK, June 15 (CP).—If you want the inside dope on the outcome of the major league pennant races, the thing to do apparently is to consult the doctors rather than the club managers. For two powerful pitching arms, both of them sore now, are likely to be the deciding factors.

Chicago Cubs' prospects of beating out New York Giants for the National League flag depend to a large degree on the recovery of Dizzy Dean. Likewise if Cleveland Indians hope to hold their slender lead over New York Yankees, they'll have to get a lot more service out of young Bob Feller.

Dean hasn't pitched since early April; his arm hasn't shown any signs of improvement and he finally was left in Chicago for further treatment when the Cubs started the eastern tour that opened yesterday with a 5-2 victory over Boston Bees.

The other Cub cripples, Gabby Hartnett and Augie Galan, can be expected to round into shape before long, but they still need old Diz to round out that pitching staff.

Salary Wing Fails

The Indians haven't officially admitted that there's anything seriously wrong with Feller's salary wing, but he hasn't had his stuff the last two starts. He appeared in a relief role Sunday and was touched for a game-winning homer by Joe Gordon of the Yankees. When it came Bob's regular starting turn yesterday, Manager Oscar Vitt had to try Rookie Johnny Humphries instead. He was blasted out in a big fifth inning that gave Washington a 7-6 triumph over the Tribe.

Meanwhile the Yankees got a seven-run gift from Chicago White Sox and won 7-4 to cut Cleveland's lead to a half game. They made five of their seven hits and all their runs after two were out and Rip Radcliff's error had cost another putout in the sixth.

Gain Easy Victory.

The Cubs, looking better shorthanded than any able National League club except the Giants, gained an easy victory as Tex Carleton held the Bees to seven blows. That kept them two games behind the New Yorkers, whose late rallies beat Pittsburg 5-3. Mel Ott's 13th homer and single twice tied the score for the Giants.

The Pirates, who dropped back to fourth place, were the only visiting team to lose yesterday. Boston Red Sox invaded St. Louis to beat the Browns and Buck Newsom, 5-3, on Johnny Peacock's pinch hit with the bases loaded in the eighth. The Athletics, only team to beat Detroit's Vernon Kennedy this season, did it a second time, 8-2. Curt Davis pitched St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-3 victory over the Phillies, giving up only seven hits and scoring the winning run himself.

The Cincinnati-Brooklyn game was called off because a railroad delay kept the Dodgers from arriving in time to play.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Peacock, Red Sox—His pinch-hit single, with two out in eighth, drove in winning runs in 5-3 defeat of Browns.

Curt Davis, Cardinals—Gave seven hits, six in last three innings, and scored winning run as Cards beat Phillies 4-3.

Cecil Travis, Senators—led way in 7-6 victory over Indians with home run and pair of singles.

Tex Carleton, Cubs — Drove in one run and scored another, besides hurling seven-hit ball, to beat Bees 5-2.

Myril Hoag and Johnny Murphy, Yankees—Hoag's triple with bases loaded featured seven-run inning; Murphy pitched no-hit ball for 3 1-3 innings as White Sox bowed 7-4.

Tigers Win 8-2 From St. Peter's

The Tigers took an 8-2 Junior City Baseball League win over St. Peter's on Monday at the Exhibition Grounds. It was a neat game most of the way. Sanderson hurled for the winners, giving no hits in the seven-inning showing, the third no-hit game pitched this season in this loop, though two runs counted in Monday's game. He fanned nine, while Corkery on the other slab allowed eight hits while fanning six. The fielding was good on both sides. The teams:

Councils Are Urged To Exercise More Vigilance In Dealing With Relief and Hospitalization

Lots Of People Obtaining Relief Who Should Be Made Earn Their Living

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, June 15.—"There are lots of people in this province, and no doubt you have them in these counties, getting relief who should be made to earn their own living," J. P. Coombe of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs told the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The Department had been requested to send a representative to the present sessions to discuss the changes in Schools Act, and Mr. Coombe improved the opportunity by extending his remarks to other interests and problems of the council.

Municipalities are being burdened with hospitalization accounts, he said, and in too many instances persons are being admitted to hospitals as indigents although they have sufficient means to pay for the medical treatment they require. Councils should exercise more vigilance in cases of that kind, "and if you have reason to believe that such persons can afford to pay their hospital bills it is your duty to the ratepayers to see that these patients settle their accounts themselves."

"Don't let any bias influence you in such matters," Mr. Coombe advised. "The fact that you know such people, that they may have voted for you, that they may have been friends, such considerations should not enter into the matter at all. And above all don't consider politics. In regard t relief there is no doubt that there are people on the relief rolls who should not be there. They should be made to earn their own living, and get off relief as quickly as possible."

Mr. Coombe mentioned the importance of municipal auditing. "I hold not brief for chartered accountants, but in engaging auditors your first thought should be as to whether they are competent. The cheapest auditor is often the dearest in the long run. It is not merely a matter of adding up figures, and obvious things like that. If that was all auditing was you could engage a boy or girl from the entrance class and get a fairly accurate job. A competent auditor of municipal accounts must have a working knowledge of the Municipal Act. They must determine whether money spent by a council was not only the correct amount, but also whether the council had authority to undertake such expenditure and to levy and collect and perform the specific job for which they are raising that money."

Replying to a question as to what course a council should take when a hospital admits persons as indigents and a doubt about their ability to pay arises, Mr. Coombe said the council should attend to such matters as promptly as possible, and in some circumstances the council might be entirely justified in letting the hospital look after its own collections, especially where indigency did not exist.

In regard to payment of money due to school boards it was pointed out that under the amendments to the Education Act the requisitions should be paid in July of this year, adancing the time from six months to a year as compared with procedure in the past. Mr. Coombe said the Boards of Education would no doubt "play ball" with the counties council this year, and agree to deferring payments beyond July. For the purpose of obtaining their opinions and attitude, representatives of Bowmanville, Campbellford, Brighton and other boards were called to Cobourg last night to arrange for the proposed accomodation in meeting school bills.

Assumption Of Roads

Recommendations from a special committee were submitted to the council by Reeve J. C. Cummiskey of Manvers township and referred to the roads and bridges committee. They included assumption as county roads of the ten miles of road from Millbrook to Pontypool, and six and two-thirds miles from the Peterborough-Port Perry highway through Janetville to the Lindsay-Newcastle highway; definite provision for compensation for lands, fences and other property required for the widening of county roads, and also a regulation that roads must be 66 feet wide as a condition to being assumed as county roads. It was also proposed that the rates for hiring trucks be increased to one dollar for trucks of two cubic yards capacity and $1.25 for those of 2½ cubic yards and up. Another recommendation was to the effect that the council buy or construct a building for the housing of the counties' road equipment.

Reeve C. Devitt presented a petition from Cartwright for the assumption by the counties of the road from a mile or more south of Nestleton along the east shore of Lake Scugog to the fourteenth concession of Manvers. It was referred to the roads committee.

Another resolution from Reeve Cummiskey's committee related to an agreement between the towns and villages on the one hand and the counties council on the other respecting the rebating of their road grants in consideration of the paving in the urban municipalities of connecting links in the county road system. These refunds by the towns and villages originally were for thirteen and ten years, the periods varying for different muncipalities, but with the new equalization of assessment a few years ago the periods were reduced to eight and five years respectfully. Reeve Cummiskey reported that the later bylaw was never ratified by the Department of Highways and should be rescinded.

The recommendation was passed on to the roads and bridges committee after Reeve C. Calver of Campbellford was assured that opportunity would be provided for the hearing of objections.

To Renew Insurance

A motion by Reeve R. Innes of Seymour, seconded by Reeve Cummiskey, called for sealed tenders for indemnity insurance to be received up to 2 p.m. Thursday. Reeve Calver suggested that the insuring company of last year be required to submit by 10 a.m. Thursday the amount of the claims they settled in 1937. His resolution was seconded by Deputy-reeve Locke but was defeated on a recorded division by 31 to 9. The majority of the council, led by Reeve Leslie Wilson of Cobourg and Reeve Cummiskey, contended that council had no right to demand this information. They said the council might ask for it, but any reply should be at the option of the insurance company.

Another petition regarding assumption of roads was presented in a resolution by Reeve P. Gooding of Brighton township, seconded by Reeve H. Morrow of Murray requesting the Ontario government to take over as a provincial highway the thirteen miles of county road from Trenton to one mile south of Codrington.

Suggestions Made Institute Work

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, June 15. — Mrs. Ernest Stacey was hostess for the June meeting of the Women's Institute which was held on Thursday afternoon in the Institute rooms at the Community Park, with a good attendance.

Bills were voted paid and expressions of thanks were read from several members for fruit received during illness.

Mrs. Oswald McGill reported the result of the lunch served by the W.I. at the recent Field Day which was very encouraging.

Arrangements were made for attending the district annual convention at Islay on June 22, and it was decided to invite the district to convene at Janetville next year.

The roll call was responded to with "Suggestions for the Success of our Institute." One of the best suggestions was to start an Institute library; another was to do sewing and make quilt blocks while at the meeting, all of which could be given to the needy in the fall.

Discussion on which Sunday the Institute will attend Divine service in a body, was left over until next meeting, owing to the prevalence of anniversaries at present time.

The program included the following numbers: Reading, "Friends," Mrs. B. Heaslip; paper, "Things Money Cannot Buy," Mrs. T. Richardson; reading, "Keep Smiling," Mrs. W. Leslie; current events reviewed by Mrs. O. McGill; reading, "Bouquets," Mrs. H. Johnston; humorous Irish reading, Mrs. Maiers; reading, "It Pays to Advertise," Mrs. P. Hamilton.

A demonstration on the making of doughnuts was ably given by Mrs. Oswald McGill, and the finished product was served to the members with evident satisfaction.

Mrs. Bruce Heaslip gave an interesting account of the "Summary Day" in connection with the vegetable course held in Lindsay recently, and also reported the highlights of the address given by the vegetable expert of Ontario, Mr. Rush.

Mrs. P. Hamilton gave a rseume of the year's work, and the members agreed to try to make the coming year even more successful.

After a vote of thanks to those contributing so helpfully to the program, afternoon tea was served by Mrs. P. Hamilton and her group.

took up labor estimates and said he had more complete information. He asked Labor Minister Rogers to ascertain if there was on file in the defence department a report on removal of crushed stone from the rock pile belonging to the Royal Military College at Kingston. The stone, he said, had been taken to the residence of A. E. Stansbury, local Liberal association head, who was building a garage.

Removals Prohibited

The minister said previously that permission had been granted for removal of the stone but Mr. Bennett said his information was to the contrary and that a telephoned order had prohibited further removals from the rock pile.

Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) suggested Mr. Bennett should take the reports of "the gentlemen at Kingston who are priming him" to the provincial authorities who have jurisdiction. The present debate was wasting the time of the House.

Mr. Bennett replied he was only doing his duty as it rested upon him as Leader of the Opposition, and he had no apology to offer.

He would also deal again later, Mr. Bennett said, with statements made last week with regard to road construction in Manitoba—"statements which were as grossly inaccurate as it is possible to be."

"The average person eats about 134 pounds of meat a year. That's where I come in, because more than 130,000 Canadian workers and their dependents get their living from the manufacturers of cars and parts. That's not counting the thousands of people who earn a living making hundreds of different kinds of materials used in building cars. Believe me, it takes a lot of butchers to supply the meat they need. And the grocers, bakers and dairies get their share of the business too."

This butcher is right. Here are some of the industries supplying materials or services used in making Canadian cars: the textile industry; the lumber industry; the wool growers; the railways, mines, smelters and refineries; the steel industry; the coal mines; tire and rubber plants; the asbestos industry; manufacturers of batteries, spark plugs, brake linings, bolts, nuts and screws, glass, paint and enamel. Drunken Brawl Cause Of Fracas Cadi Declares

Declaring that in his opinion the whole thing had been the result of a drunken brawl, Magistrate Campbell on Tuesday afternoon reduced the charge against William Barrow of committing assault causing actual bodily harm to one of common assault and registered a conviction against the accused.

Barrow was fined $10, and costs, and as the latter included the witnesses' fees and the fees of the Crown Attorney, they reached a total of $37.40.

A similar charge against Hugh Given was dismissed when no evidence was offered by Crown Attorney McElderry.

"From what we have heard in this other case," he told the Court, "I am satisfied that the assault was not committed by him."

"I am of the same opinion," Magistrate Campbell interjected.

In giving his judgment, Magistrate Campbell said that some evidence might have been given by the defence to help him from his decision, but he felt that he was entitled to draw upon his imagination to some extent in regard to what had led up to the assault complained of. He felt that the curtain had not been completely lifted, and that something more than had been given in evidence must have taken place prior to the assault. The whole thing was the result of drink, he said, and if Stephen Costello had not been drinking on that occasion the assault would not have taken place. Under the circumstances he had decided to reduce the charge to common assault.

"I am going to fine you," he told Barrow, "because I think you did more than you should have done, and I trust you will keep out of these drunken affairs in future."

Barrow was defended by J. Ford Strickland, K.C.

Two Girls Rescue Man Swimmer

Paul Chartrand, Hotel Champlain employee, owed his life this week to quick action by two young Peterborough girls, who jumped into the Trent Canal and hauled him to safety when he was drowning.

Chartrand was swimming near the High Bridge on the canal on Monday afternoon, along with Thelma and Ila Pattendon, 190 Charlotte Street. An inexperienced swimmer, he got beyond his depth by misjudging the slope of the canal bank when he was swimming under water. The two girls jumped in when they saw he was in difficulties, and brought him to shore where he recovered soon afterwards.

Speculation is rife to who will be given the leadership of the Conservative party at the forthcoming convention. Errick Willis, provincial leader in Manitoba, top LEFT, is a dark horse in the race. Mr. A. MacPherson, K. C., of Regina, top RIGHT, continues to be occasionally mentioned, while Joseph H. Harris, bottom LEFT, of Toronto, is a fairly recent addition to the possible candidates. Juvenile Thefts Against Boys Are Dealt With Charges against two fifteen-year-old boys of having stolen a camera, stop watch, guitar and a number of ever sharp lead pencils from Gordon C. Minty, were heard before Magistrate Campbell in juvenile court this morning and were finally disposed of, after having been adjourned four or five times.

One of the boys pleaded guilty and was allowed to go on suspended sentence on the statement of his lawyer W. B. Gordon that he would endeavor to find him a job on the farm; the other defended by W. J. Arthur Fair pleaded not guilty and the case against him was dismissed, after considerable evidence had been heard.

The principal witness against him was the other boy. He swore that the two of them had used a bicycle to reach a fire escape on the Y.M.C.A. building and by that means had got into the room of Mr. Minty and had stolen the watch and camera. Witness said he did not see any guitar there and knew nothing about it. The two hid the stolen articles that night and next day witness sold the camera and the watch, the former to the Exchange and the latter to Bert Austin, receiving a dollar in each case. He testified that he had spent the money.

Boy Identified

The proprietor of the Exchange, H. S. Huffman and Mr. Austin, both identified the boy as the person who sold them the camera and watch respectively and Ernest Brown testified that in a conversation in a pool room the accused had admitted pulling off a job at the Y.M.C.A. in company with two other boys. The mother of the boy who pleaded guilty recalled the other boy had come to her house on the night of the robbery and left there with her son.

At the conclusion of the Crown's case Mr. Fair asked for a dismissal on the ground that there had been no corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice who had pleaded guilty to the offence.

Magistrate Campbell dismissed the case and afterward it was revealed that the accused had only recently been released from the reformatory. He had been sentenced at Belleville to three months for breaking and entering and his real age had not been told to the Belleville magistrate.

Magistrate Campbell then questioned the boy's mother and she stated on oath that on the day of the robbery her boy was confined to the house with a sprained ankle and that he was not able to be out for nearly a week on that occasion.

The Rambling REPORTERS

EVENT OF THE YEAR

One of the big events of the year in the Normal Height district or that section of the city bounded by Park Hill Road, Aylmer, Aberdeen and Benson avenue occurred on Tuesday when the dog catcher got "Nip" the pet spaniel of A. L. Elliott, M.P.P. The catcher has made several trips up into that district and has sort of cleaned up on the dogs but the elusive "Nip" always seemed to evade him. However "Nip" went too far once too often and his owner was called upon to make a donation to the dog catcher.—C.

Holds C.N. Essential For Moving Troops

OTTAWA, June 15.—(CP)—Abandonment of track in section of New Brunswick and Easter Quebec would injure the strategic military importance of the national transcontinental railway, W. U. Appleton, general manager of the Canadian National Railways Atlantic region, contends.

Dealing with proposed abandonment of the N.T.R. from Chipman to Cyr, .NB., and Diamond Junction, Que., to Edmunston, N.B., he told the senate railway committee last night:

"The strategic position of the national transcontinental in time of war will be apparent because of the fact it is in all-Canadian territory and a sufficent distance inland to be safe from attack by sea.

"On the other hand, the Canadian Pacific line passes through the state of Maine for a distane of approximately 201 miles, or 46.65 per cent of the distance between Montreal and Saint John and in the event of war could not be used for the movement of munitions and troops unless the United States were in ally.

"For heavy troop movements, the N.T.R. route would be of great value because of the longer trains that could be handled than on either the Intercolonial railway or the C.N.R."

CATERPILLARS ACTIVE.

Residents in various parts of the city are doing what they can to keep in check the invasion of caterpillars. In several places torches are being employed so great is the number of the crawlers. Here and there the householder can be seen patiently dislodging the caterpillars with a stick or brush. The crawlers seem to have a preference for the basswood tree, one resident reporting that he has two maples and a basswood in front of his home, and the caterpillars pay attention to the basswood almost entirely, and few of them are ever seen on the maples.

BUSINESS TO BE HAD.

One Peterborough family which moved to a new home on the first of June apparently went to inhabit a house which had formerly been occupied by bootleggers. Shortly after moving in a man came to the door in the evening and asked for two bottles. Shortly after the second caller arrived and asked for half a dozen bottles, and the third one to come had a suit-case and a desire for a dozen bottles. The lady of the house, who happened to be alone when this visitation was taking place, had trouble in convincing the callers that they had just moved into the house and had nothing in the way of drink for sale.

Three citizens were charged in police court today with not having procured licenses for their dogs, one charge being withdrawn and the others dismissed when no evidence was offered, the dog-owners having obtained licenses in the meanwhile. These cases are the fore-runners of a large number of others, the police state, unless some of the citizens who have dogs and no licenses secure the necessary legal standing for their pets.

BERLIN, June 15.—(CP-Havas)—Jews are to be eliminated completely from German nationality, Wilhelm Stuckat, secretary of state for political affairs in the ministry of the interior, announced today in the review of the German Law Academy.

French Gendarmes Guard Lindberghs

ST. BRIEUC, France, June 15.—(AP).—French gendarmes Tuesday patrolled the northern tip of the Breton Coast guarding Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's island refuge after the famous flier received what police described as new menacing letters from the United States.

Lindbergh, his wife and two small sons are guests at the St. Gilda's Island home of Dr. Alexis Carrel, the scientist with whom Lindbergh has collaborated in scientific research.

They plan to stay there until work on their newly purchased Illiec Island home nearby is completed.

News of the Lindbergh's arrival in Brittany from the Kent farmhouse they occupied for 2½ years in England brought new public attention to the family in exile.

Since they came a week ago police said Lindbergh had received letters from persons believing Bruno Hauptmann innocent of the kidnap-killing of Lindbergh's first son March 1, 1932.

The writers, holding Lindbergh partly responsible for Hauptmann's execution April 3, 1935, were said to have made no direct threats, but the letters had an injurious tone.

War Is Blamed On Pre-War Propaganda

TORONTO, June 15—(CP)—Finest immediate effort for the cause of peace would be an international organization of newswriters to say "we will tell no lies," in the opinon of Heywood Broun, president of the American Newspaper Guild, expressed at a meeting held here last night in connection with the Guild's annual convention.

Broun blamed war on pre-war propaganda. He developed the theme to envision "effective collaboration of working groups all around the world," to prevent a clash at arms. "No single nation can say: 'Let the rest of the world go to hell!' and the only effective policy of non-isolation is through unity of working men, who stand the real brunt of war."

Of newspapers themselves, he said to survive and flourish they must "have their roots in their own home ground," and deplored the tendency to make all papers alike through excessive syndication. This was autocracy. "And I don't want to be governed by Walter Lippman, Walter Winchell and Dorothy Thompson." He saw hope in growth of the Laborpress—often local in character—which circulated a different point of view.

Live By What we Read.

"We live by what we read," Broun said. "If we can't get fair and accurate reports, we're blinded. We need a larger number of papers to have real freedom of the press. I would favor the government establishing newspapers in large centres where control of existing papers is in the hands of single interests — not in a competitive sense, but to bring out all shades of thought. Integrity of the news is more important that any 'freedom of the press' catchword."

Coming more closely to strictly union matters, Broun said the ultimate goal in the newspaper industry" is the vertical, the industrial, union, in which editorial and business office will be linked with the mechanical departments."

The idea was not to "punish" publishers. The Guild favored more money and security but at the same time more competence. After a two or three-year period the editorial worker who did not rate a good step-up in pay should be let out rather than kept on at an inadequate rate.

England will have 153 open-air schools for 16,000 children this summer.

Driver Let Go Until Called For Sentence

As an aftermath of a recent accident on the River Road in which thirteen-year-old Georgiana Stevens was injured by being jolted off the running board of a car after having been given a ride by a passing motorist, the car-driver concerned, Lorne Creeper of Bowmanville, faced a charge of reckless driving in traffic court before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell this morning.

Creeper pleaded guilty to the charge, which was laid by Provincial Constable David Silvester, and was remanded until called upon on payment of $2 court costs.

Constable Silvester told the court the particulars of the accident, explaining that after Creeper had taken the girl on the running board of his car, his attention had been distracted by the girl calling out something and the automobile had swerved against a telephone post, with the result the child was hurt. Creeper, the officer said, was paying all the hospital and other expenses.

"He's pretty generous," commented the magistrate. "The girl was old enough to have better sense."

"She is big for her age too," the accused said.

"You, however," said Magistrate Campbell, "should not have allowed her to get on to the running board of your car."

"Her mother had told her never to get into a car with a stranger," explained Creeper. "I thought because it was not a main highway and because she had not far to go, it would be all right. I drove very carefully."

Magistrate Campbell decided to remand Creeper until called upon.

"There were a number of other cases in traffic court today. C. N. Hall, Hetcor oBusfield, David Wood and Walter Lanouette all entered pleas of guilty to charges of speeding on city streets and were fined $5 and $2.50 costs, while Ernest Scott and A. A. Lyman contributed $2 and 75 cents costs because they double-parked on Charlotte Street.

L. C. B. Sorby was fined $10 and costs for driving without a permit on Highway 28, G. Telford of Young's Point contributed $2 and $2.50 costs for having no horn on his car, and Roland Bell a similar amount for having no muffler.

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, has just been rescued from a band of Yaqui Indians, holding him for ransom, through a bold move on the part of Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star. Ellen and Bill had been staying at the wealthy Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Also rescud with Bill was Panola Montoya, the ranch owner's daughter whose invitation to ride with her led to their capture by the Yaqui. As they return to the ranch, Bill and Ellen find Don Julio, their host, and his son, Felix, with a large following of Mexicans, in hot pursuit of the Yaqui. Ellen begs them to desist.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 14

Because it was Ellen Dale who had effected the rescue of their daughter, the Montoyas needed her advice and agreed to come on back down the mountain with their armed men. Ellen had been vehement about it, declaring an agreement must be kept even with savage Indians. When his temper had cooled, Don Julio realized the truth of that and told her so. And yet—traditional hatred is strong!

All of them were anxious only for food and rest when they eventually returned safe to the ranch home. But when the next dawn came, Ellen and Bill made immediate preparations for leaving Mexico. Their departure having been delayed by a wholly unexpected and dangerous incident, they meant now to get back to the United State as soon as possible. But Felix Montoya sought to hold them.

"Panola say that the fiesta had been arrange in your honor, senorita," he addressed Ellen. "It is even more important that we have it now, for you have save her life."

"Thank you, but I'm afraid we must go," Ellen smiled at him. "I am sure that I have your gratitude, Senor Montoya. And we have imposed on your family's kindness too much already."

"No, no," he protested. "Please stay. You will have no more danger. We will have the party—a grand baile, senorita!—tomorrow night. I ask for the honor of being your escort myself. I come with the flowed to ask it!"

Felix had indeed come with "the flower." He held the box out to her, and Ellen was amazed at the beauty she found within.

"Love-ly!" exclaimed she, and meant it, burying her face in them to drink in their fragrance. "Wherever did you get them?"

They were blossoms that no florists ever offered for sale, delicate but showy things which grew wild back in the shaded canyons of the Montoya ranch. Felix said he had made servants gather them in the early dawn, as maids had arranged them for him with fine taste.

"It is happy to see you like them, senorita. They are no lovelier than she who receives them." He bowed in courtly manner. Ellen, not a little surprised, could only smile in acknowledgment. "You will estay then? For the fiesta?"

It was hard indeed to decline an invitation so beautfiully proferred. Ellen was hard put to find a gracious way of saying no, especially when Don Julio and his wife came in to add their pressur. With the kidnaping adventure safely ended, the Montoyas had quickly regained their charm, and Ellen forgave them for every memory she had of their suspicions and shortness when Panola was away. After all, Panola was the only daughter and sister; they could not be blamed. But the Montoyas seemed all the more determined to make up for those suspicions of Ellen now, and to show their gratitude.

She finally escaped by pleading that an extremely pressing business engagement in California demanded her immediate return, and by promising to visit the Montoya rancho again within the ensuing 60 days. When she eventually was alone with Bill for a moment again, she was holding her flowers and beaming.

"Gee, Bill, saying goodby here is a major undertaking!"

"Yeah, sure. Where'd you pick all the posies?"

"Aren't they grand? Felix gave them to me."

"Where'd that chili get flowers like that, this early in the day?"

"Hes not a chili! He's a—a gentleman! He has made the most wondeful speech, bowing and everything, Bill. Really! He—"

"Not interested," drawled Bill, half teasing, half in earnest. "I've got to get you out of here."

They were given an automobile and driver who would take them to Nogales, Sonora, just over the international line from Nogales, Ariz. And they lost no more time than necessary repeating their farewells and getting under way. It would be a two-hour drive, for Mexican roads are far from perfect save in a few sections.

Bill remembering Ellen's interest in a southwestern ranch home, queried the Mexican chauffeur as they rode along, speaking Spanish. He questioned the man about the Montoyas, too; and the Yaquis, and everything else pertaining to their adventure.

"What are you two saying?" Ellen finally asked, curiously.

"I'm asking him questions?" said Bill.

"Why? Are you a newspaper man or something? I could take offense. I could say you ought to be paying attention to me."

"Felix took over that task, this morning," he said, flashing his teasing smile. "Old flowery Felix."

"Bill Baron, I just hate you!" Ellen snapped.

He ignored her then—to her further surprise—and seemed intent on his conversation with the Mexican man. She was piqued for a while, but when their talk continued she wondered at it.

She wondered, not for the first time, just who this Bill Baron was. She had asked him, and he had suggested that he might be a cowboy. But that didn't explain any number of things, such as his knowledge of the border far west of the Rio Grande, his possession of an airplane, his knowledge of Yaqui Indians who live many miles from his Texas home. The more she thought about it, bumping along over the semi-desert automobile trail, the more Ellen realized that her handsome escort was a mystery man.

She liked the liquid draw of his voice now, speaking Spanish. Ellen was a student of voice herself. She noted that his enunciation made a soft language even more beautiful, although she understood nothing of what they were saying. She still held her flowers, enjoying their fragrance. Presently Bill turned to her and began again to tease.

"Chili blooms," he said, deprecatingly. "Bah!"

"Bah yourself! They're nicer than the ones you gave me!"

"Why, I didn't gi—um!"

"Exactly! You CAN see a point, can't you, big boy!"

He flashed his boyish grin, admitting she had scored. She smiled saucily in return.

"Did you even think to give sweet Panola any flowers?" she demanded, in mock seriousness. "And to kiss her goodby?"

"The kiss was not forgotten," he stated, solemnly.

"What!"

"You heard me. Senorita Montoya is a very grateful lady, I am sure, Miss Dale. Just before I left, she threw her arms around me and kissed me most graciously."

"Why Bill Baron!" Ellen sat up straight, glaring at him. "Are you joking?"

"I never joke about kisses. They are serious items."

His face was stretched in solemnity, as nearly like a professional mourners as he could get it. Then all at once he burst into laughter.

"I just hate you, Bill Baron!" Ellen cried then.

"You told me that before. I'm beginning to believe you. Not that I blame you much."

He said it so simply that Ellen's mood instantly changed.

"Bill, I was joking," she said quickly. "You know what I mean—meant—I respect you very much. If you hadn't been with me on this adventure in Mexico, I don't know what I should have done!"

"That's 50-50, Ellen, being really serious again. Where would I be now, probably, if you hadn't come to the Yaqui village?"

"Forget it, please. I intend to."

"One thing I wish you would forget, now."

"What?" She studied his expression carefully. There was no mischief in his eyes.

"Felix Montoya. And it is not jealousy, milady. It happens that I have learned something about that man. At least I suspect a lot now. I think he may try to call on you. You must not see him again!"

He said it so intently that Ellen stared at him, incredulous.

If he really meant it, really meant to boss her, he must have a good reason for it, she reasoned; but her intuition told her it probably was just camouflaged jealousy.

In any event his action thrilled her, caused her heart to sing.

Question of Which Is the Better Half of a Marital Couple May Be Answered by Giving a Slight Edge to the Male

A CORRESPONDENT asks: Are men, as a rule, better husbands than women are wives, or is it the other way about? Well, if we are to judge by statistics, we must conclude that there are more female domestic angels than male, since far more women than men divorce their mates. However, this is not a fair test, because no matter which one was to blame in wrecking a marriage, the husband usually qualifies for the role of villian and lets the wife appear as a suffering martyr.

Of course, before we could say which sex gave the best account of itself in marriage we would have to decide what are the chief virtues in the marital relationship, and that is a riddle that nobody can solve. For the very qualities that would endear one man and woman to each other would be anathema to another, which is amply proved by the fact that so many second marriages are happier than the first.

Hence it is hard to tell what really does make a good husband or a good wife, since it is mainly a matter of personal taste, but there are certain faults and virtues which the sexes seem to hold in different ratios and which more or less decide the success of a marriage.

Taking them by and large, for instance, men are less faithful to their marriage vows than women are. Where there is one philandering wife there are a hundred philandering husbands. Maybe this is because Mrs. Grundy deals with the sidestepping wives more drastically than she does with the husbands with a wandering foot. Maybe it is because the middle-aged wife and mother is virtually immune from temptation, while the middle-aged successful man is continually exposed to it. But, anyway, it is a fact that wives are much truer to their husbands than their husbands are to them. Also, women forgive their erring spouses much oftener than men do.

When it comes to accepting the responsibilities of marriage and doing their duty in that sphere of life that they have wished on themselves, men make a better showing than women. There are comparatively few men who do not roll up their sleeves as soon as they are married and go to work to support their families the best they can, while there are myriads of women who go on a sit-down strike and never make the slightest effort to learn how to budget their incomes, how to cook or to make a comfortable home for their husbands. There are far more lazy, loafing, no-account wives than there are husbands.

The curse of domesticity is petty tyranny and nagging. There are, naturally, men who enslave their wives and make of them nothing but hard, driven, unpaid servants. There are men who make their wives ask permission to go to see their mothers, or buy a new dress, or to join a club, and deny them the slightest degree of personal freedom. There are men who never give their wives even carfare of their very own; who audit the bills, snoop in the garbage can and who are never done with reminding their wives of any mistake they have made.

But there are far more men who stand in terror of their wives than there are women who are afraid of their husbands. No man can be the absolute autocrat nor the incessant nagger that a woman can be, because he has his business to attend to and other things to think of besides dwelling on his wife's faults and telling her of them, while she can do her housework with one lobe of her brain and use the balance of it in devising ways to boss him and circumvent him.

Men show more loyalty, outwardly at least, to their wives than their wives do to them. It is very seldom that you hear a man criticizing his wife. And, no matter how disappointed he is in her, or what a poor makeshift of a creature she is, he rarely complains of her or discusses her failings with even his best friend. But disgruntled wives hardly ever show such consideration to their husbands. They broadcast their wrongs and call upon all and sundry to see what brutes, what drunkards, what miserable ne'er-do-wells they are married to. In unhappy marriages it is nearly always the wife who breaks up the home. The husband has the courage to carry on and make the best of his bargain. She hasn't. She is the quitter.

But, on the other hand, a wife nearly always loves her husband better than he does her. Her affection for him stands greater disillusionment than his does for her. She tries harder to make him happy than he does her. And she forgives him the things he doesn't forgive her. And so perhaps, by and large, they break even.

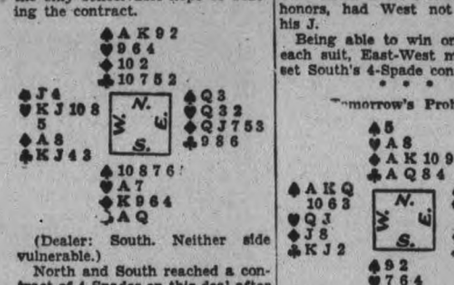
USE YOUR VISION

POWER TO visualize your partner's possible holdings is an asset of telling value. Play of a certain card can sometimes bear fruit only if your associate holds some other particular card or cards. But figuring out such chances may point the only conceivable hope of beating the contract.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 4-Spades on this deal after an opening bid of 1-Spade by South, 2-Hearts by West, 2-Spades by North and 4-Spades by South.

West cashed the diamond A, and for want of a better lead continued the suit. South won with the diamond K and immediately led a diamond to ruff. On this trick West played his spade J, with the feeling that it was of little use to him and might by some slight chance set up a trick in his partner's hand. He was quite pleased when his partner later captured a trick with the spade Q, which would have fallen under North's two top honors, had West not sacrificed his J.

Being able to win one trick in each suit, East-West managed to set South's 4-Spade contract.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

It was quite late at night, and the children had gone to bed. But Knarf and Hanid, the children's shadows, were sitting on the steps outside, counting the stars.

They had already counted more than 100 and were beginning to get mixed up when all at once they heard a great many little footsteps coming up the cellar steps. They heard voices, too.

One of the voices said: "Now hurry along, children. We haven't got all night, you know. And don't drop any of those parcels."

"We won't, Mother."

"And Father—that valise is very heavy. Perhaps you ought to get a wheelbarrow. Oh, this moving into the country each spring is certainly a great deal of trouble. But it will be very pleasant once we get settled in our new place."

"Yes, it will be very pleasant indeed," they heard Father say. "Come along, Dears. Don't trip on the stairs any of you."

Knarf and Hanid glanced at each other. Hanid was sure she recognized the voices. "It's the Mice family," she said to Knarf. "They're moving into the country."

"We'll help them," said Knarf. With that he darted to the head of the cellar steps. He looked down. Sure enough, there was Mr. Mouse and Mrs. Mouse and four of their children, all carrying valises and bundles and packages.

Think He's Cat

The moment they spied Knarf they all started squeaking in alarm, the four children loudest of all.

"It's the cat!— Oh she's waiting for us! Run!"

But Mother Mouse saw that it was only Knarf. "Stay right here, you sillies," she said to them sharply. "That's no cat. Do you see any whiskers on it? It's Knarf. He's a shadow. He won't hurt you. How do you do " she greeted Knarf.

"Yes, how do you do?" said Father Mouse. "You mustn't mind our children getting frightened so easily. They don't like cats. We're moving to the country."

"We move to the country every year at about this time," Mother Mouse said to Knarf and Hanid. "It's much cooler and pleasanter than living in this city house."

"We'd love to have you stay with us for a while. You'll like it very much," Father Mouse said. "Well, we must be going now. We can't miss our train—"

"Are you going to catch a train?"

the two shadows exclaimed in astonishment.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, June 16.

Judging by this day's sidereal operations, there may be some important matters of a rather strange or intriguing nature to dispose of with shrewdness, intelligence, and sagacity. These may be the climax of yesterday's astounding adventures and call for some quick decisions. Delays menace but quick action and wise management may stabilize the future fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their future success, happiness, and stability may depend on wise and shrewd decisions made at this time. There are omens of treachery, intrigue, and underhand menaces, in which writings and documents seem involved. Be cautious, alert, shrewd in all affairs of a strange, subtle, or disintegrating nature. Shun accident, strife.

A child born on this day may be alert, clever, of fine mentality, although shrewd and quick to grasp the subtle and intangible. It may succeed in original lines or through stratagem and a peculiar resourcefulness. It may attain some public renown.

Looking Back

On This Date

This is the anniversary of the June 15 in 1846 when the Pakenham-Buchanan treaty was signed which ended the long dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the western boundary of British America. It made the 49th parallel of north latitude the boundary line between British America and the United States from the Rocky Mountains westward "to the middle of the channel which separates the continent from Vancouver's Island, and thence southerly through the middle of the said channel and of Fuca's strait to the Pacific ocean."

By the terms of the Ashburton treaty, 1842, the international boundary was run west along the 49th parallel to the Rocky Mountains. From the mountains to the Pacific was left uncertain. The question of the Oregon boundary goes back much further than 1842. The United States claimed the entire Pacific coast up to that southern boundary of Russian territory, partly because of the exploration of American seamen, partly as heir to the discoveries of the Spaniards. In particular they claimed the valley of the Columbia by reason of Grey's discovery 1792, and the Lewis and Clarke expedition of 1804-06. Great Britain's claim rested upon the discoveries of James Cook and George Vancouver by sea and of Alexander Mackenzie, Simon Fraser and David Thompson by land.

The situation was complicated by the American founding of Astoria and its transfer to a British company during the war of 1812-14. In 1818 an agreement was entered into which left both countries in occupation, but settled nothing. As American settlers occupied the valley of the lower Columbia, the question became acute, and, 1844, "Fifty-Four Forty or Fight!" became the slogan of American politicians and the watchword of thousands of jingoes, an aptly expressed by L. J. Burpee.

Finally Great Britain suggested the extension of the 49th parallel to the sea, which was agreed to. Thus was a war over the Oregon boundary avoided and a peaceful frontier assured from the Lake of Canada Needs Leadership

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — Canada may be headed towards Fascism according to Major J. B. Belford who addressed Rotarians at their noonday luncheon held in the St. Lawrence Hotel on Monday. Speaking of the Magna Carta and the events which led up to its signing by King John he stated that the people were again beginning to realize that their liberties were being encroached upon. This is the underlying reason for the interest being taken in the observance of the Magna Carta.

It was the meanness of King John which aroused the British people to action and though it was apparent that the time for action had come it was also conceivable that had John been a monarch of the popular type as his brother Richard the Lion Heart the problem might not have been solved for years to come.

"It would have been a lot easier for John Langton to have stayed on his farm then to go up and stand four square for the rights of the people of England." Major Belford claimed that it was such leadership as this that was needed to-day.

It is not due to his brains that Hitler is able to retain power in Germany, but rather to the backing of a large group of powerful men who were fed up with the conditions as they were. Referring to fascism and the purges which so often make the headlines he pointed out that this was a necessary part of the doctrine with the falling of heads only limiting the judgment of the beheaded to the spiritual rather than the real.

The speaker advocated a return to the principals of the Golden Rule which would put an end to labor troubles, and the abounding discords which are driving men and women to insane asylums and to murder and suicide. To-day there are more people in asylums than at any other time in history and the problem of this serious disease is deserving of much serious study commented Major Belford.

In conclusion he referred to present methods of education which he claimed were far too elaborate and expensive and urged a return of the teaching of practical things. "To-day we are fitting our children with an education along the wrong lines. Anyone who has ever tried to get a job under present conditions will have no trouble in believing this. All one has to do is pick up the paper and see the convictions registered against boys of from 16 to 21 which should serve in itself as sufficient indictment against our present system.

Martin On Brink?

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP).—Homer Martin, who left the Ministry to become a powerful figure in the committee for industrial organization, staked his leadership of the United Auto Workers' Union today on a purge of internal opposition. Martin invoked his emergency powers as international U.A.W. president Monday in suspending five of the union's officers for leading a disgruntled minority faction. He termed them an "irresponsible group."

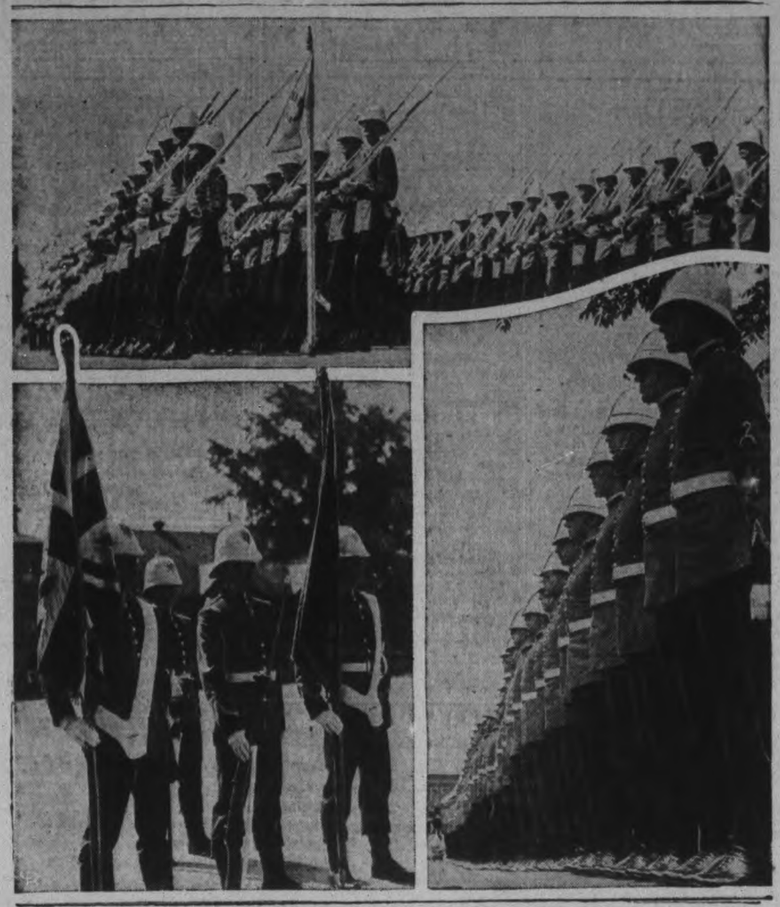
Tragedy Mars Graduation Exercises at R.M.C.



Tragedy marred the graduation exercises of the Royal Military College, Kingston, when Gentleman Cadet H. G. Campbell was found dying in his room of gunshot wounds. Cadet Campbell was thought to have been brooding over the death of his chum, Cadet R. D. Smith, who died, after a friendly scuffle with fellow cadets, last April. Owing to the last wish of the dying cadet the annual June ball was not cancelled. The March Past of the cadets during the graduation ceremonies is shown, TOP, while the Color Party is shown, LEFT. Standing like ramrods these cadets, RIGHT, are awaiting inspection by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie.

Eire Vote Outcome Proving Puzzle

DUBLIN, June 15—(CP)—Political forecasters today found it difficult to estimate what effect the Anglo-Eire agreement will have when the voters go to the polls Friday to choose a new deal Eireann, lower house of parliament.

With the exception of some controversy about the wisdom of fortifying the treaty ports being returned to Eire under the agreement, there has been little discussion in the election campaign of the benefits of the agreement

The agreement is regarded as certain to gain for Prime Minister De Valera thousands of votes from those who formerly supported William T. Cosgrave, fine Gael leader who campaigned during several elections for an ending of economic disputes with the United Kingdom.

The question now asked is: "Can Mr. De Valera gain the additional 145,000-odd votes that are necessary to give him a complete majority in the new Dail?" He has said he will not have coalition with any other party. Coalitions, he has stated, contain the seeds of disruption.

Features of the campaign have been argument over the ports, retention of proportional representation and press.

OBITUARY

MRS. EMMA VANBLARICUM.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — The funeral of the late Emma Muffit, widow of Christopher Vanblaricum, was held on Tuesday afternoon. Following a brief illness Mrs. Vanblaricum expired at the home of her sisters, the Misses Mae and Carrie Muffit on Sunday afternoon. She was in her seventieth year and was born in Cobourg, coming to Campbellford on the death of her husband in the town of Guelph nine years ago. Although she was little known in Campbellford, she was highly regarded by all with whom she came in contact, and will be sadly missed by her two sisters with whom she has made her home during the past few years.

During the World War she dedicated her life to the service of those who were fighting in the trenches, and the number of contributions she made to those who were fighting to save their country was legend. She is also survived by another sister, Mrs. J. G. Wenman of Lindsay.

The funeral service was conducted from Christ Church by the Rev. T. H. Floyd on Tuesday afternoon following which interment was in Christ Church Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. R. C. Ramsden, George Grills, Donald Grills, Bruce Grills, Kenneth Grills, and Edward Grills.

New Zealand's proposed national health insurance is expected to cost the Government nearly $90,000,000 the first year, rising gradually to $125,000,000 by 1970.

STARTS HIM EARLY

LONDON (CP) — An eight-year-old boy has been accepted by Westminster Abbey choir school, the London County Educational Committee accepting responsibility for his fees, up to $198 a year.

British commercial air services flew nearly 150,000,000 miles in the last 12 months.

Board Frowns On Suggestion

A suggestion by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and chairman of the Children's Aid Society, that a special Sunday School be set up for children whose parents are on relief, met with little favor at a meeting of the board of directors of the society on Tuesday afternoon.

The suggestion arose after Ald. James Dutton had hinted that it would be a bit of practical Christianity if church members were to see to it that children of their congregations were clothed well enough that attendance at Sunday school would not be a source of humiliation to them.

Dr. Barr said he wondered if the City Council would consider making some plan whereby the relief office could be used on Sundays for such children. The idea was not original and has been worked out satisfactorily in other centres, he said. The board members frowned on the suggestion.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

A Touch of Mexicana In Summer Play Suits

Backless Bali bolero topper designed for bustline control, with large Mexican sun hat.

By LISBETH

A TOUCH of Mexican or European peasant in your play clothes is the very tops in smartness this season. And the new Bali topper, illustrated here, has made a decided hit in the sportwear field. The model illustrated is backless, but the front is designed for bustline control.

Notice the solid color used with contrasting print bolero effect. The sash is pique.

The very large sombrero adds just the right touch to the colorful costume, as well as shading the young woman's eyes.A cord under the chin binds it firmly to the head.

Beach shorts are going feminine with Jacques Heim, Paris dressmaker, showing princess tunics in hiplength which almost cover the accompanying shorts. Sometimes they have ruffled edgings and tiny balloon sleeves, and of course, they achieve a decidedly feminine aspect.

Loose trousers cut off in the middle of the calf, pleated shorts or slacks are worn with jacket-like tops coming to the waist, or bloused shirtwaists. These models are very new.

Also new for the beach are two draped costumes which suggest those huge white towels which are used for sunbathing at European resorts.

Coarse Linens Liked.

Many coarse linens are being used at resorts, some being nubbed and some striped. Printed cotton suits are very popular in Paris, some in small, old-fashioned designs, and others in large patterns.

Smartly dressed women are fond of silk cabana slacks suits. These are worn with matching shirt or jacket. Both soft silks and the crisper types are liked.

Three-piece silk playsuits also are frequently chosen, with pleated skirts. Chambray play suits also have pleated skirts for rough-and-ready wear, also rayon crepe with contrasting linen skirts.

Slacks are taking the place of shorts in a great many instances, stylists find. Pin-striped flannel is popular for slacks, shirt and jacket. Dark blue denim is also well liked for slacks, and rayon sharkskin slacgs with bra tops are liked, especially in white.

Another popular type of suit is the beach outfit with sweater top. The shorts may be satin with knitted sweater—handknit sweaters in thick cotton string being considered very chic.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Moments there are in life, alas how few!
When, casting cold prudential doubts aside,
We take a dangerous impulse for our guide;
And following promptly what the heart thinks best,
Commit to Providence the rest,
Sure that no after-reckoning will arise
Of shame or sorrow, for the heart is wise." —R. Southey.

Dear Friends:

Too often, any fun or pleasure we may have is attended afterwards with the thought of, "I shouldn't have said this, or I ought not to have done that," so that rarely do we have full delight in the things we do.

We think too much of what others may say of us, what they expect of us. Yet, there is one time, thank God, when we can have full pleasure in what we do, and that is when we obey a generous impulse.

We have a tendency, when we give to one we know, or do some little thing for them, to look for gratitude, and if it is not forthcoming, then we feel defrauded and as if our generosity had been turned back on itself, and gone sour in the turning.

But, when we give without any thought of return, when we give from the heart, then we rise to the moments like this sure that what we do is right, and in that moment get more benefit than those we give to.

After all, none of us like to be given anything with strings hanging to it. We obeyed an impulse that gave us pleasure in the doing so why should we go around saying, "after all I did for this one or that one, see how they act."

On the other hand, rank ingratitude stops many a generous impulse at the source. Even our Lord told us: "Cast not your pearls before swine, lest they trample them into the dust, and turn again and rend you." You have to use a little discrimination, or plain horse sense.

And, many times, generosity like charity, should begin at home. We all know those who are generosity itself with strangers, but stingy with those dependent on them. Their seeming impulse is only a cloak to hide the miser underneath. They know their own nature, but try to keep others from finding it out.

But when we do a kindly act spontaneously, we get an inner glow which nothing else can give us. And there are many forms in which we can be generous, such as giving the other fellow the benefit of the doubt, in covering someone when they have made a mistake, in lifting another when they have fallen down, in raising someone else in their own estimation when they are doubting their own capabilities. No end to these impulses.

There is lots of waste in the world, I shall write of that later, but no good thing is ever wasted, no matter how ungrateful the receiver may be. Just the other day I read in our own Peterborough Examiner, how, if you blindfolded a person and turn them around to confuse them, they will always walk in a circle.

And that is what your generosity does, it goes in a circle and returns to you eventually. So, when you do something fine for another stop looking for a reward. It will come, never doubt it, just wait until the circle is completed.

All of us need something from the other fellow many times in our lives, no matter how independent we like to be. All others need something from us, so that we become givers and receivers. And it is not always the ones we have given to that give back to us, it is the one at the end of the circle. See what I mean?

I wish I had one day without pain. Your Friend,

ROBERTA.

Spinning Wheel Still Running

WINNIPEG, June 15 — (CP) — The song of the spinning wheel is not a new one to Mrs. O. Germain of Cantal, Sask. for although she has made the wheel sing louder and longer during these drought years, she has operated the treadle of her wheel for more than 50 years.

Perhaps the handicrafts of her people had a fascination for her, or maybe it was thrift and the desire to make things for her own home and family, but Mrs. Germain, whose girlhood was spent in Quebec, has through the years washed, dyed, spun, then knitted or woven raw wool.

From their homes in Quebec, the young Germains came to Oak Lake, Man., where they resided prior to homesteading at Cantal, being among the first settlers in that part of Canada. About 20 years ago they left their farm for the village and later Mr. Germain died.

Mrs. Germain, now 83 years old, mother of seven children and of many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, still sits by her wheel and spins, still makes fine knitted things and her hook rugs are the envy of her neighbors. Now, the quilts are for daughter or grand-daughter, and the tiny shirts may find their way to a wee grandchild.

Important Item

A SUMMER suit is important to every woman—for all the various outside activities of her life. Summer suits of lightweight wool and cotton materials or linen, are as smart looking as any spring, autumn or winter suit could be.

And the blouse you choose to wear with the suit is just as important as the suit. It either adds to or detracts from the attractiveness of the whole costume.

With a well-tailored suit with double-breasted jacket in wrist length, Florence George, film actress, wears washable blue crepe tailored softly into a short-sleeved model with a bow of the crepe and three pearl studs supplying the details. One inverted pleat at the center back stresses comfort.

Summer Shoes

High fronts, low and open sides are the stylings of the newest shoes for summer wear, and also for the autumn.

Combinations of fabrics are very smart, as shown in the perennial favorites for spectator sports pictured and worn with a clever little polka dotted jacket suit and a white blouse.

The shoes are made on a Norwegian last in white linen and combinations of blue or black calf, and in natural linen and brown calf, with slit cut-outs trimming the quarter, and chic bows for trim and finish.

Cut Restrictions From Fund Gifts

NEW YORK, June 15 (CP)—Exicting gifts of $51,000,000 distributed to date by the Rockefeller Foundation and $148,000,000 distributed by the General Education Board out of Rockefeller funds, were freed from previous restrictions by announcement of the trustees recently.

"These liberalizing provisions," the trustees said, "represent the belief that the wisdom of this generation can not be substituted for the wisdom of the next in the solution of problems hidden from our eyes."

In 1937, 45 per cent. of the money distributed by the Rockefeller Foundation went to 51 countries outside the United States.

Measuring 25 feet, the longest python in captivity, has died in Belle Vue, England, Zoo, where it had lived 17 years after being captured in Malaya.

The annual Circle picnic was arranged for July 20th in East City Park, with a sports committee convened by Mrs. S. Rowe and Hazel Palmer. Mrs. Rosborough, Zetta Wood and Mrs. Cuff are to be in charge of refreshments.

In finishing packing the Circle bale for supplies a very appropriate story relating the appreciation of these supplies by those who receive them was read by the department secretary, Mrs. C. Sedore.

"An Adventure in Understanding" was the theme of the manifold ministry, the study for the month, capably prepared and presented by Mrs. E. R. Frost, who brought out the wonderful ministry being given by The Church of All Nations, Toronto.

Here a summary of the Sunday morning service is presented by an ordained minister to each language and represents Ukrainian, Hungarian, Finnish, Scandinavian, Dutch and Japanese. Thesef oreign leaders are a fine upstanding group.

The devotional service opened with a hymn "Seeking the Lost". The scripture reading the 15th Psalm read by Mrs. R. Kitchen and prayer was offered by Mrs. W. Rose.

A beautiful duet "The Lights of Home" sung by Marjorie Kitchen and Hazel Palmer was greatly enjoyed.

Reports given by the secretary and treasurer were very encouraging and the program concluded on a note of service "I Love to Tell the Story". With Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. S. Rowe and Mrs. S. Leggitt as entertaining committee a delightful social hour was enjoyed.

With the Girl Guides

1st company held its last meeting of the season on Monday, when Barbara Pollard, Joyce Wyatt and Jean Alexander were enrolled. There will be one more meeting for 2nd and 3rd companies.

Camp this year is from August 13 to 27. Register as soon as possible. Mrs. Whalon, District Captain, will again be camp commandant.

The Brownies had a jolly weiner roast on Monday to finish the season, and a large one for all four companies is being planned for the end of June. All S.A. guards are especially requested to attend their meeting on Friday to practise and make plans for the following Friday. Important.

All guide officers of the city were the guests of the Salvation Army guiders at a supper on Friday last, which was a very enjoyable event.

Wilson—Dawe

The marriage of Winnifred Viola Dawe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Dawe, Water street, to Jordan Errol Wilson, Dennistoun Avenue, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Wilson, took place Saturday afternoon in George Street Church, the Rev. M. C. Parr officiating. The church was beautifully decorated with peonies and other early summer flowers

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a dress of dusty pink with pale blue cape. Her picture hat was of the same dusty pink, and she wore blue and pink slippers, and carried a bridal bouquet of roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor, Mrs. C. Vincent, wearing a turquoise sheer gown with white accessories, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations, attended her sister. Mr. Floyd Wemp was best man.

Following a trip to the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will spend the summer at their cottage in Chemong.

Rigby–Worboy Wedding

Rev. E. and Mrs. Rigby, whose marriage took place in St. John's Anglican church Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Worboy, Sherbrooke street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rigby, Water street. (Roy Studio Photo.)

Helen Worboy Weds Rev. Edward Rigby

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized at St. John's Church Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, when the marriage took place of Helen Worboy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Worboy, to Rev. E. Rigby, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rigby.

The Right Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson and Rev. R. T. F. Brain. St. John's boys' choir sang during the service, and the church was beautiful with quantities of ferns, and pink and white 'mums in tall standards.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white suede lace gown made on long princess lines. Her net veil was trimmed with lace medallions, and she carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Marian Worboy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in blue moussaline de soie over taffeta, with may-wine belt, shoes, gloves and flower hat. She carried a nosegay of wine roses and blue sweet peas.

Rev. N. Kibblewhite of Toronto was best man, and the ushers were Rev. C. M. MacLean of Rosemont, and Rev. F. McMulkin of Apsley.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Worboy, gowned in grey sheer over violet taffeta, with picture hat of violet mohair, and corsage of sweet peas, and Mrs. Rigby, mother of the groom, wearing navy lace with rosebud corsage, received the guests.

The wedding supper was served to immediate relatives and the bridal party, at two lace-covered tables centered with the bride's cake, and decorated with pink roses and white candles. Bishop Beverley acted as toastmaster. Mr. George Worboy proposed the health of the bride, responded to by the groom, who also made a toast to the bridesmaid, to which Mr. Kibblewhite responded.

Telegrams of congratulation from Montreal and Toronto, and a cable from England, were received.

Rev. and Mrs. Rigby are motoring through the Laurentian Mountains for a wedding trip, and on their return will take up residence at the Rectory in Coboconk.

Family Party Is Held By W.M.S.

The closing meeting of the George Street W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon, and took the form of a family party, an invitation having been extended to the Evening Auxiliary Mission Circle, Mission Band, and the Baby Band members to be present.

Mrs. W. P. Purdy played softly sacred selections, and the meeting opened with the call to Worship, Mrs. Dr. A. I. Brown presiding.

The business consisted of reports from the secretary, Mrs. W. McMillan, and the treasurer, Mrs. Jas. Spencer. Mrs. Don Munro gave an excellent report for the Baby Band. Mrs. C. McBride for the Evening Auxiliary, Mrs. J. M. Beatty for the Mission Band, and Mrs. P. Mather reported that the clothing for the bale was on exhibition, and could be seen at the end of the meeting. The Baby Band had a very attractive exhibit of layettes, toys, dolls, etc., and the Evening Auxiliary had a beautiful exhibit of woollen goods.

Mrs. Airess read the Bible lession, and Mrs. Sandercock led in prayer. A dedicatory service to Canada and to foreign missions followed, and a verse from a consecration hymn and the Lord's Prayer closed the dedication service.

A solo was given by Mrs. Charles Renaud, accompanied by Mrs. M. C. Parr, and an interesting dramatization of the last chapter of the study book was given by Group B entitled "Do We Really Believe in Missions?" Taking part were Mrs. Jas. Brown, Mrs. P. Rutherford, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. W. Burns, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. P. Brook and Mrs. H. Brook.

Mission songs were sung by the Mission Band, and little Betty Mather gave a lovely motion song, accompanied by Adella Fitzgerald.

Tea was poured by Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Mrs. A. F. Lane, assisted by Mrs. H. G. Walker, Mrs. D. Carlisle, Mrs. T. Hetherington, Mrs. W. J. Cunningham, Mrs. G. Olin, Mrs. B. F. Frederick, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. E. Cox, Mrs. G. Baird, Miss E. Might, Mrs. Burrows, Mrs. C. Elliott, Mrs. H. McHoull, Mrs. Ludbrook, Mrs. H. Brook, Mrs. Roy Parnell. Joint refreshment convenors were Mrs. W. P. Purdy, Mrs. Jas. Spencer, Mrs. H. Gervin and Mrs. M. C. Parr.

The Mission band was served by Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs E. Wand, Mrs. E. G. Wellwood, Mrs. J. H. Rowe. The Baby Band by Mrs. R. Burns, Mrs. Poulson and Mrs. C. McGee. Tea was made by Mrs. P. Rutherford, Mrs. G. Helson, Mrs. J. Tinney, Mrs. H. Brook and Mrs. B. Manning.

Style Whimsies

White, of course, is the leading summer color. But very noticeable too are all the blue shades, from royal to dusty blue, and the dusty pink shades.

◇ ◇ ◇

The white shirred chiffon blouse combines a tailored with a dressy quality. It is especially suitable for the black faille summer suit.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF BABY IS CROSS FIND OUT WHY

HEALTHY BABIES are not cross. Your baby should not be cross. If he is, then something in his little system is "out of order". Probably Baby's Own Tablets can promptly "put it right".

Mrs. B. Barnet, of Toronto, had this experience: "My baby was terribly cross. I tried different remedies but nothing seemed to help. A neighbour suggested trying Baby's Own Tablets. I did and the baby slept nights and we got our sleep. He was good in the daytime. I cannot recommend Baby's Own Tablets too highly."

Harmless, sweet-tasting and easy to take. Promptly effective in clearing up simple fevers, diarrhoea, colds, constipation, simple croup, colic, teething troubles and other minor ills of babyhood. Free from opiates and stupefying drugs. Analyst's certificate in every package.

Never be without Baby's Own Tablets. Sickness so often strikes in the night.

If not satisfied, your druggist will give your money back. 25 cents.

Hydro Needs 150,000 H.P. In Reserve

Can't Afford Chances Says Dr. Hogg, Favors Seaway

TORONTO, June 16.—(CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission should maintain a reserve of 150,000 horsepower of electrical energy, Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the commission since last November, told a special committee of the Ontario Legislature today. He said, "we can't afford to take chances."

Hydro was "vulnerable," particularly so far as ice hazard in the Niagara River was concerned, said Mr. Hogg in discussing the question of emergency reserve. But he did not agree with Leopold Macaulay, Conservative house leader and member of the committee, that the public utility was "highly vulnerable."

If anythnig "of a serious nature" occurred on the Niagara River all Hydro plants on the river would be "more or less vulnerable," he said. Last winter's pileup of ice in the river had proved the Ontario and Toronto Power Company plants, below Niagara Falls, were subject to ice conditions while the more efficient Queenston plant, seven miles below the Falls, was only vulnerable to a lesser degree.

Inquiring into Hydro affairs generally, the committee was appointed by the Legislature at its last session when Mr. Macaulay charged Premier Hepburn negotiated secretly with Quebec power companies last summer for renewal of Hydro power-purchase contracts cancelled in 1935.

Revised purchase agreements were put into force last December, following Dr. Hogg's appointment as chairman succeeding T. Stewart Lyon. Dr Hogg said Hydro made "steady progress" from 1911 to 1930, its yearly business increasing on an average from eight to 11 per cent.

Better Too Much.

Of reserve power, the Hydro chairman said it was better to err on the safe side. "I cannot emphasize too strongly the results of a shortage would be serious," he continued. "If we have too much capacity it is not a matter of worry. Our primary object is to meet the demand."

Questioned by Mr. Macaulay on future resources of power for Hydro and the difficulties of joint development of the Ottawa River with the Province of Quebec and private companies, Dr. Hogg said: "Of course, there's always the possibility of the St. Lawrence River or some other source."

He said he had some time ago made suggestions on an interchange of power sites between Quebec and Ontario in respect to the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers. "They had some merit," Dr. Hogg added. "But I think we might be in deep water if we attempted to operate a plant in Quebec."

Austrian Debts Not Hers Says Germany

BREMEN, Germany, June 16 (AP)—Economics Minister Walther Funk declared today Germany was not obliged to acknowledge state debts of annexed Austria either from the viewpoint of international law or on economic or moral grounds.

He added, however, that Germany was trying to come to an agreement with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the British government, "in a spirit of mutual understanding with the aim of compromise that will meet the interests of both parties."

In a speech here, Funk, successor to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht in the German cabinet, asserted "there is no legal obligation for the German Reich to take over these (Austrian) debts."

"England, for instance, declared after the Boer war not to recognize

Japs Get Surprise 5 Bombers Lost

CANTON, July 16 (AP).—Chinese reports today said a Japanese bombing party lost heavily in a series of air raids upon this city, the largest in Southern China.

Officials claimed five bombers were shot down in the vicinity of Shiukwan, north of here, when the invaders encountered 13 Chinese pursuit planes.

The surprise defence started speculation that the Chinese success may have been the result of action of the high command in sending 30 French-manufactured planes to the Canton area to ward off the almost daily air attacks which started May 28.

Two Alberta Laws Are Disallowed

Acts Held Unjust; Seven Others Being Considered

OTTAWA, June 16 (C.P.).—Claiming Alberta "deliberately legislated in a manner injurious to the public interest of Canada" the Dominion Government has again used the power of disallowance to cancel laws of that province's Social Credit Government.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last night the Governor-in-Council had approved the recommendation of Justice Minister Lapointe that measures imposing a two per cent. tax on securities and restricting mortgage foreclosure had been disallowed. They were declared to be a violation of Federal jurisdiction.

Seven other measures adopted by the Alberta Legislature, dealing with debt adjustment, tax recovery, bank taxation, and the Limitations Act, were still under consideration, it was said.

It was the second time disallowance had operated to nullify measures which formed a part of Premier William Aberhart's program to set up a Social Credit Government in Alberta.
